

SCHEDULE AND QUESTION READY FOR DEBATORS

Triangle Debate With Albion and Western State Normal Arranged.

Schedules have been practically completed and the question chosen for the co-ed debate squad for the season which will start at the beginning of the winter term.

The question for debate will be: Resolved, that the constitution should be amended to give congress the power to regulate child labor.

Ohio Trip Planned for Girls.
A triangle debate will be held with Albion college and Western State Normal. A tentative date has been arranged with Marquette university of Milwaukee, Wis., but it has not been decided as yet where the debate will be held. Carrol college also in Wisconsin, appears on the schedule.

A trip is being planned to Ohio for the girls' team, meeting some of the larger colleges of that section. There will be two co-ed teams and each team will have a home engagement and each will take a trip.

Credit Allowed for Debating.
There are a number of old debaters in the squad, and they will be required to try out for the squad with the new candidates. Three credits are allowed for debating in the regular curriculum and debating is often substituted for some other subject during the winter term.

Coach D. C. Eckerman announces that try-outs will be held for both the men's and women's debate squads during the first two weeks of December. Candidates are expected to meet work on the question at once and material for both teams has been placed in the delivery room of the library.

There will be three types of invitations available, one of which will be rather bound. Corman Miller is chairman of the invitations committee. The committee will call upon members of the senior class within the next few weeks for orders for invitations. The dues for the year have been set at $2.

Richard Lyman was appointed captain of the indoor baseball team for the applied science division and Harold Kriebler captain of the agricultural division of the senior class. The inter-divisional indoor baseball tournament will start after Thanksgiving vacation. The same captain for the engineering division has not been appointed as yet.

SNOW WON'T HALT WORK ON CAMPUS

Continue Campus Improvements In Spite of Premature Arrival of Winter.

The sudden arrival of winter will not put an end to the many campus improvements that are now under way nor halt those that haven't as yet been started.

The west end of the campus, where the car tracks were taken up this summer, is being graded and prepared for the laying of sod. Plans are under way to plant a large number of trees around the new horticulture building in keeping with the general plans of the campus. The new surface of the walks around the new building will be laid just as soon as the present foundation is set and dries out. A wide under walk is to be laid from the new horticulture building back of the forestry building to the Ag building. This is a much needed improvement and will be welcomed by the students.

The old horticulture building has been completely remodeled to furnish complete offices for the 15 professors of the economics department as well as their classes. The staff will move into their new quarters the first of the week. This will mean new assignments for the rooms in the Ag building that were used to house the economics department.

The engineering department is making a great many borings on the site of the new chemistry building to determine the soil foundation. Other plans for the building are being studied and whipped into shape.

Karl Dressel of the forestry department was the principal speaker. His subject was "Taxation." Mr. Dressel brought out the fact that the subject of taxation as related to timber lands is a very important problem owing to the fact that the timber crop unlike other crops requires many years to mature and a low tax rate is necessary if there is to be any profit in the industry.

Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served after the meeting.

TRYOUTS FOR UNION CHORUS TO BE HELD

Chorus for Union Vaudeville to Be Under Special Committee This Year.

The latest development in the plans for the Union vaudeville is the appointment of a chorus committee that will have complete charge of the chorus act. Raymond Ring leads the committee. "Doc" Hess and J. B. Edmunds are his assistants.

Try-outs for the all-school chorus will be held Thursday evening in the Union building, Dec. 3. There will be 15 in the chorus, including the leader. In previous similar events the group has consisted mainly of representatives from the under classes. Though the chorus is open to all, it is expected that the president of former years will be followed.

The chorus act will hold a more prominent place in this year's performance than it ever before has held. The separate management makes possible a more specialized entertainment. The chorus will appear only once in the program in one big act.

The program committee states that more than a dozen sets are now lined up. Of this number nine or ten will be finally chosen for the evening's entertainment. The four numbers that are assured now are the chorus act, a vocal number, an orchestra number, and a one-act play to be supplied by the Theta Alpha Phi.

