APPROVE PLAN TO STAGE DOG SHOW HERE NEXT DECEMBER

STATE GRADUATE MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR FIRST SHOW OF ITS KIND TO BE HELD ON CAMPUS.

Arrangements for a dog show to be staged at the Michigan State college in December were approved at a recent meeting of the M. S. C. Student Veterinary Association. The show will be staged under the auspices of this association, backed by the faculty of the veterinary division. Meeting the requirements of the American Kennel Club association, it will be officially recognized by this association, which will furnish the judges and all points won at the show will count toward a grand championship. It will be open to all breeds.

Preliminary steps for this show, which will be the first one of its kind ever staged at the college, were taken last year by Dr. Harvey Floge who graduated last year and is now practicing in Minnesota. Dr. Edward Pearson who is now taking postgraduate work in the veterinary school, and Carl Fox, a senior veterinary student.

During the past summer Mr. Fox visited Detroit, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Fals, Toledo, Cleveland, Toranzo, Battle Creek, Buffalo, Niagara and Hamilton. He called on the leading dog fanciers and everywhere received enthusiastic assurance of their support. He has found that local owners of thoroughbred dogs are especially interested and expects a large number of entries from Lansing and East Lansing.

Carl Fox, president of the M. S. C. Student Veterinary Association, has been appointed chairman of the finance committee and will be assisted by Dr. E. P. Hallman of East Lansing. Harry Downey, a senior veterinary student, will have charge of the program and of the entries. He will be assisted by Dr. E. A. Sales of East Lansing.

Committees were appointed to arrange a farewell banquet to be held at 20 for Dr. O. A. Taylor, assistant professor of physiology and pharmacology, who will leave the college Nov. 1. Dr. Taylor will return to Detroit to practice veterinary medicine with Dr. Armstrong, with whom he was associated before coming to the Michigan State college. Freshman students of the veterinary division will be formally welcomed at this banquet.

George E. Sturm will have charge of the invitations. The committee on arrangements will be composed of Channing Blatchford, Harry Downey and Clarence Wallquist. Other committee members are: Curtis Betty, music; Carl Fox, speakers; Robert Armstrong, decorations and seating.

Attention coats, Velvet, satin and pants $8.00 to $12.00. $16.00 $20 Washington ave.

FIRST DIVISIONAL CONVOCATION OF YEAR WELL ATTENDED WEDNESDAY MORNING

First divisional convocation of the year was held Wednesday morning in the various campus buildings. All divisions have reported a large attendance.

Experiences of an Engineer After He Leaves College was the interesting subject chosen by Dwight Randall of Detroit in his address to the engineers of Michigan State Wednesday morning. Mr. Randall described the things that were expected of a graduate of the engineering course and lived his talk with a large number of personal anecdotes from his own experiences. Mr. Randall is very well qualified to speak on such a subject, since he has specialized in engineering work since his graduation from the University of Illinois in 1925.

Dr. Bishop at Science Conso.
There are three or four things I would do in repeating my college career," stated Dr. Edwin W. Bishop, who took on "What An Old Grad Would Do if He Went to College Again." "First I would try to squeeze out the full joy that each day brings, since college is the most precious time of life. Second, I would study before college life, since education is not the accumulation of knowledge but the training of the mind to make you capable of overcoming life's problems the better. Third grades are followed by successful business life. Third, I would make a great deal of friendship. It is an important thing kind of a crowd student gets into. Fourth and last, I would try to win character, the most important advantage to be gained from college life."

Problems of Arts Division.
Liberal arts is the lusty child of the college, in that the enrollment is now over 600 at the beginning of the second year of its existence. Our problem is to make its growth sound." Dean Ryder said in his address to the liberal arts division. Attention officers! Riding boots in black and tan, $18.00. Saddle, down to $10.00.

ELECT MCPHERSON FROSH PRESIDENT

Council President Gives Rules and Information Concerning Class Rush.

Donald McPherson of Lowell was elected president of the freshmen class at a meeting held Wednesday evening in Olds Hall.

Other officers elected include Margaret Hubbard, Detroit, vice-president; Esther Darling, Highland Park, secretary; and Forest Hubert, Plymouth, treasurer.

