USGA Seeks New Member Clubs

THE USGA is going after more member clubs. Members of the Committee on Sectional Affairs are supervising the membership campaign in their various sections. They are given a list of clubs eligible to membership and are asked to enlist the cooperation of other USGA committee members in recruiting new USGA members.

Most of the prospective member club presidents will receive from Jess W. Sweetser, USGA treas. and chmn. of its membership committee, this letter:

"The United States Golf Association is made up of more than 800 clubs in all parts of the country. Most of them have supported the Association for many years. The basic reasons for this support have been the desires of the clubs for:

"First: A national governing body to standardize rules for play, the golf ball and implements, amateur status, and the countless other matters that arise in individual clubs and national championships alike;

"Second: Up-to-date, economical methods of golf course upkeep. (There are many recorded examples of individual clubs improving their courses and saving hundreds of dollars through use of our Green Section's service.)

"Our Executive Committee members have always contributed their services and paid their own expenses (probably like your Club's governing board) in the belief they were serving an ideal — sportsmanship. That, in the last analysis, is what the Association tries to stand for.

"We would like to have the active cooperation of all regularly organized clubs, and that is why we are writing you.

"Your Club is a member of a local golf association but not of the national governing body, the United States Golf Association. If you will thoughtfully consider the broader aspects of membership in the USGA, together with the many concrete advantages to your Club, I feel sure you will join us in helping to keep the game on its present high plane and to improve it wherever possible.

"To help you come to a favorable decision, we enclose a booklet telling something of our activities. We have also asked our Committee on Sectional Affairs member in your district to follow up this communication to you.

"I shall personally appreciate your cooperation and trust that we may soon include your Club in our roster."

Four Thousand See Annual K. C. Pro-Am Matches

MORE than 4,000 followed the fourth annual pro-amateur 10-man team matches Aug. 10 at Swope Park, Kansas City (Mo.) municipal course. This fourth annual presentation of one of the nation's most successful newspaper golf promotions brought the pro team 6 victories, 3 ties, and 1 defeat.

The event is promoted by the Kansas City Journal. The Journal's sports editor, Parke Carroll, steams up the event so it's the Kansas City version of the Ryder Cup team vs. The Walker Cup team. Front page plugs and news stories on the event and lively and attractive art on the Journal’s sport pages make the event keenly discussed by golfers in the K. C. section.

In the first year’s play the pros won only 4 of the 10 matches. The next year each team won 5 matches. Last year the pro team won 6 matches and tied one. Matches are 18 holes.

The Midwest PGA picks the pro team. The amateur team is selected by a group of K. C. amateur officials. Harry Railsback was pro non-playing captain. “Speed” Swift was the amateurs’ non-playing captain.

Admission to the matches is free. Swope Park’s No. 1 course is a hilly one and hard going in hot weather for spectators, but the matches have drawn as many as 4500, with about 1000 being turned away because of lack of parking space.

Bag Rack That Saves Room Helps Pros

By E. W. HARBERT
Pro, Marywood CC, Battle Creek, Mich.

CLUB racks are a problem in many small shops. Preservation of bags and clubs, and maintenance of a neat appearing shop, together with speed in locating a member’s clubs, are essential in pro shop operation.

Lack of money, and now, in some cases, difficulty of getting steel prevent installation of bag racks badly needed at some shops.

I have worked out a bag storage arrangement that cares for the bags satisfactorily, in small space and for little money. I take a 2 x 4 and bore holes in it, inserting round dowels or pins made out of broom handles which are worked down to fit the bored holes. The dowels are put far enough apart to accommodate...
