

KEITH BRAMAN, IRRIGATION CONSULTANT, will be conducting specialized courses IN LARGE TURF ROTORS and REMOTE CONTROL VALVES at selected locations throughout the Bay Area this winter. These courses are designed to give "the man in the field" specific information in construction, principles of operation, and maintenance of rotors and remote control valves by brand and model number.

The Rotor Course, LTR-1 covers theory of irrigation, application vs. infiltration rates, proper uniformity of coverage, and cam, ball, arm impact and turbo-gear drives; their strong points and limitations; how to disassemble, repair and adjust them. Such subjects as run-off, over and under water pressure problems, non-uniform application, dry spots, "doughnuts", etc. are covered. Test methods and remedial procedures are discussed in detail.

The Remote Control Valve Course, RCV-1, covers hydraulic "Normally open" and "Normally closed", electric and "TH" valve. Both piston and diaphragm types are discussed. Trouble-shooting is emphasized in a logical step-by-step process. Problems such as valve "hangs" open, will not open, or will not fully open, will not close, or will not shut off completely are traced hydraulically or electro-hydraulically. Electric and hydraulic pilots are also examined. Electrical terms, circuitry and troubleshooting are thoroughly covered. Inexpensive test equipment and meters are discussed and demonstrated.

In both courses students are furnished workbooks with cut-away drawings and complete trouble-shooting charts which can be referred to on the job. Controller programming is discussed at great length.

Each course is two full days (Tuesday and Wednesday of the same week) from 9:00 a.m. till 4:00 p.m. with an hour off for lunch. One class each of LTR-1 and RCV-1 is scheduled at different weeks but during the same month. There will be classes during the months of January, February, and March. Each student can take one course for $75.00 or both courses for $140.00.

Interested parties should contact Keith Braman at (408) 353-1584 or write to KETH BRAMAN, IRRIGATION CONSULTANT, 21535 Stage Coach Road, Los Gatos, CA 95030
