"That's That" Featured by Whirl of Song and Dance

Songs and dances of the big 1927 Michigan State College Union musical revue "That's That" which will be presented at the Prudden auditorium in Lansing on Feb. 4 and 5.

The curtain rises on an attractive singing and dancing ensemble of hotel guests, bathing girls, and waitresses to the musical number "Down Where the Palm Trees Grow."

Two other groups complete the gallery of brilliant hits of the production. One furnishes a beautiful melody which we predict will be retained in the memory of the audience long after the rest of the play has worn off.

Union Production Merits Support of Convention Groups

"That's That" will receive a descriptive announcement during the coming week through the unique medium of sending various characters and chorus groups before a host of conventions and clubs.

Michigan Farmers' week opening here Monday, will see a series of entertainments composed of novelty acts from "That's That." As a result of this, an expected climax will be hundreds of farm delegates flocking to the Prudden auditorium next Friday night at the conclusion of their week to see a real honest-to-goodness college production.

Scenery for "That's That" musical comedy production of the Michigan State College Union to be presented at the Prudden auditorium Lansing the nights of Feb. 4-5 is a riot of tropical colors, palm trees and draping ferns.

In the first act a reproduction of the grounds of the Ponce de Leon hotel of Palm Beach, Fla. appears. In the background an appearance of the sweltering tropical sea presents itself.

The scenery of act two is a faithful reproduction of Peacock Alley in this notorious southern history. All of the work on this material is in black and white.

One of the eight drops in the second act is a setting for the tableau of the Knickerbocker in the song "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

MAKE EXCELLENT PROGRESS WITH 'THAT'S THAT'

Week of Rehearsals Lends Definite Shape to 1927 Union Musical Comedy.

HUGE SUCCESS PROMISED Offers Wide Range of Action and Display of Talent; Entire Cast Completed.

After a week of pounding rehearsals which have been in progress daily from early in the afternoon until 10 o'clock every night, the 1927 Michigan State College Union production "That's That" begins to take a definite shape.

The 12 principals and 11 chorus groups are working out for half-hour periods each day and no time is lost in that period of time to apply a polish and finish to the movements of each individual member of the huge cast.

The revue promises beyond all doubt to be one of the finest and most sumptuously dressed amateur productions ever to be seen here.

Wide Range of Action The plot of the comedy furnishes a range of action which should satisfy (Continued on page 5)

HEREDITY CLASS TO MAKE TRIPS

May Visit Lapeer, Pontiac, and Wahjamega, State Institutions.

Under the guidance of Dr. H. R. Hunt the class in human heredity and agencies will study the real facts of heredity.

Proposed trips are being considered in the hospital for the insane, Pontiac; the Michigan Home and Training school, Lapeer, where representative cases of all stages of feeble-mindedness will furnish both interest and enlightenment.

Further investigation will be met with in the study of the class members own families. After a close check upon his own traits the member selects those of most prominence and through generation after generation of the ancestors traces their development.

Dr. Little to Speak at State University of Michigan President to Appear Tuesday on Farmers' Week Program.

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, will arrive in East Lansing Tuesday to take a prominent part in making Farmers' week a success.

President Butterfield will entertain Dr. Little with a dinner in his honor Tuesday evening. The efforts put forth in bringing Dr. Little here for this occasion illustrates the aim of our president in bringing about a closer friendly relationship between the University of Michigan and Michigan State College.

At the Union

Wide representation of all sections of the campus is apparent in the cast of "That's That." Under the direction of Nayral Tyrell, more than two hundred students were given an opportunity to try for places.

There will be some room for committee meetings during Farmers' week but as a general rule the entire building will be in use for entertaining the guests of the college.

Saturday night the Blue Moon orchestra will present a special program of dance music in honor of its first appearance at a Union party this term.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES FOR THE FEW OR FOR THE STUDENT BODY?

Those who are in campus activities at Michigan State have wondered for a long time why more students do not go out for campus activities. The responsible positions are distributed among far too small a number. No individual can do justice to many offices and still continue with school work, but it most always happens that a few people hold all of the offices.

The answer may be an inferiority complex. It may be a lack of encouragement, perhaps it is in the system of organizing campus activities; but there are no doubt other reasons for this woeful lack of numbers in the organizations that serve the student body.

If an individual enters campus activities serves the student body and the college, and does justice to his position of trust, the result is apt to be an occasional "cut." The result is negative credits for the additional work done. In some institutions, credit is given for activities which apply to the type of work being done by the individual in college. This is as it should be. No individual can step out into the world and shoulder a responsible position without experience, no matter how much book learning he may have had. If the individual can, in extra-curricular activities, gain experience that will be of value to his life work, then allowance should be made for it.

