

SEEK HEAVY VOTE FOR ALL-COLLEGE ELECTION MAR. 10

Student Council to Pass on Activity Point Eligibility and Stress Record Vote.

MAY ALTER FEE PROPOSAL

Recommendations to Be Made for Only Voting on Compulsory State News Fee.

Within the next ten days all class nominations will have been made for the ensuing all-college elections, on March 10. President George I. Dirks has stated that the student council will not vote on the early nominations until after the completion of the March 10 activity point check which is to be taken on the activity points of the class nominees.

Seek Heavy Ballot

The student council is endeavoring to create considerable enthusiasm for the March elections this year by holding the largest vote ever in the State campus. Last year record ballot was cast, and every year will be extended this year to increase the student vote.

Publication Nominations

Nominations for editor in chief and business manager of the Michigan News will occupy chief interest in the pre-election comments. These names will be named by the board of business managers about Feb. 25. Editor in chief nominees of the Michigan Agriculturalist will also be named by the board at that time.

With all class nominations out of the way within the next ten days, each class will turn to the elimination week later. Then the campus committee will determine student council members and liberal arts board members from each class for the coming year.

Each Class to Elect

The membership of the new boards will be on the same basis as in the past. This year's freshmen will hold the nomination with an ultimate goal of placing one representative on each of the council, the Union board and the liberal arts board. These representatives will be chosen to serve for one sophomore year.

The sophomores of this year will each name two for each board to serve their junior year, while those of each group will be elected on March 19 from this year's junior class.

Each Class Has Own Ballot

The general procedure of placing names before the student body is started with the nomination which are to be held soon. One week after this list will undergo a vote with two names retained for each position to be filled by that class. Two names will appear on the final election day, and each class will vote on separate ballots for these positions.

Large All-College Ballot

The general all-college ballot which every voter will receive in addition to class or division ballot, will contain the names for editor and business manager of the Michigan State News, nominees for student athletic board, nominees for varsity cheer leader, and nominees for student Christian board. This ballot will also carry two proposals for student vote: one being an amendment to the constitution of the student council to permit expansion of that body to include thirteen members and the other a resolution to require a compulsory publication for the student council amendment will be usually mean a re-organized body. These types of members will be on the new council if the measure is adopted. (Continued on page 3)

Administration Declares Tuesday, Feb. 22, College Holiday

A request came to the committee of deans of the college, the administration committee, that Monday, Feb. 21, be declared a holiday in place of Tuesday, Feb. 22. The committee opinion was that it was not wise to make any changes in spite of some good arguments to the contrary. They thought it better to keep holidays as they come. The belief was expressed that a good many students would feel like utilizing the holiday for bringing up back work. As a result, Tuesday, Feb. 22, has been officially declared a college holiday.

STUDENT COUNCIL WELLS HALL TO PICKS DELEGATES HAVE PERMANENT FOR CONVENTION ORGANIZATION

President Dirks and Secretary Olin Leave Next Week for Mid-West Conference.

SEEK JOINT OPINIONS

Eligibility to Hold Campus Jobs and Student-Faculty Relation Main Issues.

Michigan State will be represented at the mid-western student council conference during the coming week by President George I. Dirks and Secretary Clyde J. Olin of the State Council.

The M. S. C. delegates believe that two major phases of student government to be considered at this time are the eligibility to hold campus offices, and the factors centering around better relationship between student and faculty.

The annual mid-western conference will open Thursday of next week at Champaign, Illinois, under the auspices of the University of Illinois. Sessions of the conference are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

President Dirks believes that there is considerable college opinion which will aid Michigan State in formulating and enacting the principles of the newly named student faculty discussion groups. President Butterfield and Dirks have named these committees at the college for the purpose of finding out the opinion of the student body on these phases. Many of the views on these phases will be expressed at the mid-western conference by other colleges which have attempted the same remedial steps as are contemplated by State.

The need for organization within the hall has drawn attention of the recognition of necessary improvements in the building. With the making of improvements some means for the maintenance and protection of the improvements seems necessary, and to that end attention has been given to the handling of the state of the hall, with the purpose of having other students enter into the same, and it is hoped that more benefits will be derived from the organization.

