Election Highlights
Dec. 9 Meeting At
Green Spring Valley

Highlight of the December 9 MAAGCS meeting at Green Spring Valley Hunt Club in Garrison, Md., on December 9 will be the election of 1987 officers and two new directors for three-year terms. The nominee for president is Lee Dieter and for vice president, George Renault. Bill Neus and Ken Ingram will contest the secretary’s position, Walter Montross is the nominee for treasurer, and Steve Cohoon, Howard Gaskill, and Tom Regan are running for the director spots.

Green Spring Valley Hunt Club, where Grant Pensinger CGCS is superintendent, is an older course, its first nine having been built in 1912. Those nine holes were rebuilt and another nine added in 1955 by Robert Trent Jones.

“Killer Courses” - An Unnecessary Attempt to Frighten Golfers

That, of course, is very true, however unrealistic. Chemicals and fertilizers cost a lot of money. But, given the preference of today’s U.S. golfers for lush green fairways and soft, well-watered greens, it seems safe to say that most superintendents couldn’t get along without their chemicals, whatever the cost. If fashions were to turn around and firm, dry, brownish-green golf courses that resemble those in the British Isles were to come into favor, it would be a different story. It’s the watered, verdant golf course that makes a prime target for fungus and insects.

What the editors of GOLF plainly never considered is that scaring golfers away from their courses by referring to one unproven fatality blamed on a commonly used, EPA-approved fungicide, out of the millions of rounds played by American golfers each year, is not exactly in the best interests of a magazine for golfers. If there were a more solid basis for such dire warnings, it would be a different matter, but to point to rare allergic reactions, which are highly individualistic in any case, as something likely to be encountered by anyone, anytime, is doing the golf industry and golf course superintendents in particular not just a disservice but grave potential harm as well. The article was sketchy, not well researched, and slanted to raise unwarranted fears. Clearly, it should never have been written or published. — C.C.
President’s Message

This message will be my last as president of the Mid-Atlantic Association of Golf Course Superintendents. The past year of serving as your president has been a very memorable and rewarding experience for me. I want to take this opportunity to thank all the members of the Board of Directors for the hard work and time they have devoted to our association. I would also like to thank Claud Corrigan for his outstanding service as newsletter editor.

Even though it rained and we couldn’t play Diamond Ridge, I want to thank Howard Gaskill for his efforts as our host for the November meeting. Hopefully, Howard will invite us back soon.

The upcoming election meeting will be held at Green Spring Valley Hunt Club with Grant Pensinger, CGCS as host. Please come and vote for the candidates of your choice. Remember, call our office at (301) 381-0030 to make reservations for golf and dinner.

Jerry Gerard, President

SKI TRIP PLANNED

In the planning stage for Mid-Atlantic members is a two-day ski trip to Bryce Resort in February. Further details will be furnished in a separate mailing as they become available, according to Bill Neus, who is handling arrangements for the trip.

DECEMBER 9 MEETING

The course is heavily wooded and has fairly small bentgrass greens and rye fairways. Grant has been at GSVHS for the past 13 years, having moved there from Scotland, Pa., his home town and the location of Chambersburg Golf Club, where he served as superintendent for seven years.

On the 9th, lunch will not be available at the course, but, weather permitting, golf can be played any time during the day. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be on hand from 4:00 to 6:30 p.m., followed by a dinner of mushrooms forestiere, spinach salad, chicken breast stuffed with crabmeat, vegetables, and blueberry mousse.

Directions to the club are as follows: Take the Baltimore Beltway (I-695) to Exit 20, Reisterstown Road. Go north (left) on Reisterstown Road to Green Spring Valley Road, turn right, and go a half block to the course.

The program for December 9 is:

Dinner - 6:30 p.m. (cost: $20)

From the Golf World

A number of interesting ideas came out of the “Golf Summit” held in October at Westchester Country Club in New York by the National Golf Foundation. Almost every organization involved in some way with golf took part, including the USGA, PGA, all three Tours (PGA, Senior PGA, and LPGA), GCSAA, and so on. One presentation, seeking to look into the future, predicted that golf would have to go through a process of “MacDonaldization,” that is, make available a fast-food version of the game so that it could be played quickly and without undue involvement in what was going on. Courses would have to be short, open, and simple, with nothing like bunkers, hazards, or OB to hold up or penalize any player. Were that to take place, they would find, we fear, that golf at that level would bore most people silly, would present little or no challenge, and would be quickly abandoned.

Although nobody came out and said it, presumably the Rules of Golf would be made simpler and less binding, and all nature of technical advances in clubs, balls, and other equipment would be permitted as a means of making the game that much easier — and faster. It would be just about as satisfying as one of those fast food sandwiches, too.

The other idea, a surprise put forward by Deane Beman, the PGA Tour Commissioner, was not only practical but very farsighted. He announced that all the TPC courses would soon be renting individual powered carts to carry bag of clubs while the golfer walks, thereby preserving the benefits of exercise without the task of lugging or pulling a sack of clubs around. Since few courses these days have enough available caddies, the majority of golfers ride carts to solve the clubs problem. Many resorts, of course, require the use of carts, but that is primarily revenue oriented. The battery-powered golf carts would rent for one-half the golf car fees, thus preserving the income that either the pro or club (or both) have come to depend on. The initial investment in a caddy cart is about one-fifth that in a golf car, so the pro or the club is ahead of the game financially from the start.
