THE COUNCIL REVIVED—

The Inter-Fraternity Council came back to life in a big way last night when that body met together and formally adopted a new constitution which will definitely limit the membership of the organization and mould it into a more tangible group.

For several years the Inter-Fraternity Council on this campus has been struggling to form a functioning organization which possesses the strength to enforce its own rules. The organization has gradually been forging ahead and with a definite membership should continue to advance even more rapidly.

The Inter-Fraternity Council constitutes a most important group on this campus and with the problems that it has to face should be both active and powerful. It is the fraternity men who take the greatest part in campus activities; they are organized to put things across and they have proved their ability successfully to uphold the campus scholarship. We believe the Inter-Fraternity Council therefore, should act as a board of arbitration and a center of activity. The council should be a nucleus for the welding together of all the fraternities on the campus in an effort to further the interests and needs of the Alma Mater.

Most important of the questions which faces the inter-fraternity group is that of the assimilation of freshmen. We would like to see that body discover some satisfactory and sensible system of fraternity rushing, pledging, and initiating. We do not believe that fraternity activities should eclipse the fundamental purpose of college. We believe that they should be a means to further those ends, and we would like to see the Inter-Fraternity Council function in such a way as to impress that need upon all fraternities and fraternity members.

WHATSOEVER A MAN SOWETH—

The changes in the Campanile continue to break up the time into fifteen minute periods and to forever cast the fragments away into the past until only two weeks remain of the winter term. The inscription over the door of the tower reminds us "Whatsoever a Man Soweth, and we add "So also shall he reap."

With only two weeks of the term left, we pause to reflect and to wonder just what college has meant to us. The freshmen are two-thirds of the way through that dreaded yearling period, and the seniors are ever drawing closer to that time when they must find some practical use for their four years of college training. The time has passed quickly and the end of the term seems to have rushed upon us.

Some of us have lived from one week-end to the next, from one party to another, some have lived from one athletic contest to another, some have lived from one day to another, and from one class to another, and some have set for themselves a definite goal and tried up one day's accomplishments upon another in a constant effort toward that end.

It is said that college is the best four years of our life. If that is true, are we all of us setting a high enough standard of measurement for a superlative existence. In the two weeks of the term that are left many of us have the power to clinch the success of three months' work. Will we make that success a reality and if so, will we someday make that work count for something? College offers us nothing more than opportunity, and it is up to us to apply ourselves and to reap the harvest of our own efforts.

"APPREASANCE"

Dean Clark stated recently that "no one can see through subterfuge like an undergraduate." Dean Clark generalized, and for the most part his generalization is correct. That is, it is correct as long as the term "undergraduate" is held to mean those students who are active on the campus, who are active in some form of campus work, and who have not confined their school years to pouring over books.

The student who enters into active work is constantly faced by subterfuge, often classified in this case as "appreasance," plain and unadorned. Not only is he brought face to face with the art of "representing it on," but in many cases he learns how to judge himself, and the best brand to use.

We don't condemn this condition. Much of the benefit derived from activities is the ability to understand others' actions and the aptitude of learning whom to trust. The freshman who is rushed by a fraternity or sorority is faced with this problem, the first week on the campus. Rushing dates, "hot-boxing," and stories of the fame of the particular house all go towards initiating the newcomer to what goes to make up a great part of campus life.

The student who does not enter into competitive work of some sort while in school, in the majority of cases, has not seen his element of campus life. He sees part of it, small doses, for it is everywhere but in activities it comes in large quantities. If he hasn't, he has a few important things to learn during his first years of work.—Daily Iliad.

Now that the snow has left the campus and the ground is soft once more, we urge students more than ever to use the campus walks provided for them. Tracks and beaten paths worn across the grass at this time of year are liable to stay with us all during Spring.

Music -- Art and Drama

OFFER PRIZES FOR BEST PLAY

By Zilpha Lewis
WEDNESDAY—Theta Alpha Phi presents "The Clean-Up," by Barry Conners, at 8 o'clock at the State Theatre.