The Union vaudeville entertainment this year is looked for a three days' run in Lansing. The dates set for the Lansing appearance are Feb. 3, 4 and 5, at the Gladmer. If the troupe undertakes a tour it will be made on the week-end following.

OUR CHILD PRODIGES

It's a very, very distinguished college that is blessed with child prodigies.

Until this week, we have been unaware of their presence at Michigan State. Now that we have seen some of their work, there is no mistake about the fact.

The college library reports an increasing disrespect and mistreatment of those precious reference books that are placed on reserve. Heavy pencil lines are common under salient passages, and art work of various description is not at all suppressed in college books.

The usual handling of reference books is enough of a strain without added misuse such as was discovered this week. Some person had deliberately cut out several pages in an important reference book. We have an idea why the person wanted those particular pages, but we cannot understand why he or she chose such an infantile way of getting them.

One is supposed to be over the book mutilating stage when he reaches the higher grades in grammar school. The child prodigy or prodigies who are responsible for this utter disrespect of college property are urged to return the missing pages to the library at once.

DEMOCRACY A FAILURE?

"Where there is no vision, students perish".

Democracy without leadership is a puddle of protoplasm without a nucleus.

Leadership without vision is a bell-wether process of luring so many head of mutton to the edge of a cliff, and then down.

Vision without horizon is the authorized base for the belief that the sun and the wheeling systems turn round the earth, that your nation is superior to all other nations, that your college is the duke institution, that your fraternity is the ne plus ultra, and that you yourself are the elected center of all that is.

Without horizon, without vision, without leadership democracy is not only the best form of bad government, it is the worst form of the perversion of the best.

Democracy with leadership is a nest of eagle eggs fertile with cosmic heat.

Leadership with vision is a strong flight of eagles toward the sun.

Vision with horizon is the eagles' discovery of the infinite systems beyond the sun.

With horizon, with vision, with leadership democracy is that perdurable and unperturbable best toward which the great bi-ped has, in the slow centuries been bringing himself more and more erect.

"Hello, Jack! Ya, everybody speaks to everybody else here. We've got democracy here. Have some peanuts!"

Peanuts! Shades of symbols and specters!

Two thousand steers milling up the dust on the Pan-handle; two thousand swine squealing beyond Des Moines; two thousand lambs bleating at Billings—these are not and shall not be the symbols of us.

Hello does not spell democracy. You need but to drop the last letter of it and it spells something quite other. Our practice of speaking to each other may lead to friendliness and on into fellowship, but democracy is the result of something more than exercising the vocal organs in saying hello.

If this is not true, then the shortest and most practical means of establishing a democracy here is to furnish all students and faculty folk with telephones and to see to it that in speaking to each other, they use only these weird devices of democracy: "Hello—hello—hello!"

That our democratic spirit is shifting and weakening all along the surface should not make us run up the Valspar flag: Save the surface and you save all! We have had too much of that here. We have never had a fellowship in deep, creative things. We have never experienced the zest of working out great issues together.

Democracy insists on this experience more than all else. Our faculty should rouse itself to confront students with great issues. Our students should create great issues out of their vital young blood; and, in their turn, they should confront the faculty with those issues. Democracy is a zestful fellowship in dealing with great issues.

RUDOLPH The College Boy

A Serial Tragedy
By MIFF McSAM

Our friend Rudy has been missing for some time and we feel that we ought to let you know his whereabouts. He returned to East Lansing this morning after a hectic five days en route from Madison. As you probably knew, Rudy left for Madison last Friday.

Rudy left East Lansing last Friday morning in company with his roommate. They decided to head for Grand Haven and then cross on the car ferry to Milwaukee. They were dressed for any kind of weather and they decided that it was "Madison or bust" with them. They did not have much trouble in bumming to Grand Haven and arrived there about 6 in the evening. Some kind native gave them the dope on how to cross the lake so they sneaked down into the railroad yards and waited for the car ferry.

