Silver Creek Valley Golf Course Host Superintendent: Nick Checklenis

The Course: Silver Creek Valley Golf Course is a private facility designed by Ted Robinson. The first nine holes opened in September 1992; the second nine, in July 1993. The developer is Shea Homes. Nick Checklenis, our host superintendent, came on board in September '92 when the first nine opened. He has completed several major projects in his year and a half at Silver Creek, some of which were quite unique. For example, he is currently in the process of building a 5,000 sq. ft. herb garden for the club chef and a wedding site by the $1 million waterfall on #18. There are only three holes that parallel each other on the course. The rest wrap around a mountain and the housing project. "Silver Creek looks more difficult than it is," Nick says, "play it straight."

The Superintendent: Nick Checklenis has had an interest in the game of golf since he was a youngster. His grandfather is in the nursery business. These things helped to spawn his interest in making the golf industry his career.

Nick's first job in the industry was at Sunnyvale Municipal when he was just out of high school. He then moved to the Los Altos Country Club. He learned much in his five years under Mike Simpson. While at Los Altos, he attended Foothill College at night and earned a two-year degree in Ornamental Horticulture. Working for Shea Homes has been rewarding. Nick feels they back him strongly, and they provide a good budget to maintain the course.

A California native, Nick was raised in Sunnyvale. He has been a member of GCSANC and GCSAA since 1987. He was recently married in Greece.

Castlewood Hosts 2nd Annual Scholarship/Research Tournament

The GCSANC Annual Scholarship/Research Tournament was held June 20th at Castlewood Country Club in Pleasanton. A brief meeting was held prior to lunch. Rich Lavine, Vice President, presented P.J. Spellman with a scholarship. P.J. is attending Rutgers University and is most deserving. Rich detailed the focused direction of our Scholarship Program, as he has spent numerous hours fine tuning it.

Dr. Ali Harivandi summarized his research efforts based upon GCSANC's annual contribution to his research program. (See related article, page 2.)

A tasty bar-b-que lunch was served prior to the blind draw scramble tournament. This format was fun, to say the least. (See
