Lincoln Werden, golf writer of New York Times and former president of the Golf Writers Assn. of America, was rushed to Methodist hospital, Indianapolis, during Speedway "500" tournament, with attack of pancreatitis . . . Jack Nicklaus' suggestion that PGA tournament schedule be cut to about 30 engagements to "guarantee" sponsors a good field, and so touring golfers can play exhibition matches and take part in unofficial money competitions in between scheduled tournaments has golf writers wondering if a head-on clash between PGA Tournament committee and Mark McCormack, manager of Nicklaus, Palmer, Player, et al., is imminent.

PGA officials and lesser lights of tournament circuit maintain the PGA has done the work of making tournament golf big business and shouldn't and won't take an inferior role as a caddie for the Big Wheels . . . Television interests of tournament promoters, golf associations and individual players are big, complicated and a source of potential brawls . . . The "unofficial money competitions" between tournaments, to which Nicklaus refers, are regarded by many as synthetic championships . . . Following the PGA championship, the big money winners aren't eager to play for the taxman so the circuit at times gets to be too much minor league to please or profit sponsors . . . The Caribbean minor league circuit in winter is accentuated heavily as a distiller's publicity gimmick.

There are 51 tournaments plus uncounted pro-ams on the journeyman pros' calendar . . . Bruce Crampton played in 38 tournaments last year — more than any other of the first 25 money-winners . . . Player played in 19, Palmer in 21 and Nicklaus in 26 . . . Championships that mean the most to the people who want to see the players (and hence build up the TV demand, too) are the National Open and the Masters . . . PGA Tournament committee has been wise in not messing in these events although it has been prodded to declare itself part-owner of the two top championships . . . The tournament situation right now calls for foresight and for consideration for the goose that lays those big golden eggs.

Through mid-June, Mickey Wright had won $11,132 on the Ladies PGA circuit and six of ten events in which she competed . . . At that rate, she was running well ahead of 1962 . . . Marilyn Smith, having her best season, was second with $8,133 and two victories . . . Deadline for the seventh Brunswick-MacGregor newspaper writing competitions is Oct.
There are no parallel fairways on the new course at the Union Pacific resort at Sun Valley, Idaho. It's 6,225 yards long and was designed by the late George Von Elm. Maury Nee, Texaco company treasurer and member of Apawamis, recently was inducted into the Georgetown University Hall of Fame. He was one of the school's golfing greats and also played football. When the Pacific Northwest Junior Girls' Championship is played July 22-26 at Portland GC, members of the club will provide lodgings in their homes for the girls. The Association pays half the breakfast and lunch tabs for the girls. Paul Hahn has joined the staff of Cape Coral (Fla.) CC, according to Ed Caldwell, the head pro. The club was recently opened. The 6,800 yard course, designed by Dick Wilson, has five lakes.

Throughout industry more and more companies are turning to electronic data-processing. Now Minimax brings the speed and accuracy of electronics to golf handicapping. This revolutionary method of establishing and maintaining handicaps is a must for every country club and golf association. Electronic computing is not only accurate, but it accomplishes in seconds what handicap committees attempt to do manually in days. From past experience every golfer recognizes the complete impartiality of the automatic system. No work — no inaccuracies — no arguments!!!

"Turf Clippings," containing the 1963 proceedings of the Stockbridge Turf Management club of the University of Massachusetts, brightly reflects the value of the Stockbridge school course in turf management. B. Hanlon and J. Reidy were co-editors and Prof. Joseph Troll, advisor. Golf club officials rarely have an idea of the intensely practical character of this course at the Stockbridge School of Agriculture. Graduates of the school qualify for a premium salary. They supplement academic training with summer work on courses.

When you see what this course means you realize how important the PGA Business School work has been in training professionals and how Emil Beck, who managed to get this program going for the pros, accomplished one of the most important jobs ever done for the golf business. Next step in golf business education will be to combine course management, pro department instruction, merchandising and promotion, and clubhouse operation for development of men who can make a profitable career out of a combination job at a country club that isn't large enough to be able to attract and reward three good men as department heads.