Harry Wakefield, president of the Student Council, presided and organized the class for the annual Fresh-Soph rush to be held tomorrow morning. He was assisted by a number of junior men who will act as referees in the rush.

R. O. T. C. SPONSORS VOTED ON SOON

One Co-ed Colonel and Three Majors to Be Elected.

Nominations for R. O. T. C. sponsors were made at a meeting of the officers' club held at the armory Monday night. Elections for the candidates will take place in the near future.

Sponsorship in the R. O. T. C. is considered one of the highest honors which can be conferred upon an undergraduate. One co-ed is elected colonel of the corps, and three others are elected as majors of the three respective units.

Those nominated were: Colonel of corps, Miss Mary MacKinnon, Miss Millicent Clark, and Miss Florence Pangborn; infantry sponsor, Miss Margaret Zachariah, Miss Ruth Norton, and Miss Corrine Backus; artillery sponsor, Miss Margaret Foote, Miss June Ranney, and Miss Margaret Leanders; cavalry sponsor, Miss Anne Laurie Walls, Miss Jean Hornung, and Miss Marion Crosby.

ECONOMICS TO USE OLD HORT BUILDING

With the completion of the new Horticultural building, the former headquarters, east of the Woman's building, has been assigned to the economics department. As soon as the offices and classrooms can be fitted up, the entire staff, including extension, research, and teaching members, will take possession.

Following the singing of "America" led by Professor Clark, the dean explained the new buildings, concerning absences and dropping of subjects.

Dean John Phelan explained a number of the qualifications for teaching and mentioned that the college is now as well fitted as any to turn out good teachers in science and the arts. Six courses in education are now required by the college before a degree can be obtained permitting the student to teach in Michigan. Graduates are now to be placed in schools by college officials.

Dr. Mumford explained different phases of the science of sociology and pointed out that sociology is coming into use in agriculture and urban field as well as teaching.

Present and Future of Agriculture.
There has been a depression in agricultural education since 1920. People are now beginning to wonder what is ahead in agriculture, but there has been an accomplished almost complete recovery as far as the economic situation goes. Thus simply the situation was stated by Dean R. S. Shaw in his talk to the agricultural division. "Now education is on the decline," the dean continued, "and there has taken place a decline in enrollment in most institutions of this kind, but M. S. C. has not suffered. When complete recovery comes, it means a future demand for people trained in agriculture."

Home Economics and Vet.
Miss Marian Spratt of Lansing gave a very worthwhile talk to the home economics division on the "Methods of Saving." Miss Spratt is a very capable speaker and handled her subject in a manner that was very pleasing to the members of the division.

The lecture room of the new Bacteriological building was the scene of the first veterinary convocation at which Dr. Halladay and Dr. B. J. Killoran, state veterinarians, were speakers. The lectures were especially interesting from a "vet's" point of view and proved both instructive and profitable to those in attendance.

T. S. CROSSMAN COMES AS AG ASSISTANT

Formerly Ohio State Assistant Agricultural Editor.

John S. Crossman, a graduate of the University of Cornell, has been added to the staff of the publications organization of the Michigan State college. He comes to M. S. C. as assistant agricultural editor of the extension division.

Mr. Crossman was an agricultural student at Cornell and specialized in journalism. He graduated in 1924 and took a position with a Michigan daily paper doing farm page work. He was connected with the Ohio State university for one year as assistant agricultural editor.

James Gamble, who came to M. S. C. this year as program director for the college radio station, is also an assistant on the staff of the publications organization and his work has to do with advertising outside of the field of agriculture.

State News Charleston Party In Big Gymnasium This Evening

Tonight's the night! With Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hasselman and Prof. and Mrs. A. H. Nelson as patrons, the Michigan State News dance featuring the Charleston with A. G. Wesson and Miss Virgine Simmons is all ready for Michigan State students.

While the Charleston dance is to be taught in a half-hour free dancing lesson, and while Mr. Wesson and his partner will give a special demonstration of this dance those attending will in no way be obliged to learn the dance or need they even come under its rhythmic influence.

Decorations will not play the major part of the dance for it is in the orchestra that real pleasure is to be found. The decorations committee promises something novel and effective. Four flood lights have been procured to furnish the color lighting.

Charleston entertainers with their eight-piece orchestra are all set to dish out their modern melodies. The orchestra is fortunate enough to have with its members a real entertainer who can sing laughter out of anyone who hears him.

