NEW CLASS SEAL WILL BE USED ON J-HOP PROGRAMS

Program and Favors Committees
Co-operate to Reduce Costs;
Specifications Go to Printers.

Complete plans and specifications for the J-Hop programs have been drawn up and sent to the printers by the program committee, of which L. S. Edwards is chairman. The programs, as well as the favors, invitations, and place cards, will be completed by the Brochard company of Chicago.

A new junior class seal has been designed by L. S. Edwards and Harry Swanson. Both the favors committee and the program committee were able to reduce costs by negotiating to bring the same general designs by ordering from the same company, and using the same die of the new seal.

The seal will be embossed in gold on both the men's and the women's programs, on the men's favors, and on the invitations. Choice in design and general appearance, which these committees have made has proved to be unusually attractive and appropriate.

BULLETINS SHOW WORK OF LOCAL RESEARCHERS

College Issues Treatises On Radio and Steel.

Two new bulletins have recently appeared by the engineering department of the college. One, "Variations in Heating Method of Radio Tubes" by Burr K. Osborn of the electrical engineering department, points out that it is of value to students or others interested in radio transmission. Much work has been done along the line of modulation of the carrier wave and the bulletin points out clearly the fallacy of the so-called "non-carrier" system.

The other, "Impact Tests of Nickel Chromium Steels" by J. W. Perry of the chemical engineering department, contains an interesting report on an experiment of nickel-chromium steels of different manufacture. The object of the experiment is to determine the relation of the types of structures of specimens of the steel and their comparative impact strength.

Another bulletin may be obtained by request from the engineering department.

SENIOR ENGINEERS STUDY PROBLEMS OF COMBUSTION

Lantern Slides and Lectures Used To Present Work.

Senior mechanical engineers have been having a series of lectures and lantern slides on modern combustion problems including the burning of pulverized coal. The slides were furnished by the Combustion Engineering corporation, one of the largest companies dealing in fuel-burning equipment.

Two orchestras will play for the freshmen feature party at the Union building Saturday night. The Michigan State Collegians and the Foo Ying cello orchestras are the two musical organizations which will alternate from 8:15 until 11:00. Tickets may be gotten at the Union main desk.

Prowlers Arouse People At East Lansing In Eerie Hours

People of East Lansing are often disturbed and frequently amazed by the prowling of dark grotesque figures around their doors in the weird hours of the night. No end of uneasiness has been caused by the sound of an intruder and a shadowy form. Mothers have lain awake for hours with fearful hearts watching for the morning light which will bring ease to the mind.

At more or less regular intervals such disturbances have been taking place for a long time. One time they may appear in one part of the city and then again in another and often the college campus, especially the barn, is visited. Occasionally dark, shadowy objects have been seen coming from barns or sheds or sneaking around people's homes, by some late homeward traveler.

No great harm has been done and little mind, save occasionally a pet cat which usually returns in a few days. Then everything will be normal for a time.

FIRE TRAIN TO MAKE EXHIBITION TRIP

To Impress On Michigan People
Seriousness of Forest Fires.

Work has started on the forest fire demonstration train which is to pass through the northeastern part of lower Michigan and the upper peninsula in the near future.

Through the efforts of L. E. Livingston, specialist in agricultural engineering for Michigan, the exhibition car is being prepared. It will be at the college during Farmers' week with various novel exhibits of forest fire work.

The car will contain miniature and full-size fire fighting equipment, exhibits of the national forests, fire tower displays, picture, charts, and graphs, which will give a general history of the forest situation.

On Feb. 5 two other cars will be added to make a train which will make twenty-eight stops in northern Michigan.

ELECTRICAL EXHIBIT SET FOR NEXT WEEK

Electrical Machine to Reproduce
Sound Is Feature in Olds
Hall Show.

Work on the Electrical Show is showing results. The members of the various committees report that their exhibits will be ready for operation by the first of next week. These technical exhibits include apparatus in both the D. C. and A. C. laboratories, electrical phenomena accomplished by the use of high voltages, and many of the so-called "trick" tricks that electricity will perform. Practically all of the large manufacturers of electrical equipment will have exhibits. The commercial exhibits include the latest improvements in household appliances, radio, lighting, etc.