W. A. A. TRYS ICE CARNIVAL AGAIN

Warm Weather Upset Original Plans; to Hold Carnival at College Rink Tonight

After having to postpone the W. A. A. Ice Carnival because of inclement weather, plans are being made to hold the carnival tonight at a rink in the college rink as previously planned.

There will be races for both men and women, and some mixed races. A time limit will be set for each race. Skating will be done in order to enter into the ice races. Anyone who is responsible for the art unit entry. There will also be a mixed relay race. Prizes will be given to the winners in each of the races. Fancy skating will be one of the novel affairs of the evening. After the races everyone will be allowed to skate. There will be some "number" numbers, and one similar to a "policeman's" race. Music will be furnished throughout the evening, and for those who desire, hot dogs will be available through a nearby stand.

PROF. KING ATTENDS YALE DRAMA MEET

Leading Dramatic Instructors of Country Assemble for Two Day Session.

With the recognized growth in interest in dramatic efforts on the Michigan State College campus in mind, Prof. E. S. King left East Lansing Wednesday to attend a conference on drama which is being held at Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 11 and 12.

Leading college authorities of the country on dramatics will be in attendance at the conference and the range of the discussions offers a fine opportunity for the settling of many problems which are likely to confront serious groups.

Friday morning a welcoming address will be delivered by James R. Angell, president of the University. The discussions will cover scenic design, costume design, stage lighting, theatrics, theatre construction and maintenance, and a host of other subjects which are certain to offer valuable hints.

UNION DRIVE ON CAMPUS CLOSES

Plan Formal Party for February 19 As Cimax to All-College Drive.

With the closing of the big drive for life membership subscribers to the Union for endorsement of student activities within the building, plans for the big "Victory Ball" party which will be staged February 19 are being made.

The party will be of a formal nature and decorations and novelties, which will be added to the zest of the affair, are being planned by the committee. The selection of an orchestra has not been announced, but an unusual sum has been set aside to cover the cost of the musical organization and a popular band will be secured.

The party is open to any student and an admission fee of $2.50 will be charged. All students who really contributed to the drive will be admitted free.

The drive for subscriptions fell short of expectations of the many members, but a large margin, as well as a small percentage of the student body appears to have recognized the importance of student aid to the completion of the building and the benefits which would be derived from the use of the building in future years.

KEEN INTEREST FAVORS J-HOP

Greatest Rush for Reservations in Recent History of Social Function Here.

With the opening of the sale of reservations for tables for the banquet of the 1928 Junior Hop which will be held on Feb. 25 in the Hotel Olds ballroom in Lansing, interest in the biggest social function of the college year took a decided leap forward. According to the report of the committee in charge of the reservations, the number of people who signed up the first two days exceeded all expectations and indicated a decided interest in the event.

Attendance Limited

According to the decision of the general arrangements committee, the attendance for the party is being limited this year to 145 paid admissions. This number plus the large number of guests and patrons who will attend the affair, is expected to tax the space for the party to the limit, and a strict adherence to the rule is to be followed.

Unique Decorations Planned

In the meantime all of the details of the Hop are progressing rapidly. The plans for the decorations are being made out in detail and the planned setting which is to prevail is certain, according to William Spurling, chairman of the decoration committee, to be in keeping with the beauty of the ballroom.

PREXY WILL TRY TO MAKE PERFECT COOPERATION

President Butterfield Names Student Faculty Committees Appointed Jointly With Dirks.

SEEK STUDENT OPINION

All Committee Resolutions Will Be Considered by President; Will Benefit Student Body.

J. D. Medill, '28

With an ultimate goal in mind of establishing a Michigan State College of greater cooperation between student and faculty, President Kenyon L. Butterfield has announced the student faculty discussion groups. President Dirks of the student council named the student members, while the president completed the various groups by the addition of faculty members.

