Nature had the fairway rye growing too fast and the wind drying greens slick made for bellyaching by Masters players who weren't scoring well... Naturally, no complaints by those who had low scores although everybody played the same course... Several News Bulletins issued by Masters' Chairman Clifford Roberts referred to course conditions... Greens mowing was a 3/16 inch in practice rounds and at 5/32 during the tournament... Same tournament length as last year... Thursday, April 6, first day of Masters, fairway mowers were set at 1/2 inch and each fairway and green was mowed twice (the custom at the Masters)...

Despite the cross-mowing, hot weather had the fairways growing so rapidly superintendent John Graves set mowers at 3/8 inch (“reluctantly” because he was afraid of scalping areas, said Roberts in Bulletin No. 11)...

Marshall E. Farnham who retired, three years ago after more than 30 years as superintendent, Philadelphia CC., and who was president GCSA in 1946 and 1947 and served as an official of Philadelphia area and other golf turf organizations, died March 31 of cancer...

He was an admirable, outstanding personality and a practical scientist of immense influence and value in golf... Many superintendents have said Farnham was the supt. primarily responsible for developing understanding and cooperation between the men in charge of the courses and the Green Section and other agronomy specialists...

Roberts, in News Bulletin No. 2, referred to major alterations such as a bunker on the second hole and one on the 18th...

Ben Hogan’s brilliant 66 Saturday against a par of 72 on the 6,980 yard course certainly was most “unusually skillful play.”...

Southern Seniors GA in its 36th annual report lists 52 clubs at which SSGA events have been played during the 18 years... Three-time British Open Champion Henry Cotton relates that when Robert Simpson was pro at the Dalhousie GC, Carnoustie, Scotland, in 1883, he was paid approximately 75 cents for an 18-hole playing lesson and out of that had to pay his caddie about 15 cents...

When Cotton became pro at Langley Park Club in England in 1923 his lesson fee was about...

and golfers ... Elbin was chosen as the stand-up representative of the multitude of pros who rarely are headlined nationwide for their valuable service to the golfing public and because of his astute and firm leadership of pro golf at a critical period when efforts were being made to split pro golf into several groups with the objective being to make pro golf promoters' property.

At their annual meeting, the writers voted to name clubs and events where press coverage facilities have been bad ... Pleasant Valley, site of the Carling World in '65, the Whitemarsh Open, the Los Angeles Open and Merion were cited as needing much improvement.

Golf writers whose labors have made pros and promoters rich and who made golf tournaments expensive television sales deals were reminded by the TV strike during the Masters that the golf gravy train which the writers built is speeding past them like the fast freight train of American folklore used to roar past tramps ... The TV strike didn’t reduce the Masters television value a dime but if there had been a nationwide newspaper strike during the Masters, the tournament undoubtedly would have suffered a serious drop as a gallery attraction . . . And with the Masters this year returning over $100,000 to people whose ticket requests couldn’t be accommodated the value of the writers to the event was substantially indicated.

Older golf writers recall it wasn’t easy to sell the Masters to sports editors and managing editors . . . Now the Masters gets coverage by more writers than the National Open gets . . . The canny, foresighted Cliff Roberts showed himself to be smart as a press relations man when he began early to develop press facilities at the Masters until they became by a long way the best in golf . . . With Bob Jones a sports idol who has stood at the peak with golf journalists (and all other knowing sports writers) over the years the personal interest of writers in the Masters long has been warm . . . Rhode Island Golf Course Superintendents Association recently held an Old Timers' dinner at which a dozen members were given plaques as "founding members" although the records of the organization, established in 1930, long since have vanished . . . Like the plans of drainage and water lines of golf courses installed about that time . . . Orville Clapper, West Newton, Mass. equipment and supply dealer, and Dr. Jesse De France, now of Scott Seed, who also helped the fellows get their outfit going, were given Founding Father plaques . . . Orville was MC for the dinner and he and his secretary did a lot of work collecting the work biographies of the Rhode Island fellows who produced some of the finest golf turf on that part of New England's stern and rock-bound coast.

