Development of Golf

A questionnaire from the new president of the N. A. G. A., who is one of America's foremost turf culture experts

By JOHN MACGREGOR, Greenkeeper
Chicago Golf Club

I HAVE been thinking about interesting the members in the magazine. I believe the best method would be to induce them to write. With this in mind I have chosen two subjects which should prove interesting as well as profitable in the development of turf on golf courses.

(1) Do or do you not favor fairway watering? If you do, what system in your opinion would you consider the most practical, hose or hoseless? What size of mains and outlets, what type of pumps and capacity?

(2) What type of grass has proved most successful on putting greens in your district? Do you think putting green grass should be standardized in the different latitudes?

The readers of the NATIONAL GREENKEEPER will be interested in your accounts of these two important subjects. Differences of opinion are welcomed, as this opens a channel for discussion in future issues.

You expect your magazine to be interesting; it will be so if you do your part by starting immediately to give your views on the subjects presented, so they can be printed in the next issue of the GREENKEEPER.