These committees will convene at regular intervals to discuss the problems concerned with the subject for which they were appointed. Reports will be made back to the president for action. Such resolutions as are adopted by the committees are subject to being placed in issue. It will be in that matter that many of the present student faculty controversies are expected to be brought out. Every action of any committee will receive consideration of President Butterfield in the form of a resolution from the committee.

Material of Other Colleges at Hand

Each group and the president will follow to some extent the various recommendations made by the National Federation of American colleges held at Ann Arbor last December. The phases of student contact and relation as brought up at that convention by the delegates of 195 colleges and universities representing 49 states and a cross section of American college opinion, were summarized in brief a week ago to the committees in joint session by Arthur P. Clark, junior member of the student council. Clark was national delegate from State and will act as the intermediary between the student body of State and the National Federation.

Clark has considerable material on student and faculty relationship problems which is available for the interested student. This material, including various reports of committees at the national convention, suggestions, and policies submitted by colleges and universities throughout the country summarizes the entire project which President Butterfield will encourage to promulgate on the State college campus.

Prof. Clark Heads Relation Committee

The committee named to discuss and offer suggestions on cooperation between faculty, undergraduates, and student government is headed by Prof. A. J. Clark. The other members are Dean John Phelan, Prof. Dunford, Prof. Edmunds, Prof. Miller, Miss Olga Bird, George L. Dirks, Ivan Collett, and William B. Spurrer.

A committee on the nature of the curriculum is headed by Dean John Phelan. The other faculty members are Dean E. H. Ryder, Dean G. W. Russell, and Dean John Krueger. Five students are listed on this committee as follows: Clyde Olin, Keith Himebaugh, Miss Ruth Kvistham, Miss Margaret Shoemaker, and Miss Mary Mix.

Former M. S. C. President Chief Witness in Ford Suit

David Friday, former president of Michigan State College, is listed as one of the chief witnesses in the Ford suit being conducted at Washington. Mr. Friday is at present head economist for the Brookings graduate school of political economy at New York city.

At the Union

New books are constantly being added to the Union Library. Your suggestions will be received by Perrod March.

Nearly as many entries have been received for the chess and checker tournament as were signed up for the pool and billiard competition.

Subscribing for a life membership is something the individual student can decide for himself. It requires an small annual payment that there need be no drain on the family budget.

General cooperation was an evident in the staging of the Union's production that the way seems clear for a venture into the field of a locally written show. The Union's price will be offered for the first time this spring. Have the old typewriter added for the grand.

WHAT IS THIS LIBERAL EDUCATION?

Mr. Everett Dean Martin, who is director of The People's Institute, wants to know what knowledge is worth knowing, and has written a book, The Meaning of a Liberal Education, to tell us the answer. Howard Mumford Jones has seen the same clearly from the standpoint of the student in a review of this book. Mr. Martin does not seem to be impressed by a good many institutions of education now in existence. For instance, he doesn't like what he calls mere arduous training that is education which aims to produce an individual who will react under all circumstances according to a prearranged pattern. He doesn't think highly of propaganda, even in labor colleges, and he says that universities fail to awaken a profound intellectual passion among their students.

When Mr. Martin has covered his examination of various types of education, he sets up a series of tests more satisfactory to himself. He talks at length about the education value of doubt and he says that a mind is known by the dilemmas he keeps, and if he doesn't say anything startlingly new under these heads, he is unwise and uninteresting. He thinks that education ought to produce free spirits who will have a sound appreciation of human worth, and that there is more common sense between scientific and work, morals, the classical tradition, humanism and science. In his last chapter he tries to tell us what he has found out. He thinks the human race has shown that it can't get along without knowledge, but that it has not shown that it can get along with knowledge. He thinks that education ought to be an adventure. Education, he says elsewhere, is emancipation from herd opinion, self-interest, capacity for self-criticism, suspended judgment, and conformity.

