ATTEND MASS MEETING

The student council is sponsoring a mass meeting tonight in the gymnasium which is expected to instill some pep into the student body and to give the team a little encouragement for tomorrow's battle with Ohio U. It should be the duty of every loyal Spartan to be present and help make this pep meeting a success. There will be several splendid speakers, chosen for their ability along this line and they have a real message for the student body. These men are willing to give of their time to come out here and talk to us, so the least we can do is to be present and lend them our support.

HOME GOERS

For the past few years, fraternities, realizing the uselessness of short visits home and the forming of ties at any other place but college during the four-year period, have discouraged their freshmen from leaving the campus every week-end to keep in touch with home friends.

The desire to visit one's parents is laudable and should be encouraged, but few visits to the old haunts are made for that reason. Most of the home goers are seeking notoriety and publicity in their home towns, or are in search of friends other than their immediate family.

If any student wishes to get acquainted to the campus, to make friends here and to be successful in activities, he cannot divide his time between the college and his gay times with home friends. When he comes to college he cannot spend his time in the class rooms dreaming of Friday and Saturday nights. Go home to your parents by all means, new men of '31 for that's worth while. But we suggest that you merely write to her, and keep making em shorter.

PHONES FOR WELLS

For the past few years, students living at Wells hall have been clamoring for telephone service of some kind. It is almost impossible to locate a person at Wells hall without taking a trip across the campus to the dorm and interviewing the person wanted. If there could be telephones placed in each ward, matters would be simplified for students living there, for parents and friends who wish to communicate with students in the building and for college officers who wish to find these students in a hurry some time.

Six telephones, one for each ward, does not seem to be such a magnified expense that the college could not afford. Even if the college could not afford to pay for the phones, the students living in the dormitory would probably be glad to pay a little extra for the service if the college would install the phones. The Women's building, the Abbott hall, and all of the women's dormitories have telephone service and it seems no more than right that the only men's dormitory ought to have a phone service of some kind. This question of telephones has been hanging in the air for years and it is hoped that something will be done about it in the near future.

TARZAN TAYLOR

The Ohio university game will be doubly interesting to some of the older students, especially the seniors and juniors. John Tarzan Taylor, who was formerly line coach at Michigan State, holds the same position at Ohio university, and all Spartans are anxious to see what kind of a line he is putting out at the Ohio school. "Tarzan" was well known and well liked about the campus, and we all hope he has a successful season. Although we want State to win Saturday, we cannot help but wish "Tarzan" the best of luck, and welcome him back to the campus.

SEASON'S FIRST MASS MEETING TO AROUSE PEP

Secretary Halladay to Introduce Popular Speakers to State Routers.

BAND TO PLAY

Hasselman, Young, Casteel and Captain Smith to Be Speakers.

A splendid program has been arranged for the first mass meeting of the season which will be held at the gym tonight. Songs, speeches, telling and band music will feature the evening and it is hoped that a record attendance will be out. Clyde Olin, president of the student council, is in charge of the affair and it is his wish that every student attend.

Secretary H. H. Halladay will be the chairman of the meeting and the speakers will include Jimmy Hasselmann, college publicity manager, Athletic Director Ralph H. Young, Coach Miles Casteel, and Captain Paul Smith. All of these men are interesting speakers and should have a real message for every loyal Spartan.

State will have no easy opponent in Ohio University and it behooves every Spartan to get behind the team at this mass meeting and give them a rousing send-off. There will be cheering, led by Yellleaders Plinson and Fenske, who are attempting to organize the entire student body into a compact cheering unit. Every freshman should learn the yell and it is at the mass meetings where these yells can be practiced on their own game. This comes a decent cheering can be made to the cheering section.

The band will be out in force to add pep to the occasion and college songs will be sung at various intervals between the speeches. This mass meeting is to be one of the old time thrillers and it is expected that it will be but one of many that will be put on during the season. These mass meetings have always proved popular occasions for generating pep and this year will prove no exception. The meeting tonight should be well attended because of the fact that there are no college parties or any other outside activities to detract interest.

OFFICERS CLUB HOLDS MEETING

State Wins Only Distinguished Rating in Sixth Corps Area.

