CO-EDS TO DEBATE HOME MEET IN LITTLE THEATRE

Affirmative Team In Triangular Debate Here Tuesday; Negative Team At Albion.

The first co-ed debate of the season will be held Tuesday, April 13, at 8 o'clock in the Little Theatre of the new gymnasium building. The affirmative team, composed of Ellen Farley, Margaret Walters and Thelma Estelle, will meet the Albion college negative team on the question: "Resolved: That the Labor Amendment Should Be Passed." Students will be admitted on complimentary passes in the athletic books and faculty members will be admitted free.

This will be a part of the first regular debate with Western State Normal and Albion college and is expected that this arrangement will be permanent. The negative team will go to Albion on the same evening. The affirmative team is composed of Ellen Farley, Dorothy Robinson and Thelma Estelle.

The affirmative co-ed team will arrive at Albion on the child labor question. The final debate of the year will be held on April 22 when the negative team will meet Detroit City college at East Lansing and the affirmative team will debate Detroit City college at Detroit.

Engaging in three debates of the spring season, the negative team will debate Albion on the child labor question, Western State Normal on the child labor question, and Detroit City college on the child labor question. The third contest will be a team debate. The team consists of Ellen Farley, Dorothy Robinson and Thelma Estelle. The team is coached by Coach E. C. Edmond and Mrs. Maud C. Thompson who will act as chaplain. Mrs. Thompson is formerly social director at Michigan State.

WEEK STARTS OFF AERONAUTICAL MOST COLORFUL ENGINEERING IS PERIOD OF YEAR POSSIBILITY HERE

Registration Passes 1900 Mark; Believed There Is a Good Chance for Aviation Field With Own Planes.

Registration for the spring term has gone beyond the 1900 mark according to the latest figures given out by Miss Eliza Vasky, registrar, and present figures indicate that at least 2000 before the opening of the students course. Although the enrollment will be some what below that of the winter term, the drop is not as great as usual. The drop is due to the fact that many students are leaving for the summer which accounts for the spring term.

Spring term marks the most colorful period of the year on the campus. Aside from the customary activities imposed upon the freshmen during the holiday, spring evenings during the school year are the annual "strokes" which furnish some of the spirit of the college year. These of course, are "Night and the commencement exercises" are also one of the high spots of the year.

The water carnival, which is one of the unique customs annually looked forward to, contributes the color of the Red Cedar with an array of floats, pageants, and boat races. The fraternities and societies, furnishing their competitors in an effort to out do the splendor of their rivals.

Another event slated for the spring term is the outdoor senior play given beneath the pines in the Forest at Arden. In the past this has been a Shakespearean production but the usual custom is abandoned this season for an Italian tragedy, "Frasquita di Rimini" by George Henry Baker.

There will be a meeting of all freshmen and sophomore girls interested in State News work Tuesday at 5 o'clock in room 2 of the Union building.

COLLINGWOOD GIVES TALK ON YOUTHFUL CRIME

Says That the Bootlegging Trade Is Responsible for Disregard of Law.

The delinquent youth of the present with its pocket flask and his petty crimes is replacing the picturesque bandits of the past and is becoming an even more insidious evil than the old kind of bandit, stated Justice B. Collingwood of Lansing in an address to the students of the liberal arts division at convocation Wednesday morning.

Attacking the bootlegging trade as the cause of the disregard for law that is prevalent among the youth of today, Justice Collingwood described the type of young man who is breaking the law and after being in prison a few years comes back to the outside world as a method of society because he has never been taught what "thou shalt not" really means.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

A new management begins with this issue to serve the student body on the Michigan State News. We have hopes, aspirations, ideals for the possible accomplishments of the coming year. But we are human and we will make mistakes. The man who does not make mistakes is one who makes no effort toward progress. The State News management is open to suggestions and wishes to render the greatest possible service to the college through this publication.

Owing to the large amount of advertising that has been secured for this issue, it has been possible to publish the large size. We expect that the five column paper will be used during the remainder of the spring term rather than the six column unless sufficient advertising can be secured to make the large size edition pay for itself.

Depleted financial resources made it necessary toward the end of the winter term under the management of our predecessors, to return to the six column size.

Due to the return to the large size permanently with the beginning of the fall term next year.

OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity knocks not once in the old saying, but three times a year at Michigan State. With the opening of each new term we have the opportunity of becoming a part of it of keeping a good record, of making the most of a college training or of just getting by as we think it best to do.

The world at large is still laboring under the delusion that a college diploma stands for training, ability, capability, and the man or woman who could attach the magic letters of a degree to his or her name has something been looked upon with awe for no other reason. But men in responsible positions of the enterprises and industries of the world which make up the market for the products of college training will demand concrete evidence.

If a skeptical alone were evidence of mental ability, New York City would not have thousands of street car operators who are college graduates. It is safe to say that no young man ever entered college to prepare himself for a life of standing on stepping stones out of of training in fairs. And why do we find college graduates in positions that require no special mental training? Largely because of a lack of conscientious application of native ability.

