Training tips

by E.T. Wandtke

- Training your employees is difficult. If you are the owner of the lawn service or landscape company, you often are perceived as not really understanding what your employees go through each day.

When you look at your employees as you start the training, do you see just blank stares? Do you have trouble getting your employees into the training session? Here are some tips which will help you have more exciting customer service training sessions.

1) Start each training session by asking your employees questions which you will provide the answers to during the session. Getting your employees to focus on what you are saying can be accomplished by using an electronic speaker system. Some trainers have found that by speaking softly, employees will quiet down quickly.

2) Present a paragraph summary of what you will be covering in the training. Everyone is eager to know what will be covered. Don’t keep them in the dark.

3) When presenting ideas or suggestions, concentrate on the present and the future. These are the times when your audience will be applying your suggestions. Avoid references to the past, whether they be good or bad. Training is a forward directed development of your employees.

4) Visual aids keep employees attention and can serve to emphasize a specific point. Using a story to emphasize a specific point is an additional method of improving employee retention of the idea which you are making.

5) Keep the training session under one hour. The mind begins to wander if you stay too long on one topic. It’s better to have two training sessions of one hour each twice a week rather than one two-hour session once a week.