A great deal has been said about the big men and the big women on the campus. They are more often to be pitied than envied. The responsibilities are too great, their interests are too much diversified, there are so many demands upon their time that they cannot say their soul is their own. Campus activities at Michigan State need a greater representation of the student body and more individuals assuming responsibility.

SPORTS FOR ALL

One of the biggest institutions of American colleges is intercollegiate athletics. Athletics hold an important place in college life. They serve to draw the members of a student body closer together and stimulate school spirit. Athletics are excellent training for the individual participating, but the usual drawback is that too few participate in the physical benefits.

The maintaining of the skating rink and its opening to the general public is one of the finest things that has been done by the college athletic department for the student body as a whole from the physical standpoint. It is encouraging to note the large numbers who have taken advantage of this opportunity. How much better from a mental and physical standpoint is an evening spent in wholesome exercise than one spent in some other amusement indoors in a stuffy atmosphere.

The new outing club now being organized will offer unlimited opportunities in this direction if sufficient interest is shown by the student body. It needs support to get started. Once under way it should become so popular that no boosting will be necessary.

The Forum Editor would like to know what the student body thinks about the present distribution system of the State News. The present system has its advantages in that it is delivered into the hands of the subscriber. The greatest disadvantage is the element of time involved in this method of distribution. The time lost in going through the postoffice cannot be avoided. If the students would rather wait until the paper is delivered for their news, the present system is satisfactory. If they would rather take the trouble to stop in one of the buildings on the campus for the paper and get it as soon as it comes off the press, then the present system is not straight.

It is interesting to note that three Ypsanti instructors failed in an all college grading made by the students and conducted by the student council. One instructor received all "A" grades, two others received nearly all "A's." It would be more interesting to know what the authorities at Ypsanti are going to do as a result of the opinion of the students. Are they going to check up on the teachers who have "flunked" or will they be allowed to go along in the same old way? We suspect, inasmuch as the institution favored the idea, that a check will be made.

PEOPLE'S CHURCH HAS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Annual Report Shows Prosperous Condition of Affairs.

Satisfactory conditions in all departments of the People's church were reported at its last annual business meeting of the People's church.

The budget was fully pledged in the one-week drive of November, and the subscriptions covered more than the amount asked, according to Dr. H. R. Hunt, chairman of the finance committee.

The new officers for 1927 are: C. W. McKibbin, to succeed A. J. Nash, as trustee; trustee, C. F. Berman, re-elected; Dr. H. J. Stalder, J. Merritt, R. J. Harrison and Ralph Hanson.

Humidifiers will serve a two-fold purpose: First, to supply the required amount of moisture for the books, which when dry tend to crack. Second, to supply the necessary moisture for the students. The above is taken from the State News of Jan. 11. How materialistic we are in our thinking, books first, human welfare second.

The college gymnasium (with the exception of the pool and shower rooms) is the driest place this side of the Sahara and it is in the thinnest atmosphere that hundreds of students daily take their workouts in basketball, track, etc. It is here that the coaches are expected to develop winning teams to represent our college. Is it fair, moisture for the books and bookworms, but the driest of air for men to breathe when they are taxing their lungs to the limit breathing seven times as much air per minute as they ever breathe in a library? My purpose is not to discourage books. Indeed we could not have a college without books. However, no one would say that all the books put together are worth more to him than good health.

The health services department has colds, coughs, tonsillitis and earaches other throat cases to contend with almost entirely because the air we breathe indoors is so dry that excessive moisture is taken from the mucous membrane of the nasal passages.

The problem of humidity, same as Michigan State is a big one, but engineering students are being trained on this subject in physics building design, ventilation, humidity, etc. Is it that the students are so confined to their text books that they have no chance to observe the conditions under which they study? It is not a lack of observation but a lack of initiative. Ask, always, any student or instructor if he doesn't think the air in his classroom is too dry and his body will respond accordingly. Yes, they might do something about it. He assumes no responsibility. He is here to get an education or earn a living. The teacher is to have a kindlier because the librarian and library based upon the books, but the engineering students have the swimming pool which their health depends upon.

If the proper humidity were maintained in all our classrooms we would all have better health during winter. Better health would mean less absenteeism in classes, keener minds and a higher standard of scholarship.

Miniature Electric Railroad Feature at College Electrical Show

A very novel and interesting miniature electric railroad system will be one of the features at the electrical show to be given by the electrical engineering students at Michigan State College during Farmers' week. The system was developed as thesis work by one of the students.