The feature of the show this year will be the public demonstration of the Brunswick panatropa. This wonderful machine employs electrical rather than mechanical vibrations to reproduce sound. You must see and hear this machine operate to fully appreciate it.

The show is open to the public from 2 to 10 p. m. on Feb. 3, 4 and 5. R. E. Olds hall will house the show.

This year, guides to the large number of exhibits will be furnished so that you will experience no difficulty in "covering" it.

WKAR FEATURED IN RADIO DIGEST

Description and Pictures of College Station Appears in Wednesday Edition.

WKAR steps in the limelight again this week when a story and a group of pictures appeared in the Wednesday edition of the Radio Digest.

WKAR, with its new 1,000-watt broadcasting station, and position in the radio world, as regards the types of programs that it puts on, holds an enviable rank among broadcasting stations of similar institutions as M. S. C.

The station is a pioneer in the broadcasting of basketball games and one of the few stations broadcasting a regular radio school. This is not the only reason for the good reputation that the station is getting, as may be judged by the appearance of the call letters on the station in a list of honor stations that are reported as eliminating all harmonics.

The station will be open to visitors Farmers' Week so that people may see it in operation. The operators are also preparing a display of all kinds of vacuum tubes from the very earliest type to the present-day large water-cooled power tubes used for broadcasting.

"Listen My Children and You Shall Hear of a Midnight Ride..."

We had just reached the station as the limited was leaving, and with a few quick strides we boarded the train. We were on the way at last; a few hours would find us at the beach. Crash! Bang! the brakes were slammed on. The train stood still. We had hit a freight. It could be hours before the track sent. The nearest village being only two miles away, we walked after hiring a taxi. The party found themselves again on the way. The rain the night before had made the roads bad, and our driver being careless on taking a sharp curve, we found ourselves up in the top of the highest tree that we had ever seen, none the worse, however, for our sudden flight through the top of the cab. Luck was with us, for just as it had been ordered, an aeroplane came sailing along, and dropped three rope ladders for us to climb aboard. Two cannibals were our hosts. What were we to do? They were already licking their chops, and thinking what fine juicy roasts we would make. There were two of them heavily armed and three of us unarmed. A fight would mean death for us all, because the plane would drop if the pilot were attacked. We decided that it was time for us to say our prayers.

Now, children, that's all the story you get tonight because I have to see a Wolverine agent and give him my order for that large all-college annual, and if those people that you have been reading about had their Wolverine orders they would not have gotten themselves into such a fix. There's no use bogging. That's all for this, there ain't no more. Go to bed and I'll tell you another story after I put that subscription in.

AMERICA NEEDS ACTION SAYS R. P. WEAVER

R. P. Weaver Expresses Need For Action and Leaders in Speech
Before Merchants Bureau.

"Watch suspiciously the man who tells you that everything is well in America today. Everything is not well, and I urge that the man who tells you so, and has good reasons, be called a bolshevik."

This was the sentiment expressed by R. Bennett Weaver, associate professor of English at Michigan State college, in an address before the Merchants' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, at the Hotel Downey, Wednesday noon.

"There is more crime in the city of Chicago each year than in the British Isles," Mr. Weaver said.

"The citizens of America talk too much and listen too little," he said. "Real leadership in the United States is dying off, with a mass of humanity for which real leaders is needed soothing and boiling to point the way. Figures in this country show a large percentage of the citizens illiterate, but we stop to realize that such has a vote that can neutralize the vote of an educated, intelligent voter."

CLASS MEETINGS WELL ATTENDED

Wolverine Feature At Junior Class Meeting Brings Laughs.

A statute, announced in advance as "a masterpiece" the work of a student sculptor was the clever feature of the Wolverine drive conducted at 11 o'clock last Wednesday at the various class meetings. The identity of L. S. Edwards' artist, remained unknown until after the involving comedy when the class and the entire college laughed at the ridiculous modeling of a hybrid dog standing with its offspring and bearing the label, "Mother Love."