In securing the gymnasium, the dancers are assured ample room for dancing. Those who have not purchased tickets from State News staff members may get them at the door this evening.

I'M GOING BUT NO CHARLESTON FOR ME

Dear Mr. Charleston:
My mother told me to get lots of exercise when I got to college. The Sophomores have been training me for track every evening, but now I feel obliged to get rhythmic exercise.

I don't know how to do this thing,

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU NOW IN OPERATION

Bureau to Keep Schedule Card of Each Applicant for Jobs.

The employment bureau of the M. S. C. Union is now functioning under the management of G. L. Wilkins.

Later, however, the telephone operator of the Union exchange will handle all calls for help thus saving time for both the persons needing help and the student wishing employment.

The plan of the bureau is to have every applicant fill out a schedule card and file it with the manager. When the applicant is sent out on a job he will fill out a blank, the stub of which he takes to his employer. This stub is filled out by the employer and mailed to the bureau giving information as to whether or not the work was satisfactory.

The purpose of establishing the bureau is to take care of the long waiting list and also to get a good line on all men wanting permanent jobs.

HOLD TRY-OUTS FOR UNION VAUDEVILLE

Amateur Actors Who Aspire To Stardom Should Come Around Next Thursday.

Try-outs for the second Union vaudeville to be given at the Gladwin theater February 4, 5 and 6 will be held Thursday evening, Oct. 15, in the Union building, according to K. M. Scudder, general chairman of the production.

A number of clever acts are already in the making, but the committee in charge is open to suggestions and requests that those having ideas communicate with Mr. Scudder at the Eukonon house or with June Ranney at the Alpha Phi house.

Last year some of the finest material came from the freshmen class and the committee expects that the class of 1925 will produce an equal number of amateur actors.

Committee heads include Kenneth M. Scudder, general chairman; Russell VanMeter, publicity; Gordon Hagadorn, stage; Raymond Riggs, program; and June Ranney, personal.

ADD INSTRUCTOR TO STATE ART DIVISION

Miss Martini Assumes Art Duties; Advertising Course Popular

Increased interest and enrollment in the art classes of the department of drawing and design has necessitated the addition of a new instructor, Miss Frieda Martini, formerly an instructor in the West Junior high school at Lansing.

Miss Martini studied at the Michigan State Normal school at Ypsilanti, in the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts, and at Michigan State college, where she took a summer school course. Along with her teaching in the drawing and design department, Miss Martini is also studying for a degree.

Much interest is being shown among art students in advertising work, according to instructors in that department. Students enrolled in the course are taking the preparatory course necessary for commercial advertising.

WOLVERINE CHANGE PICTORIAL POLIC

Chief Pictures to Portray Hum Interest Scenes.

A complete change in the pictorial policy of the 1925 Wolverine is the latest improvement to be announced. Norval Tyrrell, editor-in-chief.

In the past all the pictures have been of the scenic type—portraits, beauty, from the standpoint of man. This year the views will be of a human interest type showing college life in its different phases together with pictures of a humorous and i-tive nature.

Charles Bowen, of the Detroit Studio, arrived on the campus Monday morning to commence work. He took several pictures of the campus and a few personal interest snaps. He will be here at different times during the fall and winter obtain pictures.

It will be remembered that Bowen is a nationally known photographer. Because of his ability in his success with the University Washington's annual in 1922 it is expected that the scenic section of Wolverine will be the best ever.

Individual photos are being made by LeClerc of Lansing. Appointment cards are being sent out to the students giving them the dates on which they are requested to appear for the pictures. Appointees are asked to bring their appointment cards with them.

TWO NEW COLUMNS AND WHY

In an effort to make the STATE NEWS of added interest, the staff has introduced two new special columns, the second of which appears in this issue.

"The Social Whirl" has been started with the intention of allowing the college and its students to become familiar with our fraternities and sororities. The society editor has sent out letters to all organizations asking their assistance in gathering society or house news.

This undertaking has required the help of a number of co-eds who will call for society notes every Tuesday and Saturday afternoon, or possibly earlier, this depending upon the special arrangement that has been made with the society.