Thinking about great work Jesse De France did in bringing the turf scientists and the greenskeepers together we are reminded that John Monteith, Burt Musser, Lawrence Dickison, Glenn Burton and the late O. J. Noer as scientists have received the Green Section award and the late Joe Valentine and Elmer Michaels got it as working course managers (who certainly deserved the recognition.)

Bill Jaeger, general chairman, 1968 USGA National Amateur championship at Scioto CC, Columbus, O., appoints Nicholas Popa tournament manager . . . Popa, an advertising man who came into golf as a caddie and who wrote a useful book on caddie training, is a side-line career man in tournament management . . . He managed the 1964 PGA championship at Columbus CC . . . Don Boyd, the Columbus CC manager, set up for the PGA affair the best working manual for the house end of a big championship that ever was compiled, according to several experienced managers.

paper golf supplements to date . . . Jimmy Burns, Ray Crawford, Ken Small, Gene Plowden, Dick Meyer and Ted Findlay of the Herald, with Bob Toski and Paul Hahn gave the feature a lot of hot copy, including a fine selection of 18 "Challenging" holes of south Florida and a directory of the area's clubs and pros . . . High tribute is paid to south Florida golf course superintendents' work . . . Picture of June Taylor dancers of the Jackie Gleason show giving their golf lessons makes many guys want to trade jobs with Hahn, the trick shot star, and Gleason as the Taylor girls' tutors . . . Hahn takes Gleason usually at CC of Miami and how sweet it is for Paul to grab those $5 Nassaus from Gleason who is nearly a par golfer.

Bert Purvis, the vigorous salesman who's been plugging pro golf for years in upper state New York tells us that Bob Haggerty, Jr., son of a guy we all knew and loved, is pro at Schenectady (N.Y.) muny course . . . Bill Lawlor is pro at Teugega CC, Rome, N.Y., Jim Peters is at the new Casenovia (N.Y.) CC, Dick Osborne is at Ballaston Spa (N.Y.) CC, Jim Eldredge is at the Park CC, Williamsville, N.Y. . . . Bert says Larry Bartosek, pro at Skaneatelles CC in Syracuse did record business in his winter golf school.

Most complete story on building of a golf course we've seen in a newspaper was written in San Diego News-Chieftain by Hal Davee interviewing Ken Moore, superintendent Rancho Bernardo. Two pages of type and illustrations on the 18-hole RB addition designed by Theodore G. Robinson. Philadelphia Inquirer's 1967 Golf Guide, prepared by Fred Byrod, sports editor and veteran golf writer, a most useful, interesting work with map of all courses in the Delaware Valley, lots of instruction, list of club champions and low handicap players, course features and 1967 equipment.

Mrs. Charles Evans, Chick's beloved wife, died in Chicago, Feb. 12, after three years of painful invalidism, valiantly suffered. She was 72. Her maiden name was Underwood. Chick always left tournaments to be home with her nights during her illness. Last summer, he flew to Philadelphia for a ceremony marking the 50th anniversary of the amateur victory of his Open-Amateur championship triumphs, and returned to Chicago and his wife's bedside after a few hours at Merion.

Winter's heavy snows are expected to produce considerable reconstruction of courses after spring flood damage, forecast superintendents at GCSA annual meeting. Gerald Dearie, superintendent, Medinah CC (Western Open), Hen-

Son Maples, superintendent, Finehurst CC (Western Amateur) and Charles Lawson, superintendent, Indiana University GC (Western Junior) commended by Adelor J. Petit, jr., Western Open president, for superb condition of courses during 1966 Western championships ... Those championships were held at times when courses without expert, vigilant watching (and a little bit of luck) could have gone bad . . . The PGA championship usually is the toughest one for the superintendent, as it customarily is played in July when weather, bug and disease conditions are against golf grass . . . I'll say the superintendents' public education program has made a immense advance when ten per cent of the contestants in the PGA championship know the name of the superintendent at the host course . . . Not often do contestants in sectional PGA events know who is superintendent of the course they're enjoying . . . That's a blind spot in the educational publicity of the PGA and GCSA sections that could be easily corrected.
