POSTAL SITUATIONS.

An open letter to our many friends and Patrons in the different parts of the State, asking for words of explanation, I receive every day letters in which they are asking me, in a most affectionate manner, to consider me as abandoned to them, and to take part in their various affairs at the Union Grange State Encampment, Rochester, N. Y., on the 9th instant.

We know that the first duty of a good farmer is to take the time to improve himself, and we have never been more anxious to assist in any way we can to bring back to our State, the respect of all those who have been so long absent from the State. We know that it is not in the best interests of our State that we should remain so long absent from it, and we have no doubt that those who have been absent for so long will, sooner or later, return to us to their own good.

When we look back at the past, we see that many of our State-granges have been abandoned, and that many of our State-granges have been formed. But we can see that the future is bright with hope, and that we can do much more for our State than we have done in the past.

We are informed that some of our State-granges have been abandoned, and that some of our State-granges have been formed. But we can see that the future is bright with hope, and that we can do much more for our State than we have done in the past.

I shall assume without argument that good instruction is of the utmost necessity at the present time. This fact is clearly demonstrated every hour which could arise would be, how shall one ever teach a child? In the first place, the methods of instruction should be such as to make the children's work as easy as possible. In the second place, the children should be taught to enjoy their work. In the third place, the children should be taught to think for themselves. It is clear that if the children are not taught to enjoy their work, they will not be taught to think for themselves. Therefore, the methods of instruction should be such as to make the children's work as easy as possible and at the same time give them the opportunity to think for themselves.

In my opinion, the best way to teach children is to make the work interesting and enjoyable. This can be done by providing a variety of activities, such as games, puzzles, and experiments. It is also important to make sure that the children have the opportunity to learn at their own pace. This can be done by providing a variety of materials, such as books, games, and puzzles. It is also important to make sure that the children have the opportunity to learn about the world around them. This can be done by providing a variety of experiences, such as field trips, visits to museums, and other educational activities.

MEMBERS of the Order throughout the State have marked the celebration of the National Grange, Patron of Husbandry, on October 27th. The occasion, in November next, in the city of Lansing, we think will be a very notable demonstration of the influence and efficiency of the Republican party. It will be the largest and one of the grandest demonstrations in the history of American politics. The convention will be addressed by speakers of great ability and prominence. The program will be of the highest order, and the visitors will be from all parts of the State. We believe that this will be an event of great importance in the history of the Republican party in Michigan. The Michigan Republican will come to Lansing next week, and we will send out a few copies of the paper to our friends in other parts of the State. We hope they will be interested in the proceedings of the convention.

Neither the Grange nor any other religious or intellectual endowments are just as good, useful parts of the city were filled by intellectual endowments. I have been told that the Grange and other Church on earth that I know be set apart for an office, or invested with sacerdotal functions, or installed in a prancing and dancing, and all to the good of the world, science, and better for the Church, and better for the Church, and better for the Church, and better for the Church.

A Few Thoughts on Newsletters

If one of the brethren wished to get his views before the public, it would be far more productive if he would be set apart for an office, or invested with sacerdotal functions, or installed in a prancing and dancing, and all to the good of the world, science, and better for the Church, and better for the Church, and better for the Church, and better for the Church.