The track is a loop divided into two blocks. At the intersection is a siding. The trains are run on a single track through this system of blocks in opposite directions. This is equivalent to the maximum train density that could be imposed on a single track system, in that there are trains moving in both directions.

In the model, one train proceeds in the direction until it comes to a block which is closed against it. Here it automatically stops. The other train, which is approaching from the opposite direction, is allowed to proceed. This clears the block and the train on the main track may proceed. The main line stop and the siding stop are controlled by a switch which is set against it.

ECONOMIC CODE A MAIN PROBLEM

Lansing Pastor Puts Stress Upon Need of Economic Controls in Present System.

By F. MacFisher, '30

The economic problem is the factor that affects modern international relations more than any other. Around the world, Dr. Frank Kingdon of Lansing, in a series of lectures, has been pointing out the need for economic controls in our present system.

Finds Four Factors

Four main factors in our economic problem are: First, the overpopulation of the world; second, the increasing importance of surplus production; third, the increasing competition of raw materials; and fourth, the increasing competition of manufactured goods.

Age of Economic Imperialism

The age of economic imperialism is the age of the world's economic integration. It is the age of the world's economic unity. It is the age of the world's economic cooperation.

Americans Work Indirectly

Americans work indirectly in the world's economic system. They work through their exports and imports. They work through their investments and loans. They work through their influence and power.

Editor's note: Dr. H. J. By Donald Kline, '27

Think God, here is some land that the peasants do not own. This was the remark of a Hungarian farm boy to Dr. H. J. Stafseth, exchange professor from M. S. C. to the University of Hungary, September, 1925, to June, 1926. The doctor declares that this feeling toward the farm working class is prevalent over the whole of agricultural Hungary.

It is seen now that promised reviews cannot come before these desired, so with all due apologies, we push the story of the much talked of poetry of Francois Villon on to another week, and present excerpts from the compact little volume of "My Mortal Enemy," Willa Cather's astounding study of a woman's heart.

"My Mortal Enemy" is a work of tragic passion. While directly presenting the end of a great love story, it sketches unforgettably the entire life of a woman, and the 19th century surroundings that produced her greatness of character.

MAKE EXCELLENT PROGRESS WITH "THAT'S THAT"

(Continued from page 1) the most exacting member of an audience. In the comedy roles some of the most riotous situations conceivable are created by Alice Giltner and Perry Fremont as the New York "East Siders." The sicker, Eddie Dewey, played by Irving Edwards, lends another angle in the ludicrous way in which he solemnly displays humor in the love tangle with Letitia Brownwell, taken by Margaret Hubbard.

Some of the more serious, beautiful tableaux which may be retained for the serious, sober content are furnished by the despairing lover, Kenneth Nielson, portrayed by Lyle Eaton when he sings the beautiful ballad, "The Dreams I Have Dreamed About You." Another situation of this type is the beautiful scene by the old mill wheel in which Miss Brownwell sings "Where the Old Mill Wheel Turns Round."

Diversity of Dance Numbers

To the chaste of the public interested in the diversity of dance steps to be offered, the range of the most popular dances in the musical comedy world should be sufficiently convincing.

The entire cast as it will appear in the revue is completed and is given below. The principals are: Geraldine Burk as Eloise Reswick; Margaret Hubbard as Letitia Brownwell; Lyle Eaton as Kenneth Nielson; Pierre Kuyven as Martin Morris; Irving S. Edwards as Eddie Dewey; Alice Teal as Nanette Nielson; Perry Fremont as Mike Sullivan; Alice Giltner as Maudie Rimer; Clara Wilson as Mrs. Archibald Southwell; George Dirks as John Nielson; Franklin Howland as Hopalong; June Ramsey as Jane Bronson; Arlene Walk, just a girl and Laurette Eillon as an information girl.

The chorus groups are finally selected as: Musicians: Ida Mae Bennett, Margaret Patterson, Dora Hall, Dorothy Chinnick, Marian Chinnick, Helen Mengel, Jeannette Kennedy, Helen Pasette, Ruth Caudy, Ella Bordin, Lucille Bunge and Helen Cabott.

NEW CO-ED GROUP TO ENTER PRACTICE HOUSE

House Inventory, Furniture Painting, Hemstitching and Linen Labeling This Term.

This weekend the present student occupants of the practice house will move out and turn their duties over to a number of newcomers.

The girls during their stay at the house have had opportunities for work in all the different divisions of housekeeping from making beds to cooking.

