COMMENDATION AND SUGGESTION

On another page of this issue of the Michigan State News is being carried a long list of minute interviews with students relating to their opinions on the new classification system inaugurated this term. At a glance it can be seen that the scattered reactions gathered are almost evenly balanced between approval and condemnation. In fact twenty-one favored it, and nineteen opposed it.

In the first place it is to be admitted that the reaction of the students depended primarily on their own case, and none whatever on the entire effect on the college at large. It was noticed that students who had the misfortune to classify during a crowded period were generally condemnatory, while those in luck, arriving when the lines were empty, were highly pleased. So much must be admitted for the news article.

At the same time it is certain that several common complaints were voiced justly. Under the old system a premium was placed on a student's being familiar with the plan and being alert to get classified before sections closed. Those same students are now required to classify according to class, and some for the first time come in contact with the closed section problem. Naturally they are antagonistic. Most upperclassmen oppose the plan when they are taking underclass subjects and find sections closed by underclassmen who were permitted to go through first. It must be admitted that this is the upperclassman's own tough luck because he is behind his class in courses. He is paying the paper, so to speak. This is the most emphasized complaint, and does not appear to need remedying except in case of upperclassmen who need certain sections in order to graduate. They should be given preference.

While complimenting the college highly on the scheme in general, the News would, after studying many of the objections raised, suggest the following changes, since it appears that this system is to remain in more or less the same form.

1. Permit upperclassmen who need certain underclass courses to graduate to classify first.
2. Arrange more lines for classification checking. It might be good to have some lines for those with closed sections, who need faculty assistance, and another for those who are ready to go through without a hitch.
3. Allow longer periods for classification of each class, since students who have heavy schedules are disaccommodated by the present plan.

Beyond that the plan seems highly commendable. It has taken a great deal of thought and co-operation to effect it and should be granted serious consideration. If that is done it seems probable from the standpoint of the student body as a whole that it will be approved.

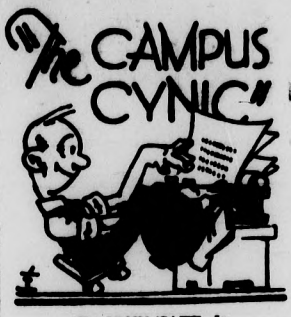

It must be pointed out in ending that any new thing will meet opposition and will take time to become acquainted with.

Tension begins to gather in the atmosphere where faint but unmistakable harbingers of spring abound. But the tension is not due entirely or to any great extent to the vague vistas of coming bliss (that's what the fanciful season is accused of) but rather to odious presence of political issue.

In the various meetings-places are to be seen the political bosses of sundry factions discussing the results of Thursdays balloting. Some with sad and serious mien harangue with heavy voice the surrounding ozone (that part which is as yet uncontaminated), and it weaves and rolls and roars beneath the weighty outburst. It is a period of inconsistency and suspense, when no man can call his friend his own.

The times are out of joint like a disoriented freshman, but will soon be purged of this madness with the rush of exams and the subtle inroads of balmy breezes from the indolent south. Now all rush about like madmen, gesticulating wildly and running off at the mouth simultaneously. After all, it's a pleasant means of amusing oneself.

Which reminds us that the Union grill and the joint across the street that is decorated by the genius of Jim Tread, the campus cartoonist, are experiencing a drop in attendance. Where once they were thronged by bridge-friends and coke addicts they are now but remnants of a careless past. The frequenters have forsaken them, for they have a rendezvous with books as the days of judgment ominously approach like a storm cloud in an otherwise clear sky.

Elsewhere on this sheet if you can bear to tear your eyes away from this will be found alleged student reactions to the new system of classification. Just another racket for making the suffering public feel the weight of their responsibilities. They are given the opportunity of expressing an opinion and despite their general impotence in such they are exceedingly flattered that attention is focused upon them. It's the old army game. Like giving a drowsy man a long-sounding look of sorrow and despair. It puts no straw in his green but thank how he is cheered by the thought that his speaking is mentioned (Yes, do).

If you are afflicted by psychological terminology, causing extreme nightmares, you can find anything from defense mechanisms to delusions of grandeur in the list of minute interviews.

By way of someone's suggestion and interviews of the status of diplomatic intrigue within our faculty walls might be enlightening. Why do we not come out with specific denunciation in a long and involved story. Ah, dear friends, I would be a gory tale, smacking of moral turpitude and other nasty epithets. But in the final analysis it becomes questionable that honesty is a virtue. It's only attribute being extreme rarity. Furthermore it wouldn't be diplomatic and one must always be diplomatic. Oh, yes. Merely skiffed browning. Now it begins to appear that a college education may be of value after all.

With the almost imperceptible emancipation of man from the centuries of domination by the wiles of women the question of womanly retaliation pokes its coy locks through the heaving surface. This and other myths is in the process of being exploded and debunked. It is merely a matter of intellectual perpetuity (wait till we look it up), shared in common by the sagacious male as well as the astute female. There you are. Very simple, is it not? Sure.

Michigan State orators met speakers from five other colleges in the divisional contest of the Michigan Oratorical League held at Alma college during the afternoon and evening of Friday, March 6.

Alma Central State Teacher's college Calvin, Hope and Kalamazoo will compete with Michigan State. The women's contest will take place at 2:30 in the afternoon; the men's contest is scheduled for 7:30 in the evening. Three men and three women will be chosen from the contest to meet six speakers from the second division in the M. O. L. contest at Mt. Pleasant on the evening of March 13.