All eleven major U.S. airlines now are offering special shipping rates on golf equipment . . . Fees range from $2 to $4 on the continent and are $9 between Honolulu and West Coast cities . . . Oakmoore CC, Stockton, Calif., won first Gold Cup matches played in Las Vegas and took home the cup it cost $26,000 to fashion . . . It will be in the custody of Oakmoore for one year . . . Its 10-man amateur team scored an even 1000 for the 72-hole event, finishing below 13 other clubs . . . John W. Allyn of Artnell Corp., Chicago, a holding company that has an interest in the Chicago White Sox, has been elected vp of Tucson National GC.

Nadia Steiner, wife of Doug, pro at Arawak GC on Paradise Island in the Bahamas, occasionally does some teaching at the club . . . She is the first woman ever admitted to the British PGA . . . Gary Player is Arawak's traveling pro . . . According to an article in the June issue of the USGA Golf Journal, clubs in many states run the risk of losing liquor licenses if Calcutta pools and other forms of organized gambling are conducted on their property . . . Bob Wilke won the fifth World Entertainment championship at Long Beach (Calif.) recreation park in June with a 146, beating James Garner by three strokes.

Since we started covering U.S. National Open championships in 1922 we don't recall one that got better handling than Boston's veteran golf writers, Joe Looney of the Herald, Tom Fitzgerald of the Globe, and Nick Del Ninno of the Traveler, gave the Open at Brookline . . . They got the stories that happened inside the players' heads . . . TV comment that added something to what everybody could see made big (and smart) grabs from reporting of Fitzgerald, Del Ninno and Looney . . . Eddie Ervin of the USGA and Doc Griffin and Jim and Lois Gaquin of the PGA did great things in the press room with work somewhat equalizing the edge TV gets from the USGA for what it is paid for television rights.

Golf is one of the toughest sports to cover . . . Play is scattered around many acres and most golfers reading the stories regard themselves as experts . . . Some of them are . . . Golf news is selling papers to people who have money to buy . . . Golf goods advertising is many times combined total of all other sports goods advertising, even of fishing tackle, in newspapers.
It must be admitted that some questions asked in the press room interviews at the Open, Masters and PGA don't show brilliance in interviewing... The stroke-by-stroke press room reports of the hot scorers only are of value to the extent that they supply detail for the box score summary started and conducted by Charley Bartlett, veteran golf writer of Chicago Tribune and secretary of the Golf Writers' Assn. of America... Those summaries tell the story of the scoring to anybody who knows golf.

The women scorers and the club women who drive cars at the National Opens are immensely valuable and never adequately recognized or thanked... Without them the Open would be set back many years... They are the reason the Open has it over the Masters... I never have seen or heard of one of them being incompetent or disagreeable... The Country Club presented a bunch of stars as scorers... They are good and careful golfers and the USGA could have them put the Bartlett box score data on their reportage... It would help a lot in such cases as that of Bob Gajda, pro at Forest Lake CC, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., who led the first round at Brookline with 69... Bob and his companions, Don Collett of Coronado (Calif.) CC and Gene Thompson of Bluefield (W. Va.) CC, had a gallery of their caddies... It was grand to see a swell guy like Bob lead, if only for a round... He is a fine teacher and thoroughly able club pro who thinks more about the games of his members than he does about his own.

A man who owns golf courses says that the National Open victory of Julius Boros who walks up to a golf shot and makes it without fooling around and wasting time is going to mean more in one year in added play and revenue at fee and private courses than highly publicized slow players will make out of the game in their lifetimes.

Julius Boros is the perfect example of a good golfer who knows what he is going to do and does it... When the Moose won the Flint Open the way he putted and hit shots without dildling around scored with TV golfer viewers... He added to that fame by his efficient manner of performing without tedious delay on Open TV... Boros knows how to play shots with a wedge out of short rough near greens... Others haven't learned that yet although such rough has been the mowing pattern at the past 25 Opens.

Got to hand it to Jack Nicklaus for the fine way he handled himself in the interview after he had failed to make the cut... Public favor of Nicklaus, Palmer and Player has been built up by their good judgment in their individual publicity... Some ballyhoo about their operations has been too close to the Dr. Ward-Christine-Mandy accent on strictly business.