Work this term will consist of home inventory, painting furniture, hemstitching and labeling the house linen in addition to their regular duties.

Miss Skeels was entertained by the girls at dinner last Thursday night. Miss Mayne Boone was a guest on Wednesday evening.

ATTENTION FRATERNITIES

With all fraternities of organization, notifying notice of debts related to the Whirl is kindly requested. It is by notifying the business manager of the procedure taking place. In case of any error this should be reported at once to insure some space in this year's book.

Co-ed Edna Breaks Into Print in Column Not Written by Herself

Perhaps for the last time, Co-ed Edna has broken into print as usual she had a column practically all her own. Of course there was some mention of the "grooms" being present.

Incidentally Jimmy Hands, 27, drum major of the college band, has taken up the baton in a new campaign. His exact status in his new position perhaps has not yet been determined. Who can say so early in the story whether he will confine his orders to the band, and that she can keep her remarks out of print?

Cupid has met the enemy and they are each others! Dec. 31, 1925 Jimmy Hands and Eleanor Hutchins, former columnist for the State News, were married. The marriage was announced last Tuesday. Again the old story that there are two people in the world who cannot keep a story, a girl and a newspaper writer, has been disproved.

Mr. Hands is a familiar figure on the campus due to his time work in the Michigan State band. Perhaps the "pomp and circumstance of glorious war" has led him on to further endeavor.

TRACK STARS AT CHICAGO EVENT

SPARTANS MAY ANNEX HONORS BELIEF OF FANS

Grim, Alderman, Kroll, Wylie, Lang and McAtee Carry Green and White in Handicap.

Headed by Grim and Alderman, sprint stars, Michigan State College's track stars left Thursday evening for Chicago where they will compete in the Illinois Athletic club handicap meet Friday night.

Men making the trip were Grim, Alderman, Lang, Kroll, Wylie and McAtee. The first four are entered in the 70 yard dash while Wylie is entered in the two mile run and McAtee in the pole vault. The latter has been rising to good heights of late and may be able to secure a place against the talent of the middle west.

Wylie Known
Wylie's reputation as a distance man is already too widely known to require any further mention. He seems to run any distance well and it will be no surprise if he finishes well to the fore in the two mile event.

Alderman is entered in the 300 yard event in which he secured a second last year.

In the 70 yard dash Grim and Lang are State's best bets. Both get away with lightning-like speed and are counted on to place.

Medley Hopes High
Probably State's best chance for fame comes in the three-quarter mile medley relay. Kroll and Grim will run the quarters and Alderman and Lang the two-twentieths.

All of the men have turned in some remarkable times this year and confidence has been expressed that the team will easily finish among the first three.

WRESTLING TEAM TO GO ON ROAD

Will Oppose Ohio State Grapplers Tomorrow Night.

Following the example of the track and basketball teams, Coach Leonard's matmen are going on the road for a meet with Ohio State college tomorrow night. The outcome of this meet is hard to predict, for while Ohio State is a large college and usually strong in athletics, it is said that wrestling is not made so important there, and in view of the rapid development of State's wrestlers, it may be possible to add another scalp to the two Leonard has already this season.

There are many promising men on the reserve squad but for some reason none of them seems to develop enough to replace any of the men on the team, so that the same men who have fought before will go in Saturday. All of these men, however, are improving rapidly. Arnold Bean, on the varsity for the first year, has gained a lot of experience from his encounter with Donahue of Michigan, who through Bean's remarkable defense work was unable to throw him. Barratt has also improved considerably since his first bout and will no doubt show style tomorrow. Gibbs, flyweight, is really an artist at wrestling and one of the best men on the team. Avery and Landsburg, although losing their bouts last week, are experienced men and good ones, and will make a good showing against the Buckeyes. Captain Bergquist will shine in the 145 pound class and Harry Kuttie, who threw a heavier man last week at Michigan, will try his strength against the Ohio 175-pounder.

BOWLING LEAGUE FORMED BY COLLEGE FACULTY

A faculty bowling league has been formed, and is composed of the various departments of the college.

The first matches will be held during the week of Jan. 23. Monday the veterinary science department bowled against the botany department at 7 p. m., while the soils department took on the farm crops department at 9 p. m. Tuesday the athletic instructors endeavored to defeat the militarists, and Wednesday there were two matches, the English department vs. the engineers at 7 p. m., and the economic department vs. the administration at 9 p. m.

FENCERS TO MEET OHIO STATE HERE

Conference Champions to Provide Hard Battle for State Men.

Michigan State College fencers will swing into action this coming Saturday, when they will fence the Ohio State squad here. The scene of action will probably be in the gymnasium.