The other new column which made its appearance in the Tuesday's issue is "The Book Shelf". The column is of literary nature attempting to pick out the essentials of modern literature. Special attention is being given to men and women who have attended Michigan State and later gained distinction in the field of literature.

Both of these columns are in the processes of definite formation.

RUDOLPH The College Boy

A Serial Tragedy
By BIFF McBAM

RESIDUE

Rudolph Ottenstraer, our corned hero, who has spent all day, waiting in line at the registrar's office wandered wearily to his room. When accosted by a group of Sophs he defied them with the result that he was seized and carried to a place back of Wells Hall.

EPISODE TWO

Rudolph kicked and scratched and bit, but to no avail. His assailants carried him to a spot behind the engineering building where there were many canoes turned upside down. When he saw those canoes, Rudolph was seized with a great fear and remembered his mother's instructions about not going canoeing. He was very much relieved when the leader of the band told him that they were not going to take him canoeing.

As they approached a small dock near the water's edge they halted and the leader told Rudolph to remove his clothes. Our hero was shocked and grieved at such an immodest request and told his assailants that he wasn't that kind of a boy. Whereupon they seized him with a great deal of vehemence and had him over the canoe. The leader, who was a tall soph with a fierce, vindictive countenance, picked up a meat looking barrel stave and proceeded to smack poor Rudolph.

Rudolph was so astounded at this turn of affairs that he was able to make no outcry and it took several wallops before he realized what was happening. Then he cried out that he would forget his manners, his conventions and would remove his clothes. Thereupon his assailants led him strip and escorted him to the banks of the Red Cedar. There, close beside the winding Cedar's sloping banks of green, they threw Rudolph in the water and a mighty splash was seen. Rudolph spluttered and gasped for breath and in trying to yell for help he swallowed a great deal of water, which impaired his vocal propensities considerably.

In attempting to propel himself toward the landing, Rudolph stumbled over a submerged log and once was immersed in the murky waters of the Red Cedar. One more rate effort and he had gained landing. With a last gasping gle, he pulled himself out of water and lay prostrate upon the bank. After several minutes of in which he bitterly bewailed the stars that led him to Michigan he aroused himself and groined to hunt for his clothes. After a few minutes of searching a chill shivering fear consumed him, racked his very soul. He had a mother had always taught to be modest and the aspect of journey across the campus terrified him. He looked wildly around his glance fell upon a large board box which had once upon a time held Post Toasties that well nigh breakfast food. Our hero of this box in the same manner State college senior takes his ma. He slipped it over his head as one would put on an old lined night shirt. Thus attired, olph sped through the darkness reached Wells hall without being seen. Just as he turned into

PHYSICS DEPARTMENT ADDS NEW INSTRUCTOR

The physics department has a new instructor in the person of James Gilbert Black, M. S. formerly an instructor of physics in Purdue university.

The door of Ward F a sudden dash of cold water brought him to his senses once more and with a loud yell he disappeared within.

His clothes were found in his room and he immediately began to put them on, for he saw that it was twenty minutes past seven and at seven-thirty the freshman class was supposed to meet at the armory. Every freshman was expected to be present because some heavy work was to be accomplished. The Sophs were to be put and Rudolph and his cohorts were to attempt to rout them.

FIVE MINUTES WITH PREXY

"I keep hearing fears expressed about possibilities of accidents due to overloaded student automobiles on the campus. One member of the staff put the matter to me somewhat as follows:

"Have you ever noticed that students, in going from building to building or from campus to East Lansing, load up their rickety old cars about as follows: Six passengers inside the car and five on the running board? In the past three days I have seen cases where a wheel would have occurred had not an apparent stranger on the campus stepped dead still or run his own auto onto the sidewalk or even over the sidewalk upon the grass. In every one of these cases the car at fault has had students standing on the running board."

"I suppose it is easy enough for us who are older to get worried more quickly about things of this sort than men and women of student age, but when the thing is put in this way, with actual cases of narrow escapes, I confess I begin to be concerned."

Over the records sent in by the registrar's office of society scholarship for 1924-25, 26 societies being reported. I notice that the all-society average was a trifle higher than the all-college average, although the all-men's society average was not quite up to the all-men's average, thus giving the women students somewhat the edge on scholarship. Of course I am not willing to admit that the all-college average nor even the average of the highest society is all it ought to be. Nevertheless, the figures seem to show that, generally speaking, the societies succeed in keeping up their scholarship as well as the college in general. It is fair, therefore, to give the women of the entire group of women's societies a place ahead of the entire group of men's societies.