Many important military matters were discussed last night at the first meeting of the Officers' Club at the Armory. Colonel Sherburne gave a short talk in which he complimented the men of the State R. O. T. C. corps for their splendid showing last year and extended them an earnest plea for the same spirit of cooperation this year.

Last year the Michigan State Corps unit was the only R. O. T. C. unit in the Sixth Corps Area to receive the distinguished rating. This is the fifth year in succession that the State militarists have won this honor and it is hoped that they can repeat again. This distinguished rating enables every State cadet to wear the blue star of distinction on the sleeve of his uniform until the ranking is lost. This year State has the largest corps in the history of the college and with the new Armory nearly ready for use, there ought to be no reason why the rating should not remain at M. S. C. The Colonel also expressed a wish that the combatants for corps sponsors be made soon so that sufficient time can be spent upon eliminations and elections.

The Officers' Club is composed of every junior and senior enrolled in the advanced military courses and has been active for several years. At yesterday's meeting it was decided to form an executive committee to administer the affairs of the club because the organization itself is quite unwieldy, due to the large number of members. Three men, two seniors and one junior, were chosen from each division. The infantry selected John Kelly, Ward Estes, and Frank Gutschow. The artillery named Harlan Ray, Ralph Dibley, and H. M. Place while the cavalry picked Clyde Olin, Arnold Bean, and All Jump.

These men will meet next week and nominate a number of execs for the various sponsor positions. These nominees will be voted upon by the entire club and their selections will be put upon a ballot and presented to the entire corps. The corps will then select their favorite execs for the corps sponsor and the members of each unit will vote upon their unit sponsor. In about three weeks the entire election will be finished and the campus will know the popular colods.

State Police May Get Barracks

A modern, new barracks may be provided for the East Lansing post of the state department of public safety, and some of the land occupied by the present scattered building may be returned to Michigan State College. This announcement was made this week following a meeting of the finance committee of the administrative board.

Aspiring Co-eds Begin to Smile on State Militarists

Now is the time of year when every popular upper class coed gets palpitation of the heart when she sees one of the stalwart R. O. T. C. officers come swaggering down the campus, resplendent in his whipcord and brass. She smiles sweetly at him as he passes and our soldier wonders, "How come?" She never used to know me!

He probably has forgotten to realize the fact that it won't be long before nominations and elections will be held for the officers of corps and unit sponsors. He begins to realize that the fair one is out doing a little campaigning or gumboning on her own hook. If he wants to be assured of a permanent drag, he ought to get out and campaign for her on election day, by getting out in front of his unit and telling the poor Freshman what a swell number she is. The Freshman don't appear to be very high around the campus, but at sponsor elections, their vote counts just as loudly as any senator's.

It has been suggested by some misguided individuals who undoubtedly have been attending beauty contests, etc., that the candidates for sponsor be presented to the classes and be looked over by the various units. They claim that there has been a lot of subterfuge and log rolling in recent elections, and they assert that every man should plead his constitutional right of habeas corpus and have the prospective sponsor placed on view, before he casts his vote.

It is hard to make any predictions on the sponsors this year. We have an excellent crop of sponsor material and along with a few of last year's veterans who have returned to school, there should be well rounded squad from which to pick. It is expected that some of the prospects will begin their smiling campaign in the near future so that they may have plenty of impressions made by election day. It won't be hard to get dates with upper class coeds for the next few weeks if you tell them you are taking military. She ought to be tickled to death to be able to get in a little campaigning.

DEBATERS MAY GO EAST ON TRIP

Plans Also Laid for Journey to Wisconsin and Middle West.

Under the new coach Joseph Menchhofer, college debate this season will be carried through an exceptionally broad program. Mr. Menchhofer has plans in mind which will put state up in foreign circles of the country, the plans affording several lengthy trips for different teams, many local contests and a strong representation at the national Pi Kappa Delta convention in Ohio.

A triangle of debates with colleges in Pennsylvania and other states in the east is at present being worked out which will make possible an extended trip for the team. Wisconsin and the middle west will be the scene of another tour if hopes for a triangle of contests in that direction materialize.

Many local debates are being scheduled some to take place at the college and others in neighboring cities, this plan making the debate more interesting to both teams.