In connection with the Wolverine drive, the various classes were entertained with interesting speeches. Dean John Phelan addressed the sophomore class and emphasized the problem of what to do with the students after they come to college. He pointed out that great efforts are made to bring students to college but after they come no effort is made to keep them.

SOCIOLOGY SEMINAR TO PRESENT DATA

Report to Be Given to Rural Life Conference.

Data being collected by the members of the sociology seminar will be presented to the Rural Life conference to be held here during Farmers' Week.

This data is part of a general sociological survey being made by the department covering Ingham, Eaton, Livingston, Clinton and Shiawassee counties. The survey, which covers church, school and community conditions, will take two or more years. The work being done by the members of the seminar consists in getting data from the various schools which they represent. Most of the members are superintendents of small schools in this vicinity and drive in once a week for the meeting of the seminar.

OFFERS PRIZE FOR ARTICLE ON RADIO

Any College Student Eligible To Write Paper On College
Radio Work.

Announcement has been made by the engineering department of the college that Fred Holmes will give a prize of $20 to the student presenting the best paper on radio activities. The award will be made by President K. L. Butterfield at convocation some time during the spring term.

Because of the great amount of interest in the college radio broadcasting station, Fred Holmes, a graduate of the class of 1924, has decided to give the sum of $20 to the author of the best paper which offers constructive suggestions with regard to college radio work. The contest is to be held this term.

There are no limitations as to the length of the paper, and any college student may enter the contest. Judges have not been definitely decided upon but will be announced later.

UNION BUILDING TO BE BUSY FARMERS' WEEK

The Union building will be used by the Michigan Press association, the Farm Bureau and the State Grange during the coming Farmers' Week. The women's lobby opposite the cafeteria will be used as the headquarters for the State Grange. Other organizations will be served in the banquet room.

Arrangements have also been made to serve over 200 short course men at a luncheon Wednesday in the Union, followed by the annual Farmers' Week dinner in the evening. Thursday evening, about 700 members are planning to attend the Farm Bureau banquet. The annual meeting of the Michigan Press association will be held Friday, and its banquet in the evening.

The management of the cafeteria urges the students to eat as early as possible at noon, as it will be to their own advantage to avoid the large crowds.

FIRST SERVICE AT NEW CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

RELIGIOUS COUNCIL SPONSORS
STUDENT DEVOTIONAL SERVICE.

Sunday morning the first of a series of services that will have as their ultimate aim the dedication of the new People's church is to be held at 12 o'clock noon.

These services are being sponsored by the Religious Council of which the W. S. B. C., the S. C. L., and the S. C. U. are members.

Following this service the church will be closed for interior finishing and will not be open to the public again until the final dedication services which are to take place shortly after Easter.

Guides will be provided by the Religious Council for conducting the student body who attend the service, through the various rooms in the church. These guides were shown through the building by Prof. Sawyer, last Tuesday. It is thought that this trip will last about twenty minutes. Following this a short song service will be held. The program for this meeting was arranged by the student members of the church. A large crowd is expected to attend this service as inasmuch as it will not only be unique in itself but will be held in the first church of its kind in the United States.

Of special interest to the visitors will be the large student rooms on the second floor. There will be two large rooms, one along the entire front and the other along the one side, which will be open to the public 24 hours a day and every day in the week. The furnishings for these have all been donated and represent a very luxurious and comfortable arrangement for those who wish to use them. The rugs for these rooms alone cost $2,000. There will be numerous tables and divanettes, chairs, floor lamps, and other articles for use. Another special feature of this apartment will be a kitchenette which will be open for student use.

A number of committees have been appointed to arrange affairs for the opening of the new church building. They are composed of the heads of the various student organizations. Representing the W. S. B. C. will be Genevieve Church, R. L. Barney will represent the S. C. L., while E. D. McLean is chairman for the S. C. U. There are two special committees. The advertising committee will be Genevieve Church and W. P. Robinson. The prospects committee is headed by Miss Virginia Carlisle with the assistance of Glenn Coles and Justin Simpson.

