Form Against Titan Thursday; Haga Shows Way.

FIFTH VICTORY
Alstyn's Team Chalks Weather Triumph Over Pucky Opponents.

Coach Van Alstyn's Michigan State college basketball team defeated the University of Detroit 26 to 20 to give them fifth consecutive victory over the Titans in a game played in the demonstration hall Thursday evening. The Spartans capped their Detroit win in both 1928 and 1929. The Green and White team winning both games if the home-and-home series played in these years.

Although the State basketball team is not made of the fray with a victory, their play was far below the standard set in the first two games of the season. Their performance was appraised as much of the game, especially in the last quarter. They displayed individual ability. They also showed some team play, making only two runs down the line, making only two runs down the line, while the Spartans made good on half of their free throws.

The Spartans proved without a doubt that they had the strongest offensive combination on the court by scoring 19 field goals as compared with even for Detroit. However, most of the State's points were not made as the result of good team play but rather on individual ability. Coach Van Alstyn's tactical exhibit, all of the Spartans' play an over-enthusiastic team and appeared to be surprised when the game was not contested.

Haga, blood guard came through to aid State's security. He stunk five field goals in the second half. Fred Dier, Herder and Scott also scored. Haga made four of five free throws to make the score 12-11 at half time.

State started off in whirlwind fashion when Scott and Don Hedges scored from the floor before the Spartans could get into their own half. Coach Van Alstyn's tactical exhibit, all of the Spartans' play an over-enthusiastic team and appeared to be surprised when the game was not contested.

COL. DAVIS TALKS ON EXPERIENCES IN BALKAN WARS

R. O. T. C. Commandant First Speaker on World Relations Course.

The citizens of Lansing and East Lansing and the students of the Michigan State college are to have the privilege of listening to the personal experience of a man who is perhaps one of the most extensively traveled persons who has ever served in the ranks of the United States Army. Colonel Edward Davis, head of the military department of the college, will give the first formal number of the course of lectures on world relations at the auditorium of the horticultural building of the college at 7:30 p. m. Friday, Jan. 10.

The lecture will be a rare scientific and personal account of the Balkans including observations on the social, economic, military, and governmental characteristics of this little understood area. The purpose of his discussion and of the numbers to follow is to stimulate an interest in Balkan affairs and to present a picture of Balkan political and economic conditions to help Americans to understand their position in current world affairs.

The world-wide experience of Col. Davis as an officer in the United States army has given him a unique opportunity for a personal study of Balkan affairs. He has seen Uncle Sam's uniform for thirty years. During that time he fought before Santiago in Cuba in 1898; campaigned in the Philippine insurrection of 1899 to 1901; operated around the world visiting Malta, Gibraltar, Arabia, Egypt, and India; was in charge of the military department of the college at Lansing, Michigan; and finally served in India and the near east. He was with Allenby when the British made their memorable entry into Jerusalem. After the war he was in Berlin when he became acquainted with von Hindenburg, Ludendorff, and Dr. Stresemann who was Germany's most progressive post-war foreign minister.

STACK ELECTED BIRD CLUB HEAD

Wilson Ornithological Club, National Organization, Selects State-Savant for President.

Word has been received at the Zoology Department of the Michigan State college that Associate Professor J. W. Stack has been elected president of the Wilson Ornithological Club at the recent meeting in Des Moines, Iowa. Professor Stack has been treasurer of this organization for three years and his election as president comes as a very fitting recognition of his services and as an honor to the Michigan State college.

The Wilson Ornithological Club was founded December 3, 1888, and is named after Alexander Wilson, the first American ornithologist. It is a national organization consisting of 800 members throughout the United States interested in bird life. This organization fosters the scientific study of birds and their habits and has been instrumental in the protection of the birds of the United States. It also publishes a quarterly magazine of ornithology with articles on all phases of bird life.

Prof. A. G. (Dad) Scheele has been retained to take up his duties in the art department.

