At State Grange.

At the National Grange sessions, the deposed conditions of the times, the seemingly dead current of dominant political parties, and the growing political sentiment of the farmers of the country houses of Michigan as an allusion of urgency for the legislature, the press, the farmers and best advisers, to exchange a friendly communication in regard to the needs of the times, the present condition of the roads, the high cost of living, the increase of taxation, and all matters affecting the welfare of the farmers and the peace and progress of our country.

The store fronts and windows were decorated with flags and bunting, and in some cases the grocers displayed large sheet emblems with suitable mottoes, while the Grosvenor and the New Grange made the employers lastly by the royal court, to the heads of the parties and assist it to fully understand all conditions.

Weeds.

With the letters given below we present the last of the replies to questions sent out by the Grange. It is to be hoped that the letters have been received by those to whom they were addressed. We trust the plan of having one commission of many who have been neglectful of destroying weeds, and in assisting to the last of the replies to questions sent out will prove as successful as those that have preceded it. The plan of having one of these commissions in each county will be glad to hear from any of our readers who may be able to promote a more fully organized effort for the systematic destruction of weeds, and we look forward to having a number of these commissions in each county.

The farmers in general think the weeds a grave evil, and they would like to see the law require them to do something toward exterminating weeds.

Weeds are found in almost every farm in this district. They take root and spread so fast it will be some time before we can cut them out. We find it necessary to roll the ground immediately after they are cut to prevent them from spreading.

It is not known what weeds have been the worst one of these weeds is the burdock. It is the worst we have to deal with. The burdock is a pernicious weed that we have to contend with. We would like to see the law require that all farms in the state be kept free from weed seed. We find it necessary to roll the ground immediately after they are cut to prevent them from spreading. We find that the burdock is a pernicious weed that we have to contend with.

Some think this is not bad to get cut the wild lettuce in cutting grain and it is deep, but they spread so fast it will be some time before we can get rid of them. They are found in almost every farm in this district. They take root and spread so fast it will be some time before they are cut out. Just as rapidly as possible we shall print in the Vermont the reports of officers and committees of the State Grange.

We publish the major portion of the address of the Worthy Master of the State Grange, as printed in pamphlet form, and we present Brother Horton will send copies to Granges desiring the full report.

We regret that extracts from the October bulletin of the Michigan Dairy and Food Commissioner have been repeatedly delayed in our columns. The November bulletin is now out, but State Grange matters crowded out arrests from the bulletin. We appreciate the good work the commissioner is doing, and desire to present to our readers the State Grange matters, but a crowning of our columns has unfortunately prevented it.

STATE GRANGE.
The delegates to the State Grange just held formed a strong body of men and women. It was noticeable that none of our most enthusiastic and least known farmers were present, though they were strongly urged. The committees were strong enough, and we think reports show the effort of sending strong delegates.

The reports from officers on the whole, encouraging; in spite of the hard times, seven new Granges were organized and ten reorganized during the year. The farmers in every county were present, but at the same time they are learning to appreciate the State Grange. As a whole, the work at the State Grange was good. We shall, from this point on, present a summary of reports of officers and committees, and endeavor to show to our readers in as vivid a way as possible the real value of the work of the State Grange. We believe that all will be equal to the board.

Not only were reports presented, but the resolutions were presented, and we were enabled to see that the resolutions were carried out. The work of the Grange is getting more and more important in every county.

There is one notable feature of the State Grange meeting that we wish to emphasize at this point, and that was the fact that all the reports, articles and letters contained good reports of the meetings, and in all the prominent dailies the State Grange was editorially men- tioned in connection with some petition of action. We refer to the fact that we have yet failed to see an instance during the past week in which the State Grange was not mentioned in some respect. Several of the measures by the daily papers asked for by the last State Grange were before the pure food law, and the tax statistics law have been highly recommended editorially by influential daily papers. We regard this as of at important. It shows that the methods of transparent discussion, conservative action, have won the respect of all classes of people. This ought to make it comparatively easy to secure the facts in matters of legislation. When all honest people realize the value of it, it will mark a new era in agricultural education.

THE GRANGE VISITOR.

earnest, enthusiastic work in establishing and building up the Granges in their early days, is given in June and was stimulating a large interest in the Order. The president, Mrs. E. C. Holden, stated that she will be at the Grange University, where the Agricultural College, working upon the problem of the child and the farmer, and presented a report of the work of the Committee on Education. Mr. W. K. Butterfield submitted a report on the German flag. A little boy had been taught to salute those who are pure and clean. It would be a great help to the children if they were taught to be pure and clean. The children would be taught to value their country and their flag.

On the report of the committee of the National Grange, Mrs. Hinds read the following:

"The report of the committee of the National Grange, entitled "The Work of the National Grange," was adopted. Among the many good points in the report, the following is quoted: "The work of the National Grange is expanding, and it is the wish of the committee to continue the work.""

The Dairy Farm.

Bulletin Missouri Station.

The dairy farm is the practical treatise on "Stock Breeding," Chap. IV, devoted to the practical methods of acquiring and maintaining the dairy herd.

The author believes that among these breeds, the Jersey is the most desirable. His conclusion is based on the fact that the Jersey is a hardy breed, capable of withstanding the rigors of the climate of the North, and that it is capable of producing milk of high quality.

The Jersey is a close cousin to the Shorthorn, but differs from it in several important respects. It is smaller in size, with a more compact body, and a finer head. The udder is larger, and the milk is of superior quality. The Jersey is also a better producer of butter, and is more resistant to disease.

The author believes that the Jersey is a better breed for the dairy farm in the northern United States, and that it should be given a more prominent place in the dairy herd.

Webster's International Dictionary

The dairy farm is a chapter on the chemistry of cattle feeding, with tables and formulas for the calculation of rations, and a discussion of the relative amount of feeding value of the different feeds in the dairy cow.

These experiments indicated a considerable advantage in feeding gluten meal, rather than linseed meal, for the two feeding trials, as the gluten meal contained more protein, and was more digestible.

Arms, coal, and cutters also, with other implements at prices to suit the farmers. Address A. W. B. ANDERSON, D. L. M., Eureka Washing Machine Co., Eureka, I. M. D.

The Grange Visitor...

The friends of the neighbors of Mrs. Emory J. Holmes, living at 2200 N. W. side of the town of Indian River, in Pleasant Grove school district, an excellent school, is in full swing, and the community is making good fortune. She was most agreeably surprised. It is a few years ago by receiving a handsome—

Gold from Sunlight.

Of course! And now of course I'm—
