NOVEMBER 6

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party. On Nov. 6, the majority of the people of the United States will exercise their constitutional right of depositing an indication of their choice of the next president of the United States in a ballot box. Yearly there are innumerable votes cast in certain distinct divisions of the population, that is, the college students.

Because of the fact that they are away from their legal place of residence, it is usually considered impossible to use this franchise. Absent voters' ballots have been devised by the government to meet this situation. All people of age and absent from home are privileged to obtain these ballots.

The proper procedure is to write the city or township clerk of the legal place of residence and request an application for absent voters' ballot. After the application is received, property made out and returned, the absent voter's ballot is mailed to the voter in plenty of time to return it for the election count.

Inasmuch as the date of the election is now not more than three weeks distant, members of the student body who have attained sufficient years should send in at once for the application.

It is estimated that about 35,000 out of the student bodies of the college world have passed their 21st birthday and may cast a ballot in the presidential election. Supposedly they represent a group of higher intellectual capacity than average. Therefore it is important that this portion of the voting population of the country should become a decided factor in the determination of the nation's chief executive.

STIMULUS TO OBSERVANCE

University of Michigan's bi-annual student motor cavalcade will not meet out of Ann Arbor to Columbus this week-end according to press dispatches, unless the driving students are fearless of administrative discipline.

The university's ban on cars will follow the entire 200 mile route to the Ohio State stadium evidently. Michigan State students should consider themselves rather fortunate in the privilege of owning cars, a privilege which is fast disappearing on the general American college campus.

On a campus situated as our own is the ownership of a car has transcended the luxury standpoint, and it is not a near necessity as it once was a great convenience. Retention of this privilege, however, will be continued, it has been said many times by the administration, only while the students observe the traffic regulations of the campus.

Observance of the traffic and bus riding Ann Arborites should furnish added stimulation to recognition of rule by those using the campus drive ways.

IMMORALITY

Plans now under way and support of the Interfraternity, Pan-Hellenic and student councils and the athletic tradition provide for an unusual display of decorations for the benefit of the returning alumni this Saturday.

In many former years, devotion to fraternity houses and East Lansing streets have proved practically a fall ure. However this year preparations indicate that an unusually flamboyant college town will greet the old grads.

The athletic department and Lansing and East Lansing merchants are co-operating on the proposition of a huge display of "S" flags along the streets. The majority of merchants opposite the campus will use the welcome mat in the dressing of their windows for the week-end.

It now seemingly only remains for the fraternities and sororities to continue the good work, and a scene of a colorful and colorful welcome will transpire the vicinity into a brilliant setting. It is to be hoped that they will bear their part in making this homecoming the superlative in decorations.

A surprisingly large number of our exchanges during the past week have devoted their editorial columns to commendation of the college system, and in particular to the Michigan State. The majority of these are working under a plan similar to that of the Michigan State and all call for a change out of the present system.

A Detroit judge has asked a sanity commission report on the prevalent mad among students of decorating and hand-drawn signs with gaudy patterns of beautiful sentiment, and oddness of language. Maybe when the commission makes its report, it will classify various forms of decorating to the color of your coat.

Campus Forum

Now All Campus Forum articles submitted to the State News must have the name of the author attached as a sign of good faith. Otherwise, if possible to publish them. Initials only will be used as signature, as desired. Also the letters should be specified.

In the Campus Forum of the last issue of the State News appeared an article entitled, "A Sophomore's Point of View" in which a member of the class said forth his ideas on the fresh situation. I say his ideas because I am sure they are not the views shared by the majority of the class. Now let a freshman speak his piece on the matter, but as a class representative, but as an individual.

The sophomore cites an example of a freshman one who "flourished" his four traditions at once while in company of several upperclassmen. This he would have no belief in the common tradition as present in the class of '32.

But let us reverse the view point, let us look at the problem through the eyes of a freshman. He sees his superiors in one year across the line, immediately after entering him off. He is told to "button" the top button, by a haughty soph. When the sophomore is reminded of his forgotten covering, I say forgotten, because certainly he wouldn't purposely neglect his hat, he borrows a hat from a brother class man, if, indeed, he can find one in the crowd with a hat, and then sees this order as executed. What sort of a cap does a freshman hold then of the rules and traditions of this institution?

I do not say this is a common occurrence, but it certainly is as prevalent as the fresh in the company of a crowd and the next day after hours without a definite purpose.

Kind readers, I know that when you have read this and probably said, you will for a moment at least, how your head with me in my deep, boundless, troublesome sorrow.

Two but just a few short weeks ago that I came to this vast, expensive, institution of learning in homes, peace loving, timid individual. I was naive and unacquainted with the world's ways. I was simple and innocent in manner, especially simple, I knew nothing of cruelty and abuse. Where I had come from, back in that quaint picturesque town in a rural county, the citizens did abide by the rule of kindness to fellowmen and domestic beasts, especially stand ones.

That last objective applies only to the homecoming week. I have always been so proud of my Michigan State, but I didn't realize the situation was as bad as this.

In the first place, in living up to traditions, I am required to wear a green hat that just sets on top of my head and looks ridiculous. I mean the hat.