Tryouts in Union Ballroom, 7:30 P. M. for Cast of 40 Members. PLAY FEBRUARY 6-7 Meeting of Executive and General Committees Called for Monday.

Tryouts for the 1930 Union production, "Page the Prince," will take place in the Union ballroom Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock for both men and women. Preliminary to this the executive and general committees will meet in the Union ballroom night at 7:30 to consider important business.

A representative of the John B. Rogers producing company of Port Huron, Ohio, who will direct the play will arrive on the campus early next week to begin active work. There are 10 characters in the play and a number of choruses. It is estimated that the total cast chosen will number about 40 persons.

The book is by Noble Hill and the music by Carl Henselwood, well-known middle-west writer of experience and great charm. This production according to officials of the producing company bids fair to become one of the most popular ever put out by the John B. Rogers company.

M. S. C. TO BE AG. PRACTICE MART

Farmers' Week, Feb. 3-7, Sessions in Pedagogic Role Toward Agriculturists.

The Michigan State college campus will again be converted into a general school house for the purpose of holding the most important farm day and practice February 3-7 for the annual Farmers' Week. Leaders among Michigan farmmen will address discussions which will be a feature of the yearly agricultural exposition here.

It has been decided to limit the number of general programs this year and allot more time to meetings dealing with special subject matter and informal gatherings. If the preliminary plans for the week are followed out there will be a greater opportunity for the rural visitors at the conference to get together for practical discussions of their problems than has been possible in previous years.

A review of the program shows that nearly 40 leading scientists and officials in Michigan will hold their annual meetings during Farmers' Week. The list of group sessions includes practically every important farm organization in the state.

Entertainment features and talks by nationally prominent figures on the farm and business fields are on the weeks schedule. Exhibits will be in charge of new features more than 15 art objects in the general plan of showing.

More than 5,000 delegates, representing every county in the state, have registered for recent Farmers' Week.

Farmers' Week fields crops produced in the state this year and also livestock which turned back all competition at the Chicago International Stock show.

Six shows are already listed for that week. The livestock will be shown at the Little International where students will have charge of fitting and judging the animals. This show will be a feature of other years.

Michigan grains and seeds will compete and the winning samples set from this state to the Chicago Hay and Grain show will be exhibited. Win-winners of the five-acre crop-growing contest will be announced and an exhibit will show their methods of producing the crop.

The best samples of potatoes from the seven sectional shows previously held in the state are to compete for championships. Michigan's 300 best potato club members are to be announced during the week.

A new show to be held for the first time this year is the colt show which will bring together prize winning colts from the contests held at various county fairs last fall.

SEEK FRATERNITY COUNCIL CHANGES

Atchinson, Burris Prepare New Constitution for Consideration: To Limit Membership.

Plans are now being drawn up to re-organize the Inter-Fraternity Council with a smaller membership according to Warren (Deke) Atchinson and Atchinson and Harry Burris, 30 president of the council, are preparing a new constitution to be presented at an early meeting to limit the membership to 10 representatives, one from each fraternity on the campus. Other than 34 as has previously been the case. It is the belief of Burris and Atchinson that this plan, if adopted by the body as a whole will be wisely followed. Some difficulty has been experienced in getting members of the present council together for meetings and this problem would be solved by halving the membership.

It is also proposed that the present council be held in the senior fraternal building at the corner of State and Third streets. The meeting place is at the corner of State and Third streets. The 1929 figure was 2632, which included students who were enrolled during the winter term of 1929 and also those who were enrolled during the fall term of 1929.

PROMOTED TO EDITOR OF THE STATE NEWS

Paul H. Troth is who is promoted Thursday by the Board of Publications to the position of managing editor of The Michigan State News. Troth was news editor.

Paul H. Troth was named managing editor of The Michigan State News Thursday afternoon by the board of publications following the resignation of Joseph A. Porter. Mr. Troth, who had at the present time been serving as news editor, was promoted after Porter stepped the work on substance reports.