The exhibit of contemporary American artists has caused many a student to pause in anxious bewilderment in the halls of the college library. The majority scoff and pass on, but a few linger to inspect the pictures more thoroughly. It is extremely difficult to approach these expressions of modernistic art with an unprejudiced mind. The modernists have rejected the principle of faithfully reproducing whatever happens within the field of vision, their aim is to create a mood, a vital impression of an object. If the artist somehow fails to arouse any response from the observer, one can only conclude that he had done his job very badly. The exhibit as a whole is decidedly below the average level of modern art achievement, but even so it is not wholly without value. The few pictures included from the Neuchange Galleries, the Morton Galleries, and the Peragall Galleries show a pronounced discrimination in favor of the more worthwhile and incidentally more conservative moderns.

Particularly noteworthy is a large oil painting by George Barr entitled "La Place." This picture, a scene at a railroad shipping yard typifies the unrest and excitement of modern industry by the use of diagonal lines and strong color contrasts. The painter is well grounded in composition and has a keen sense of color values.

Winter, "Sacrifice," a watercolor of Burchfield, is one of the most popular pictures in the exhibit. A depicted feeling of bleakness, cold, desolate winter pervades this picture and tends by the strength of mood to subdue a very evident emphasis towards design.

An exquisite bit of work is "Decorations" by McMorris. An archer upon a brown and white charger approaches the receding tide, while brilliant flames engulf him. This design shows great attention concentrated upon minute details such as little engraved curlicues upon each wave, and yet there is strength and power in the proudly arched neck of the steed, and swiftness in the flight of the flamingoes. This work is loaned by the Peragall Galleries, which has also contributed two other particularly splendid drawings, "Evening" by C. H. Deane, and two oil paintings, "Prize Fighters," and "Farewell to Hunt District."

Others worth mentioning are "Farmers" by Ernest Frier, "Venetian Palace" by Robert Halliwell, "Watercolor" by Emil Holzhauer, "The Fortress" by Umberto Romano, "Self Portrait" by Vincent Canale and "Brick Buildings" by Jose Clemente Orozco.

Some of the best works in the exhibit are the prints in Room 410 of Olds Hall. Rockwell Kent is represented by a very fine print, "The Flame" and "The Lovers." "Leopards" by Adolf Dehn, and a portrait of G. K. Chesterton, by Walter Little both received prizes for student competition and in many respects are much superior to some of the pictures included in the regular exhibit.

OLD GOLD RADIO HOUR HAS MANY FEATURES TONIGHT

Two popular screen stars and a crooner who has long held prominence among Pacific Coast radio artists will entertain fans during the Paul Whitehead-Old Gold Hour broadcast nationwide over the Columbia broadcasting system the night of Tuesday, March 11.

Edmund Lowe, immaculate dresser, who will be remembered for his appearance in such Fox film successes as "The Pool," "What Price Glory," "In Old Arizona," and "The Cox and the World," is to be the leading attraction in that evening. With him will be the wife known on the stage as Lillian Tashman, Miss Tashman, who is considered in Hollywood as the best dressed woman on the screen, was a Ziegfeld Follies beauty and has made a hit as screen film productions as "The Trial of Mary Dugan," "No No Naclette," and "Putting on the Ritz." Her greatest success is as the vamp in "On the Level," with Victor McLaglen.

June Parker, the third star on the program, is "The Little Girl Blue" of radio station KJL at Los Angeles. Her crowning has struck the fancy of fans along the entire coast. Tuesday night, however, is the first time she appears on a nation-wide broadcast.

The voices of these three artists, the Whitehead band and its ever-present Rhythm Boys will be heard at 9 o'clock eastern standard time, that evening.

RED CEDAR'S DECLINE HERALDS FROSH DIPS

Campus Creek Assumes Proper Depth for Natural Bathub.

In the last few days the Red Cedar has proved conclusively that it is on the side of the sophomores in their yearly conflicts between them and the class beneath. One who noticed how large and full it became during the last few weeks when winter was really upon us, can no fail to comment on the rapid decrease of its floods now that spring is not far off.