Michigan State promises to be well represented at the national convention of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensics society, which will meet next spring in Ohio. Two debaters will make the trip, the winner of the college oratorical contest and perhaps an extemporaneous speaker. These men will compete against hundreds of representatives from other colleges all over the country.

The subject to be used for this season which is the usual one chosen by Pi Kappa Delta, will not be known until Oct. 9, and Coach Menchhofer wishes to have the tryouts for the men's debating squad about Nov. 1. This will give plenty of time for practice before the season opens.

Mr. Menchhofer is an experienced debater and coach of debating, having graduated with Master's degree from the University of Michigan, and spent one year at Wisconsin on his Doctor's degree. He at present holds the office of vice-president of Pi Kappa Delta.

CROSS-COUNTRY TRYOUTS UNCOVER FINE MATERIAL

Record Number of Harriers Reported for Season's First Workout.

Probably the largest number of men of any year previous have reported for the cross country squad this year. According to Coach Mason the squad is getting in condition in spite of the unfavorable weather conditions that have predominated for the last few days. There will probably be three new men on the team this year.

The following men have reported for practice: Captain Henry Wylie, Becker, Brewster, Brewer, Booth, Brown, Hakesley, Clark, Church, G. C. Case, Campbell, Crowe, Cridler, Dowd, J. J. Case, Frisby, Hanlon, Johnson, LaPlant, Maples, Marrel, Morrow, McCall, Perrine, Price, Proyer, Roberts, Rossien, Reid, Trapp, C. Wylie, Wilmarth, Wall, Wilson, Lott, Baker, Norgard, Mistlestad, Smith, Woodworth, Fuller, Nornington, Pope, Fish, Hanson, Hall, Jakeway, and Grimm.

It behooves any fair coed who has aspirations toward sponsorship to start reading up on military terms, etc. She ought to know all about Napoleon and how he made his nose dive at Waterloo and she ought to know all the movements in the battle of Bull Durham. She should find out the difference between squads east and right dress. (Not by asking any Freshman.) She ought to know that you can't soil a blanket line and that rickshaws are not carried in sacks. In fact, she ought to be up on her back, military and other wise because there will be a careful selection made for these sponsor jobs. Perhaps some of last year's sponsors can give a few of the prospects a little advice on how to become sponsors. We expect to publish a signed interview next week for the edification of all those coeds who aspire to the dizzy heights of sponsorship.

ORGANIZE FRESH FOR CLASS RUSH

Will Be Held October 15 Under Supervision of Junior Class.

Class day for this year will be held on Saturday, October 15, under the sponsorship of the student council and the Junior class.

A chairman has been appointed by the student council to organize the freshmen and pick out the members of the various competing teams for the contests. The Junior class will add the freshmen to organize and supervise the occasion to see that all rules are observed and a spirit of fair play prevails.

On the morning of the 15th the freshmen will meet in a selected spot or organize their competing units for the last time and proceed in a body to the baseball field. Members of all classes who are not competing in some athletic event will remain seated in the stands or on the sidelines until a general event is announced.

The relay race will open the day, with the picked men from each class competing. This race usually counts ten points for the side winning.

Following the relay race will be an obstacle race. The course of this event will be over hurdles, through barrels, under a canvas and through a fence. Obstacles may be added.

The football rush will follow with every man of the new classes competing. This year the freshmen are favored by the letter head, due to their great superiority of numbers.

The tug of war will take place in the usual fashion, the rope being stretched over the Red Cedar. The freshmen on the north side of the stream and the sophomores on the south. Weight is the big factor for this struggle and the coachings have some difficulty good material.

Last of all will come the flag race. The flag will be hung in its usual position between two poles on a wire. The freshmen will defend the flag and the sophomores will attempt to take it. The student council has prohibited all slugging or flaying wedge attacks or the use of any chemicals or irritants.

The winners of the class rush will be decided from the number of points amassed by either side, varying numbers being given for each event.

Authorities originally instituted "Class Day" to work off the feelings of enmities between the sophomores and freshmen and to promote peace. The present competition develops on these days, analyzing and putting give way in open opposition.

Huge crowds from Lansing and East Lansing are expected for the day. The freshmen will probably be taken during the big events and several newspaper photographers plan to cover the occasion.