The News staff is completely disrupted with the opening of the winter term. Al C. O'Donnell and James S. Hopkins, the assistant editors, who were to run the editorialship in the winter election, are withdrawing from college. Hopkins plans to study advertising at the journalism school, opened in connection with the University of Michigan. O'Donnell has made no definite plans for the future.

George I. Merkel, 27, a reporter, is not working on the paper this term, although he is attending college. Glen Larke, who was assistant editor during the last spring term, has returned to school.

The new managing editor is desirous of having more freshmen and sophomores on the staff and online interest in newspaper work should other reports at the Michigan State News offices in the fourth floor of the Union Building. Troth commutated a check or less than name, class, address and telephone number in the office, addressed to Paul H. Troth at any other time.

Porter has participated in a large number of college activities and has been prominent on the campus. He will receive a B.S. degree during the winter term and will be employed in publications department.

The letter of resignation follows:

January 9, 1930
Mr. James H. Ho, Editor,
Director of Publications,
Campus.
Dear Sir:
Due to the need for more time to devote to scholastic activities, I feel it best for all concerned that relations between the Michigan State News and myself should be terminated.

I have been a great honor privilege to be able to hold such a position on the campus and it is with extreme regret that I tender my resignation as editor of the Michigan State News. I will leave the office on January 11, 1930.

I am glad that the new editor, Paul H. Troth, who has stepped into the shoes with himself for the past four years, is a capable and efficient person and that the Board of Publications will name him for the position.

With best wishes for the continued good prospects for the Michigan State News, I remain,
Very truly yours,
JOSEPH A. PORTER.

Building and Grounds Department Rehabilitates Meeting Place on Union 4th Floor.

Complete renovation of the Student Council chambers on the fourth floor of the Union building was accomplished during the vacation period by the Building and Grounds department. Approximately $100 was provided by the organization for the rehabilitation of the meeting place. New floors were laid, walls were redecorated, and the room brought up to a spick and span condition. It is thought highly possible that new, and much-needed furnishings may be provided for the council.

It is expected that the Student Council will meet next Tuesday night to elect delegates to a national representative body.

STATE OFFERING TWO NEW COURSES IN WINTER TERM

Instruction in Agricultural Statistics, Rural Electrification Given Here for First Time.

Michigan State college is offering two courses which are not given by any other college in the country. State is the first institution in rural electrification statistics. H. J. Gallagher, of engineering department, is giving the statistics course. The study of the practical uses of farm. This course consists of a one-hour lecture and one laboratory period each week. Verne H. Church, statistician, is giving the farm management course.

RETROSPECTION—

With the beginning of a new year let us pause for just a moment to glance back into the past. This year marks the era of another graduating class, the class of 1930. The time seems to have passed quickly since the fall of 1926 when we entered here as freshmen. We notice changes in ourselves in these past three years, but more marked are the changes, the progress, in this institution of which we are a part.

We remember when we were freshmen that there was not even a cinder path from Grand River avenue to the Union, there was just an old foundation and a few broken trees where the Abbot building now stands, and the frame building which was the Peoples church still stood on the site now occupied by a row of brick-front office buildings. The campus drive cut in front of the old library building then, and our class was among those to see the ground broken for the new armory, the new chemistry building, and the weather bureau. We have seen new departments added, witnessed changes and additions in the faculty, and watched the steady growth of the student body. And more recently we have seen the dedication of the Campanile, a memorial to that first of campus buildings here and gone long, long before our time.

And so it seems that progress is a very part of our institution, implanted here with the building of Old College Hall. We are still building, still growing, and we have still maintained that dignity and beauty which distinguishes our campus. It is something not dependent on the student body. It was here before we came, it will remain after we are gone. It throbs and pulsates through the very campus and makes itself felt if not at first, at least, in some respect, by every student. It is a development which makes it possible that freshmen can some day take their place as seniors, and seniors can find their place among the men and women of a business world.

