GOLFWEAR

Tony Lema sportswear for Jockey displays a combination of a winner’s cup and champagne glass, both significant of Tony, for an abstract interpretation that can be either a glass or trophy.

Munsingwear made a survey as to what could identify their mesh knit shirts as being cool—presto! the penguin. They made an agreement with the cigarette people who use the same emblem: if they didn’t sell shirts, Munsingwear wouldn’t sell cigarettes.

Joe DiFini of DiFini Knitwear was having a good round of golf when he drove into the rough. He was ready to take a penalty when the caddie spotted the ball next to a four-leaf clover. DiFini blasted out two feet from the pin for par. From then on, the four-leaf clover was the symbol for his shirts.

Golfcraft opens Eastern plant in Pennsylvania

Golfcraft Inc., recently opened its Eastern factory at 616 Nolan St., Morrisville, Pa. The new plant has 30,000 square feet of floor space and is adequately supplied with latest equipment, especially that for bag manufacture.

Ted Woolley, Golfcraft’s president, recently bought the Trenton Sports Bag Company. Its owner and president, L. H. (Buck) Legoff came along with the deal as vice president of the Coronado Manufacturing Co., a Golfcraft division, and will share direction of the new Eastern operations with James Coyne, formerly of Golfcraft’s Chicago staff.

tain that the P. G. A. member in good standing has not only evidence of his superiority to the average group of small businessmen, but shows plainly, speedier progress in business methods than any similar class of men you can call to mind.

Golf Business in Its Infancy

You have only to think back a few years when the first tidal wave of the golf deluge swept over the country. The pros were imported from England and Scotland where their income in their profession had been so small that when they got to this country with their families many of the pioneers were compelled to have the golf goods manufacturers finance them. I am confident that the history of these cases will show that these early professionals were prompt to establish a high reputation for business integrity, and one that has exercised a strong influence over the majority of pros ever since.

The professional golfers' associations, in promoting the progress of their members as businessmen, are confronted by situations that would deeply discourage most other organizations less confident of the high character of their membership. Golf's great growth has created such a demand for professionals that many who are unfit are given jobs. Some of the able professionals are worthy men who have been denied not only the benefits of a business education, but of a goodly part of any schooling whatever. The associa-

One should not forget that the progress made by the professional golfers’ associations is the result of work engineered by officials who have plenty of work to do in handling and properly servicing their primary responsibilities, their own club positions. The association work is done by elected and unpaid officers sacrificing their own time and energy from their busy schedules.

Balanced Design!

This delicate balancing, across the face of a Power-Bilt iron head, is dramatic proof of the precision with which all Power-Bilt irons are made. Every iron in a Power-Bilt set can be balanced in precisely this same way, which guarantees the ultimate in Uniform Swing Feel so vitally important to consistent hitting.

It's no wonder that famous touring professionals Bobby Nichols, Frank Beard, Gay Brewer and Miller Barber all play Power-Bilts. Give your members also the same advantage of balanced design!

Introducing the new aluminum-shafted golf club by LeFiell.

(Le as in living. Fiell as in fell.)
Now that you can say it, play it.

Go on, belt out a bucket or two at your practice range.
The first thing you'll notice is the wallop you get. Our Titan Flo Flex shafts made of Alcoa Aluminum take the credit. Weight that used to be wasted in the shaft has been transferred to the club head where it belongs. All the muscle in your swing is concentrated at the point of impact.

LeFiell Titan golf clubs help put your drives straighter down the fairway, your iron shots closer to the pin.

HERE'S WHY: Titan Flo Flex shafts made of Alcoa Aluminum encourage a more even swing. When you come out of the backswing and into the hitting area, you can get better club-head control and improved accuracy.

And, if you think the added distance and greater accuracy are just luck, consider this: LeFiell has a background of 35 years in the design and development of tubular aluminum components for missiles and aircraft.

We know aluminum like you know your home course.
Remember the name, LeFiell. We play for keeps.

LeFiell Titan golf clubs are available in weights and flexes for men and women.

Go with the economical gas powered AMF/Par Pony and come out ahead on profits

You can buy a fleet of Par Ponies for far less than the cost of comparable makes —and operate them for less, too. These peppy golf cars are designed and powered to take the punishing wear of rental use. They’re easy on the fairways, too—weigh only 330 lbs. and have big non-marking tires. Golfers like them because they run so quietly even the nervous types don’t turn them off while putting.

You will find your Par Ponies give you outstanding performance, every day—250 rental rounds apiece for one season is not unusual. And maintenance is minimum because these babies have been built to take it. With low initial cost and economical upkeep, the Par Pony can really brighten up your profit picture.

Be sure to mail the coupon today and come out ahead on profits.

Allis-Chalmers has added a new gasoline engine-powered model to its 1966 golf cars. Built along automotive lines as is its counterpart, the electric model, the new car is powered by an eight hp, air-cooled engine, with a heavy duty tractor-type transmission. The player can leave the car in gear between shots—the car will not move until the foot pedal is depressed. The new gasoline golf car will be sold by the 150-plus Allis-Chalmers golf car dealers throughout the country. Further information is available from the headquarters of Sports Products Sales, Allis-Chalmers, P.O. Box 471, Harvey, Ill. 60426.

Toro's 50-inch Whirlwind rotary mower needn't be stored away for the winter, reports R. W. Gibson, vice president of marketing for Toro Manufacturing Corporation, Minneapolis, Minn. A new 54-inch snow plow blade, manufactured by Meyer Products, Inc., 18513 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, gives the 50-inch Whirlwind three-season versatility, Gibson said. The new blade (model B-ST54) retails at $90. Designed for all-day every-day, heavy duty work, Toro's big-capacity Trojan with 50-inch Whirlwind rotary mower combination is reportedly capable of cutting up to 12 acres of limited-care or semi-formal turf areas per day.

Although basically a walk-type mower, an optional sulky attachment quickly converts the Trojan to a riding unit. Other optional equipment: an electric starter with generator, leaf mulcher, and no-lift cutting blades.
