THE KING OF THE FLOCK

The new feed is very favorable to the sheep; it gives them more dinner and satisfaction than they have ever had before. It is a great improvement in the breed, as it will increase the yield of lamb and wool. Sheep will eat the feed with great avidity, and it is a wholesome and nutritious food for them.

The feed is prepared by the method of growing clover in the fall, and then allowing it to dry and cure. It is then cut into small pieces, which are mixed with a certain amount of straw, and pressed into cakes. These cakes are then fed to the sheep.

The sheep are also fed with a mixture of hay and straw, which is grown on the farm. The hay is cut in the summer and dried in the fall, and the straw is cut in the winter. These two feeds are mixed in equal parts, and are fed to the sheep.

The results of feeding this new feed have been very gratifying. The sheep have grown larger, and their wool has become finer and of better quality. The lambs have also increased in size and weight.

The feed is very economical, as it requires only a small amount of labor to prepare it. It is also a valuable source of income, as it can be sold to other farmers who are not able to grow clover.

The feed is recommended for all sheep, and is especially suitable for those on farms where clover is not available.

Communications.

The Editor of the Grange Visitor:

I would like to express my deep gratitude for the fine articles that have been submitted for publication in the Grange Visitor. It is clear that the magazine is well received and appreciated by its readers, and I am confident that it will continue to thrive and grow in the years to come.

I would like to see more articles on the history and development of the Grange movement, as well as on the various activities and benefits that the organization offers to its members. A strong emphasis on the importance of family and community is also essential, as it is this sense of belonging that binds us together and makes us stronger.

I look forward to seeing more of your excellent work in future issues of the Grange Visitor.

Sincerely yours,
