Miniature Course Constructors
Recreational Engineering Corp., 35 Westminster St., Providence, R.I., has been organized to specialize in the planning and construction of miniature golf courses. The new company is headed by Wm. J. Curtis, former president of the Schavolite Co., club manufacturers previous to the war. Both the fixed and the removable type of courses will be available, with the plans for a wide range of holes designed by a leading golf course architect and complete installations provided. Miniature course supplies including a newly developed, all-weather putting matting will be sold by the company.

All-Aluminum Automatic Tee

TEE-KING is the trade name of a new automatic tee designed for simplicity of operation and practical driving range use. Features of the all-aluminum tee attest to its practical construction—it has only one moving part, is adjustable to allow ball delivery to various points on the mat and may be removed for storage in a minute. Tension of spring on moving arm and tilt of hopper are also adjustable. Slight touch of club head brings down arm for teeing next ball. Light in weight, the automatic tee is available with or without mat and mat frame from the manufacturers, Lockie-Falla Products Co., 1826 Grant St., Bettendorf, Ia.

Portable Electric Plant

Hard-to-get-at weeds and tall grass around fences that call for close cropping electric shears, plus many other problems confronting the greenkeeper when the need for repair work on any part of the course calls for power driven tools is readily solved by the use of the new portable electric power plants manufactured by D. W. Onan and Sons Inc., Minneapolis, Minn. The plant provides power for any electric tool, universal AC or DC within their full rated capacity and will operate under heavy load conditions for more than four hours on a gallon of gasoline. Mounted on easy wheeling dollies, this unit can be moved about the grounds freely by one man.

Spalding Moves N.Y. Offices

On April 15th the New York district office of A. G. Spalding & Bros., will move from 19 Beekman St., to modern new headquarters at 161 Sixth Ave., New York 13, N.Y. Spalding’s entire New York operation including general executive departments will be conducted at the new Sixth Ave. address.

New Film, "Play Better Golf," Shows How To Improve Game

When, why and how to use the individual clubs of a conventional set, how to play a water hazard, starting the swing, and getting the ball off the ground are but a few of the pointers shown in the new instructional sound-film "Play Better Golf" produced by Official Films, Inc. with J. Victor East of Wilson Sporting Goods Co. as technical advisor and featuring the golfing stars, Patty Berg, Sam Snead, Jim Ferrier, and Lloyd Mangrum of the Wilson advisory staff.

The film is a two-reel subject covering the fundamentals and fine points of the game with the first reel devoted primarily to basic considerations, such as grip, arm and swing, and close-ups. Part II opens with a demonstration of controlled shots to overcome natural obstacles, followed by sand trap technique, then chip shots and putting.

"Play Better Golf" is available for showing by professionals and clubs through Wilson Sporting Goods dealers and may be purchased outright from your local photographic dealer or Official Films, Inc., 25 West 45th St., New York. The reels are complete units within themselves and may be used separately or in combination on either 16 mm sound-on-film, 16 mm silent or 8 mm silent.

Successful Winter At Pro's Dunedin Course

PGA National Golf Club at Dunedin, Fla., has had its most successful winter season during the 1947-48 period. Despite adverse weather conditions in the fall and early winter Alex Cunningham has brought the course along so greens, fairways and tees reached excellent condition early in February.

Considerable work remains to be done on the grounds and some remodeling will be done by Cunningham at the direction of the committee in charge of the course. The committee is headed by John Watson and includes Gene Sarazen, Hugh Bancroft and Willie Ogg.

Rye greens were left a bit longer than some of the players desired for a week or so at Cunningham's insistence. The procedure paid off in fine condition after rye really had got established. One of the marvels of the Dunedin layout is that PGA members who visit the course all don't want to boss the club but let Cunningham do the course and clubhouse management job for which he is responsible.

Clubhouse improvements made so far this year include a major revision of the locker-room which now is about a model for small club locker-rooms. All improvements this winter were made at a cost of about $15,000 and are remarkable in showing such conspicuous results for the money.

At the top of the season there are about 80 pros a day visiting the place. There are informal pro clinics on teaching, merchandising, shop practice and club operating Mondays and Fridays. There are two 2-ball foursome events each week. There are two bingo sessions weekly and an open house Saturday night. Mrs. Cunningham runs the clubhouse at which sandwiches and beverages are served.

Fros have reason to boast of the work that has been done by all concerned with management of the Dunedin course since the PGA took over its operation. There still remains a considerable extent of rehabilitation work to be done in the clubhouse and on the course but need of most of it only would be seen by expert eyes. Among other work that is contemplated is that of constructing and stocking a model pro shop.

Cunningham's staff is competent and diligent and, like many club operating staffs, sees more work than can be handled with the speed and completeness that Alex and his helpers can bring into a long hour job that must focus on doing the most important things first.

Publicity is one angle that Cunningham plans to get into stronger. A series of picture postcards of the course now is available and next year Cunningham plans to see that the course and people playing it get picture and type coverage in Florida newspapers and in spots north.
