FOOD TIPS FOR MOMS & TOTS

AN EVENT FOR POULTRY

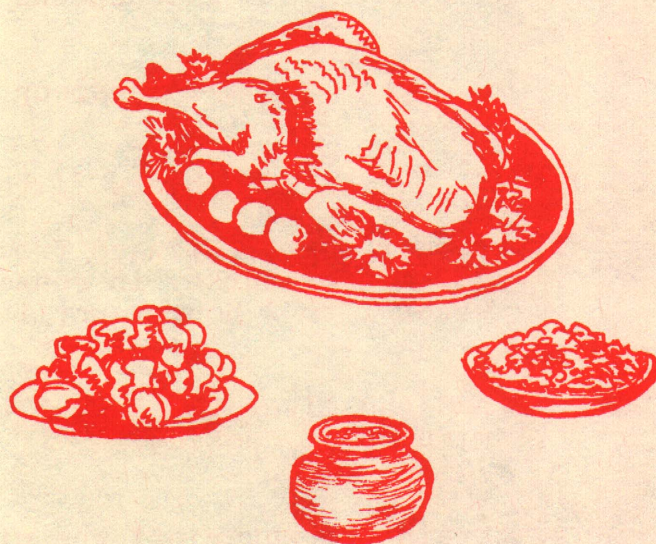

MOTHER -

The holidays are just around the corner -- time for turkey. But don't forget about whole chicken for those smaller families who get tired of turkey leftovers.

When buying either turkey or chicken, plan on 2 to 3 servings per pound.

Thawing a frozen turkey is safest if done in the refrigerator. It takes about 24 hours for every 6 pounds - an 18 pound turkey will take 3 days. Be sure to keep it tightly wrapped. If thawed at room temperature, be sure it is tightly wrapped with several layers of newspaper or placed in a doubled brown grocery bag, tightly sealed.

Do you know the difference between "stuffing" and "dressing"? Stuffing is placed inside a thawed turkey or other meat and cooked with it -- dressing is baked in a separate container. The food is the same.