We have had to look around us for illustrations of men who have trained themselves for the life that is to come and have become successful in it. They are men of high character, of high ability, and of high training that has been the result of their own effort. They are men who have made their own way in the world and who have done so by the use of their own brains and hands. They are men who have made their own way in the world and who have done so by the use of their own brains and hands. They are men who have made their own way in the world and who have done so by the use of their own brains and hands.

And in the same way, we can make our own way in the world. We can make our own way in the world by the use of our own brains and hands. We can make our own way in the world by the use of our own brains and hands. We can make our own way in the world by the use of our own brains and hands.

Opportunity is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door. It is knocking at our door.

They call it the "Pierce Type"

When the class of '12 at Maine was being graduated, the name "Pierce" meant a lot more in the field of metering than Sweeney or Jones. Today, however, it you'll talk to such companies as the Detroit Edison Company, The Southern California Edison Company, the Duquesne Light Company, or the United Verde Copper Company, you'll learn that "Pierce" means a type of remote metering, which enables a man in a central dispatcher's office to read the condition of a sub-station several miles away. Superpower brought in the need for an improved method of remote metering, and R. T. Pierce, Maine '12, in the employ ment in the instrument section of the engineering department. He took it merely as a "fill-in" job. Soon he saw that instruments play a vital part in every electrical operation. As an instrument engineer, Pierce spent several weeks on the U. S. S. Tennessee and the Colorado during their trial runs. He has ridden in the cabs of electric locomotives. He is in closer touch with radio than anyone not a radio engineer.

A design engineer comes continuously in contact with sales negotiations, and Pierce's contact with them proved so beneficial that he was lately made head of the Instrument Section of the Sales Department, which means that he really has charge of the sale of all instruments to Westinghouse customers.

There is a cycle of fashion not only for the hats college men wear but for the line of work into which they go.

FIFTY MEN REPORT TO COACHES YOUNG AND TRAYNOR FOR FOOTBALL

Eight Veterans Form Nucleus for 1926 Football Squad; Line to Be Rebuilt and New Blood Added to Backfield.

Spring football under Coaches Young and Traynor began with the starting of the spring term, and a squad of about 50 men is reporting to the coaches every night for practice. "Barnes" Traynor, new line coach for State, is on the job looking over the line men in preparation for the 1926 schedule. He must fill several gaping holes before then and the new material must be better than ordinary if he is to replace the holes left by Captain Haskins and Hackett and Spiekerman, who graduated in June.

The line will probably be the big problem from the coaching standpoint in the fall football campaign, and special stress is being laid this spring to determine the real caliber of staff that will be expected to fill up the sadly depleted line. Traynor will have a pair of veteran ends in Bohn Grim and Ken Drew who won their numerals for the first time last fall. Grim is one of the fastest men to wear the mackskins for the Spartans. He is a good receiver of passes, fast under punts, and a good defensive end. He will probably find a regular berth next fall and show to advantage on a wing job. Drew is another dependable end who is good defensively and a good receiver of passes. Ends seemed to be one glaring fault with the State team last year, especially in the Wisconsin and Michigan games, when practically all the gains made against State were centered on the wings.

The tackle positions will be the hardest to fill of any of the line positions, both the varsity men and, until Captain "Marty" Rummell is a good tackle and will probably be seen at one of the jobs next season. The other position will not be so easily filled, but there is a probability that John Garver may be shifted to a tackle assignment. Garver was one of the big reasons that Eddie Tryon, Colgate wonder man of last year, didn't score a few touchdowns. There is a large number of promising guards from the reserves and freshmen squads of last year, who will probably give State a good pad to ease for the center of the line.

The center job has several candidates who will bear watching between now and the first whistle in September. Ross is the only varsity pivot man to return, but he will find plenty of opposition in the presence of Kanitz, all state center from Muskegon, and Freddy Barratt, stellar

DREW LEADS STATE SCORES ON COURT

Michigan State's varsity basketball squad won five games, lost thirteen, scoring 389 points to opponents 490, according to figures compiled by Coach Kobs of the 1925-26 team. Fourteen men finished the season on the squad, all but two breaking into games and six winning major monograms. Of a possible 81 practices, Boyer Marx had a perfect attendance, of a possible 17 games played in "State" Cole and Ken Drew had perfect records, breaking into every game. Out of a maximum of 680 playing minutes, Drew had 539, Cole 594, Fredericks 374, Captain Hackett 376, Smith 271 and Hood 249.

TRACK SQUAD OUT FOR SPRING SPORTS

Soggy Track Hampers Men In Conditioning for Stiff Schedule; Ohio Relays April 17.

With the outdoor track soft and still soaking with the floods of water that inundated it during the latter part of the winter term, Coaches Castrol and Mason are working with their charges indoors in preparation for the Ohio State relays April 17. State plans to send a team to this classic, but no indication has been made as to what the personnel of the team will be.