Mr. Martin writes very well. In fact he writes brilliantly, so brilliantly that I am sometimes not very certain just what he is driving at. He seems to be quite clear what he doesn't want, but he doesn't leave me very clear as to what he does want, perhaps because he doesn't know himself, or perhaps because he doesn't want enough. For instance, people important enough for him to discuss in detail are Erasmus, Montaigne, Socrates, and Huxley, but he has nothing much to say about Christ or Buddha or Michelangelo or Goethe. There is a latent hostility to Platonism, and therefore to mysticism, in his volume which is, I suspect, one of the sources of his difficulty. He wants people to have a liberal education, but he insists that the great task of that education is "the reassertion of the inequalities which mass appeal ignores, the rediscovery for the modern spirit of the distinction between superiority and inferiority." This is a very popular doctrine now, and one which Mr. H. C. Wells and Professor Irving Babbitt have been enunciating for some time, the doctrine being that the blind multitude ought to have competent guides. In fact, Babbitt thought the same thing in 1918 when he published his Democracy and the Moral Life.

These guides are to be the free spirits. They are free because they have had, or rather have found, a great education by a process which Mr. Martin leaves a little mysterious. The world is hopelessly given over to mass-education, and yet somehow these guides are to help themselves, and then the multitude are to let themselves be guided by the free spirits.

How this is to be done about Mr. Martin does not tell us. Neither does Mr. Wells or Mr. Babbitt, and certain difficulties are encountered. For example, Mr. Martin, Mr. Wells, and Mr. Babbitt would all be candidates for the free spirit group, and yet I do not believe they would choose each other, and I am sure the blind multitude would not choose any one of them.

Mr. Martin says that men are not born equal, which is certainly a true statement. Then he argues that, recognizing this inequality, the free spirits ought to keep their liberty for "adventure." This is going to be very nice for the free spirits, but I do not think the multitude is going to like it. The multitude was lured into education on the theory of equality. And with due deference to Mr. Martin, who has given a vast deal of thought to the problem, I do not think the theory of mass education can be given up so readily. The theory of educational equality rests upon the theory that every man is an end in himself, and not that some men are free spirits, and some are not. Mr. Martin would probably be very glad to have everybody made into a free spirit, so that all might have adventures, but he doesn't seem to believe the idea is a practical one. It would involve a vast change in spirit of our educational institutions, and Mr. Martin has no idea what we should do about it. I am not sure but believe that Mr. Martin's theory of a liberal education is a little selfish. There is nothing in his book about such old-fashioned conceptions as duty or responsibility or love. The chapter on education and morality ends with the statement that one ought not to be afraid of level morality and that the only sound method of moral education is in teaching people to think, but he doesn't say very clearly what they are to think about the term except to get away from it. Somehow this does not seem a lasting solution of the sorrowfullest of human problems. Even Fard, who seems to have been a free spirit, possessed of a liberal education, came to a different conclusion at the end.

So I think that Mr. Martin has taken the easy way out of the difficulty. He says in effect that the few can be free if they want to be free. The difficult job is to say effectively to the multitude be free. You can't have a liberal education that leaves out God, dullness and the common people.

Why this Lather gives smoother shaves

THE trouble with most shaves is that the beard is not completely softened. This means half-cut hairs, "pulling" razors. Williams Shaving Cream corrects this state of affairs by producing a lather simply saturated with moisture. This moisture drenches the beard bristles soft for easy cutting. At all dealers, 35c and 50c.

Large enough to do its job, of course, which simply means that there's need in this country of ours for both small and big businesses and both can prosper.

The job of providing electrical communication for the country calls for a vast organization backed by vast resources. And that's what the Bell System is.

Let old Squire Pipe be the judge...

His honor, old Squire Pipe is unquestionably the world's ablest judge of pipe tobaccos. Who else is by nature, training and experience so well-qualified to try a tobacco and hand down a decision on it? So, in the case of Granger Rough Cut, the plea is that Judge Pipe's verdict be accepted as FINAL!

To make a long brief brief: Character witnesses everywhere have sworn to Granger's sterling quality. Experts have vouched for the superiority of its rough cut. Chemists have testified that the new "glassine-sealed" foil-pouch keeps the tobacco in perfect condition.

Finally, it has been shown that by using this foil-pouch (instead of a costly tin) it is possible to sell Granger at just ten cents. On these arguments Granger rests its case! A couple of pipefuls will convince Squire Pipe that it is the world's greatest pipe tobacco... and any good judge of tobaccos will confirm the decision!