PRESIDENT BUTTERFIELD RETURNS TO DUTIES AFTER CONVALESCENCE

ARMORY BOASTS MANY FEATURES

Huge Ballroom and Complete Kitchen Add Utility to New Building.

With the heating system finished and the fixtures rapidly being installed, the new armory is scheduled to be completed within the next month. The building is rated as the most modern in the country and presents an enviable spectacle on the state campus.

To the social world, the most important feature is the new ballroom which will be used for campus activities of all kinds. The floor is five feet shorter than that of the gym and is finished with maple flooring. A false ceiling is to be erected for the purpose of better acoustation. The new ballroom will add immensely in overcoming the congestion for space for campus society functions.

The building will contain, besides executive offices, seven classrooms, a storeroom, separate restrooms for men and women, light, artillery and heavy artillery, a complete kitchen to be used in serving large conventions and a shooting gallery. The gallery consists of ten ranges, each equipped with the latest and most modern fixtures. A feature of the gallery is the safety device which holds the targets. They consist of a window operated by the shooter which enables him to pull the target to him when he wishes to change targets. This eliminates all possible danger that is connected with the present system.

Shooting of the cavalry drill field will not be completed until spring. This consists of firing in all the space from the ridge to the armory on a level with the armory. The field will be bordered by a road on each side which will lead to the armory.

Cavalry classes are expected to start in the new armory next week. How ever, military equipment will be kept in the old armory for the rest of this year.

ENROLL RECORD NUMBER IN MILITARY DIVISION

Enrollment in the college R. O. T. C. has reached a new high point this year, according to Colonel T. L. Sherburne. Under number 1189 this year in surpassing last year's number by more than 100.

The large number of men students who have registered at the college has been named as the reason for the record enrollment in the military department. For the last year the number of men in the various R. O. T. C. classes has remained the same, although the total enrollment for the school has increased. Authorities say that this was because of the large number of women students.

Although, due to changes in schedules, it has been hard to keep an exact record of the enrollment, it is estimated that there are about 175 upperclassmen and 1,015 freshmen. The colonel expects still more to be added to this list, making at least 1,200 men studying in his department.

reunion dinner, Tuesday noon, November 1, 11:30, place to be announced later. There will be posters at the district meetings and complete information in the official programs.

E. E. Gallup, class of '96, member of the M. S. C. association executive committee, will talk at several of the alumni meetings. He urges that "every former M. A. C. and M. S. C. student living within the Wolverine state should be present at one of these meetings and renew the friendship, loyalty, and the enthusiasm of those happy years on the campus."

LAUDS COOPERATION

Thinks Record-Breaking Enrollment About Right Size with Present Equipment.

Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of Michigan State College, looking fine and fit, has returned to his duties after four weeks of a vacation spent in convalescing from an appendicitis operation.

Undergoing an operation for a chronic condition of appendicitis in the middle of August, Dr. Butterfield was sent away for a period of recuperation by his doctor. The time was spent at Goodhart on the shores of Lake Michigan. Although he will be back in his office now for periods during the day, he will not undertake his full duties for some time yet. "I am going to stay in second speed for awhile," said Prexy.

When questioned as to the record breaking enrollment during the past few weeks, the president said that he thought it was about right. "We can't take care of many more with our present equipment."

Dr. Butterfield showed much interest in the new ceremony of "Spartan Welcome" expressing his regret at not being able to take part in the occasion. The Spartan Welcome was a fine idea, growing as it did out of the situation and fostered by the students themselves, said Dr. Butterfield.

In mulling over college matters during his vacation, I have a feeling that there is a growing sense of cooperation between the faculty, students, and classes. I hope that this year will develop still more the spirit of cooperation that was increased last year by the student faculty committee. I was very much pleased with the work that was initiated by them and hope that it will be carried still further. We wish to cooperate with the student congress in every possible way.

STATE SCHOLARS MUST APPLY NOW

Chance at Rhodes Honors Again Open for Application.

Applicants for the 1927 Rhodes Scholarship should get their applications in immediately as the time limit is October 10, the last date at which students or alumni of this institution may present blanks to the local committee.