Michigan State Co-eds to Win Fame Through Eating Habits

Michigan State girls as a group are on their way to fame. An account of their eating habits is to be published in a United States bulletin. Think of it! A pamphlet that will be read all over our great country. Perhaps you are wondering just how this comes about and why this particular phase of our girls' interesting lives is to be published. Perhaps, also, the girls directly interested will be glad to learn this too.

It seems that a request has been sent out from Washington to the home economics departments of a number of colleges for data upon individual food consumption. Michigan State was one of the colleges asked to cooperate. Accordingly, then, the dietetics class under the direction of Dr. Marie Dye and Miss Ruth Cowan began a dietary study last week of the 240 girls eating at the Women's commons. Now in case you don't know what a dietary study is, we'll enlighten you. Briefly, it involves the weighing of all food used, then the weighing back of the waste. From this is computed the average food consumption per individual for a week, as well as the protein, calcium phosphate and a number of other impressive things. Frankly, we felt they were a little beyond our comprehension anyway.

It is hoped that this will put at rest the fears of the girls who didn't understand just what it was all about. They were rather dubious about the request to keep a record of the food eaten between meals. They eyed askance the girls of the dietetics class who kept records in the dining room. However these latter soon enlisted sympathy. The poor things got so tired and looked so weary and woe-begone as they sat there. Why they had to stay in the dining room all the while meals were served and it seemed as if those girls would never stop coming in.

The data is all collected but the results aren't ready to announce yet. Of course everybody is looking forward to see just how much these girls do eat anyway. It is expected all due credit will be given to the girls who bravely turned in records of the chocolate and ice cream indulged in during the period. It took courage to be truthful. Do you suppose they were?

FRATERNITIES

In an address by Dr. Francis W. Shepardson given before the delegates of the American Conference of Local Fraternities, a keen and very unusual analysis of the "fraternity" is given.

The lofty idealism which is read into every fraternity constitution has been trampled under by selfishness, "class consciousness", and any amount of "high hatting". Dr. Shepardson explains these vanities as purely temporal. The spark of true inspiration that passes from one to another under the grip of fraternity life is the important thing, he says.

"No I do not want to say friendship. I want to say love. I hear someone sneer. Love? That is sentimental. That is a kind of soft mushy feeling that you have towards someone of the other sex. You can not love a man. Just as long as college fraternity men accept a theory like that, just as long are they going to fail to reach the truly important ideal of the college fraternity.

"I tell you men can love men. I tell you fraternity men can love fraternity men, that ties of a fraternity bond can become as strong, yea stronger, than the ties of blood, and I have seen it illustrated over and over again in my own college experience. You go into a college fraternity. It is the most marvelous and wonderful thing that happens to a man in all his career because the fellow whose hand he takes in fraternity grip may be the one who will be his partner in business through life. He may be the one whose sister he is going to marry; he may be the one who is going to open before him the gates of opportunity in life; he may be the one who is to go through peril with him by water and by land; he may be the one in whose clasped hand he is going to go out into the darkness of no man's land to face death that lurks there. It will happen to you because it has happened in every chapter of every college fraternity that ever existed, and it is going to happen. It is the fundamental thing in fraternity life. It is love."

ASSISTANT EDITORS

With this issue, Paul H. Engle is terminating his work as managing editor of the STATE NEWS. He has had a month's practical experience acquainting him with all the branches of the editorial department.

C. W. Kietzman, another junior assistant editor, will take the post vacated by Engle for the following month. D. R. Olson will also have an opportunity to edit the paper.

After the junior assistants have completed their work as managing editors, the board of publications will eliminate to two men, who names will appear on the All College ballot. It is important, therefore, to watch the work of these men during their trial period.

COLLEGE ELECTIONS

In past years, office nominations and final elections have not been as seriously considered as they should have been. Students have regarded "college politics" as something unworthy of their intense support.