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

The half pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents, the foil-pouch package, sealed in glassine, is ten cents.

Made for pipes only!

May Change Fee Proposal
In all probability only a compulsory State News publication fee will be balloted on March 10. Last year a blanket proposal was submitted to the voters covering both the State News and the Wolverine, but a recommendation will be submitted to the student council at its next meeting asking for separation of the two publication fees. Should the council rule this acceptable only the $1.50 fee will be voted upon in March.

Under the plan the student body will be divided into three groups, each of which will elect one representative to the inter-fraternity council. Each of these representatives will have the right of office in the council. Second, all the members of the council will have the right of vote, but not the power of office. The council will be composed of the three representatives and one member from each of the three groups. The third type of plan would give the two inter-fraternity groups the power of office in the council. In this

TRACK TEAM MEETS WESTERN STATE

MEET AT PAPER CITY EXPECTED TO PROVE HOT

Distance Events Likely to Decide Final Outcome; Spartan Mentors Gloomy.

By Dale B. Stafford

The premier track event of the indoor season will be participated in Saturday when the Michigan State track team goes over to Kalamazoo for a dual meet with Western State Normal.

It is far from a feeling of confidence the State coaches have as they send their charges into the fray. Western boasts one of the best track teams in its long history of successful track and field aggregations. Freshmen from all parts of the country who are well known have been gathered under the brown and gold flag this year. In a recent class meet held at the Paper City school the youngsters walked away with the honors with ease.

Loving Likely Winner

This will be the last time State will meet Normal under the present Normal rule of playing freshmen teams. Next fall the Western team will adopt the freshmen ruling.

State is considered the edge in the sprints. Sprinter Short, indoor events are likely to produce upsets, though. In the field events Western State is favored because of having Morrow in the pole vault and high jump. State's shot putters are expected to win with ease. Laying, former Detroit athlete is considered the hurdles by State followers. The negro athlete holds the world record in the 60 yard hurdle event indoors.

State Relay Favorite

The 400 will go to State if the dope bucket is not turned upside down. Grinn and Kroll are the Spartan entries here. While should win the mile and place in the two mile. The placing of the men from each team in the distance events will without a doubt decide the meet.

In the half mile and mile relay State is a favorite.

STATE FENCERS MEET OHIOANS

Max Goodwin Leads Spartans Against Delaware Team in Gym Match Saturday Afternoon.

Fencers of Michigan State College got their second taste of outdoor competition Saturday afternoon in the State gym when Ohio Wesleyan is met in a match.

In the first match of the year State lost to Ohio State conference champions. However the Spartans were not defeated nearly as decisively as was charged and Wesleyan by the Buckeyes.

The State fencers have been working on speed rather than form during the past two weeks and consequently expect to make an excellent showing. In the past, form has been stressed more than speed.

Captain Max Goodwin is expected to lead the same team that met Ohio State.

SPARTAN SIX MEETS MICHIGAN TEAM ON GRAND RIVER RINK

Saturday afternoon, weather permitting, the Michigan State College hockey team will meet the University of Michigan on the local rink. Soft ice has interfered with most of the State team's matches this season. High hopes are being held out for holding the match Saturday.

The State team demonstrated excellent form in the games played to date and followers of the puck chasers are confident that the Saturday game will be an exceedingly close one.

ERROR MADE IN DATE OF GAME

State Freshmen Oppose Battle Creek College Here Saturday at 7:30 p. m.

Due to an error in arranging the schedule it was recently announced that Battle Creek College would oppose the Michigan State College freshmen at the Grand City Saturday night.

This is a mistake as the visiting five will meet the Grand City basketball team here Saturday night. The game is the only attraction in the gym Saturday night.

The battle, which will get under way at 7:30, is expected to prove a hot one. The freshmen proved their ability against Ferris Institute and will get a real test in the stronger Battle Creek team.

