Dropping the Hammer

USE THIS PHILOSOPHY TO SMASH GOLFERS' IGNORANCE

By Mike Hamilton, CGCS

Being a superintendent is no easy task. The expectations of the players increase every day. They expect us to provide perfect conditions no matter what obstacles Mother Nature throws our way. But the one factor that drives more superintendents out of the industry is the constant moaning we hear from a small percentage of golfers.

In my more than 20 years as a superintendent, I survived these slings and arrows by employing a philosophy known as Hammerology. Among other things, Hammerology can help younger, less-experienced superintendents "translate" golferspeak. Let me give you a few examples:

- "The golf course is in wonderful shape" means "I played well today."
- "The golf course is in terrible shape" means "I played like crap today."
- "The greens are inconsistent" means "I had a lot of uphill and downhill putts today, and I have no ability to adjust.""Can't you cut the fairways lower? I hit flyers all day" means "Those steroids I'm taking are really starting to work."
- "There's no grass on the fairways. I can't get a wood underneath the ball" means "These bozos I'm playing with won't let me tee it up in the fairway."
- "I hate the sand in our traps" means "I need to take a lesson on how to hit out of the sand, and I'm too stupid to know that a trap is something in which you catch wild animals."
- "Do those guys need to be working while I'm playing?" means "I have no concentration."
- "Could you come and tell me what's wrong with my lawn?" means "I'm too cheap to pay for a good lawn care service."
- "There are too many lakes on the course" means "You're not doing anything wrong. I just like to complain."
- "The greens were just getting nice when you aerified" means "I can't tolerate you trying to make the course nicer."
- "I saw one of your employees screwing around" really means "Can't they wait until they pass out from heat exhaustion before they stop to get a drink?"

Mike Hamilton, CGCS at Foxfire GC in Naples, Fla., says he'd be more than happy to offer private lessons in Hammerology for an exorbitant fee.
Yeah Tiger, We Can Relate

He's human after all. Tiger Woods is like us.
At the NEC Invitational/World Golf Championships in August, which he won with an out-of-this-world record 21-under, Woods was asked during a press conference if he ever gets bored on the golf course. He answered:

"Been bored? I don't think I've ever been bored. I've been to the point where I've been frustrated where [I] don't really want to be out there because [I'm] not playing well. I'm sure all of you can relate to that." (Woods was laughing at that last remark.)

Yeah, but we can swear like sailors on the course without a major network picking up the sound.

Quotable

"Most of us, at least those in my age group and older, expected to make a lifelong career out of being a superintendent. I look around me and see how many ex-superintendents are on the commercial side of golf and how few superintendents are age 50 or older. Is this what we want?"
— Mark Jarrell, CGCS of Palm Beach National Golf and CC, lamenting about the profession in his "Florida Green" column

"Golf is a game where the ball lies poorly and the player well."
— Anonymous.

"How appropriate that Tiger Woods' victory at Firestone CC would be a blowout."
— A golf fan in a message sent to a San Francisco Chronicle columnist.

"Golf is very cool, very rock 'n' roll. It's the most addictive thing in the world ... and I know my addictions."
— Rock legend Alice Cooper on getting hooked ... on golf. (The Cleveland Plain Dealer)
Business briefs

Briefs continued from page 16

Simplot finalizes acquisitions

The J.R. Simplot Co. finalized its acquisition of Turf Partners from Eco Soil Systems, as well as the turfgrass seed and specialty distribution assets from AgriBioTech.

The Turf Partners nationwide distribution channel will now be known as Simplot Partners and will function as a separate business unit within Simplot Turf & Horticulture.

Simplot also recently acquired the distribution locations of Garden West in Phoenix, Hill of Kentucky in Florence, Ky., and Las Vegas Fertilizer in Las Vegas.

Golf Property opens N.C. office

Golf Property Analysts, a national golf-property consulting and appraisal firm based in Harrisburg, Pa., has opened an office in Arapahoe, N.C., to serve the Southeast market.

Tyler expands operation

Elwood, Ill.-based Tyler Enterprises has expanded its custom fertilizer application system for golf courses by adding a third applicator truck to its fleet.

"When we introduced the system last October, we worked hard to incorporate the specific design and engineering features that superintendents told us were lacking in other applicator trucks," said Bruce Jasurda, Tyler's chief operating officer. "We must have done it right. We have added two more complete systems in less than a year."

Standard Golf growing

Standard Golf Co. is constructing a 30,000-square-foot addition to its existing 75,000-square-foot manufacturing facility in Cedar Falls, Iowa. The additions will increase Standard Golf's plant capacity by one-third.

GCSAA campaign passes $4 million

The GCSAA Foundation surpassed the $4 million mark in its "Investing in the Beauty of Golf" endowment campaign, which is closing in on its goal of $5 million.

