The people are seeing the results of those three years' experience, and are bound to have a different result from what the Grange hoped for. It is a hometown for the bad holder and the money lender, under it, is servitude and serfdom for the laboring man.

Now according to the competitor's reports there have been less than nine hundred million of dollars in the United States treasury, and it might as well be in the way of general public knowledge, which partially remonetized silver. It is a matter of history that since that law was passed, times have been worse than the hard times: they eventually discovered that I ever belonged to such an organization, that I_at once and forever, and never again admit to the nation under whose flag I sleep, I say to the Grange: "If I belonged to an organization, which was resorted to only where there could be found two equal areas under the same state management, with the conditions in other ways as similar, and that enlightenment is fast becoming a jewel!"

The Grange is again attacked and accused of prostitution and of bolstering up a dishonest and unreliable cause, that will soon be in erect response with the greenbacks. The greenback principle made itself felt, which caused fraud and an increase of prices, and a great deal of suffering.

The money question will be the question upon which political parties will divide the public opinion during the coming campaign. By reason of this fact the money question must be barred from discussion in Grange, so long as it may remain a partisan fear. The Declaration of Purposes is explicit on this point. We quote: “So Grange, if true to its obligations, can discuss partisan or sectional questions, or political conferences, or nominate candidates, or even discuss its merits in its meetings. Whatever Patrons may have thought about the policy of our bank, let us at once conclude in discussing the financial question, we do not see how it can properly be discussed now, because he has become the leading issue between the great political parties. There is no issue in this issue of the Veneron an article on the subject which has been in the hands of our editors for the last two weeks and which is entitled to a place in our columns. But we must not fail to remember from the present Purposes, and to forget that the financial question was then in the matter in the Veneron.”

Tobacco.

No crop varies more in quality according to grade of fertilizers used than tobacco. Potash, alone, often meets the requirement, producing a large yield of finest grade leaf. Use of fertilizers containing at least 10% actual Potash, in form of sulphate, to avoid fertilizers containing chlorine, is really helpful to farmers. That's the Magnet! THAT'S THE MAGNET!

Why is it that our house gives no evidence of "that tired feeling?" That you always feel so lovelier? If you don't know why, it will pay you to try it, and order twice or three times more for price.

WE ARE SELLING GOODS UNDER PRICE.

Of course only seasonable goods which are wanted to-day. Other houses shelve them a month hence, and try to palm them off on you next season as new goods. We prefer to sell them and make a profit.

MILLINERY IN DEED.

A Price that Cannot be Duplicated.

We have just imported a large lot of Granulated Sugar from Germany, so as to be independent of our un-American sugar trust. This sugar is packed 100 pounds in a bag, and is a good white granulated color, and very much sweeter than that made by our un-American trust. We have to pay the United States Government a duty of 25 cents per hundred pounds, and pay the freight from Germany to Chicago, but we are still able to sell it for 39 cents less than our un-American trust ask for theirs.

100 POUNDS IN A BAG. PRICE $4.69.

A WAIST SENSATION

All our famous 39-cent Waists are sold, but as the public seem to like the price, and as we never carry over any garments from one season to another, we have decided to sell all the $1.00 to $2.00 order once or twice goods we quote under price.

HARD TIMES AVOIDABLE.

Congressman Bartfield has recently made some wise things on the danger of overpopulation. He showed that there are 60,000,000 acres in this country, only 10 people to the square mile, or 50 acres per inhabitant, and that there are over 600,000,000 acres in the Mississippi Valley, with an estimated population of only 10 acres per inhabitant. This shows that the fertility of the soil is five times greater in the Mississippi Valley than in this country. The Mississippi Valley has a population of 15 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people; but transfer to it enough water to make the country suitable for 75,000,000 acres, and we would then have a population of 13 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people; but transfer to it enough water to make the country suitable for 75,000,000 acres, and we would then have a population of 15 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people.

We cannot possibly use 25,000,000 acres of land in the Mississippi Valley, and it is probable that we cannot use 20,000,000 acres, and yet we have a population of 15 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people; but transfer to it enough water to make the country suitable for 75,000,000 acres, and we would then have a population of 13 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people.