Every upperclassman or graduate of this college is eligible for the scholarship, provided he is a male citizen of the United States, unmarried, and is between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five on October 1, 1928. A Rhodes scholarship is tenable for three years, with the income at 100 pounds or about $2,000 per year. No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes scholar's choice of studies. Men are appointed without regard to race or religion on the basis of their record in school and college, which is furnished the committee by the applicant.

The qualities which will be considered in making the selection are: intellect and scholastic ability and attainments, qualities of manhood, character, public spirit and leadership, and physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

Two scholars will be sent from the State of Michigan, and virtually all of the better colleges of the state will have their representatives at the election, probably to be held in Ann Arbor, December 10, 1927. One representative and perhaps two will be selected from this college by the local committee. Michigan State has sent two of her graduates to Oxford thus far. A chance is presented for some student or alumnus to get a thorough education at Oxford.

Blanks are obtainable from Prof. L. C. Platt, who is chairman of the local committee. These blanks are to be returned to him before October 10.

At the Union

RUSHING

Now that the back-breaking period of fraternity rushing is over, we can turn to see that there are many bewildered freshmen with "eyes" shown pledge pins who are wondering what it is all about. For the past few weeks they have been glad-handed, feted and fussed. They have heard their high school records lauded, to the skies. They have listened to the right talk of various organizations until their ears are ringing with announcements of the Faculty Keys or the building program of the Association.

They have eaten countless numbers of free meals, have almost come to the conclusion that college is one big free boarding house. They have been introduced to various Alpha men and magnificent B. M. O. C. s who are followers of their respective fraternities. They have listened with bated breath to the tales of the great athletes when the trouble lines were supreme upon the campus, and they have, through the tales of the Phi Kappa parties.

Now is the time for their return. They will begin to see a few dark clouds upon the horizon that were pointed by the prodigious sun. He will begin to see that the Row Down Row fraternity life is not the glowing picture presented to him by the ardent pledge master. He will begin to wonder why, in a weak moment, he had let them put a pledge pin on him. In the next few weeks when he is busy sweating and counting the hours and doing all sorts of mental labor for the "big" and "big" members, he will wish that he was back in White Hall again.

After his initiation is over, the all-over lining will show, through once more, and life will be worth living again. It won't be long before this same pledge who was disgraced with fraternity life will be out, endeavoring to slap a pin upon some unsuspecting freshman.

Fraternity life is the essence of college life, but it can be woefully overdone. A freshman who is entering a university should always get it firmly impressed upon his mind that the fraternity that he is entering is not the "old" frat on the campus. It may have the type of men with whom he desires to associate. It may have the best boys on the campus. It may have the most athletes and B. M. O. C. s. It may have the highest scholastic standing. It may be an almost perfect fraternity.

But in reality it is only an interval of a brief, restless organization. There are only about 30 men in each fraternity, while there are nearly 2,000 men in the college. It is not the kind of organization that many freshmen want. Let us not be foolish and that we should not associate with men from other fraternities, get out and mix and create a sort of association between fraternities, as well as a spirit of indifference. Let us forget the petty jealousies between fraternities, and concentrate and all pull together for one common object, a better Michigan State.

Engineers Work and Sweat Over Many Bits of old Castings

Rushing back and forth across the campus between Olds Hall and the English building trying to make the best of the short time between classes, many of us have never stopped to wonder what is in the building which can just be seen between the engineering building and Wells Hall. Perhaps some of us have never even taken particular note that there is a building there, hidden away as it is behind the larger structures. Just wander around the west end of Olds hall some day and make a tour of inspection.

Over the door hangs a white board on which is printed in square letters the word "Foundry" and a neat little foundry it is.

Every freshman engineering student in the college is required to take a course in the wood shop, machine shop and foundry. In the foundry he is given a working knowledge of foundry practice. No effort whatever is made to teach him a trade.

First of all he is told something of the selection and preparation of the sand. Then he is shown how to make a mould by tamping the sand around the split pattern which he has already made in the wood shop.

After the wood pattern has been removed from the sand the two parts of the flask, known as the drag and the cope, are fitted together. If more than one pattern is in the flask gates are cut to connect the moulds and permit the flow of metal. In all cases practice is made to pour the metal at the proper point to insure an equal flow.