What the trouble is, the students themselves only know. If the "right" candidates have not been put up for election it is the fault of the students who fail to attend class meetings. The time to voice opinions is before a decision is made and not afterwards.

It is not too early to begin thinking of candidates for the various campus activities. Forget fraternal ambition, and look for the students who are capable to carry on the positions they are chosen for.

Bares Secret of Hort Exhibit

The reason for the success of the annual Hort show has been discovered!

Many reasons have been advanced or the fine showing made by the Hort club in its Farmer's Week shows. Some authorities credit it to the fine leadership of the hort faculty. Others contend that the seeming success of the venture is because of the more general interest of the public in fruit than in other farm products. Some hort students who were approached on the subject modestly stated that it is due to the superior grade of students around their department.

New light may be thrown on the subject by a discovery made Tuesday evening. The decorations committee is known to be working industriously on hort show preparations. At 9:22 eastern standard time a number of the members of this committee were seen to emerge from the hort building, busily encompassing the spoils of a trip to the apple storage. Everyone seemed happy.

An apple a day does not always keep the doctor away. However, it seems to produce a sense of well-being that keeps up spirits.

Public Letter

Jan. 27, 1926.

To the Editor of The News:

Maidens, men and mountains have one thing in common: One has to get away from each a certain distance before the enchantment is complete. The beauty of the maiden, the worthiness of the man, the majesty of the mountain, are all enhanced by the perspective which distance lends.

Of institutions the same thing is true. A college looks greatest to the student as he approaches it for matriculation or as he leaves it at graduation. Especially after graduation, as he goes away through the years, the student sees more distinctly the proportion of his Alma Mater measured among many other institutions.

Fortunately there is a faculty of mind which helps men evaluate other men and even institutions without the need of distance. That faculty—a most precious one—is imagination.

There is an institution in East Lansing about which students need to let their expansive imaginations play. That institution is the People's church. From all over America men are looking at this institution. They call it the highest structure on the skyline of modern religion. Many local students see the import of the People's church. More are coming to see it. It would be hard to name a significant graduate of the college in the last few years who has not seen it.

I am writing you this letter because I am convinced that the first service to be held in the new building—and that by students—is an epoch-marking and historical event of magnitude. When the students of State get together in the new building at 12 o'clock next Sunday, in a signal way something will be taking place in the history of religious advance in America. Few things could so assure me of the alertness and sense of our students, of their awareness of important events, as to see many of them present.

Sincerely,
BENNETT WEAVER

The Book Shelf

Edited by Dorothy Burrell

"Soundings," by A. Hamilton Gibbs. Written in simple, direct style, this novel has as a result, a direct appeal. Carefully chosen words, assembled in a manner made to appear casual, fascinate and draw the reader's attention.

It is Mr. Gibbs' first attempt at writing a novel, although he has written articles of different kinds for some while. He is related to the better known Phillip Gibbs. His character portrayals seem particularly well drawn; his description of the heroine, Nancy Hawthorne, as her father gazed questioningly into her eyes, is especially fine. "As he looked down at her mop of hair and into the honest brown eyes, unmarked by any shadow," simple indeed, and yet one seems to see Nancy quite vividly.

This is a tale of modern life depicted in a new manner. The story on an English girl who goes abroad to study art. She comes in with a sophisticated American girl, who was studying abroad just for the fun of the freer life, away from home restraints. Nancy's experiences with varied types of men are interesting, and typified by her unvaryingly clear vision of each new situation.

NOTICE

The annual college elections are to be held on March 12, 1926. It is necessary that all candidates be submitted to the Student Council on or before March 5.

The question is, "How do you men get when they have a large industrial organization? Have they opportunities to exercise creative talent in their business during their leisure time?"

One Man's Summer Vacation

W. C. Goodwin

HAVE you ever seen a man dash out from a crowd along a busy street, stop a runaway team, and save many from danger? That was newspaper headlines.

