Our readers may have observed that the Orangeis of September brought to us the sound of the application for publication of the Order. We are now in receipt of the issue of the Order, which contains the following letter to its subscribers:

"My dear Brother, please be kind enough to subscribe to the Order for the present year, at a cost of five cents per copy, which will be added to the subscription price of the Monthly Magazine. We are printing a new edition of the Order, which will be published in a few weeks, and will be sent to our subscribers as soon as it is ready. We have also arranged to have a new edition of the Monthly Magazine, which will be published shortly. We are hoping to make this a successful year for the Order, and we are confident that our subscribers will support us in our efforts. We shall be glad to receive your subscription, and we shall do our best to make this a good year for the Order."

We will be glad to receive your subscription, and we shall do our best to make this a good year for the Order. We shall be glad to receive your subscription, and we shall do our best to make this a good year for the Order.

My dear Mr. B——:

I am sorry to hear of your illness, and I hope you will get well soon. It is not often that we have an opportunity to do a good deed, and I think it would be pleasant to be able to help you out of your difficulty in some way. If there is anything I can do for you, please let me know.

Yours truly,

Mrs. P. F. Peck, Chair.

Meeting held at Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 21, 1882.

In the last number of the Grange News, you were good enough to mention your intention of purchasing a writer's guide, and to ask for advice as to the best for that purpose. To those who enjoy the labor of the pen and the brain, there is in the market a very good one, just published, which is suited for all the purposes of a writer. It is called the "Writer's Guide," and is published by the "Pleasant Valley Press," at the price of two dollars. It is a work of great merit, and is well adapted to the wants of writers who are desirous of improving their style and language. It contains a large number of exercises in composition, and is intended to aid the student in the study of the various branches of literature. It is a work of great value, and is highly recommended by those who have used it. We have no doubt that it will be found a valuable aid to writers in the production of such works as the "Grange News."
THE ORANGE VISITOR.

NOVEMBER 13, 1863.

STATEMENT OF THE MASTER OF THE NATIONAL GRANGE OF THE PIONEERS.

Patriotism—As never before, is abroad in the land. The grangers of America with one voice are united in their devotion to the Union, and the preservation of the precious rights which make the American Republic great. The leaders of the opposing parties have, it is true, succeeded in creating a division among the people, and in gaining a temporary ascendancy over the national councils. But the great majority of our citizens have resolved to maintain the integrity of the nation, and to resist in battle every attempt to divide the people of the United States. It is a matter of high importance, and of great policy, that every citizen should be made acquainted with the facts and duties of his position. To this end, the editor of the Orange Visitor is happy to announce that he will publish a series of articles on the subject, which will be based upon the latest statistics and reports of the national government.

TRANSPORTATION.

The United States government is making rapid progress in the construction of public works, and is doing its best to improve the thoroughfares of the country. The Secretary of War has already issued several orders for the construction of roads, and the work is to be carried on under the direction of competent engineers. The government has also issued a circular, which contains the instructions for the payment of the laborers employed in the construction of the roads. The circular is to be published in the next number of the Orange Visitor, and is to be read by all who are interested in the work.

EDUCATION.

The educational system of the United States is one of the greatest of its kind in the world. The government has taken every possible step to make the education of its citizens as complete and as free as possible. The system is to be improved by the introduction of new methods of instruction, and by the establishment of new schools. The work is to be carried on under the direction of competent educators, and is to be supported by the government.

GRANGE HALLS.

The grangers of the United States are doing all in their power to establish grange halls in every part of the country. The halls are to be used for the purpose of instruction, and are to be furnished with all the necessary apparatus for the purpose. The government is doing its best to promote the establishment of the halls, and is to be commended for its efforts.

THE GLAD HAND.