When the mould is ready the student is instructed to charge the mould with the proper proportions of metal and coke. The molten metal is drawn off into ladles and poured into the moulds producing the desired casting. When the casting has sufficiently cooled the flask is dumped and when the casting has completely cooled the gates are broken off and the casting is cleaned and ready to be machined or used. Practically all castings made in the foundry are used by the student engineers in their work.

The equipment in the foundry is such as is necessary for general practice in foundry work. In addition to the two cupolas for melting iron one of two ton capacity and the other of five hundred pounds there are two pit furnaces and several crucibles.

It is always here fraternities and we will always have an independent group. In the past there has seemed to be a sort of enmity between the independent and dependent men. This should not be. We are all students striving for the same goal and should be working with each other, should pull together and shoulder our share of work for a bigger and better Michigan State.

for the melting of brass and aluminum. At one side there is a fairly large core oven where the cores, made from the yellow sand of Lake Michigan, are baked. Both the core oven and the pit furnaces are heated by city gas.

For the handling of the molten metal there is a large ladle of one thousand pounds capacity, a crane ladle of three hundred pounds capacity, a bull ladle and several hand ladles. Within this small but complete foundry, castings as heavy as thirteen hundred pounds have been turned out.

To really appreciate the place one should go there for himself and examine the content of the little foundry, which although a part of our curriculum is almost completely hidden from view and to many of us even unknown.

Campus Organizations

The Student Council is the governing body of the students. The council is composed entirely of student members and all student affairs are administered through the council. This organization has charge of such events as class rush, barbeque, cap night, and other traditional affairs. Mixers, mass meetings, and convocations are put on by the council or with the sanction of the council.

The group is composed of thirteen members, selected by various methods from the different classes in college. There are three senior representatives, two juniors and one sophomore. The president of each class is also a member of the council. There are three ex-officio representatives, the editor of the State News and one representative each from the Varsity club and the Inter-Fraternity council. The members are elected on the annual all-college ballot and serve for one year unless re-elected. In case of a vacancy the council appoints a member to fill the position until the next election.

The officers of the council consist of a president and a secretary-treasurer. The president conducts all meetings and is the spokesman of the students in all alterations and discussions. He must cooperate with the faculty to promote better relations between students and professors. He also takes charge of all convocations and is in charge of affairs such as class rush, etc. The president is elected at a meeting called for that purpose. It is the duty of the secretary to assist the president in all ways and to present a copy of the student council minutes to the college newspaper for publication. All council meetings are open and can be attended by anyone interested.

OFFICERS PEEVED AT TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Students Will Be Fined in Future for Breaking Traffic Rules.

Campus police officers are becoming quite peeved over the manner in which the students are ignoring traffic rules and regulations on the campus. Student drivers and other cars are being parked repeatedly in forbidden areas and are parked in the wrong direction with no thought of safety or propriety. Speed laws are broken and reckless drivers seem to consider the campus road as a sort of speedway.

The officers have been quite lenient thus far, arresting only the worst offenders and letting them off without a fine. They wish to have it announced that the days of clemency are over. The traffic rules must be obeyed to the letter or there will be a few in-degradates and perhaps a few faculty members too, who will be paying fines. The officers hope that it will not be necessary to arrest anyone, and that the students will cooperate in an attempt to make the campus safer.

SPARTANS TO HAVE FIGHT ON HANDS WHEN OHIOANS ARE ENGAGED

"Taz" Taylor, Former State Coach, Brings Highly Touted Team.

The Michigan State varsity football squad, safely launched on the dangerous seas of the 1927 football schedule after having weathered a threatening storm precipitated by the game and fighting Kalamazoo outfit, will run in to some more high seas in the shape of Ohio university of Athens, Ohio, in the Spartan stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Ohio, coached by John L. "Taz" Taylor, former line coach on this campus, will invade the Spartan camp with a formidable record, one that gives the coaches and players an insight into some of the troubles that the Spartan ship will run into Saturday. Ohio is known to have a fast charging and fighting line that threatens to make State game inside of the mighty line. Almost a veteran team will represent the Buckeye school when they take the field Saturday. They boast of a finished aerial attack which may prove to be a thorn in the side of the Green and White, if the field is dry. It is possible that State may have something up its sleeve in the form of a low forward pass if the running game fails to come up to the desired form.

