Long Island Greenkeepers

THE new Long Island Greenkeepers' Association which was organized December 2, 1929, is growing like a weed. The membership now totals twenty-five and the meetings which are held on the first Monday of each month are very enthusiastic.

The officers of the association are: President, Elmer F. Affeldt, Glen Oaks Golf and C. C.; first vice-president, Alfred E. Lundstrom, Crescent Athletic Club; second vice-president, William Joy, Pomonok Country Club. Trustees John Dishington, The Creek Club; Captain J. P. Truran, North Hills C. C.; Otto Scherzer, Lenox Hill C. C. Treasurer, B. Zukosky, The Links Club; secretary, Allen G. Jarvis, Huntington Golf and C. C.

Throughout the summer the association will hold meetings at various golf courses where problems of greenkeeping will be discussed and helpful advice furnished to those who need it.

SUCCESS

By JOHN MORLEY

The world has infinite respect and genuine admiration for the person who tries.

For men putting forth earnest endeavor there is no such thing as failure. Optimism predominates in their personalities and is imparted to those associated with them.

The world holds no brief for the pessimist. There are thousands of worthy men you and I never hear of, all doing their best and making this sphere a better place in which to live. The degree of fame or possessions is secondary to the spirit in which it is sought.

And if, at the end of the road the door through circumstance remains closed no man can say success was not yours for you have tried and in that trying made good. Remember those words as long as you live—

We sink or swim—

Yes! but at least we try.

Reports Available

O. M. Scott & Sons Co., Marysville, O., send us word that they have a few reports left of the proceedings of the Fourth Annual Greenkeepers' Convention which they put out in printed form and distributed free to greenkeepers and Green committee chairmen.

This report occasioned extremely favorable comment and was much appreciated by the officials and members of the National association.

Cooperation

By C. E. TREAT, President
Greenkeepers' Club of New England

When your president took office he stated that he was anxious to work for more cooperation between the Greenkeepers' Club and the organizations working for the betterment of golf in our section. The following is offered, as a sort of report of progress along these lines. From time to time, your president intends to give to the members direct, just what the officers and directors are trying to do for the Club.

The Club held a special meeting in connection with the Golf Show held at the Massachusetts Agricultural College this last month. We had a good attendance at this meeting and we were glad to hear Col. John
