Recession? What recession?
Busy as ever, Green Industry pros find talk of economic slowdown laughable
BY JASON STAHL

If you want to give Marty Grunder’s crew a good laugh, he suggests you tell them the economy is slowing down. Grunder, owner and president of Grunder Landscaping Co., Dayton, OH, says his crews are as busy as they’ve ever been despite talk of an economic slowdown.

“Our sales are $100,000 higher than they were last year, and our backlog is the same, too,” Grunder says. “We have three large projects we’re working on right now, and if they come through, we’ll have a record year.”

Grunder says he feels his company, which grossed $2.4 million last year and handles a lot of high-end residential accounts, can stand up to tough economic times better than a company that does primarily commercial work.

“Most of our residential clients have a combined gross income of $200,000, so even if they take a little hit, they’re still not going to cut their own grass. Their prize possession is their home.”

Jim Campanella, owner of The Lawn Dawg, Hudson, NH, says his company is behind where it wants to be this year, but it has nothing to do with the economy. “We’ve been trying to sell lawn care over the last two months with snow on the ground,” he says.

Still, he says his company is up 44% over last year and has had record sales over the last couple weeks in April due to rising temperatures. He’s doubled Lawn Dawg’s business every year since he started five years ago, and he expects the same this year with projected revenues of $3.3 million.

Rene West, president of Executive Landscaping, Pensacola, FL, says new residential installations are down slightly. In fact, his overall business is down in the first quarter. But he expects a better second quarter for his company, which grossed $2.7 million last year and has already sold $1.8 million this year.

Most of the maintenance work Total Landscape, St. Louis, MO, handles is for commercial properties, not expensive homes. Still, times are good. “We haven’t

“This name change allows us to create a larger vision of what John Deere Landscapes will become,” said John Jenkins, president of the Worldwide Commercial and Consumer Equipment Division. “Instead of serving just regional markets, John Deere Landscapes aspires to become a national supplier of products and services.”

DuPont withdraws Benlate

WILMINGTON, DE — DuPont announced that by the end of this year, it will stop selling the fungicide Benlate. On the market for 33 years, Benlate’s been criticized as a health risk. DuPont cited high legal costs for its decision.

Lesco reports drop in net sales

STRONGSVILLE, OH — Lesco, Inc. reported that first quarter net sales were down 8.3% compared to last year. The company said the drop in sales was due to a late spring over the northern two-thirds of the country, a severe drought in Florida and an increase in costs. For 2001, the company said it believes it will be able to report higher earnings than last year because of an increased presence in stores and a rebound in sales growth due to normal weather patterns.

Landscape Management, Golfdom, Turfgrass Trends win 17 TOCA awards

PHOENIX, AZ — The Advanstar Landscape Group collected 17 national Turf & Ornamental Communicators Association (TOCA) awards at the organization’s annual meeting held here last month. Landscape Management won six awards, including firsts for senior editor Ron Hall, managing editor Jason Stahl and associate publisher/executive editor Sue Gibson as well as merits for the entire staff. Senior graphic designer Jeff Landis also collected a first for TurfGrass Trends. Landscape Management’s sister publication, Golfdom, won 10 editorial and design awards, including firsts for Larry Aylward, Frank Andorka and Lisa Lehman as well as merit awards for Pat Jones, Kim Traum, Lisa Bochner, Frank Andorka and Larry Aylward.

In all, the group won 17 out of the 29 editorial and design awards for commercial publications.

“Although we’ve been honored to win many TOCA awards in the past, we’re serious about constantly improving Landscape Management,” Gibson said. “We believe one way to measure our progress is in professional awards programs like this one. That we’ve one several awards this year, against many worthy competitors, is a positive statement about our efforts and the professionalism of our staff.”

Scotts goes West

MARYSVILLE, OH — Scotts Lawn Care expanded westward by acquiring Chicago-based Liqui-Green in May and the lawn, shrub and tree business of Northern Lawns, Omaha, NB. Mark Long, vice president Scotts Lawn Service, said Liqui-Green’s six Chicago-area locations will be absorbed into Scotts’ three branches. Scotts will also be franchisor for Liqui-Green’s franchise locations. Regarding Northern Lawns, 21-year owner Dale Amstutz will stay on through early summer to help with the transition. In recent months, Scotts also acquired Green Valley, Kansas City, KS, and the lawn application business of Munie Outdoor Services, St. Louis, MO.