I was reading through my Spartan Handbook and came to a phrase that said, "Wear Your Hat." It is distinction and should be regarded as such. Well, I should say it is. It has almost been an extinction for me. I guess I have stood on as a distinguished person before every sophomore in the company. I have stood out very distinctly before the women's organizations, but I say, "Good one." Excuse me, I should have said, "Knit out."

Now as to another tradition, I shall never be permitted to be seen in company with a girl, either on the campus or in East Lansing. Well, that's that.

of any danger, attended one. Now I never suspected that the purpose of one was to get a bath in the creek. But it must have been because that's what I got.

I also see a place in the Handbooks where it says, "Learn the college songs and yell." As near as I can figure out, the college yell is, "Sweet Auburn," sung by a group of freshmen under a window at Abbot Hall.

If Director Young could have seen us leaving Abbot Hall after our little "performance" the other evening, the M. S. C. track team would doubtless have a bright outlook for this season.

But then I guess several in our class have already won their numerals. At least I can see brick dust from '32' on several pots. In connection with this I saw another place in the Handbook saying, "The man with the sand most have got a lot of sand."

Every night I play chess not for rating but we may win the class day events.

As I understand things in this flag rush on class day, we freshmen are to group ourselves around the foot of a flag pole and keep the sophomores from taking our flag. Now those sophomores had certainly ought to be ashamed of themselves, when that flag is the only thing we freshmen have left on the campus and then we have to fight to keep them from taking that.

I have had my natural posse of commanding dignity torn from me, as you may see at a glance. Now nothing

SPARTANS STAGE COMEBACK AND TROUNCE CHICAGO Y ELEVEN, 37-0

Parents Day Crowd Sees State Backs Plunge for Consistent Gains. PASSING STILL WEAK

Determined to make a better showing than they did a week ago, the Michigan State football team overtook the Chicago Y college eleven and scored a 37-0 victory before a large Parents Day crowd on the Spartan gridiron Saturday.

For the first three periods, the Windy City men put up a stiff fight, but as the final period wore on they weakened and the Spartan backs plunged and ran off tackle for consistent gains. The latter Chicago line put up a valiant struggle but the plowing of Schan and Danziger tired them out so that in the final period the State backs had little trouble in making long gains.

State scored first late in the first period after two unsuccessful threats had been made on the Chicago goal line. The third threat proved successful as Frye received the ball in the middle of the field and consistent runs off tackle put the ball on the Chicago 27 yard line. Nordberg then made the first score of the day when he went off his own right tackle for 27 yards and a touchdown. The second touchdown came a few minutes later early in the second quarter when repeated runs by Kurtke put the ball in yardage for scoring and Schan ploughed six yards over the goal line. He immediately started a drive which ended after Nordberg took the ball over the Chicago goal line from the 20 yard line only to have the ball taken back to the 25 yard line by the officials who inflicted a 15 yard penalty on the Green and White team. This stopped the State attack and the Chicago team opened up a neat passing attack and carried the ball to the State 10 yard line where they were stopped when Kurtke intercepted one of the Chicago passes on the 20 yard line.

Three Scored in Final Period

With the ball on Chicago's 44 yard line and in State possession, it was only a short time before Schan ploughed across the goal line for another touchdown. Coach Kipke then pulled Schan and Nordberg and replaced them with Danziger and Dickson. Various other substitutions were made as the quarter went on until at the end an entirely new team was in Danziger plugging and Dickson and Frye on the ball on the Chicago 44 yard line but on the next play Dickson fumbled and Chicago recovered. The visitors punted on the first play and receiving the ball on the Chicago 35 yard line, the Spartans started another march toward the goal line. This time Dickson carried the ball over for a touchdown by making his way through a tangle from the 20 yard line. After receiving the kickoff, the Kipke men marched down the field to the Chicago 10 and then Dickson again made his way over the goal line for the final scoring of the day.

Nordberg with his consistent off tackle and end runs, Kurtke with hard off tackle punches and Schan and Danziger's plunging were the highlights of the Spartan backfield performance.

Statistics show that the State team gained 408 yards in making 25 first downs, while the visitors gained 48 yards in making 12 first downs.

THIRTY TO PARTICIPATE IN NOVICE X-COUNTRY

About 30 men, those who have not received letters of nomination for the State barrier squads, will travel over the short course in the annual novice cross-country run Saturday morning at 10:30. The course is about three and one-half miles in length. It is shorter than the regular course which is 4.83 miles, but Coach Mason believes that this shorter distance is better for the new men, since three weeks is a short time to get them in condition for the longer run. William Van Dusen won the run last year with a time of 19:22.

The cross-country mentor states that all freshmen who have shifts must turn out for practice or their shifts will be taken up.

THINCLADS GET FALL TRAINING

Although Without Major Meets, Many Trackmen Get in Shape for Winter Season.

Although fall track does not attract the attention of a general degree of interest because there are no important meets, there are a few men in the athletic club who are training in order to prepare the way for the winter season.

the coaching of Ralph H. Young. In the past few years Mr. Young and his assistants have developed some excellent track teams at State. This is without doubt due in no small way to the fall training which puts the men in trim after the more strenuous winter and spring seasons. Football and cross-country teams take many from the ranks of otherwise track men.

First Alderman, former State track captain and Olympic champion, is again taking to the track after his return from Amsterdam and various other places in which he participated in two years. His return adds special interest to the fall track season.
