RED CROSS.

By Mrs. Mary M. McGraw.

A few College students yesterday visited the Red Cross office in the Hotelrop building to assist in tying bands. The bands are distributed through the Red Cross office in different parts of the city and are used in various ways. One of the most common uses is to tie around the leg of a male patient who is having his blood drawn. The band is then tied around the upper arm of the patient, and the blood is allowed to flow from the arm. This procedure is used to obtain blood for transfusion, for laboratory tests, and for other medical purposes.

We have had a spell of wild weather since the beginning of the season, and the crops are not in good shape. The wheat is green and the corn is only a foot high. The flowers are blooming and the birds are singing. The spring is here and the weather is pleasant. The crops are coming along well, and the farmers are busy with their work.

WHAT shall we make Farm life more attractive? A paper read before the Young Farmers' Gr. of P. B. by J. E. DAY.

Address of Welcome.

The GRANGE VISITOR.

MAY 15, 1882.

WE AGREE.

Some of the younger men and women who are with us today will be the leaders of the Grange movement in the near future. We believe the day is coming when the Grange will be as strong and powerful in the South and West as it is in the North. We are glad to see that the Grange is making rapid progress in many parts of the country. We are confident that it will continue to grow in strength and influence until it becomes a powerful force for good in all parts of the land.

THROUGH THE GRANGE VISITOR.

When the lazy men have rolled away

Resolved,

WE commend the following hit of the Pueblo (Col.) Populi:

"A doctor will set down and write a prescription: time, five minutes; paper and ink, one-fourth of a dollar; the dose must be taken every day, and the symptoms will not be cured before the next full moon." The question assigned to me assumes that there is a lack of attractiveness to farm life, and that for this reason many young people are leaving the farm. I think this is a mistake. The farm is an excellent place to live, and it offers many advantages that are not found in other occupations. For example, the farm is a good place to learn about the natural world, and to develop a respect for the land. It is also a place to learn about hard work and responsibility, and to develop a sense of accomplishment and pride in one's work. If you are interested in farm life, I would encourage you to explore it further and see if it is the right career for you.

When the lazy men have rolled away,

My dear young friend, the Grange is a great organization, and it offers many opportunities for young people. It is not only about farming, but it is also about socializing and making friends. It is a great place to meet other young people who are interested in the same things you are. I would encourage you to become involved in your local Grange and see what it can offer you. It can be a great experience that will last a lifetime.

When the lazy men have rolled away,

The Grange is an organization that is dedicated to improving the quality of life for all Americans. It is a great place to learn about the issues that affect our country, and to work towards finding solutions to those issues. If you are interested in being a part of a great organization that is making a difference, I would encourage you to become involved in the Grange.

When the lazy men have rolled away,

One of the great things about the Grange is that it is open to everyone. It does not matter what your background is or what your interests are, you can find a place for yourself in the Grange. It is a great organization that is made up of people from all walks of life. I would encourage you to find out more about the Grange and see if it is the right place for you.

‘Vester can’t do that errand and get back for twenty minutes. I will have some fun out of it,’ thought Tom.

‘It won’t be noticed there,’ argued Sylvest-er to himself.

Nonsense! The town agent knew that the old man would come on the smallest pretext when liquor was not... the old lady sav, ‘Try something else in the place of liquor; it is getting a hold that is strong on you.

‘Do you say you will, Vessie? inquired Uncle Sammy, taking a big pinch of snuff.

‘Vessie, why not?’ whined the old man giving a silly smile of entreaty.

‘You say I might go to the town agent? ‘But you see he don’t appreciate my—my peculiar difficulty.’

‘I know that is just so, and here goes an ear and eye, too; two ears and two eyes if I can accommodate myself to this small hole,’ thought Tom.

The St. Louis & Iron Mountain grant was abandoned by the company, but the lands for 20 miles each side of the line first proposed are not open to the settler.

‘Brooks.’

‘Why’ what have you taken? Let me examine the jug. Nonsense, this is all right. It’s ginger tea—pretty, pretty strong, that’s so. But, Samuel, now, you be sensible. Whosent it?’

During the brief discussion pending the effort to place the bill upon its immediate passage, it was stated that this bill had the approval of the Commissioner of Patents.

On reporting the bill, Mr. Caswell for the committee made an earnest effort to secure immediate passage. If the House manifested at the time the bill was reported, it seems more than probable that this may be done.

Why is it that our American Women are not fit for life or are they fit for work? There are only a few who can deny that the women of this country have made great strides in the past, and are making a greater stride now. They are no longer content with being merely housewives and mothers, but they are striving to be useful in other ways as well.

In old times they did not drink tea and coffee, but now they do. They did not read newspapers or study history, but now they do. They did not travel, but now they do. They did not vote, but now they do. They did not write, but now they do.

Women have made great improvements in the field of education. They are no longer content with being merely housewives and mothers, but they are striving to be useful in other ways as well. They are no longer content with being merely housewives and mothers, but they are striving to be useful in other ways as well.

There is a great deal of progress to be made, however. Women must continue to work hard to gain the rights that they deserve. They must continue to fight for equal rights in all fields, and they must continue to be active in politics.

In conclusion, it can be said that women are not fit for life. They are fit for work, and they are making great strides in the field of education. They are no longer content with being merely housewives and mothers, but they are striving to be useful in other ways as well. They are no longer content with being merely housewives and mothers, but they are striving to be useful in other ways as well.
Dear Young People,—The space allotted to us is so much filled this time, that there is only a few lines left for speaking to you. I am not going to propose a subject for you to write about, when all, everyone, to write about something in which you are interested, and all of which you have thought but cannot see, but in the one side, be as well known as I am, and will be known to me, of some one. There is nothing that will please me as much as a hit at something on which we have already set our feet. Was it only as a word of encouragement, and let us all do our best that we may feel it is merited.

Of course, you all enjoyed Little Hannah's Dream. I think "Sunflower" must have been studying that of the same. But do you consider the beauty, form, and color are things that need study? That in beauty is enjoyment? And you do not stop long enough to discover where the greatest beauty lies. Please write, write often, all write. If the "waste basket" sometimes receives something that is not worth the effort, that is not worth encouraging one. Try again and a little harder and you will come out victorious.

In history the mathematical part consists of dates, number of battles, and many other interesting statistics. After omitting this part there would be left the descriptive part. Mathematics.
