store. Remember, the “pros” in the sports-wear business are owners of the fine shops in town. They have been in this business a long time and have learned through experience and trial and error most of the answers. Keep your eyes open next time you are in town. Note how the fine stores arrange and display their sportswear.

Showcase Has Advantages
Many pros say that the day of the showcase is gone. They have found other ways of displaying balls, gloves, tees, etc. I personally feel, however, that although some pros have eliminated the showcase, golf balls particularly can be shown most invitingly in this manner. I advocate showing a good quantity of every make that you handle. One pro I know takes balls out of the boxes and pyramids them in his show-case. He shows three or more doz. of each brand he carries in stock. You must admit that any time you see a good selection of merchandise, you are more prone to buy something. Golf balls are no different!

Storage locations of the major part of our equipment are shown in the sketches.

Even though our present buildings are quite adequate, as I mentioned before, plans are being made to build a 5,000 sq. ft. structure to replace our two small buildings. These, I understand, originally were planned to be only temporary. At present we don't have quite enough room to store rough and finished topdressing in the smaller buildings, but it will be provided for in the new construction.

location of the ball case (which was made a counter rather than a case) and of the charge book at a pro shop boosted ball sales 20 per cent and was believed by the pro who made the change to have accounted for an almost 30 per cent increase in shop business.

The general criticism of pro shop layouts, according to the pros and salesmen in that session, is that golfers rush in and rush out without being exposed to the sight and selling appeal of much merchandise.

Try This Location
Several fellows said that the idea of putting a revolving rack for slacks and shorts almost in the path of traffic entering the shop had accounted for the big business that pro shops do in slacks and shorts for men and women.

You might check your own operations on the above mentioned five of the Ten Commandments of Mass Retailing.

In July Golfdom we're going through the other five retailing Commandments as they apply in making pro shop business larger and more profitable.

whole thing was resolved in Moore's favor early Thursday morning when the wind shifted into the northeast and the mid-afternoon temperature got no higher than 70.

The Winged Foot weather from then on was touch and go so far as playing conditions were concerned, but from a supt's standpoint it was pretty much what was wanted.

The setback caused by the January fire at Winged Foot would have been compounded had the club been located perhaps 100 or 200 miles north in what turned out this winter to be the New England winterkill belt. (This was described in an article that appeared on page 52 in June GOLFDOM). The area around Long Island Sound was hit hard by a cold winter that caused deeper than normal frost and brought higher than average winds and consequent extreme desiccation. Only a cooperative spring, something that didn't make an early appearance in New England, enable Winged Foot's two courses to snap back.

Sherwood Moore candidly admits that he is happy that the fire that destroyed his maintenance headquarters, the tough winter, the preparation for the Open, and the big week in June are behind him. When the last putt dropped late on the afternoon of June 14 it brought an end to working under at least six months of heavy pressure and the rather frequent sleepless nights that a supt. preparing for an event such as the USGA extravaganza, has to endure. When it's all over, a supt. even gets to thinking about getting in a little golf on his own — something that Moore had to forego since last fall.

Moore, who is a GCSA national director, started preparing for his big assignment back in 1936 when he enrolled for the two year turf course under Prof. Lawrence Dickinson at the University of Massachusetts. His first job was as an assistant at Lake Mohawk (N. Y.) CC. In

Personalized Products

I personalize as much as possible, using my own special shirt label, shopping bags that bear an imprint similar to the label, and occasionally introducing other reminders that Jack Hoffman is doing business in the Hillcrest CC pro shop.

We opened the shop a year ago this month. We haven't yet cornered all the business from our club members that I'd like to have, but I have noted one very encouraging trend — we're steadily getting more new customers while keeping the old. I feel that we are presenting our merchandise in a way that makes people want to continue to do business with us after they have started. As far as I can see, that's the best formula for a successful future in a pro operation.

1961 Open at Oakland Hills

USGA has awarded the 1961 National Open to Oakland Hills CC, Birmingham, Mich. The 1924 Open was played here and was won by Cyril Walker with 297. Ralph Guldahl won the 1937 Open at Oakland with 281, then a new record score for the championship. At Oakland Hills in 1951, with the course toughened somewhat, Ben Hogan won the Open with 287. The USGA announced at Winged Foot that the double qualifying system this year for Open entrants will be repeated in 1960.

John Nyhan, New England Maintenance Pioneer, Dies

John J. Nyhan, 87, who died recently in his home at Brookline, Mass., pioneered in golf course equipment maintenance in New England in two departments, says his friend Orville Clapper. Nyhan operated a lawn mower grinding shop and a horse-shoeing blacksmith shop in Brookline, Mass., when Clapper started in business in the Boston district in 1922. Nyhan was an expert horse-shoer and went with New England horse owners to horse tracks in the Northeast. When horses began to be used for drawing mowers on courses and estates it was a logical development for Nyhan to get into mower sales and repair. He became dealer in the Boston area for Pennsylvania and Millbradt mowers, a business now operated by his son Leo.

Zerbe, Cordek, Puritan Sportswear
Men, Says Men Golfers Dressing Better

W. A. (Bill) Zerbe and Pete Cordek, who handle the Puritan line of banlon sports shirts, alpaca sweaters and other fine sportswear in eastern and southern territories, say that there's been a decided rise in the standard of men's golf attire in the past two years. The improvement in taste (or carefulness) is due to the increase in women's play with consequent favorable influence on men golfers' dress, according to pros upon whom Zerbe and Cordek call.

R. W. Askanase (1), Spalding dir., greets Frank Wharton, newly signed to the Spalding golf advisory staff. Wharton played on three championship Houston University teams and has compiled an impressive record in Texas amateur and PGA events. He turned pro about a year ago.

The Puritan sales reps also report that pro shops, even at the smaller clubs, are featuring rather exclusive quality lines. This merchandising in a "class" plane gets the shops away from competing with cut-price stores and in strong position in a good net profit field.

Casper Helped Design
Munsingwear’s ‘Grand Slam’

Bill Casper, Jr., the Open Winner, is a member of Munsingwear’s sports advisory board and helped in designing the Grand Slam sport shirt. Bill wore copies of the Grand Slam throughout the four days at Winged Foot, like so many other big name golfers. Casper, at 27, became the youngest golfer to win the Open since Byron Nelson won at Philadelphia in 1939. Nelson, too, was 27. Bill turned pro in 1954 and has won quite a few major tournaments. Last year, Casper was pro golf’s unofficial leading money winner with $56,000. This year he was in a slump until that $12,000, earned in the Open, restored the glow to his bankroll.

Cleary’s New Blending Process

J., has adopted the Jet-O-Mized process in blending, mixing and pulverizing Spotrete, Thimer and Cad-Trete. The Jet concept increases the efficiency of fungicide and high suspension qualities while at the same time overcoming clogging and residual loss in the spray tank. Supts. are encouraged to write to Cleary for samples.