The Ohio State team are the champions of the Big Ten conference, and should provide a battle worthy of the master fencers which they are. This meet is the first of the year, for the State squad and after several months' practice they should be in very good shape to show the visitors a real exhibition of fencing.

The men who will represent State in the meet next Saturday, according to Joseph Waffa, coach, will be Max Goodwin, captain, Edwin Guentner, Albert Moreley and Gordon Jarman. Two other matches have also been scheduled for the team, with a possibility of several more if the team is successful in these matches. The University of Michigan will be met at Ann Arbor Feb. 26, and a return bout will be held here some time in March.

Fencing has taken many steps forward this winter from last year, even though it is still in its infancy. The event has been established as a minor sport by the athletic department and much interest has been shown this year by the many men who have taken part. There are also classes being offered for women. The type of fencing now taught is foil fencing, but a course in saber fencing will be installed in the spring, with a course in dueling sword, called epee, in French, to be offered next fall.

FRATERNITIES TO CLASH SATURDAY

Varsity or Freshmen Squad Men Out of Running; Dark Horses Looked For.

While Michigan State College's track team is at Chicago, stars from the various fraternities about the campus will compete Saturday in the annual event.

No man is eligible to compete who is a member of either the freshmen or varsity squads. This gives the men who have not been conditioning themselves regularly an even chance for victory.

Picking a winner for the fraternity event is a difficult task indeed. Each year so many dark horses appear that the task is almost hopeless.

Managers from the various houses have been sending in their entry blanks to Lyman E. Priming, assistant director of athletics. He announces one of the largest turnouts in history is expected.

CATHOLIC FIVE HOSTS TO STATE AT SOUTH BEND

Hopes of Spartans Gloomy; Notre Dame Boasts High Scoring Court Outfit.

With more than half of the 1936-37 court season history, Coach Ben Van Alstyne will take his basketball team down to South Bend Saturday night to battle the Irishmen in the first of the two annual clashes.

As the season stands, State has won five games and dropped six. The Notre Dame tilt will give the Spartans a chance to even matters.

The Irish, while not quite as strong as last year, are still rated as exceptionally powerful. Last year, Notre Dame had the greatest team in the history of the Catholic institution and ran rough-shod over the Spartans.

VanAlstyne has few hopes of scoring a win over the Irish. He feels that if his team goes well it will hold Notre Dame to a fairly low score.

The starting lineup for State is expected to consist of Green and Dickerson, forwards; Felt, center; Colvin and Brown, guards. Unless injury or personal fouls interfere, Hossel is about the only man likely to be substituted.

WOLVERINES TO PLAY STATE 'SIX'

Spartans Conceded Even Chance in Game Scheduled for Local Rink Saturday Afternoon.

Michigan State College's hockey team will oppose the University of Michigan sextet on the Grand River avenue rink at 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

The State team has an even break, having won a game from the Battle Creek cycle promotion team and having lost to Notre Dame in one of the fastest games ever played on the local rink. The State six has been showing most improvement under the tutelage of John Kels and is conceded to have an even chance of defeating the Wolverines.

Last year Michigan downed the State outfit only after two battles of the most bitter variety.

Hockey has been coming to the fore with unheard of rapidity and the experts agree that it is only a question of time until every town in the northern part of the country will boast a team. The puck-chasing game is without a doubt the fastest of any game.

YEARLING FIVE TILTS LID WITH FERRIS QUINTET

Traynor Enthusiastic Over Outlook for His Freshmen Team; Game Should Draw.

Barney Traynor, Michigan State College freshmen basketball team will be unbench for the first time Saturday night when Ferris Institute invades the local gym.

The game is expected to attract wide attention because of the varsity being at Notre Dame. Traynor declares that he has an exceptionally powerful outfit this year.

He has been drilling with his proteges for some time and they seem to be accustomed to the style of play the former Colgate star teaches.

The squad consists of 20 men, having been cut some time ago.

The game Saturday night is scheduled to get under way at 8 p. m.

POSTPONE BILLIARD AND POOL TOURNEY

The Union pool and billiard tournament has been postponed until after Farmers' week, it was announced today. This sets the date for its beginning as Feb. 7.

Students have shown a lively interest in the matches, and have swelled the coming contest with a list of 34 men. Ten of these are entrants in the straight rail events, 9 in three cushion billiards, and 15 in straight pool competition. Five men from the teaching staff have entered in the straight rail contests, six in three cushion billiards, and four in straight pool.

Men wishing to enter these events should sign up with Marty Rummel in the Union billiard parlors.