Possibly the biggest achievement at the Open was in getting the course in top condition after it had been seriously damaged by winterkill and recovery had been delayed by a cool spring... Supt. John Kealty and his staff were aided in a big greens, fairways and tees resodding by John's fellow members of GCSA of New England who contributed their own time and expert ability to the job... Aeration didn't boost the recovery program fast enough... Kealty's program included some light discing and seeding with bent and Penncross on greens... Kealty, who has been with The CC since 1932 and its supt. since April 1, 1932, got through calmly... He's got a staff of reliable and competent men and in Charles L. Pierson, a chairman who supports him... A chairman who keeps the supt. and members from blowing their tops at the same time when adverse weather kills a course is valuable at any club.

CC of Brookline general manager, Harold T. Hueber, and his staff handled a vast amount of clubhouse restaurant and bar business in the old clubhouse... Stauffer's did the catering... Pro Russell Hale had shop and tents well organized and stocked for supply of headwear and other apparel, etc. for spectators... Fred W. Anders, caddiemaster, had his team so selected and trained that players often commented the 1963 Open caddies were the best they had seen in a tournament for years.

Caddying at The CC of Brookline should be in the high tradition... Eddie Lowery, the 10-year-old kid who caddied for Francis Ouimet in 1913 when The Boy Next Door won the Open, came back to the field of glory and during his homecoming made a $40,000 gift to the Francis Ouimet Fund of the Massachusetts Golf Assn. The Country Club's pres.,
The Florentine Touch

This photo shows the main room of the clubhouse of Golf dell 'Ugolino in Florence, Italy. The snack bar, colorful table fittings and furniture, and the gay coloring of the curtains and wall give the simple room something that shows a touch of genius.

A large porch surrounds the clubhouse. It is decorated with flowers for evening parties. The men’s lockerroom and bath accommodations aren’t elaborate but at European clubs they never are, by American standards. The European pro shops usually are so small, dark and untidy an American club wouldn’t have them.

But this bright, small though adequate room at fabled Florence, gives some ideas of how good taste can be substituted for money in a small clubhouse.

Samuel H. Wolcott, Jr., club’s National Open general chairman, Joseph A. Erickson, and their teammates, men and women, ran the Open about as well as a tournament could be conducted . . . They worked hard for nothing and acted graciously as hosts and hostesses to the manor born.

How Would You Score It?

D. D. Wilson, playing a Humble Oil & Refining Co. tournament in Baton Rouge, La., last month, made what probably ranks as the toughest series of shots ever perpetrated on a par 4 hole. He hit his first ball out of bounds, then followed with another in the same direction. Playing a third ball and fifth stroke, Wilson powered one right down the middle. It traveled 308 yards, went between some players who were putting out and rolled into the cup. Then, he discovered that his first ball was in bounds. He played this one and got a four.

What score do you think Wilson should have marked on his card?

he could afford the sacrifice of time, convenience and money the USGA presidency requires... A USGA former president said that anyone who was eager to be the USGA president was not the man for the job.

PGA is in urgent need of a lot of good business advice from the USGA, according to PGA members who are successful businessmen... USGA with surplus of $417,075, green section 1962 expenses of $156,817 for improving course condition and other revenue and expenses made public information, is an example pro businessmen say PGA should follow instead of keeping its members and golfing public in the dark about PGA business... A number of professionals who have top rating in golf business say PGA official secrecy about the business of an organization with over 4,000 members of different classes is seriously damaging the pro case for operating “concessions” as sound, profitable business for first class clubs.

Top pros also say that the PGA had better get realistic about controversies with USGA, Augusta National, Colonial and other clubs and realize that while the PGA might win arguments (if anybody wins arguments) it can lose jobs and money for its members . . . And may be doing just that if there isn't more good judgment used soon.

But in the meanwhile, the political battles are heating up in the PGA . . . This early two campaign issues are whether PGA members and golfers in general should know how PGA business is run and who gets the big job and what concession revenue at the PGA Palm Beach Gardens courses.

Seems like a lot of sense in what Mayor William F. Walsh of Syracuse, N.Y. said in dedicating Sunycrest Park's nine hole Par-3 for juveniles: "We will lick our juvenile delinquency problem when young punks are salted away in jail for a long time as examples of how violence can and must be treated." Mayor Walsh noted that 42 per cent of adult crime is committed by criminals who have records as juvenile delinquents . . . "The blame should rest with those who release them to return to their patterns of crime." . . . The story isn't any surprise to supt's. who have experience with golf course vandalism.