The car ferry arrived in due time and our hero and his friend like two good bums sneaked aboard and stowed themselves away in the "flicker." They thought no one saw them and as the big ship started to move they complimented themselves on their sagacity. After a few moments of peace, the solitude was broken by the voice of the bucko mate. "Hey, youse two bums, get up on deck." Rudy and Al decided to go up above and when the mate met them he handed them a "sougee" mop and told them to scrub the deck. Those who never experienced a session of "sougee mopping" will not appreciate the plight of our heroes.

Rudy and Al started in on their scrubbing right in front of the pilot house where the watchful eye of the mate could be upon them. Soon as the big ferry cleared the piers and headed for Milwaukee, the deck took on a terrifying aspect. It roared and dropped, slid sideways and plunged until our heroes were grow-

MATHEMATICS CLUB HOLDS MEETING AND DISCUSSION

Dr. V. G. Grove and Miss Meta Ewing were in charge of the program of the Mathematics club meeting held in room 210, Olds hall, Tuesday. The subject was the calculus of variations and its applications to the curve of quickest descent.

STATE Y.M.C.A. COOPERATING WITH COLLEGE 'Y' PROGRAM

The state Y. M. C. A. is cooperating very generously with the college "Y" in developing its deputation program which is now getting under way. Roy McCullough, state student secretary, has been in constant touch with Don Widdell who is general chairman of the local deputation work.

Two or three more plunges and our heroes were rather overcome with mal de mer. Rudy led the procession to the rail and soon they were in immediate danger of being washed over the side. The mate came down on deck and pulled them away from the rail and told them to get inside. Rudy and Al could hardly navigate and both wished they had been washed overboard.

ALWAYS INSIST ON WILLIAMS

Going Up.

R. W. Owens

EVERY time you go up in a modern building having high-speed elevators (the Chicago Athletic Club, for instance) you are lifted by the ingenuity of at least one Westinghouse engineer who is barely ten years off the campus.

Until three years ago, high-speed elevators invariably required direct electric current. There was no practical method of using alternating current, and since many districts are supplied only with alternating current, a serious handicap existed.

It was possible to employ a motor generator to convert alternating current into direct current, but when that was done no practical system of control was available if the elevators were to be operated at high speed. The suggestion was made that the control be accomplished by varying the

The question is sometimes asked: "Where do young men get when they enter a large industrial organization? Have they opportunities to exercise creative talents? Or are they forced into narrow grooves?"

This series of advertisements throws light on these questions. Each advertisement takes up the record of a college man who came with the Westinghouse Company within the last ten years, immediately after graduation from his university.

voltage of the generator, and (among others) to a young man of thirty-three—R. W. Owens, Illinois '14, now head of the direct-current section of the motor engineering department—came the special problem of designing an electric generator that would perform as one had never performed before.

Many were associated in the undertaking, for it involved pioneering in control apparatus as well as in generator design, but eventually all difficulties were overcome, and there emerged the "Variable Voltage Control System for Electric Elevators", now standard throughout the building industry.

Here you have the type of problem that confronts the design engineer in an organization like Westinghouse. Not all are as large as this, or lead to such sweeping results. The design engineer works for the customer. He starts with an analysis of the customer's needs and develops apparatus to meet those needs.

His responsibilities are varied and heavy. The jobs of the direct-current section of the motor engineering department range from motors for driving ventilating fans to those for dumping whole cars of ore at the docks. A force of 1,000 men is constantly occupied building the motors designed by this section.

KAMPUS? KUESTIONS

Margaret Hubbard, H. E. '39
The Green Onion of this month is decidedly cleaner than the one of last month. We are delighted. We hope to develop a maxazine that surpasses all others in good pep and humor. We have the humor, now the pep.

Maribel McKnight, H. E. '36
I think the last issue of the Green Onion is a great improvement over the others because it is clever and not shady.

Millicent Clark, '28 L. A.
The last issue of the Green Onion could safely be sent home to the family. It was clever and contained a better type of humor than the previous issue. But it wasn't quite as original or clever as last year's Green Onions.