But it is only two horses—and it happens once in a blue moon. Every hour in industry horsepower adds to the millions is tamed by man's control. Runaway apparatus is instantly checked. Electric controllers protect operators and the public. They safeguard motor and machine.

There hangs a story of control development, involving W. C. Goodwin, Penn State 1915. Goodwin spent his summer vacations tinkering with rotating apparatus—testing motors and the like. He came to Westinghouse. Control Engineering was a magnet for Goodwin, even during his training period. When the separate Control Engineering Department was formed in 1917 Goodwin was in it. Next he was made engineer in charge of the section to design and develop new control equipment. Now he has nine assistants.

The Control Engineer may be called upon, as Goodwin was, to meet such an emergency as this: The war was on. Battleships were to be propelled by electricity. Upon the starting, reversing or stopping of the main propulsion motors, without the loss of a second, the fate of the ship might depend. Goodwin designed control to do that.

Or in industrial application, the Control Engineer may add to human safety, as Goodwin did. In rubber mills, hands of operators sometimes are caught between powerful rollers. A fraction of a second may mean an arm—or a life. Goodwin's new combination control apparatus has greatly reduced the time in stopping the motor.

Control Engineers must know the industry with which they are dealing—steel, rubber, textile, railroad—and then literally "put the control to each order." In seeing the job through the customer's eyes—Control Engineers find themselves most at home with Westinghouse.

CO-EDS COMPETE IN TWO RIFLE MEETS

Tie With Vermont in Dual Meet; Place Third In Five Corners Meet.

Michigan State's co-ed rifle team to date has tied in a dual match with the University of Vermont and placed third in a five team match including Delany University, University of Missouri, University of Nevada, and the University of South Dakota.

In the Vermont match both teams shot a 99-percent score. Johnston, Betty Henderson, and Katherine Turnbull all shot 100 for Michigan State and Katherine Turnbull and Genevieve Johnston each earned in a perfect score in the five team match. The best piece of team shooting was turned in by Turnbull which had four members who tied in perfect scores. A 97 on the 100 member however, brought six extra points just below that of Missouri which had three 100 and two 99.

LANSING-MUSKEGON TO PLAY IN STATE GYM

Rivals Draw Crowds That Tax Lansing Gym.

Michigan State's gymnasium will be the scene of an interscholastic basketball game February 3, when Lansing high school will entertain its old rival Muskegon on the local floor. The athletic authorities of the college offered the use of the gym to Lansing athletic officials as a means of accommodating the large crowds that have in the past tried to find a seat at one of the Muskegon-Lansing games. More have been turned away than have been able to find accommodations and the new arrangement will provide amply for all who wish to attend the game.

YPSI NORMAL IS NEXT FOR STATE

Michigan Normal Court Crew Here Tomorrow Night; Among Best in State.

According to all advance dope on the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic association basketball race, State Normal of Ypsilanti is one of the favored contenders. The dozen starters possess one of their best quintets of recent years, and when they appear here tomorrow night they are expected to give the Michigan State basketballers plenty of opposition in their first home game in a month.

The record made by Ypsi is very impressive and is indicative of a victory over State, since the latter is possessed with a market decrease of mediocre performance.

State will endeavor to upset the Normalites here on the morrow and thus make its season standing to date even on the balance scale. The Kobsmen have won four titles and lost five at present. The teams which have fallen before the Green and White attack are Adrian, Olivet, University of Chicago, and St. Victor. On the opposite side of the ledger the Imperials show losses to Notre Dame, Northwestern, Marquette, Detroit and Michigan.

Since State has bashed across the court an unexpected glory this season upon two occasions, against St. Victor and Chicago, there is a remote possibility that they may hand a little surprise package to the Ypsi men and turn the tables when the whistle sends these two quintets into action tomorrow evening.