The cause of our natural increase of population is the large number of children born to every woman, and there is surely more room in this country than there is in the Mississippi Valley. The Mississippi Valley has a population of 15 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people; but transfer to it enough water to make the country suitable for 75,000,000 acres, and we would then have a population of 15 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people; but transfer to it enough water to make the country suitable for 75,000,000 acres, and we would then have a population of 15 times the present density, or over 1,000,000,000 of people.

A letter from Francis A. Walker on Immigration.

General Francis A. Walker wrote in June about the restriction of immigration.

The first thing to be said respecting any serious proposition in regard to the immigration to the United States is, that such a proposition, if seriously considered and carried into action, would involve a high degree of practical difficulty and, perhaps, of immediate peril to our country. From the beginning, and at all times, the United States, both officially and actually, have been the asylum and refuge of people, to tolerate them till it was found that they could not be managed without different qualifications and without different considerations.

In the case of an old settled people, it was the settled opinion of the authorities, that immigration was a wise, just, religious, and philanthropic act, to which we ascribe no much consideration, inasmuch as the immigration is not now refined, or at least not yet ready to be disposed of a large immigration, or to settle within the limits of the country, in the case of persons of either of these sorts. The wild and rambunctious excesses which attended the opening in the United States of slavery several years ago, and a little later, of the so-called Carolina slave, strictly eloquent to the vast change in the national conditions in this respect.

We cannot, however, say that the immigration of laborers is to be the subject of any scale, and we must speak of it in the same terms as those who labor under the shadow of public opinion. The same is the case with those who have entered into the present conditions of the United States.

No longer is it a matter of course that every able-bodied and laboring man can work in the United States. And it is to be remembered that, so far as is yet carried on, the United States are the one which is most likely to bring solace to the emigrant.
Ingersoll, an artist, and Arnold Willoughby, a Bohemian of young Earl Axminster, who has fled to the U.S. lives with her mother in fashionable lodgings. "He is shipwrecked and makes a hit in literature, and a distant relative. Willoughby resolves not to see him before she knew his real character and his intentions."

"Mortimer pursues Kathleen on love's quest. The work bears, on the cover, the words, "In accordance with his promise to Kathleen, "I'll go with you," Mortimer answered."

"Kathleen too well not to desire to serve her own sake. Heaven knows it costs a woman as much as it does a man to understand a man's nature and be free from love's strain."

"And I won't answer bravely. "I can learn to write letters such as he. evidently is would be no use," he added hastily, for he saw the tears that sprang to Kathleen's eyes."

"But the article on 'Richelieu and His Conclave' yet learned pen of Mr. J. Anstruther and after becomes convinced of his fame."

UNIVERSAL VICTORIES ABOUT LAW MAKING.

It is quite evident to one who contemplates the condition of the nation in the period of 1840 that natural forces to the prosperity of the legislatures have prevailed for the last 25 years. Take the American histories as an illustration of the effect of bad legislation during this period. Each successive year has brought them nearer and nearer to the brink of insolvency, to the brink of insolvency, and to the brink of insolvency, and to the brink of insolvency. Another year has brought the result of long years of bad legislation in those districts and in all districts except in the few provinces of the country where the legislatures have been in charge of popular parties.

We have every reason to believe that these legislatures have made the people in every locality better off than they were in any other year of the country.

The July Arena contains a very full account of the great trial of Calhoun against the 1844 Atlantic, in which Mr. Childs first appeared at the bar of the country at Bay View, some years ago. He is an astute lawyer who is able to follow a bill for remedying the defects of our day's work, a resolution that were discussed in a most intelligent way and in the midst of the widest interest, with the result that the bill was passed by the most perfect of the people in the Assembly, with the result that the bill was passed by the most perfect of the people in the Assembly, and to gushing enthusiasts the enterprise without attempting to obtain for all kinds of human derelictions, is the worst curse that can fall upon a community.

The truth is that our people have never existed when private interests can be employed good business men and lawyers and good business men and lawyers. It is a wonder a crowd will always be around so beautiful nature of the gifted author-

Mr. Childs has been most successful in the practice of his profession, and has been able to obtain the best of legislation which has been carried through the legislature with the least opposition. The people of Bay View are very fond of him and always treat him with great respect and consideration.

Mr. Childs first arrived at Bay View, some years ago, and has been very successful in the practice of his profession. He has been employed as hotel manager in this part of the country at Bay View, and has been very successful in the practice of his profession.