DETROIT FOE OF NOTRE DAME MAT COURT QUINTET MEN ARRIVE FOR SATURDAY NIGHT CLASH TONIGHT

Dickeson Felt, and Colvin Shine In South Bend Team Has Big Ten Victories on Record; Landsburg Returns to Squad.

The Spartan basketball team plays the last game of the year on the road Saturday night when University of Detroit is met at the Dynamic City.

State emerged a 46-31 winner in the annual game with Hope College played here Wednesday night. In this game State demonstrated a speedy offense that made all of its points from directly under the basket. The registering of free throws also played a large part in the Spartan win. Eight were made and five missed by the Spartans. Felt had the best record of the evening with five out of six.

State went out at the start of the game and held a 13-3 lead about midway of the first half. A sport by Hope made the count 24-17-State at the sound of the gun.

In the second half Hope came up to within five points of State. This was the closest the Dutchmen could get during the entire game. With the score 34-27 in its favor, State went out and established the 46-31 count that was final.

Dickeson led the scoring for State with six field baskets for a twelve point total. Felt was close on his heels with eleven points. Felt's five free throws aided materially. Colvin scored ten points at opportune moments.

Captain VanAlstyne flashed a new combination with Eldred at a forward along with Dickeson. Smith and Hood assumed the forward berths during part of the game.

Tonight Coach Leonard's matmen will step into the square ring and take to battle with Notre Dame university, one of State's traditional opponents. According to the dope, Notre Dame has a strong outfit. This year having defeated several Big Ten schools. State is handicapped in taking the meet here tonight, but followers of the sport are optimistic and hope for the best.

Landsburg Ready

George Landsburg, State 135 pound man, and out of the fight last week on account of lameness, will probably get into the ring this time and much is expected from him.

If any points are taken by State, Gibbs will no doubt be one of the boys to make them. He has not lost a bout this season and is still going strong. He is a flyweight.

Ben Black is improving nicely, and after having taken his bout last week with three days' training he should prove the sensation of the meet tonight.

Match Attendance Increases

State sport fans are rapidly coming to realize that wrestling is a keen sport and are appreciating this by their attendance at the meets.

not be enforced by military power, but by the overwhelming force of an enlightened public opinion. That this will be effective is shown in our Supreme Court whose decisions, although not backed by military power, are none the less respected and obeyed. In connection with this plan for an association of nations, the League of Nations will inevitably be brought up. Mr. Kingdon's two chief objections to the League seem to be that with its Council of Five, it is undemocratic, and thereby lays itself open to attack on phases already discussed. Furthermore, the League puts force or coercion as the last resort in international questions, which is wrong in principle as we have shown.

His text-book was a freight-car

WHEN Corliss A. Bercaw went down to the tracks to get facts for his thesis in 1918, he was only following a lifelong habit.

From the time he was old enough to delight in the shrill whistle of a locomotive, through his student days at California Institute of Technology, the most fascinating thing in the world to him was a railroad train.

It isn't just happy chance that, at 29, he is a Sales Engineer in the Transportation Division of the Westinghouse Company, at Philadelphia. And it was quite natural that Bercaw should have an important share in the negotiations involving one of the most revolutionary transportation developments of the century—the development of the gas-electric rail car.

This design provides locomotion within the passenger car

"What the future with a large organization?" That is what college men want to know best of all. That question is best answered by the accomplishments of others, with similar training and like opportunities. This is one of a series of advertisements portraying the progress at Westinghouse of college graduates, of the complete line—eight—ten years.

now he is engaged in selling, among other things, these cars, representing the newest idea in railroad transportation.

When Bercaw entered the Graduate Students' Course at East Pittsburgh in May, 1919, he was fresh from college and naval aviation. His enthusiasm for railroading was not allowed to cool—he wasn't shunted into unfamiliar lines. For thirteen months he was a student in the Railway Shops. Then for six months in the General Engineering Department he learned how to apply Westinghouse Equipment to railroad needs. It was a logical step next to the Heavy Traction Division of the Sales Department at East Pittsburgh. And two and a half years there landed him in his important work in Philadelphia.

To men who find a railroad train fascinating, Westinghouse opens a field that has unlimited opportunities for success.