John Garver, '27 L.
I don't think it is proper for some tea-hound comic editor to use his personal opinion of athletics for filler for this issue.

Paul Larkey, '28 L.
I understand the aim of the new regime of editors was for a clean issue. They have succeeded admirably from that standpoint. It was rather dry most of the way, but had some good features. I think some illustrated short stories would go over big with real illustrations.

Norval Offenhauer, '28 E.
I think the conspicuous absence of any real humor was noticeable. However, on the whole, with lots of room ahead for improvement, I look for it to advance. The cartooning was good.

A man best shows his familiarity with the best, when he calls for it by name—whether it is in the store, at the Union or on the table.

In speaking of fine places to eat, such a man does not speak vaguely of "restaurants"—he shows his definite knowledge of the best and says "Barron's".

The College of 'No Hope'

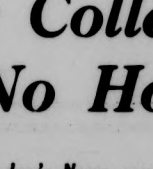

A headline in Tuesday's News says the whole freshman class of Hope College was suspended, but doesn't mention whether on the end of a rope or how.

Prohibition is no doubt to blame for it all, but it seems to me that when a whole class of freshmen will come right out in front of folks, without neckties on, it's time to change the name to "College of No Hope".

Another paper announces the whole thing has been laid on the table. If an epidemic should break out in Michigan State you'd want to do the usual thing and lay it on the table too; but you haven't got the table.

Now we've got about the best furniture store in these parts; and we've got tables. How about sending out a few samples.

YEARLINGS EXHIBIT SURPRISING STRENGTH IN ANNUAL SQUAD BATTLE

Hann, Zeller, Richter Cross Goal Line for "Blues" and "Greens" Are Vanquished 24-0; Arnold, Kanitz, Tuttle, Barratt, Wareham Show Promise.

The annual freshmen football squad battle took place Wednesday afternoon at the stadium. Seventy-eight men in gridiron togs, representative of the 1926 yearlings, graced the field for the final time this season. The squad was divided, to form a unit known as the Blues and another hailed as the Greens.

Characteristic of the past football campaign, weather conditions were extremely lamentable, and the slippery grid made it difficult for either team to show its best wares. The Blues, captained by Barratt, promising Lansing high recruit, took advantage of the breaks afforded them, and romped away with the eleven manned by Danzinger of Detroit Western to the merry tune of 24-0.

Captain Barratt of the Blues kicked off to the Green 20-yard line in the opening chapter. Danzinger fumbled on the second play and Barratt recovered for a first down on the Green 21 yard stripe. A pass, Richter to Dickenson, was good for 20 yards and a first down on the Green 1-yard stripe. Richter sneaked it over for 6 points on his second attempt. Richter missed goal. Blues 6, Greens 0.

The second period was just under way when Deacon blocked Wareham's punt and recovered on the Blue 10 yard line. On the first play Douville fumbled and Hann, Blue right tackle, raced the rough, scooped up the ball, and ran unhampered to the goal line 85 yards away. Wareham missed the try for the extra point. Blues 12, Greens 0.

Wareham Punt Beautifully

No more scoring resulted in the first half, but the ball was continually in Green territory, due largely to the punting of Wareham, who did some excellent kicking during the afternoon. His kicks were high and averaged better than 40 yards, which was much better than his Green rival could do. A large majority of the plays were being stopped at the line. Both teams had strong forward walls which were always missing up plays. Barratt, Smith and Hann were doing great defensive work for the Blues, but the Greens were equally well fortified on defense with Moeller, McGirr, Kanitz, Shultz and Arnold.

The third quarter went scoreless, but it was in this period that the Greens did their best work. Tuttle and Danzinger were a constant menace to the Blue goal line and performed much of their team's offensive work. Tuttle once thrilled what few fans there were in the stands by a diving catch of Danzinger's pass which looked impossible. Early in the fourth quarter the Greens got an offense under way, and were beginning to threaten the goal, when Hann grabbed a loose ball from Danzinger and ran 30 yards for his second touchdown. The goal was missed. Score, Blues 18, Greens 0.

