AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

"THE FARMER IS OF MORE CONSEQUENCE THAN THE FARM, AND SHOULD BE FIRST IMPROVED."

A. C. GLIDDLIN.

W. A. WARD.

THE FARMER IS OF MORE CONSEQUENCE THAN THE FARM, AND SHOULD BE FIRST IMPROVED.

The Department endeavors to make each issue a complete guide to all matters pertaining to the successful management of farms. It contains a large amount of new and valuable information, which is of the highest importance to farmers and to those engaged in the agricultural line of business.

The Department is published on the first and fifteenth of each month, and is sold by all leading jobbers in the country.

The subscription price is $1 per year, in advance.

To the Editor of the "Grange Visitor."

Dear Sir:

I wish to bring to your attention the fact that the Anti-Monopoly League has been formed in this State, and that it is now being actively carried on.

I have been a member of the League for some time, and I am doing all I can to help it succeed.

I am, therefore, asking you, in your capacity as Superintendent of the Agricultural Department of the Grange, to give it your fullest support.

Yours truly,

The Charter of a Grange for Good Cause, and the Secretary is the sole custodian of its records. The Master Woodman:

Wright Master and Members of the Michigan State Grange,

The following report of the Standing Committee on Agriculture was presented at the Eighth Session of the State Legislature, in October, 1880, for the information of the Members and the public.

The report of the Committee on Agriculture.

We have read a number of legal and other official reports, but none have been more instructive and interesting than this. The committee have labored hard, and their work is admirable. Their reports have been read with the greatest interest, and have been most flattering to the Grange. The committee have labored hard, and their work is admirable.

Communications.

For the "Visitor," One Cent a Word.

Said a Friend, "I would like to write a letter to the "Visitor," but I don't know what to say.

"Well," said another, "you might write that you are missing your friends and that you would like to hear from them.

"That's a good idea," said the first friend, "I'll write a letter to the "Visitor" and say that."
I become a power in the land, which is destined in a few short months to be the object of all who were willing to listen, that by the National Grange in its Declaration of Principles, the movement bids fair to be known in commercial, industrial, and professional circles. The movement is destined to become a great social of last week gave $25 net. That is to say, it was the most successful social ever given in this town, and it was held to raise funds, not for the convenience of the society, but for the convenience of the socials. The social of last week was held for the purpose of raising funds for the socials, and not for the convenience of the society. This was followed by some necessary work for the improvement of the social, and for the convenience of the society. The social was held for the convenience of the society, and not for the convenience of the socials.
The storm grew more and more severe, with a strong wind and falling snow. The passengers became restless and anxious, wondering when the train would arrive. The conductor assured them that the journey was almost complete, and they would be soon at their destination. As the train entered the station, the passengers breathed a sigh of relief, glad to have reached their goal in one piece.

The next day, after a short rest, we set out on a journey to a nearby village. The village was known for its beautiful scenery and lovely countryside. We spent the day exploring the area, enjoying the fresh air and clean surroundings.

On our return to the train station, we were greeted by the conductor, who thanked us for our patience and told us that we would be leaving for our next destination soon. We boarded the train again, knowing that we would soon arrive at our final destination.

The journey had been long and arduous, but we were grateful for the opportunity to visit such a beautiful place. We looked forward to seeing what the next day would bring and to continuing our exploration of the area.

and I am going to be as I am older. I have no idea what will take my fancy, but I'll have to do the best that I can. I don't think any very good reason for it either. I will not act as if I am making any plans for the future, for I try to do my best. Now, Uncle Sam, don't ask me any more questions. I will write you a letter only once.

A CENTURY OF SMART MACHINERY.

The Mechanic of three hundred years ago was the man who could make a plow or a harrow. The Mechanic of today is the man who can design, build, and operate vast and complicated machines.

Home and its surroundings should be attractive, pleasant, and inviting. Good books and papers should be available, and the garden should be a delight to the eye. The yard should be neat, with flower gardens, trees, and shrubs, which far exceed the value of costly objects.

The entire machinery of trade and commerce is impelled by the rural industries. Agriculture, mining, and fishing are the mainstays of the economy.

THE BUSINESS COLLEGE

The Business College is a place where students can learn valuable skills. It offers a variety of courses, including accounting, finance, and marketing.

Savings Banks are the cornerstone of our financial system. They provide a safe and secure place to save money.

THE CHAMPION BARBED WIRE

The Champion Barbed Wire Company is a leader in the production of high-quality barbed wire. Their products are used in a wide variety of applications, from fencing to construction.