It is often said that marks don't tell the story of one's success in college and that there are other things besides marks. All true. At the same time it is equally true that on the average and in the long run marks are a pretty fair index of the extent to which the student takes advantage of his scholastic opportunities. And while there are notable exceptions, it is further true that in general and in the long run, the marks one receives in college do bear a fairly close relation to after-college careers insofar as the general ability of the student is concerned. Perhaps the most notable exceptions are cases where indifferent students have become wealthy.

No doubt one can find many and notable exceptions to all of these general conclusions but I can't stress too strongly the need of giving to scholarship and even marks a more important place in the life of the college than many students, at present, are willing to give.

Something for Nothing

All the profs', particularly math profs', will tell you that it can't be done, but there's once it happened.

Last week when the staff man came in I told him I was too busy to write an ad that folks wouldn't read. You see I haven't been able to get a check upon this sheet and have thought of cutting the space. Well, he took me at my word and told you what I said, "Too Busy With Customers to Write an Ad."

Did I get any response? Say---Everyone on the staff has sent me a marked copy of that ad with compliments and flattery. Of course I'm the wise old hombre and I can guess where they came from, but at any rate we're getting action.

And action is what we want, because after action comes repose, and repose suggests home and comfortable furnishings, and when you think of furnishings and furniture, maybe you'll think of

LAKE FOREST MARKED FOR COMBACK OF STATE ELEVEN TOMORROW

YOUNG MAKES RADICAL CHANGE IN LINEUP AS RESULT OF MICHIGAN GAME.

Assuming the brunt of the criticism of the coaches for misplays and faults which prevailed in the Michigan game, the Michigan State football team has been spending a busy week ironing out the weaknesses of the defensive play of the team. Blocking, tackling, and a thorough understanding of the plays has been designated as an essential for every member of the team and until these essentials are conformed with, the offender of the rule is automatically released from consideration.

Lake Forest looms next on the Michigan State card and anything but a setup is predicted. Lake Forest, it must be remembered, scored more points on the Green and White last year than any other team which was met on the State gridiron. The score ended 42 to 13 with the Michigan State team on top, but a man by the name of Folgate was responsible for the scoring of two touchdowns on the Youngmen. This same individual is back in the lineup of the Illinois team this fall and is sure to be a threat in the way of the Green and White pigskin toters. Lake Forest has won two games thus far this season against minor teams which really do not warrant consideration, but this pair of frays has furnished time to straighten out the worries of the attack and defense of the team and the display of power which rumors predict will be shown is not indicative of a layoff.

Shakeup Due in Lineup.

With the evident weaknesses of the Michigan State team shown clearly in the Michigan fracas, radical changes in the State front were immediately contemplated. A battle front which is changed to no little degree will probably start the Lake Forest melee if only as a matter of a trial for the new combination.

Foremost of the shifts which are being rumored is the changing of Captain Don Haskins to a fullback berth. Despite the fact that Don will be missed on the line, to a spectator watching the big State captain plunging through the line, a feeling of confidence in the additional power which will be given the backfield is sure to be forthcoming. Haskins has all of the drive and power essential to a first water line plunger and to those who have witnessed his speed in tearing down field after opposing ball-carriers, his versatility in the open field is appreciated. He is not the elusive type, but his power is sufficient to require a great deal to upset him.

Rummel and Spiekerman will hold down the tackle berths while Garver and Hackott care for the guard duties. Eberbach seems like the logical man for the pivot by virtue of his play in the Ann Arbor tangle. Drew, Grim and Lyman still are favorites for the ends although VanBuren has been used at that berth considerably during the last week.

The backfield is due for a shakeup, it seems. Wolfinger is due to start at quarter. Fouts is the best bet without question as a ball carrier, but his inability to block and tackle will keep him out. Ruhl, Boehringer and Kibler are the favorites for the halfbacks. Smith is due to remain

Public Letter

Editor State News
Dear Sir:

No doubt there are many students of M. S. C. who are planning on following the football team to Penn State for the game October 24. Michigan State alumni are planning a get-together here on the 24th, prior to the game.

