THE FARMER IS OF MORE CONSEQUENCE THAN THE FARM, AND SHOULD BE FIRST IMPROVED.

WILLIAM ALLEN RUSSELL, Editor.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Roadmaking.

Not only is it desirable but profitable to consider that the farmer is the most benefited, while, judging from the way he pays his highway tax, he is the least disposed of having them.

A constant mistake in improving our rural roads is the over-riding idea that the farmer should bear the entire cost of road work. This is hardly fair and is not consistent with the spirit of our present system of national and state aid. The farmer in this matter is in the same position as any one else who may desire to improve a roadway for public use. He has, therefore, a right to benefit from the result of the work he does, as well as from the result of the work done by others.

. It was highly gratifying to be greeted by the approaching gray waters, which were already beginning to show signs of the coming of spring. The sun was shining brightly, and the air was fresh and invigorating.
It was a most delightful experience.

The boat was a small, skiff-like craft, and the crew consisted of two men, who were expert in their work. The boat was well equipped with the necessary articles for a short journey, and the men were keenly interested in the work they were undertaking. They were well supplied with provisions, and the day was bright and sunny.

As the boat moved across the water, the crew began to talk about the many interesting sights they had seen on their previous trips. They told stories of the beautiful scenery
that lay ahead,
and of the different animals
they had seen.

THE GRANGE VISITOR.

THOMAS H. Custer, a very able and popular delegate from the State of Oregon, has been elected President of the American State Grange Convention, which opened at Hartford, Conn., last week.

The Convention had as its object the promotion of agricultural interests and the education of farmers, and it was attended by about 1,000 delegates from the various States. The main topic of discussion was the improvement of agriculture, and the delegates discussed a number of resolutions on the subject.

The Convention adjourned on the 6th of June, and the President, Mr. Custer, was re-elected for another term.

The next meeting of the Convention will be held in St. Louis, Missouri, in 1887.
