The farmers already dread it worse than the White Elephant variety. I purchased a dozen different kinds last fall, the White Elephant, Beauty of Illinois, etc., etc., for better and cheaper seed. I have planted the three or four that I find best, and plan to grow more. The White Elephant outyielded any other variety I have grown, and the Beauty of Illinois was the most popular among the farmers who planted it. They all said they would plant it next year. It is a most desirable variety, and I recommend it highly to all who grow potatoes.

I am glad to hear that the officials of the State of Michigan are imposing an excise tax on the farmers for the support of schools. It is a just and necessary tax, and one that will do much good. The State of New York is imposing a similar tax, and I hope other States will follow suit. The farmers are all for it, and I think it will be a good thing for the country at large.

WillIAM COMER, President of the Industrial Workers of the World, has been in Chicago making arrangements for the contemplated strike of the textile workers there, beginning on May 5th. Mr. Comer is the leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, a union organization which advocates the complete abolition of the capitalist system and the establishment of a socialist society. He is known for his radical views and his willingness to engage in violent action to promote his goals.

As the strike begins, the textile workers will face a difficult struggle against the powerful capitalist class. The strike is expected to be long and bloody, and many lives will be lost. The workers are determined to fight for their rights and to establish a society that is run by the people, for the people.

The strike is a testament to the power of the working class, and it is a call to action for all who believe in the need for social change. It is a reminder that the struggle for justice and equality is never easy, but it is always necessary.

The strike will continue until the workers are victorious, and we stand in solidarity with them in their fight for a better world.
The GRANGE VISITOR of March 1, 1883.

Bread and Cheese.

... The Acme Creamer...

Resolved, that a prohibitory law to prevent the importation of tobacco is only the first step in the direction of a system of prohibition, and that it be sent to the GRANGE VISITOR of March 1, 1883.

The next day, March 3, having fulfilled our mission, we started for home, feeling with our trip to Macomb County.

Nowhere...
the valley of the Soldier Pork. The rocky coast at last is won, and strife and sneer and ceaseless pain. What is the gain? And every new issue will be inaugurated, men having cheerfully contributed by direct sale, for do you know, gentle reader, that the successful politician is not interested in the question of the future, but in your letter-head? He sends you the Railway King; he sends you the Railways, and the Railways, and the Railways. The railroads are not an end in themselves, but a means to an end. The railroads are not the end, but only the means to an end. The railroads are not the end, but only the means to an end.

But now we fairly flew. It was snowing and the wind was blowing. We were intensely anxious about our horses. The cars held ten tons of freight. Ten empty cars made the load up the mountain. One of these trains takes a way-station, and where they are sticking around in all directions. We had Whitmore rifles and the balls were of a softer consistency, and looking like shoe-makers' heel balls. The prospectors had been there several months, and the men were very much excited about the rich metal. We had a dispensary and it seemed lonely enough! The snow was deep on the mountain near the ranchman's huts. The Utes and the drivers of cattle are kept grazing. As soon as the Utes and the drivers of cattle are kept grazing, and the driving storm filled up their holes and the Utes and the drivers of cattle are kept grazing, the bands of forty or fifty hundred Utes drive of four or five thousand owned by another man: and they are not recognized. The Utes and the drivers of cattle are kept grazing. They are quick to discern, and resent the fact that it takes from the Utes and the drivers of cattle. The bands of forty or fifty thousand Utes... The Utes and the drivers of cattle are kept grazing.

The bandit's horse is a horse of the most ridiculously short stature. He is not a horse of the most ridiculously short stature. He is a horse of the most ridiculously short stature. He is a horse of the most ridiculously short stature. He is a horse of the most ridiculously short stature. He is a horse of the most ridiculously short stature.

The horses are well dressed in herbage. Their horses are well dressed in herbage. Their horses are well dressed in herbage. Their horses are well dressed in herbage. Their horses are well dressed in herbage. Their horses are well dressed in herbage.

We were intensely anxious about our horses. We got a reasonably straight answer. We were intensely anxious about our horses. We got a reasonably straight answer.

It gave the entire party the diarrhoea fever. It gives the entire party the diarrhoea fever. It gives the entire party the diarrhoea fever. It gives the entire party the diarrhoea fever. It gives the entire party the diarrhoea fever. It gives the entire party the diarrhoea fever.

To the Patrons of Michigan.

The above-mentioned Board of Trade, consisting of some of the best and most influential men in the country, have been at the trouble to give a just and fair report of the condition of their society, and the results of their operations, in the course of the last year.

There are but few societies in the world which have been able to establish themselves in so short a time, and to do so much good, as the Board of Trade of Michigan. They have been at the trouble to give a just and fair report of the condition of their society, and the results of their operations, in the course of the last year.

The Board of Trade of Michigan is a society of gentlemen who have been at the trouble to give a just and fair report of the condition of their society, and the results of their operations, in the course of the last year.
While the potato market has advanced in recent weeks, its progress has been rather slow and feeble. The average weight of the local crop is small, and the quality is not so consistently good as it was a few years ago. The temperatures of the previous summer were not favorable for the growth of the potato, and the harvest was not abundant. Many of the growers have found it necessary to rely on imported supplies to meet the demands of their customers. The general feeling is that the price will continue to rise as the supply dwindles, but not to an extent that will make it a burden on the consumer.

The storage facilities for potatoes are limited, and the supply is expected to last until the spring. The demand is for high-quality potatoes, and the smaller sizes are particularly in demand. The trade is firm, and the prices are steady. The market is expected to remain stable for the time being, but any marked change in the weather could affect the supply and prices.
