TICKS-OFF KEEPS BUGS OFF OF GOLFERS

Mine Safety Appliances Co., Pittsburgh 8, Pa., has an insect repellent known as Ticks-Off that is getting wide use in golf after demonstrating its value in industrial fields among oil field workers, linemen, loggers and construction men. It is sprayed on shoes, socks, trousers or on skin where clothing fits tight.

It's got a good performance record of repelling and killing ticks, chiggers, gnats, mosquitoes, flies, etc., and is getting distribution at pro shops and in lockerrooms especially in the southwest.

of Wilson golf club and golf balls — and the golf professional.

Most dynamic feature of the newspaper program are the 850 line ads. Measuring 10 inches wide and more than 12 inches deep, these ads will feature many of the top newspapers in leading cities.

Throughout this newspaper advertising, a strong, aggressive, selling approach will be used in the copy and extensive mileage will be obtained from Wilson's great 1952 tournament record — victories in all major championships.

In addition to this advertising campaign, there is the direct mail program which will send more than a quarter-of-a-million of each of four booklets to country club members. The first, on Wilson golf balls, is being mailed. The others on irons, woods, bags and scoring clubs will follow.

Support on the magazine front comes from the golf player magazines and Time magazine which is read primarily by business men and executives.

Aiding the magazine campaign will be a strong broadside, filled with sales impact. This broadside gives the complete story of Wilson's 1953 newspaper-magazine advertising campaign. It will reach golf professionals, stressing this theme of Wilson advertising — sales for golf professionals.

At the same time, Wilson's intensive year-round program in golf trade publications will continue to do an outstanding selling job.

LEW BRIDGE APPOINTED GOLFCRAFT MIDWEST PRO REPRESENTATIVE

Since April 15th the Chicago office of Golfcraft, Inc., of Escondido, Cal., has been humming to the lively beat of its new pro sales manager, a personable fellow named Lew Bridge, whom the pros are going to like. Considering his service background in the European theatre as a Lt. Col. and aide to Gen. Bradley, and his past rating as a one-handicap golfer, Lew is a modest guy. With Mamma Bridge and three little Bridges, Lew has racked up a still higher rating as a family man. His territory includes Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and western Michigan. You'll be seeing him.
MANY JOBS LISTED FOR THE INTERNATIONAL TRACTORS

Budget problems or labor shortages, serious factors in maintenance jobs to many golf course and park superintendents, can be eased through the profitable utilization of multi-purpose tractor equipment, according to Elmer A. Braker, General Supervisor of the Industrial Power sales engineering section of the International Harvester Co.

Speaking before nearly 250 members of the Midwest Institute of Park Executives at their March meeting in the Chicago Park District headquarters auditorium, Braker used a series of specially prepared slides to illustrate the many time and money saving attachments that now are available for the International Harvester Farmall "Cub" and the International "Super A" wheel tractors.

Braker cautioned: "Every tractor manufacturer has specified engineering requirements that special duty equipment must meet before it can be placed on the approved list. Mounting approval is granted only after these engineering requirements have been fulfilled and satisfactory tests have been completed."

Mott Hammer-Knife mower for tough rough and brush is new attachment approved for use with International Farmall "Cub" tractor.

Approved by Braker were mowing attachments to the "Cub" or "Super A" material handling equipment, leveling blades, post-hole diggers, concrete mixers, digger - crane - shovel, backhoe, tractor-mounted sprayer, dump rakes, sweepers, water pump, circular and chain saws, belt conveyors, carry lift, trailer wagon, scoop, winch and other attachments.

VOIT GOLFMATER TELLS HOW PRACTICE SHOTS GO

Voit Golfmaster practice device, made by W. J. Voit Rubber Corp., 1600 E. 25th st., Los Angeles 11, Calif., is a compact, sturdy device with a captive ball attached by 640 lb. test nylon cord to a register that records distance, direction and trajectory of the shots made.

It can be used by right-or left-handed golfers. The Golfmaster outfit is provided with hold-down spikes, a grass-like rubber mat with removable tee, scorecards of famous courses and a basic manual of golf instruction.

Pro shops are selling quite a number of Golfmasters.

GOLFOMETER MEASURES AS YOU WALK

Golfometer, a new device about the size of a watch, and carried on one's belt, is being made by the New Haven Clock and Watch Co., New Haven 4, Conn. It measures in yards and is calibrated to the length of the user's normal step so the Golfometer measurements are remarkably accurate.

The device was given a test by golf writers covering the Masters' tournament and aided decidedly in technical accuracy of coverage. Other tests by pros and golf writers has shown the Golfometer to be more accurate than some scorecard distances. In measuring distances it should be very helpful to many golfers and discouraging to those who get the 300 yd. (locker-room distance) drives.

The New Haven Clock and Watch Co. is retailing the Golfometer primarily through pro shops.

U. S. RUBBER HAS NEW MESH MARKED BALLS

Innovation in golf balls is a new mesh marked golf ball introduced by United States Rubber Co. as an addition to its 1953 golf ball line. Each mesh marked golf ball is covered with an electronically sealed plastic covering that protects it until it is played.

In introducing the mesh marked golf ball, U. S. Rubber revives a distinctive cover marking that was a favorite among golfers 25 years ago. The 1953 mesh marked ball has the modern improvements of a silicone center and electronic winding, to give long, true flight and uniform performance. It has a tough, fully cured Cadwell cover that is highly resistant to cutting and scuffing. It is improved with modern painting so it looks and stays whiter.

The 1953 mesh marked ball is a legal tournament golf ball that meets all required specifications of the USGA.

John W. Sproul, sales mgr. of U. S. Golf Balls, says, "The mesh marked golf ball looks slightly larger to the eye and appears to sit up better on the fairway. Preliminary tests indicate it gives slightly more distance with the wind. It is long off the tee, true in putting and very durable."

Sproul said that the new mesh marked ball is being presented this season in the U. S. Royal Special, the U. S. Royal (Blue) and the U. S. True Blue brands.

The mesh marked balls are being sold in distinctive new packaging, — an electronically sealed plastic covering called Plasti-Guard, which is exclusive with U. S. Rubber. In this packaging, each ball is covered so it can be separated for play without disturbing the protective seal of the other balls.

"The plastic covering," Mr. Sproul said, "protects each ball not yet played, from becoming dirty in the golf bag, in the pocket, or in the locker. The balls do not discolor as quickly because they are protected from direct light and air."
