Spoons are the heart of the Aerifier*. The patented spoon principle was designed especially for cultivation of turfgrass areas. To understand why "cultivating action" is so important, think about why you aerify.

To overcome soil compaction . . . only by stirring and rearranging the soil particles is it possible to restore good structure. To increase root growth . . . only the Aerifier loosens soil around the openings so roots can spread out and develop fully. Glazed soil around holes made by spikes or tubes prevents root penetration. To make greens softer without excessive use of water . . . only "cultivating action" increases resilience, which is so important from the standpoint of the players. The Aerifier makes greens that hold the well-played shot, even when soil is kept on the dry side. To increase penetration of water and fertilizer . . . loose-walled openings are the only kind that allow rapid movement of water through the soil.

When you spend time aerifying, do it the effective way — with the AERIFIER.

How you can attract More Customers and More Money to your DRIVING RANGE

U. S. Driving Range Balls are designed and built to rigid specifications. To stand the terrific beating that a driving range ball must take, U. S. Rubber has experimented, tested and built a special range ball that has proved its quality for years.

A “cheap” product is never satisfactory or economical. “U. S.” range balls are more economical than seconds, or ordinary balls sold at lower prices. They are a better buy than old, discontinued, reprocessed or repainted balls sold at “bargain” prices.

“U. S.” offers the most complete and varied assortment of distinctive markings, together with first-quality golf balls, more durable covers, and a whiter, longer-lasting paint job.