With the return to school of Paul Smith, football luminary and weight man of unusual ability, the squad will be materially strengthened in the shot put and discus. Tillotson, who carried the Green and White colors in the indoor events, is still available for outdoor track and the pair should give State two weight men who can be relied upon for points in the meets on the spring schedule.

Captain Bohn Grim and Freddy Alderman are working out in preparation for the short dash events, but are curtailed a bit in their efforts by being forced to work on an indoor track. It is doubtful if either of the two will feel indoors under their feet until they appear at Columbus April 17.

Coach Mason has a formidable aggregation of distance men in Ripper Bell, Willie and Hugh, but their real ability cannot be proven until they get on the outdoor track.

performer from Lansing. Both of the last two men named are capable of playing varsity football, and he expects the three of them a pretty battle should be fought with the odds at present about even.

A veteran backfield returns, but with considerably less help than in the fresh blood before the season opens. Fouss, Smith, McLoosh and Boehringer are the veteran backs. If Smith becomes a capable passer, he will be a real triple threat. His kicking was unsurpassed by any he met last fall and his 45 yard drop kick against Centre College last year is still fresh in the memories of State fans. He proved his versatility against Wisconsin last November by carrying the ball for long gains in carrying on a punting. Fouss, in a shirt, open field runner and M. Cosh and Boehringer are hard hitting backs with good defensive ability. There is much material among the freshmen who may break in to the varsity ranks.

The varsity men who will be available for football are: Captain Martin Rummell, 18, Saginaw; John E. Garver, 18, Caro; Randolph Boehringer, 19, Bay City; Kenneth L. Drew, 16, Adrian; Leslie Fouss, 16, Grand Haven; Ward F. Ross, 14, Port Huron; Paul M. Smith, 18, Saginaw; James A. McLoosh, 16, Detroit.

All fresh baseball candidates meet in gymnasium lecture room at 5:15 each night until further notice.

SOUTHERN TRIP PROVES TO BE SUCCESSFUL

Take Three Out of Five Tilts; Rained Out In First Game.

Coach John Kobs, State baseball mentor, and 13 of his ball chasers returned to East Lansing Thursday from Dixie after a ten days' spring training trip in the southern states. With three games won and two lost out of five starts, the Green and White athletes give promise of forming one of the most formidable baseball combinations ever to represent Michigan State college.

The Spartans were rained out of their first game at Bowling Green, Ky., and moved on to Port Bennett, Ga., where a pair of games were played. Kobs featured George Kuhn, his elongated right hander, as the mainstay to present his case against the soldiers in the first game, and although State might its best, 12-10, Port Bennett won the game by benefiting its bats. The score was 7-5. Lefty Tollos, a sophomore pitcher, was sent against Port Bennett in the second encounter and proved effective, letting the soldiers down with six watered hits and winning 4-1. In the first two games the Spartans made only two errors, both by Captain "Buddy" Kiebler, who was playing a position new to him, third base, on his accustomed stamping ground.

State moved on to Mercer university where Harry Wakefield was allowed to give a demonstration of his assortment in the line of pitching. He proved to be in mid-season form and had Mercer "baffled" at every turn and shut them out 1-0. State's only run came in the sixth inning when Captain Kiebler took one on the ribs for a free ticket to first base and scored on Rowley long hit to center. This is one of the best games Harry ever pitched and is headed only by his no-hit game against Chicago in 1925.

The Spartans moved on to Auburn, Ala., to cross bats with the Auburn Polytechnical institute, but a poor field was encountered and neither Wakefield nor Kuhn was effective. Both teams shared evenly in the matter of hits and errors, both making nine hits and four errors. The score was 8-5. The game was called in the seventh because of darkness.

With the count standing two and two, State moved on to Oglethorpe university, which proved to be the last game on the southern trip. The game lasted only five innings as the Southerners had to make the train for Cincinnati, but it lasted long enough for the Spartans to send two pitchers for an 8-6 win. Bremer started against Oglethorpe, but was relieved for "curious" reasons in the first chapter and was removed in favor of Wakefield, who allowed only three more runs in the remaining four innings while his night margin of enough for a two point victory. Wakefield pitched in three successive games, starting one and retiring or relieving in two others, winning two of three games.

The thirteen men who made the trip were Captain Kiebler, Perry Fremont, Harry Wakefield, George Kuhn, Lefty Tollos, Bremer, Spiekerman, Baynes, Hood, Haskins, Zimmerman, Rinehart and Rowley. The most used combination on the trip was Spiekerman at first, Baynes second, Kiebler third and Rowley shortstop. Haskins, Rinehart and either Tollos or Kuhn took care of the outer gardens. Fremont took care of the roving end of the pitching of Wakefield, Kuhn, Tollos and Bremer. Don Blosser, varsity outfielder, was taken sick a few hours before the team left south and was unable to make the trip. Rinehart, a promising sophomore outfielder, took his place and made a good showing. His hitting and fielding were on a par with the more experienced men on the trip and he will probably find a varsity berth in the outfield.