There is a method in this madness without a doubt. It is quite certain that no freshman would be thrown into the briny deep when there was only about seventy-five per cent chance of getting out again, sophomores however reckless they may be would not care to risk a charge of manslaughter.

And the wise old river knows it too. The level of its waters is shrinking, shrinking. By the time that spring is really and certainly here, it will be down to its usual level, an offensive and harmless creek. And all delinquent freshmen can be tossed into the Red Cedar without the slightest harm other than to their dignities. Oh, it's a wise old river the Red Cedar.

170 SHORT COURSES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Commencement Exercises Are Held Friday for Record Number.

C. each, and one student from Germany. Seven foreign students plan to go to Palestine to fight the thousands they have learned from this state.

SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY 1935

Harnessing Niagara Falls to the washing machine

Cheaper power! Groping after this modern touchstone to wealth, deluded inventors slaved over perpetual motion machines... informed inventors evolved the turbine... broad visioned men harnessed the rush of waters... engineers raised pressures and temperatures to produce more power without corresponding increases of cost.

While, step by step, this progress has taken place, the many men who have contributed to it could not know what far-reaching results it would have. Now the ultimate boons grow clear. Water power development becomes a national policy, steam bids fair to rival water power for cheapness, economically produced power brings more plentiful goods, lights houses and banis crowds in cities, is carried to rural sections to lift washday drudgery from farm women's shoulders.

Among the many industrial victories that are behind this revolution, none is more important than wider knowledge of piping materials and better materials. One of the highly prized chapters of our history is the contribution that Crane research and valve engineering has made to the general advance. The results of this research are embodied in a Crane book, Engineering in Service. It is a fascinating story of engineering development and a valuable reference work for engineering students. A request will bring you a copy.

This class eight-piece band band has just completed a highly successful season in Detroit and is prepared to present a novel program. The ticket committee announces that a few admissions are still available and all freshmen who desire to attend the frolic should obtain them immediately. To insure against overcrowding, the number of tickets has been limited to 200.

Carlton Spencer, chairman of the decorations committee, and his assistants, are installing a set of elaborate decorations for the auditorium. Special entertainments and novel programs bid fair to make the frolic the largest informal affair of the season. The list of patrons and guests includes Mr. and Mrs. James Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. CHEM. TEACHING STAFF HAS WINTER TERM PARTY

The members of the teaching staff of the chemistry department of Michigan State college held their winter term dinner and dance party Tuesday evening, March 1. After the dinner at Hunt's the group went to the club room in the chemistry building where they held their bridge party.

The affair is given once each term by the members of the teaching staff and their wives and is one where everyone forgets about molecules, atoms, and reactions for one night, and thoroughly enjoys themselves.

A group of forty-three people attended the dinner and party, making the largest of the term.

Dr. Killiam will be associated with the staff as assistant veterinarian.

The dramatic society gave a tea for most members of the faculty Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Linda Lundberg, Mrs. Helen De Garmo, and several members of the society were present. The house was decorated with spring flowers.

The annual Frosh Frolic will be the largest party of the coming week-end. Arrangements have already been made for the annual party of the Frosh Frolic which will be held in the Union Friday, March 14. The Frosh Frolicers committee has a splendid looking of successful engagements. A letter will pay for the dancing. Special publicity set will be a feature of the evening. A program and attractive program will be given. The annual party will be a success and following the success of the Frosh Frolic, the Frosh Frolic will be a success.

SPARTANS LOSE TO NOTRE DAME

Strong Irish Debating Team Hands Green and White Second Setback of Year.

Before a crowd of 600 people, including 18 debate teams from surrounding high schools, Michigan State's affirmative debate team lost its second meet of the year last night at Lansing Eastern auditorium when the strong team from Notre Dame university out-argued them on the question, "Resolved that the nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament, except for such forces as are necessary for police purposes." By virtue of this victory Notre Dame kept its record of no defeats in the past seven years intact. M. J. Weiss of Albion was the judge.