Duncan, Hornbeck, Christensen and Dickson are adept at the receiving end of the overhead game while Captain Paul Smith and Jim McCosh can ably take care of the other end if State plays a passing game.

Ohio failed to come up to expectation in its opening game last Saturday, winning from Rio Grande, 24-0. Last year the small Ohio school was soundly thrashed by the Athens school, 40-2, and Ohio, with almost a complete team from last year, did not impress as being as formidable. With an end and line play, a tackle, were two stellar performers last to the Buckeyes by graduation.

Ohio won five games out of eight last year, losing two and tying one. They conquered Ohio, Northern, W. Marietta, 12-2, Hamilton, 10 and Clinton, 18-7. Withberg passed them out by a point, 2-0 and Akron scored a field goal to defeat them, 1-0.

It would not be surprising if Coach Young sent the same starting lineup

How about it, are we all for our friends or are we the lack of friends? Our best friends at the present time are the people who advertise with us. They are doing this to help keep the old school on the map. Are you going to let them do it with out any help on your part or are you going to help them in the kind of help that they are giving us every day of the week. A good reason now, here all give a big boost to the good old friends, the advertisers. The best that you can do is to mention their ad on which the friends of the college spend their money. Put prominent advertisements.

against Ohio as he sent against Kalamazoo at the kickoff. This would find Christenson and Hornbeck at the flanks, Ferrarri and Joslyn at the tackles and Grimes and Hitchings beside Ross at center. "Hutch" Kamitz, the fastest man on the team, may find himself at a tackle berth at the kickoff in place of Ferrarri. He is sure to see action before the game is over, regardless. Ernie Deason may start at quarter with Captain Paul Smith at full. If the coaches decide to have the Spartan captain call ten, Kurrie, Wilson and Dickson will round out the rest of the backfield. Schan, sophomore fullback, has been kept out of uniform for nearly a week due to injuries, but he took part in scrimmage Wednesday night and may see action Saturday. Carl and Dew, ends, Weeks and Jovic, tackles, Mowler and Chet Smith, guards, McCosh and Finziger at halves will probably see action before the final gun. Crabbill is second choice to "Pat" Ross at the pivot job.

CHEER SECTION TO BE AT OHIO GAME

Every student in the college is asked to support his team by taking part in the cheering section at next Saturday's game with Ohio university. A few hundred men and women have signed up and paid their 25 cents at the Union for their green or white caps. The 1000 other students who signed up are requested to pay their 25 cents at the Union immediately so that all the hoods and caps will be in the stands tomorrow. The combination of those who have paid and those who are expected to join will just about take the whole student body.

This step at a unified cheering section with the cloth hoods is very unusual in such a small school. Only the big universities have been able to pull off the demonstration such as is being planned for the State supporters if they get out and work on the project.

Michigan State is practically the only college in the middle west which has been able to organize a cheering section of this type with all the facilities of a big university having many more thousands of students. The only thing left for the student body is to get out and purchase these hoods and make this project go over in the manner of all Michigan State projects.

MANY MEN COME OUT FOR WRESTLING PRACTICE

Varsity wrestling is again one of the attractions for Spartan athletes, although the season is still somewhat distant. A large number of men are reporting to Coach Leonard and another team of the 1927 calibre is anticipated. Although the practice is still informal, the real call for practice will be made October 5, according to the mentor, Coach Leonard.

The following men are expected to again be out when the mat call is issued: Mohardt, Murbach, Greenman, Kock, Haskins, Hartman, Block, Langsford, Ferrarri, Joslyn, Bean, Kurrie, Smith, Sprague, Likly, Kern, McCully, Sojorsky, Caswell, Thompson, Stoner, Harman, Shantz, Thompson, Fournier, Fisk, Smith and Hunt.

FRESH FOOTBALL SQUAD PROMISING

100 Men Compose Strong Outfit to Give Varsity Work-outs.

One hundred promising freshman football candidates are reporting daily to Coaches Kufs and VanAlstyne. The squad of yearling hoppers look to be as promising a collection of embryo football players as ever graced the fresh practice fields. Several high school stars and others with experience being listed among the squad. The fresh are being used in scrimmage against the varsity and are being given plays that it is expected will be used against the Green and White in its opponents this year. Following is a list of the candidates, their positions and weights:
