Current evidence indicates that there is a widespread lack of pension plans for superintendents. Many superintendents, upon retirement, are finding themselves with nothing to show for their years of loyal service.

The brief article that follows stresses once again a serious problem that was brought to light in an earlier editorial by Dr. Grau, "What? No Pension?" Because this issue is of such vital importance to superintendents, the original editorial is also included on page 44 for those who may have missed it the first time around.

Currently, Dr. Grau is researching the problem of inadequate pension plans for superintendents, and his findings will be the basis of an in-depth article in an upcoming issue of GOLFDOM.

We ask our readers to help Dr. Grau by writing him directly at Drawer A A, College Park, Md. 20740. Tell him what kind of pension plan you have. Or if you presently have no plan, let him hear about it. Individual letters will be kept in the strictest confidence.

Having concentrated on helping people grow turf for so many years, I must confess that I have not given adequate attention to the very important consideration of pensions and retirement benefits for golf course superintendents. Only recently have I become painfully aware of serious deficiencies in the "system." I now ask the rhetorical question, "Is there a problem?" just for openers.

In developing a background for an honest answer to the question, I have contacted leaders in Pennsylvania and across the nation by letter, by telephone and in face-to-face conversations. My real contact with golf course superintendents started in 1935 when I began my 10-year travels in Pennsylvania helping the "greenkeepers" to understand the basics of producing better turf. I've made a lot of friends, many of whom now are about to retire or have retired. Some, of course, have preceded us into eternity with little or no recognition. Those whom I first knew have now been in the business for 40 years or longer.

Most of us recall a man who was a loyal employee of a railroad or some industrial firm. At retirement time, he was given a testimonial dinner, an engraved gold watch and many admonitions to "stay healthy." At that point he was considered unemployable and, in many cases, when forced into unaccustomed idleness, he just "dried up and blew away." I knew one who died the day before his "retirement party."

As I receive reports from friends in turf, I gain the distinct impression that many long-time superintendents have been summarily retired or released, often without the customary dinner, watch and admonitions. What a pity!

At this point, I will answer my own question unequivocally and without hesitation or fear of contradiction. Yes, there is a problem. The problem is not just in Pennsylvania.
WHAT? NO PENSION?
A good friend of long standing, a retired golf course superintendent now living in Florida, wrote to me recently. After 26 years of devoted service to his club (and he had many good years of service left) he was "retired," actually dismissed, without a pension of any kind. I know the man and I know the club. He introduced innovations in equipment, fertilizers, ground covers and many other things. What I don't understand is how the businessmen for whom he worked could so callously turn him out to pasture without the thank you and the courtesy of some sort of pension or endowment.

A good friend of long standing, a retired golf course superintendent now living in Florida, wrote to me recently. After 26 years of devoted service to his club (and he had many good years of service left) he was "retired," actually dismissed, without a pension of any kind. I know the man and I know the club. He introduced innovations in equipment, fertilizers, ground covers and many other things. What I don't understand is how the businessmen for whom he worked could so callously turn him out to pasture without the thank you and the courtesy of some sort of pension or endowment.

This friend is understandably bitter, soft-spoken as he is. It is too late to turn back the clock for him, but his experience, which is shared by many, should guide present and future negotiations between club and superintendent. Surely there must be some guidelines that can help the new or old superintendent achieve a just and honorable contract, which will help to sustain him when he retires. Club officials should bow their heads in shame if they do not insist upon some such stipulation in the contract. One may safely assume that nine out of 10 businessmen in the club have made sure that they will have a retirement income. Shouldn't they also do the same for one of their most devoted employees?

I have just talked with another good friend who has been at his club since it was built about 1952. He has tried to negotiate a retirement benefit for several years, but each time he is told that he is being selfish in wanting something just for himself. These short-sighted officials one day will wonder, "Why can't we attract good men?" The horse is not likely to be drawn to an empty feedbag.

PROCEED WITH CAUTION
If the foregoing has any value, it is that it brings out the desirability of a comparative computation. Beware, though, that the computation is not made poorly. An unskilled computation would be worse than misleading, it could produce a misjudgment costing the club a lot of money.

This discussion, and the two earlier articles on the subject of giving up tax exemption have undoubtedly demonstrated the complexity of the issue. It seems clear that a decision cannot be based upon a snap judgment, neither can it be based solely upon debate in the board room. The decision must result from informed calculations and conscious judgment.

CASPER DIRECTS ON THE COSTA BLANCA
NEW YORK—One of the world's top-ranking golfers, Billy Casper, has been named director of Golf at the new Almaina Park G & CC in Alicante, Spain.

The announcement was made by Casper and the developers of the plush resort on Spain's Costa Blanca, a Riviera-type strip on the country's south-central Mediterranean coast. Almaina Park will be designed for residential, vacation or retirement living, it was announced, and will include two 18-hole courses.

Casper, who will retain his affiliation with Boise Cascade/Ocean Pines, won more PGA tournaments in 1966-70 than the three other top players combined.