The Greens opened up with an aerial attack late in the final chapter but Zeller got in front of one of the heavens and scampered 20 yards for the final points. The goal was missed. Score, Blues 24, Greens 0.

Plenty of Varsity Material Looms

Co-ed Edna Says:

Really, I do enjoy football games, but I am actually glad the season is over, aren't you? One feels guilty if she doesn't go to them, but Saturday afternoon is a wonderful time to do mending.

Of course, some of the players do need mending too, when the game is over, but it wasn't necessary to bring that in.

Lately, the girls have been failing to report for gym work as regularly as they should. On inquiring into the matter, we have found that so many of the societies use back alleys for entrance to their homes, that the girls say they are getting enough exercise jumping the puddles or skidding across the icy ruts.

Just the same, I don't consider it very fair to make the gym department suffer just because we are too lazy to follow the straight and narrow paths laid out by the city.

We've been haunting the hockey grounds every day in the hopes that the societies would settle their argument over the hockey question, but these girls seem to be afraid that if they try to play now the ball will be lost, and they'll be knocking a snowball around instead.

They don't seem to have any sympathy for me, standing out in the cold every night, waiting to see them get in a little action.

Some night I'm liable not to go over, and that will be the night they'll play. Oh, well, I'll fool them! I will not write up their old games.

Do I hear a voice in the crowd asking what sports come after our fall excitement is all over? Basketball, my dear young lady! And that's one of the teams you have to be up to proper weight, to play on.

No, Cynthia, they don't allow you to play if you are twenty pounds over weight. They are afraid you might slip and break the gymnasium floor. Besides, a basketball game is supposed to be a sport, not an amusement place for the spectators.

And, Cynthia, you might as well give up the idea of ice skating this winter, too. We are too careful of our ice.

action, is well satisfied with the game and the entire season's work of the squad. The yearlings are one of the strongest first year teams that ever graced a State gridiron, and should be one good reason for a successful varsity next year.

The work of Moeller, McGirr, Kanitz, Arnold, Shultz, Hitchings, Barratt, Smith and Hann on the fresh line this season has stamped them as varsity material, which will be welcomed by the coaching staff next fall to take the places left vacant by four varsity linemen. Felt, Deacon, Anderson, Hornbeck and Eggert are all capable flankers, who will give our three varsity ends some stiff competition for varsity berths next year. In scrimmage against the varsity this fall these men have distinguished themselves as good defensive men and receivers of passes.

Tuttle, Douville, J. Bothwell, Danzinger, Wills, Dickson, Wareham, Richter, Bevier and Zeller have all played good this season as backfield men.

Substitutions: Eldred for Richter; Wareham for Bevier; Wills for Zeller; Eggert for Deacon; Hermal for Hitchings; Crabbill for Barratt; Rath for Eldred; Stechman for Hornbeck; Archer for Dickenson; Warren for Hann; Fulton for Arnold; Webber for Kanitz; Fisher for Shultz; Schaar for Douville; Ehinger for Joachim. Michigan's haughty eleven gently lowered the Ohio State outfit into the ranks of the further vanquished Western Conference teams last Saturday, by making the best of two breaks in the game. A field goal and a blocked punt gave the Yostmen the 10-0 verdict.

Northwestern, the alert Evanston, Ill. outfit which surprised the football world by administering a 3-2 lashing to Michigan, conquered Purdue 13-9, thereby winning its seventh game of the past 29 years with the Boiler-makers.

Minnesota, leaders of the "Big Ten" with a perfect standing in the percentage column, turned in another surprise for the football world by stepping on Iowa, title contenders a month ago, by the tune of 13-0. This was Saturday's only other conference tilt.

The five conference leaders stand today as follows:

W	L	T	Pct.
Minnesota	1	0	1.000
Michigan	4	1	.800
Northwestern	4	1	.750
Wisconsin	2	1	.667
Chicago	2	1	.667

Michigan clashes with Minnesota at Ann Arbor Saturday for the conference championship. A victory for Michigan will give them the conference title, and place Northwestern in second place, since the Evanston team has closed its schedule, and is without a tie game on its record. Wisconsin meets Chicago at Chicago to do battle for third place. If either Chicago or Wisconsin wins Saturday they will be tied with Northwestern in the percentage tables, but since each has a tie game to be considered, Northwestern would get second place.