The foundation will provide funding to support applied-on-course research and educational advancements for superintendents and others.

Rumor Is All Wet

STONE CANYON DIDN'T CLOSE BECAUSE OF WATER RESTRICTIONS

We received an e-mail last month about the closing of Stone Canyon GC in Oro Valley, Ariz., because of water restrictions. The e-mail said that Oro Valley, the course's water contractor, ceased its supply to Stone Canyon for six months because of an ongoing drought. "That would put a damper on my summer golf," the e-mailer noted.

No doubt, but the rumor is not true. Stone Canyon is closed, but not because of water restrictions. "Any time a course closes for a few months, you hear every possible rumor," said course pro Todd Huizinga, who was aware of the talk.

Truth is, Stone Canyon, which had a soft opening in February, isn't finished. Huizinga said the Jay Morrish-designed course closed so crews could concentrate on revegetation efforts and minor road construction. "We plan on having a grand opening late this fall or in early 2001," Huizinga says.

Jeff Weir, Oro Valley's economic development administrator, said people saw brown grass on the course and assumed it closed because of a lack of water. But Weir says the brown grass was "by design" because Stone Canyon workers are resodding certain areas. "We're not withholding water from the course," Weir added.

Stimping: Do the Right Thing

Stimping is kind of like the weather in Chicago — inconsistent. Thankfully, USGA recognizes that and offers relief on its Web site. Check out www.usga.org/green/download/index.asp?content=pubs for the "Stimpmeter Instruction Booklet" to help you with your stimping distress.

You'll find related articles, too, such as "Measuring Green Speed on Sloped Putting Greens," "It's Time We Put the Green Back in Green Speed" and "S.P.E.E.D. — Consider What's Right For Your Course."

The evolution of GOLF

The rise of the Homo Sapiens Bollensis population from 1950 to the present (in millions)

Arnold and Jack on TV

Recession, declining income

Tiger Woods emerges

Plenty of money for course development

Compounded annual growth rate — 4.5%

Source: National Golf Foundation

Illustration: Dan Beery
Scanning the Web

Frank Andorka reviews political sites for election 2000

I'm in a horribly uncomfortable position this year as the 2000 election looms. I've always loved politics and have followed it passionately. But this year Al Gore is evil and George Bush is vapid, so whose name will I punch on November's ballot? I turned to the Web for help and found a couple of sites that can help us ALL make the right choice (all sites start with http:// unless otherwise noted):

(* — Bookmark it and return frequently; * — Look at only if absolutely necessary)

• *www.speakout.com/selectsmart — Created so people would have a forum in which to express their political opinions, this site offers a candidate-choosing section that includes 17 issue-oriented questions. When you submit the survey, the site will tell you which top candidates most closely match your views. From there, you can follow the sites' hot links to candidate pages, issue pages and other great links. For those of you who don't have a political label, this site will also help you find where you fall on the political spectrum. It's a lot of fun.

www.self-gov.org/quiz.html — I'm a little suspicious that this page was set up by the Libertarian Party in an attempt to spread its message. That said, its "World's Smallest Political Quiz" will place you on the political spectrum, though it doesn't recommend a candidate. It's not as in-depth as you might expect, but its analysis of your views is still fairly accurate.

www.vote-smart.org/index.phtml — This is a site designed for the hard-core political junkie. Its questionnaire will take you at least 20 to 25 minutes to fill out because it gets into the absolute minutiae of public policy (so you can feel just like Al Gore). It's not particularly user-friendly, but it does show all presidential candidates, most from parties you've never heard of. If you're easily frustrated, ignore this site.

Scanning the Web is compiled by Frank H. Andorka Jr., Golfdom's associate editor, who asserts his Fifth Amendment rights if you ask him for whom he'll vote. You can reach him at fandorka@advanstar.com with future column suggestions or sites you think he should visit.

Falling for Autumn Leaves

It's that time of year when nature paints its breathtaking colors on oaks, maples, dogwoods, hickories and other trees. Nothing beats working on a golf course this time of year. Science maintains that a succession of warm, sunny days and cool-but-not-freezing nights bring about the most awesome autumn displays. But who cares about science; we just want to soak in the view. Chief photo editor Mike Klemme allows us to do that with this brilliant photograph (below) of autumn leaves adorning Giants Ridge GC in Bibawik, Minn.

Those Darn Decimal Points

For unknown reasons, we managed to move a decimal point in the Real-Life Solutions story ("Superintendent Gives Thumbs Up to Burn-Down Herbicide") in the August issue. A paragraph in the story should have read: "The superintendent and his crew spent two days applying 275 pounds per acre of Basamid with a drop spreader." We originally reported "2.75 pounds per acre." We apologize for any inconveniences.