Pros who played in Chicago Open were astonished at tough test of 6,350 yd. course . . . Condition of greens and fairways of Gleneagles course on which Chicago Open was played highly lauded . . . Supt. Walter Fuchs had both 18s of Gleneagles showing no sign of tournament play and parking ten days after the event.

Chicago Open lost money, plus loss of revenue from the play at the popular semi-prj at course owned by the McNeulty brothers . . . Event had pretty large galleries at that and got a great deal of publicity with the able James S. Kears as press relations director . . . Pictures and copy flown by helicopters from Gleneagles to Chicago’s Loop thence distributed to papers.

Compromise between Tournament Sponsors and PGA Tournament Committee saved embarrassment, money and tournaments . . . It’s tough enough to get members of grade A private clubs to agree to receiving any tournaments other than USGA, Western GA and a few other amateur affairs . . . Tournament pros aren’t only ones who have to gamble to put on sports shows . . . Bowling tournaments and rodeos show interesting financing by contestants.
Here it is...
the freshest, most original Christmas offer
for your Pro Shop!

Wilson STAFF Balls
plus King's Men Toiletries

More gift appeal, more sales appeal, more value
than ever before in a Christmas gift package.

The famous Wilson STAFF ball—“the long ball of golf”—makes the perfect gift for any golfer. Here is the most talked about ball in golf with its 170 MPH acceleration off the club head, its trueness in flight, and its gleaming whiteness.

Now add to the Wilson STAFF—the big tournament winner in '58—King's Men Cologne and After Shave Lotion and you have a great gift combination that will sell in bigger volume than ever before.

Place your order early and get this outstanding Christmas gift suggestion on display in your Pro Shop before the season closes.