The Spartan negative team will have an opportunity for revenge Thursday night, however, when they tangle with the Irish speakers at South Bend. Following this debate, the Spartans will journey to Milwaukee to engage Marquette university in another talkfest. Hutchinson, Pratt and Green will make the trip.

Two other debates are scheduled for this week, one Wednesday night at Hartsville, Mich., against Iowa State Teachers, and another Thursday night against Purdue at the Little Theater. The Green and White will uphold the affirmative argument in both cases.

Sunday Means Rest to Some, But Only Boredom at State

When Sunday comes, as it invariably does, after an otherwise hectic week-end, most of us are inclined to consider vaguely what to do with it. At 8 o'clock in the morning one is of the opinion that it is a day of rest, purity and simplicity. That is, the annoying things of conscience if any, that may torment one of the blue book at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. At 11:30 after an interval of five minutes you wake up again with a thwarted feeling that there is something to be done about those studies chapters that were put off last Monday.

Radios and harsh sessions make the usual comfortable combinations, not conducive to study, hence the library that lends of peace and quiet, seem the only logical solution. You set off simply covering with books and good intentions.

H. E. TEACHERS AT VOCATION CONVO

Department Staff Represented at Convention in Chicago, March 3-7.

The home economics department of the college was represented at the Vocational Education conference to be held at the Edgewater Beach hotel, Chicago, March 3 to 7, by members of the M. E. staff. Dr. Marie Day attended the conference, as well as Mrs. M. H. Rivers, Miss Marie Francis, Miss Gladys Lee and Miss Mabel Harris, all members of the teacher-training staff.

This conference, called by the board for vocational education in the thirteenth annual conference of executive officers, state directors, state supervisors, and members of teacher-training staff.

Dr. Day also attended the mid-west conference on the Economic Life of the Child held at the Palmer House, Chicago, March 6 to 8. This conference was sponsored by the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education.

Y. M. Y. W. C. A. GO TO CONVENTION

State-Wide Industrial Conference Draws 200 to Detroit March 7, 8, 9.

About 200 students from all over Michigan attended the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Industrial conference in Detroit on March 7, 8 and 9. The delegates were taken on trips through the Briggs Body plant and River Rouge Ford Motor plant, McGregor Institute and Mariner's Hall, lodging places for unemployed men were also visited.

A fact noticed at the Briggs plant was that the employees were about one-half women and that some received wages as low as $1.40 per day. The number of unemployed men in the city that night was estimated at 150,000, many of them without food or lodging.

In the discussion on industrial conditions led by Prof. Jerome Davis of Yale the following reasons were given for the maladjustments in the factory system: (1) Competitive effort for gain; (2) Self interest instead of service; (3) Lack of an intelligent life for the benefit of all. The fact was stressed that in Canada where a study has been made of electricity production, electricity is produced about six times as cheap as it is in Michigan. To correct the present maladjustments an entire change in capitalism would have to be brought about.

Ways in which college men can help correct existing conditions were pointed out. The following program was recommended: (1) Study the facts. Take courses and read books and personal on labor and industry. (2) Know industrial conditions. In your college local factories and community. (3) Learn to know labor leaders. Visit Union meetings and help organize labor colleges or forums when possible.

And dull care withers on the vine

Don't be always taking your work or love affairs too seriously. It will only end by proving you know less and less of more and more.

The neatest trick you can pull is to slip into the nearest soda fountain or refreshment stand—around the corner from anywhere—and invite your soul to the pause that refreshes. KOB'S BALL TOSSERS BATTLE FOR POSITIONS ON SOUTHERN TRIP TEAM; 35 CANDIDATES TRYOUT

Green and White Squad Leaves Last Week in March With 16 Men: Six Games Are Scheduled Against Strong Southern Aggregations.

THE PROSPECT of a southern baseball trip during spring vacation is offering plenty of incentive for 35 candidates working out daily under the watchful eye of Coach John Kobs...

Teams which will probably furnish opposition for the Spartan nine on the southern trip include Vanderbilt, St. Xavier, Miami college of Oxford, O., and Maryville college in Tennessee.

