How Do You Do...?
but is worth a try, is to get the front office staff to come out and help. It's amazing how fast the work goes when there are many hands helping. But, you have to ask REALLY nice.

A couple of other 4th of July issues I've had this year have been burn marks where they ignited the fireworks on my sod nursery area and a between inning site gag, which involved contestants wrestling in a plastic pool full of potato salad. Some of the potato salad spilled on to the grass and killed a small area. On the burned turf, I put a seed/soil mixture on it. On the potato salad area, I did the same, plus sprayed it with green paint, since it was on the field area. Who knew potato salad could be so dangerous!

Are You Ready To Tackle Certification?
Having recognized the importance of fostering and improving professionalism within the sports turf industry, the Sports Turf Managers Association (STMA) developed the certification program for sports turf managers.

The STMA firmly believes that a combination of education and experience are necessary to be the best possible athletic field manager. However, it also recogizes that in a profession as diverse as the sports turf industry, experience should play a major role.

In order to successfully gain certification, you must meet certain education and/or experience requirements. These requirements were set to establish minimum criterion for becoming certified. You will notice, however, that there is a strong leaning toward experience as a sports field manager. For example, it is possible to be certified without having any formal education beyond high school if you have enough years of experience. You can not, however, become certified by virtue of education alone.
