Let Nature Take Your Course

28 Carry The Weight
Volunteers help bring a successful PGA Championship to fruition at Oak Hill Country Club.
By Larry Aylward

54 The Naturals
How two New Jersey superintendents convinced members that their environmental plans for golf course maintenance made sense.
By Larry Aylward

62 Go Native
It can satisfy environmentalists — and be good for the bottom line, too.
By Geoff Shackelford
Real-Life Solutions

How Effluent Is Changing the Industry

From maintenance practices to getting guarantees from local governments, the increased use of reclaimed water for irrigation is altering the way you do business.

By Frank H. Andorka Jr.

Slowly But Surely

The change toward more eco-friendly oils is coming — and the mower companies are preparing for it.

By Frank H. Andorka Jr.

About the cover

This Mike Klemme shot of Glen Ellen Country Club in Mills, Mass., sums up the importance of a natural setting on a golf course better than anything we could have dreamed up.

TurfGrass Trends

This month, Golfdom’s practical research digest for turf managers reports on knowing when to treat insects based on tolerance levels. Pages 37-53.

News with a hook

16 Out of Africa
22 Yea to Yale

---

column

8 Flagstick
The Power of the Purple Cow

10 Pin High
May Good Karma Come to Them

27 Shades of Green
He’s a Hero For All Seasons

36 Designs On Golf
Golf Could Use A Good Think Tank

84 Out of Bounds
PDAs