But we have paused for retrospection long enough. It is a new year. The old order is ever changing, and we must forge ahead toward the tasks which lie before us. And let us in our striving keep to this path of progress.

ANOTHER PROBLEM SOLVED—

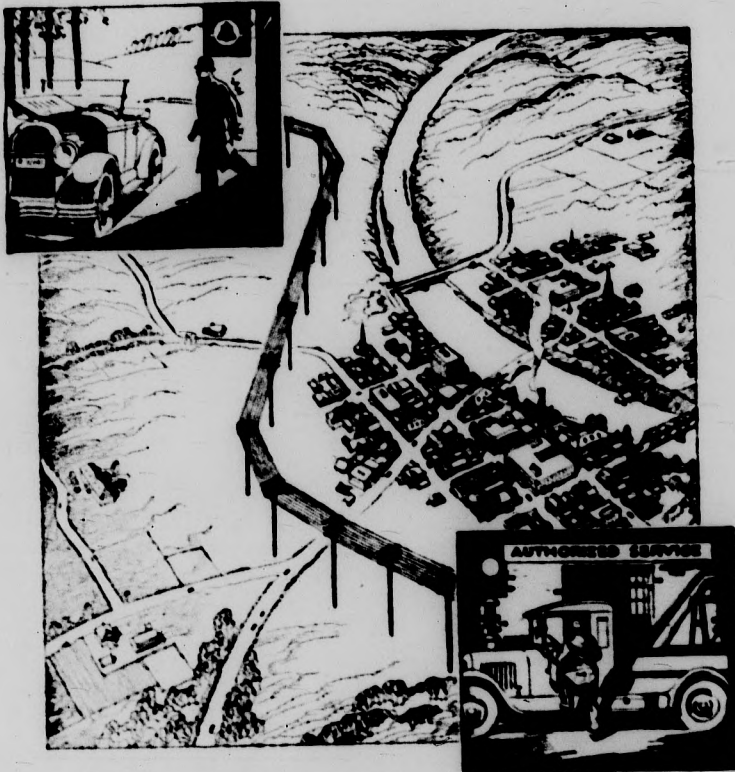

With the installation of a removable basketball floor in Demonstration hall, college officials have coped with a situation which became evident two years ago due to a growing student body and an ever-increasing fan-public at home basketball games. Much credit is due those men who so efficiently and quickly carried out the installation of the floor, following the action of the

...and a Telephone man brought them together

In the Bell System research and development are not confined to engineering laboratories. These methods are applied also to the commercial side of the business, to make telephone service more and more useful.

An example is the classified telephone directory, with its convenient listings by trade and profession, for quick and easy reference. Or take this other use of the classified directory. Telephone men analyzed advertising and merchandising. They saw that prospective purchasers of advertised products often did not know where to buy them. They developed a plan for listing these dealers under their brand name in local "Where to Buy It" directories—a genuine service to buyer and seller alike.

COOL DAVIS TALKER ON EXPERIENCES IN BALKAN WARS

(Continued from page 1) where he served at military attaché for the American legation at Belgrade and Athens. The Colonel has been interested in Balkan problems for seven years; the four years he lived there provided him with the opportunity to meet the leaders and study the people. Among his numerous important acquaintances have been King Alexander of Yugoslavia, Gen. Zivkovich, the prime minister of Yugoslavia, Premier Venizelos of Greece, two deceased kings of Greece, the Stavris and Alexander, Admiral Kononovits and the present president of Greece, and the present president, Mr. Zaimis. Perhaps the most interesting features of Colonel Davis' service in the Balkans concern not the kings and ministers, but the common people whose acquaintance he has cultivated. It is the duty of an attaché to report to Washington not only facts of military interest, but social, political, psychological, and economic matters as well. Thus the Colonel has traveled over most of the Balkans, not only on highways, but in remote byways where he has had a chance to study the Balkan peasant.