The Michigan state interscholastic football race has virtually come to a close, with the present field consisting of only two elevens, Flint Central and Grand Rapids Union. Detroit Northwestern, tied twice, and Lansing, defeated by Muskegon last week, were the last two schools to drop out of the titular chase.

Lansing high can yet show a profitable season. They have seven victories and one defeat on record now. This week they engage in an interstate contest with Oak Park high, at Oak Park, Ill.

Flint and Bay City clash this week, and Grand Rapids, Ill. takes on Ann Arbor. There is a chance that Ann Arbor may pull the unexpected and defeat one of the last two title contenders, but Bay City will not even start to stem the tide of Flint, led by Lloyd Brazill, the fastest brainiest, and most clever high school football man seen in state interscholastic annals since the days of Harry Kipke and George Gipp, Notre Dame ace.

Brazill is without a peer today in the state. He can pass, punt, drop kick, place kick, skirt the ends, buck the line, and outgeneral the enemy on defense. Not only is he a star on offense, but equally as much on defense. His punting record last season was 63 yards, a figure practically unheard of in college circles, and seemingly exaggerated. Take it or not, but the writer has seen Brazill in many a contest, and never yet has he failed to star, or kick up to expectations. Against Highland Park last fall, he saw three successive kicks by Brazill travel 70, 68, and 87 yards. Each was at a critical stage in the game.

ASPIRANTS FOR STATE COURT FIVE START DRILLING FOR FIRST FRACAS

Adrian Opens Season December Ninth; Captain Hackett, Russo, Frederick, and Jagnow Brothers Look Good.

With the 1926 basketball schedule still in a stage of formulation, Michigan State court men are pointing toward the opening tilt with Adrian college here on December 9th.

Though definite action on the schedule has not yet taken place, the candidates are realizing that a task confronts them, no matter how hard or easy a list of bookings come from Director Ralph Young. This year's green and white five must be built around Captain "Chris" Hackett, the sagacious product, and star lineman of the football squad. Hackett is the only sure veteran from last season, and at present it appears that the other berths will be open for much scrambling.

Tom Russo, All-American high school man from Jackson, whose actions on the court are being watched not a little will undoubtedly come to the front in the running guard position. The Jagnow brothers are looked too, to bid strong for a forward and the center job. Each of these men also hail from the Prison City. Roy and George are their names, and their reputations established here last winter when they scintillated on the freshman quintet seem sufficient to possibilities, along with Captain Hackett, and Russo. The other forward position seems to be the one source of competition, though later developments to be expected in Coach Kols squad, may bring men to the front who are capable of upsetting the predictions that Hackett, Russo, Jagnow and Jagnow, will form four of this year's State college five.

With the curtain drawn on the football season at the conclusion of hostilities at Madison, Wisconsin last Saturday, Coach Young has ordered the gridlers, who desire being basketball candidates, to let a week intervene before they don the regalia of basketbeters.

As a result of these orders, it will be next week before the influx from the football squad will start to increase the daily practice roster of Coach Kols.

Next Monday, however, should see Drew, Lewis, Smith, Boehringer, Lyman, O'Connor, Grim, and Captain Hackett in court togs.

H. B. Marx, and "Chuck" Erickson, letter men from last year, are at present on the varsity squad, gently pursuing the tactics ordered by the State mentor.

Northwestern and Chicago universities will be met on their own courts during the Christmas holiday season, while the Adrian college game on December 9, will be followed up with the appearance of Olivet college on December 12. This will round out the pre-Christmas schedule, and January 9 will see State clash with the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. The latter date may be shifted in the few days, since we have to be contented at Ann Arbor whenever Michigan authorities decide, if we are for U. of M. opposition at all.