Others may be stated, as all of State's southern opponents have not yet been signed. Last year Cumberland and Dayton were on the early schedule, but it is not considered likely that they will be listed this year.

Indications are that State will have an unusually strong diamond aggregation this year. There are plenty of promising men trying out for nearly every position and competition is unusually keen for places on the first nine. Many veterans are among the candidates and much likely looking material has advanced from last year's freshman team coached by L. I. Frimadic.

Infield Promising

The first trial on the Spartan diamond was to be held Monday afternoon at which time Coach Kobs expected to stage a practice game to enable him to get a better line-up of the quality of his material.

The infield is rapidly rounding into shape. The first base position is causing the Spartan mentor the most worry at the present time. Bretschwager, a junior, is leading the candidates at the present time. However, Max Crabb, a veteran, is recovering from an operation for appendicitis and is expected to be ready to work out within a few days and will probably lead the race for the initial sack. Johnny Madonia, a sophomore, has been playing shortstop regularly in early drills and shows much promise. He is hitting well and makes a well timed sacrifice when needed. Madonia is expected to return to school this spring term and will furnish serious competition for Madonia.

Freddy Danziger and Chum Galtbertson are making a merry battle for the second base position. Galtbertson is a sophomore and seems to hold the edge in the race. Vincent Prosser and K. Kuttel appeared destined to fight it out for the third base job during most of the season. There is little to choose from these candidates. Peter also has his eye on second and will be stricken from the "hot corner."

Veteran Outfield

Coach Kobs will have a veteran outfield available. Outstanding among the candidates are Pop Warner, Captain Al Sachs, Gibbs, Van Patton and Greer. The first three listed are veteran men and are the likely choices in favor of the garden.

Three athletes are in the running for the catcher's position. Jabber, Barnard who did most of the work behind the plate last season holds a comfortable margin in this chase. However, Keith Byrne and Jimmy Haxley, who split Jabber last year, may see plenty of action.

Outfield Striving

Eight men are striving for places on the Spartan pitching staff. The Red Cross forces were sadly depleted last year through the loss of Jerry Byers through graduation. The former State hurler is now with the Chicago White Sox. Charley Griffin, sophomore, is showing the most promise of any hurlers in early drills. He has had an abundance of hurling experience and is counted upon to make a good job of filling Byers' shoes.

Harber's Return

James Harber, pitcher, returned and John Lundberg of the 1929 squad are in the pitchers' line and appear to have plenty of future work. Dave Wiese, a sophomore, shared the sack with Griffin on the freshman team and is being counted upon to fill Wiese's shoes. Benjamin and Olson are so trying for places on the hurling staff as is Hutzmann, the well known pitcher of Griffin.

S. A. E. DEFEATS G. RAPIDS TEAM

Rout Independent Aggregation in Cage Tilt to Score of 50-26.

A scoring spree in the second half enabled the S. A. E. basketball team to stamp the Beters, rated as the strongest independent team in western Michigan, 50 to 26 at Grand Rapids Saturday night. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon team was represented by practically the state varsity unit, with the exception of Wayne Scott, the S. A. E. assistant manager. The S. A. E. team was coached by Coach Deibert.

The game was up-and-down during the first quarter with each team scoring 11 points. The S. A. E. pulled ahead in the second period by chalking up 17 points while holding their Grand Rapids opponents to nine points. The count was 26 to 18 at half time. The State students swung into high gear during the last two quarters. Thirty-two points were chalked up for the S. A. E. in the third period while the Beters were limited to a lone tally. DAUBERT IS SELECTED AS EXAMINER OF SWIMMING

Word has been received from Washington, D. C. of the appointment of Russell B. Daubert, State swimming coach, as examiner of examiners for Central Michigan.

This is a distinct honor as not more than three supervising examiners are selected in each state and all swimming instructors in this vicinity who desire to supervise Red Cross life saving tests must pass an examination administered by Coach Daubert before they will be permitted to examine for lesser life saving awards.

A certificate of appreciation has also been received by Coach Daubert from the American National Red Cross association for his work in life saving instruction.