The remaining lectures of the series will be given by Prof. Alden G. Alley of the New Jersey Law school. Prof. Harry T. Collins of the University of Pennsylvania who is a specialist on the business problems of South America, David M. Maynard of Geneva, Switzerland, and No Yong Park who is a Chinese expert on eastern affairs.

UP FROM THE OXCART
"Acceleration, rather than strength, is the key to an understanding of our recent scientific developments." From the report of the Hoover's Committee on Recent Economic Changes.
YESTERDAY, the rumble, creak, and plod of cart and oxen. Today and to-morrow the zoom of airplanes. Faster production. Faster consumption. Faster communication.
Significant of electricity's part in the modern speeding-up process is the fact that during the last seven years, consumption of electric power increased three and one-half times as fast as population.
General Electric and its subsidiaries have developed and built much of the larger apparatus that generates this power as well as the apparatus which utilizes it in industry and in the home.
The college-trained men who come every year to General Electric take a responsible part in the planning, production, and distribution of electric products, and at the same time receive further technical or business training.

SPARTANS BREAK EVEN IN HOLIDAY GAMES BY TRIMMING STRONG OHIO WESLEYAN TEAM IN FINAL

Inexperience on New Court-Takes Toll of Van Alstyne Machine as Syracuse Noses Out Green and White Team; Final Score is 21-19.

STATE met an unusually strong opponent in Syracuse university in her initial game of the season played January 1. The Orange clad were rated as one of the strongest basketball teams in the season and had to their credit an overwhelming victory over Dartmouth. Although hotly contested, the game was generally typical of early season games, with Syracuse holding an advantage because of scoring three previous victories, while the Spartan eagles were playing their first game of the season.

After holding the upper hand until the last few minutes of play, Coach Van Alstyne's basketweavers were nosed out, 21 to 19, when a Syracuse substitute center got loose for two baskets from the floor. Captain Jim Van Zelen tried desperately to match the feat, but two of his shots rolled out of the hoop and his final attempt, which might have tied the score and sent the game into an overtime period, failed just as the time's gun ended the game.

Despite the fact that his usual fast-breaking game was hampered by the slippery condition of the floor, Don Grove won high point honors. He sunk six free throws and a field goal for eight tallies. Harold Haun, playing his first game at center, acquitted himself well, although he showed evidences of needing more experience.

The Spartan basketweavers showed a great reversal of form Saturday evening to romp over Ohio Wesleyan to the tune of 30 to 14. This victory was especially welcome in the State basketball camp as it was the first in four starts against the Battling Bishops from Ohio. It was also a feather in

WHAT YOUNGER COLLEGE MEN ARE DOING WITH WESTINGHOUSE

LIGHTNING HAS LONG BEEN A COSTLY RAIDER OF POWER LINES

Wild lightning meets his master . . .

REMEMBER how you used to sit on the porch during a thunderstorm and shudder just a little at the forces that seemed to tear open the sky and shake the hills? Electrical men have often shuddered in grave seriousness over those same forces. For lightning has been a costly raider of power lines.

Now, however, many means of defense are available, and many more are being developed. Science has been studying lightning, and experimenting with it. Down in the mountains of Tennessee a group of Westinghouse men have been making photographic records of the voltages developed by lightning, with the cathode-ray oscillograph and the klydonograph. Guided by their findings, another group in New Jersey is enabled to reproduce lightning arti-cially, and study its effects on a high-tension line. And in East Pittsburgh, with a generator that will produce lightning strokes equivalent to 35,000,000 horse-power and with a laboratory that duplicates power line conditions, others are learning new facts about the behavior of protective devices.

Much of this work is carried on by young men recently out of college. Their achievements will save millions for power companies, and eliminate many hazards to life in sub-station operation.

Lightning jumps the gap between these Westinghouse testing towers, and spurs the oscillators.