Penn State college is located in such a way that it is hard to reach except by automobile. Several students probably will drive down and if they will write me at the engineering extension office, I will be glad to answer any questions as to directions for reaching here or to arrange for lodging here, etc.

Yours truly,
FRED L. HENDRICKS, '21, M. S. C.

CO-ED CONTORTIONS

Didn't you just have the best time at Ann Arbor? My dear, Tom bought me the most gorgeous chrysanthemum; I didn't know they could be so big. I didn't see any others like it anywhere. And we sat on the Michigan side; I was so thrilled! Really, my dear, the best-looking fellow sat right ahead of us and he simply stared at me all the time. Don't you just adore Michigan men? I think they're too marvelous. I know this one would have spoken to me if Tom hadn't been there, of course. I like Tom, but I really did wish for a minute that he was anywhere else. On the way home the Ford had two flat tires but I didn't mind; I just sat and dreamed about that wonderful looking fellow all the time. Yes, it was too bad about the score, but that really didn't make so much difference, do you think so? I'm not awfully crazy about it.

Speaking of bruises in football, take a look at the co-eds in their glorious hockey and soccer battles. Casualties of a more or less serious nature are resulting already. Our battle-scarred veterans are emerging from the fray with rather conspicuous black eyes which prove anything but becoming for the rushing party or for that date to the Union party for the next night. Walling and gnashing of teeth resulted from the shiners, but a damaged nose was the last straw. What could be worse than a conspicuously swollen nose to greet the anxious fraternity man who was chancing a blind date. With the evident vicious play of the co-eds, the next probability is that doctors and stretcher bearers will be kept in readiness on the sidelines to practice in these games contingents. There is no doubt in the minds of these "athletic young ladies" that their games will gain in popularity even over football as a source of interest to followers of rough and ready sports.

One thing about the budding interest of the co-eds in athletics—the intense training which they are undergoing is putting the sorority girls in fighting trim for the conflict of the rushing battles. Somebody has said that the predominance on the athletic field leads to a dominating personality off the field. We are anxiously watching the veteran contenders of the fairer sex as they are about to assume command over the less crafty freshmen girls in this scramble hither and thither.

on the bench until he can block and tackle up to the specifications of the coaches. Kibler has forged to the front in the past week and may get the call for one of the halves. Boehringer has been out for a day or so and may be kept out of the lineup for that reason. VanBuren must learn the plays better before he can regain the favor of the mentor. In the absence of Smith the brunt of the kicking will probably fall on Ruhl and McCosh, who has been displaying the goods of late.

The Michigan State team will have the advantage over the Lake Forest team as far as weight is concerned to an appreciable degree. The Illinois team averages 169 pounds while their line tips the scales at 175 and the backs at 158.

The first Navy Day in the history of the nation has been designated for Tuesday, October 27 by the Navy League of the United States in order to pay a tribute to the navy and to spread a wider understanding of what the navy is and does.

NOTICES!

There will be a special meeting of the advisory board of the Women's Athletic Association Monday, Oct. 12, at 5 o'clock at the women's athletic department. The meeting hereafter will be held the first and third Thursday of each month.

W. A. A. BEGINS YEAR'S ACTIVITY

Women's Athletic Association Completely Organized With M. Foote, As President.

This year marks the beginning of the Women's Athletic Association at Michigan State college. The W. A. A. will sponsor class games and the number of practices required to be eligible for any team will be decided upon by the executive board.

The association plans on sending some girls to the national athletic conference of American College Women at Cornell in 1937.

At the last meeting of the W. A. A. Julia King was elected manager of hockey to take the vacancy of Rosina Nash. It was found necessary to have a social director to take charge of all of the social affairs of W. A. A. during the year. Arla Pangborn was elected to this position.

The officers are: President, Margaret Foote; vice-president, Theresa Lindstrom; secretary, Ruth Ketcham; treasurer, Margaret Shoesmith; publicity manager, Mabel Gotted.

The managers of sports are: Archery, Elaine Walker; baseball, Hazel Burge; basketball, June Ranney; dancing, Alice McWood; biking and canoeing, Donna Goodrich; riding, Elaine Alvord; rifle, Genevieve Johnston; soccer, E. Emma Hyde; swimming, Ruth Bowen; volley ball, Ruth Norton; tennis, Lucille Allen; track, Annabelle MacLure; Women's Life Saving Corps, Jean Horning.