The fray will get underway at 8 o'clock, and the personnel to receive starting lineup directions can only be conjectured upon. Captain Hackett and Monty Hood seem to be the logical choices for the forward jobs. Jim Lewis, Jack O'Connor and Fredericks are all contenders to start against Ypsi at center. Lewis replaced Fredericks at the pivot station against the U. of D. and performed satisfactorily. The guard berths are cared for in only one respect, that being in the territory guarded by Ken Drew. The other defensive position will probably be held down by Cole, or in the event of either Fredericks or Lewis starting at center, O'Connor may be relegated to team off with Drew at the other defensive position.

STATE RIFLE TEAM LOSES

The Michigan State rifle team suffered its second defeat of the season Wednesday by falling to Boston University, 1:55 to 1:10. The results of each team were exchanged by telegraph as is the custom in rifle competition. Michigan State has defeated Syracuse university and lost to New York City college.

M. S. C. FRESHMEN TO PLAY HERE FRIDAY

Meet Flint Junior College In Second Game of Season.

Coach Elwood Mason's fresh basketball players will play their second home engagement of the season Friday night in the gymnasium. Flint Junior college invading the local court. The game is scheduled at 7 o'clock.

The first game of the season was not an encouraging one for the yearling mentor, but his material was unknown and untried and he could not cast his hand on one combination and call it a team. He has had an opportunity to look his ball tosser over now and more stress will be laid on teamwork and basket shooting, rather than on fundamentals.

Coach Mason has not decided on a starting lineup, as he can find no one standing fire on his squad. He has some good material however that with a little seasoning, have earmarks of developing into a machine of no mean ability. The boys are fast, have good eyes for the basket, and are willing workers. Improvement is being shown at each workout and a win or at least a close score is predicted for tonight.

Flint J. C., although a small school, has a basketball team this year that is looked upon with pride in the Ann Arbor city. The only advantage they will have will be teamwork which, at some only with long practice and familiarity with the players.

UNIVERSITY OF DETROIT WINS OVER STATE IN CLOSING MINUTES 16-10

HOOD, HACKETT, AND DREW FEATURE ATTACK IN LAST EIGHT MINUTES OF HECTIC BATTLE ON DETROIT FLOOR.

For the first time in eight seasons Detroit spectators witnessed the performance of a Michigan State basketball quintet, Tuesday night, when Coach Kobs took his men on a jaunt to the stronghold of the University of Detroit, and apparently, from all reports of the encounter, the Titans were primed to royally entertain their former "Aggie" friends with high spirited basketball, for this they did, and nabbed a 16-10 verdict.

The game was marked throughout with constant flashes of individualism, and so desirous of winning were both outfits that the technique of the game was detected to the background.

State consistently wrecked its own chances to cop the laurels by its extremely poor foul shooting. In 17 attempts from the free throw line the starters chalked up scores but none. These came at the hands of Fredericks and Drew. Detroit meshed the ball from the field seven times as compared with four goals by the Green and White men in foul shooting. The Titans were no better than M. S. U. They garnered only a single counter via this route, in one less attempt.

The Catholics had the game cinched 13-5 with eight minutes of play remaining, and then State staged a rally which, results proved, came a little late but nevertheless served to let the Detroiters know that the game was not on ice until the final whistle had echoed across the Armory floor.

Eight minutes of belated basketball on the part of Michigan State came by the efforts of Hood and Smith, who caged two baskets in rapid succession and brought the score to 12-10.

Trudeau, tall, lanky substitute forward for the U. of D., came through, however, with two baskets to take away the feeling of unrest lodged in the minds of the Detroit players, and to likewise annihilate State's hopes of last minute victory. One of the goals by Trudeau at this stage of the game came when he dribbled through the entire Green and White combine to take an open crack at the net.

Captain Hackett and Hood were the offensive stars for State, while the work of Drew along the line of a ivy-dressed defensive attack, served to oftentimes stem a Detroit attack, was outstanding.

Losing to the U. of D. places State in a majority loss situation, and again. They have now won four out of five in the state this week, in the form of the Ypsilanti Normal quintet; they are not destined to win a 50-50 standard for this season so far. However, the Kobsmen may pull a surprise, which they are capable for when they defeat the University of Chicago, St. Victor, and showed up well again this week against the reputed strong Lansing university five.