WITH FUTURE OPPONENTS

With a host of important games in the future facing the Michigan State college football team, it is with interest that fans are watching the play of the teams which the Green and White will encounter. Last Saturday games were played by all of the teams which the Youngmen will tangle with in the future with victories resulting for all of the teams with the exception of Toledo university.

The Ohio team lost to Buffalo in a tight battle, being nosed out by a safety, 2-0.

Colgate showed signs of real power with a steam-roller attack which buried Clarkson, 60 to 0. Penn State downed the scrappy little Franklin and Marshall team by the count of 13 to 0. Hug Bezdek's eleven is likely to be a wall for the States to climb when they invade the Penn stronghold. Wisconsin showed indications of a somewhat lively team by taking the Iowa State team down the line, 30 to 0. Coach Little is sure to make a bid for the Western Conference honors and a team of that caliber is sure to be an endless worry for State enthusiasts.

HERE'S WHY "RAH" APPEARS IN YELLS

There is a real reason why college cheers so frequently contain the word "Rah." According to studies made by Dr. Irving B. Cranfill and Mr. C. F. Sacta of the Bell telephone laboratories, men ordinarily speak this sound louder than any other vowel.

If the value of 50 be assigned to the amount of energy delivered by a man's voice to the air for this particular sound, then its next rival, the sound of "a" as in "talk" at 37, comes next at 44, and as in "tap," comes next at 44, and as in "talk" at 37. Women's voice is present quite a contrast to men's in that there are four vowel sounds of practically the same loudness. These are the vowels in "tone," "talk" and "rah."

"Ah" is the easiest sound to produce because fewer throat and mouth muscles are tensed, hence it is the basic vowel sound in most language.

STATE CROSS COUNTRY ASPIRANTS GETTING IN SHAPE FOR NOVICE RUN

FALL TRACK CANDIDATES REVEAL A NUMBER OF VALUABLE MEN FOR SQUAD.

With the daily sessions down on the old grid field of the football team, spectators are treated with an exhibition from the prospective Michigan State track and cross-country aspirants as they go through their daily drills under Coach Mason and Freddy Alderman, star State speed merchant who has the fall track candidates under his wing. Reports from the coaches as to the actual results achieved by the candidates point to a fine year for both sports. This is especially true in reference to the fine bunch of freshmen candidates who are priming for a track season on the State cinder paths.

Morton F. Mason, tutor of the cross-country candidates, reports that thus far his squad is running rather slow heats although real time tryouts are being withheld for ten days or two weeks. The main weakness of the squad at present seems to be in the endurance and wind of the runners, a matter which practice alone can overcome. The form being shown by the last year's veterans is indicative of some good records this fall.

The frosh are sure to rate in the future here if his track squad of yearlings is representative of the frosh. Henson of Lansing, a crack dash star who copped both the 10 and 220-yard dash events at the Class A interscholastic meet here a year ago, is one of the outstanding men of the squad who is going to make the varsity men step in inter-class competition. Rossman from Eaton Rapids shows promise of being developed into a dependable quarter-miler; Kenyon of Plymouth, who shows adaptability in the sprints, and Williams, a man who seems to be able to hold his own either in the dashes or in field events, are other men of the yearling aggregation who are worth watching.

Oct. 21 has been set for the date of the first test to which the men will be placed. Medals will be awarded to winners of the first five places. A gold medal will be given first place men, silver to the second place men, and bronze to the winners of third and fourth places. The meet will be a handicap affair, each man starting according to his rating as indicated by past showings. Thus regardless of a man's ability, he has an equal chance to win an event.

Captain Harper still leads the harriers, although he is being pressed hard by Ripper, VanArman, Severance, Banks, Thomas, Wiley, and Waterman form the nucleus of the varsity squad which are warranting interest by virtue of their performance. Kendrick, the crack prep half-miler from Mt. Clemens, who smashed the state interscholastic record at the Class A interscholastic meet here last spring, is causing some little comment with his showing on the yearling cross-country squad. The first test for the cross-country men will be provided in the novice run which will take place on Oct. 17.

Frosh Show Promise.
Fred Alderman, who is managing the fall track candidates, opines that