Gordon Fischer, East Lansing, a sophomore, will enter the men's contest for State. His oration is entitled "Penology vs. Public Opinion" and deals with prison reform and crime prevention. Miss Margaret Koski, of Hope, a freshman, will be State's woman orator. Her topic is "Feudalism or Health."

For the start of the line. Ought to have a couple of more lines.
John Olson, 32, "I get kind of bored with the old long lines. But some of the old long lines around there's just as much running around and red tape as ever. It's hooked up with these little reform movements like carrying a little slip up to the instructor for an absence."

M. C. Breitenbacher, 31, "I don't like paying my money ahead of time."
John Tate, 32, "The situation is somewhat normal for the student whose status is doubtful."

Ralph Guile, 32, "I don't like it. Upperclassmen who need their credits for immediate graduation should be allowed to classify before sections are filled."

Henry Cross, 32, "It's rotten. Too much fooling around. Last term was better."

Elaine Come, 33, "I don't like it. I've been two hours in line and my sections are all closed. Getting cards in the department was much better."

Margaret Lane, 31, "Better than before. No long lines and chasing from one building to another."

John Carruthers, 32, "I don't like it for I've been here six times and can't get classified. They should have more sections."

Timothy Anthony, 32, "Standing in more lines in more places on more days."

Lee Pinner, 32, "I like it. Upperclassmen should register first when they have underclass subjects to get in."

Fred Younger, 33, "All right, but tough on those who have schedules on days to classify."
Dorothy Troth, 32, "An improvement, but too slow. Should have more O. P. Edwards, graduate student. Best thing yet. I've been here four or five years. Checking student ment slips at the door slows up things."
Marvin Horne, 31, "It's a little better. Engineers never had to break for the rest of the college. It's tough on us."
Remedy an admitted weakness in the Student Council organization by voting "YES" on the Council Amendment at the all-college elections on Thursday, March 19.

Again people talk excitedly of "Burning Air"

When a public display of gas lighting was given in London in 1802 to celebrate the Peace of Amiens, people talked excitedly of burning air. Napoleon called it a grand folly, and Sir Walter Scott wrote that the world was going mad.

Thus was ushered in the era of gas illumination. It lasted for 75 years. Then electricity stole the field and the gas giant dozed through a quarter century, used chiefly for kitchen cookery.

Now it reawakens in a changed world, to new possibilities, greater opportunities. Eighty thousand miles of pipe lines already laid, extensively equipped with Crane valves and fittings, prove that the old problem of transportation is solved. Pipe lines crisscrossing the country as numerous as electric power ones are freely predicted.

What has brought this second greater gas era? The answer is: piping materials. Thanks to these, gas men can say for the first time that they are able to pipe gas in enormous quantities from Amarillo gas fields to Chicago, from isolated natural gas fields to users everywhere.

No matter what field of engineering you take up on graduation, you will find its future and its growth interwoven with the development of piping materials. And, as in the past this development has, time after time, been first reflected in the complete Crane line, it will pay you to keep in touch with Crane research and Crane materials.

Co-ed Prom Profits Are To Be Divided By S. W. L. W. A. A.

That the Spartan Women's League will receive 60 per cent of the profits from the co-ed prom, the remainder being kept by A. W. S., was decided at a meeting of A. W. S. council, Tuesday evening in Dean Elisabeth Conrad's office.

According to Martha Farley, president of A. W. S., it was thought by the council that the league had a greater need of funds than the Associated Women Students.

Committees for the co-ed prom were appointed and plans for the affair discussed. It was announced at the meeting that co-eds wishing to attend the play at the Gladstone theater next Thursday evening should give their names to the chaperone of their house and the list be presented by her to Dean Conrad's office, since no blanket permissions will be given. Decision was made that a joint dinner of A. W. S. and the Student Council be held in the Union dining room the night of elections.

Rifle Team Wins Five; Loses Two in Week's Shooting

The rifle team turned in a gratifying score as a result of last week's shooting. Wins were chalked up against Indiana University, University of Maryland, Western Maryland college, Knox college, and University of Florida. The other side of the ledger shows only two defeats, one to the University of Michigan and one to Oregon State. There are two opponents to be heard from next week.

SEASON CLOSING FOR TANK TEAM

Varsity Swimmers Set Six New Pool Records; Season Successful.

Michigan State's varsity swimming team closed one of the most successful seasons in Spartan tank history when they completely outclassed the splashes of Chicago Y. M. C. A. college in the final meet of the season. Coach Russell Dabbert's men have marked up victories over six teams this year and have bowled in defeat only once. The lone reverse was suffered at the hands of the scintillating University of Michigan splashes, who this year include in their lineup some great swimmers.

The Spartan tank team has amassed a total of 293 points while their opponents were collecting 184. Six state pool records have fallen this year as a result of the outstanding performance turned in by the tankmen.

Ray Schaubel, veteran State swimmer, turned in new records for the 50 yard and 100 yard free style. In the shorter distance he chopped off 7 of a second while in the longer distance he knocked off an entire second. He was also a member of the 200 yard free style relay which set a new varsity record. Other members of the relay team were H. Clark, H. Craig and J. Tate.

Gordon Snyder, elongated sophomore star broke both the 100 yard and the 200 yard breast stroke records. In the 200 yard he lapped 3 1/2 seconds off the old record which had stood for three years. Snyder also did his specialty in the 100 yard medley relay team which set a new record.

Five members of this year's swimming team will not return next year. They are Howard, Clark, Horace Craig, Lyle Lovewell, Ray C. Schaubel, and Gordon Snyder. The first four named will graduate while Snyder will not attend Michigan State next year. All the five members who will be lost have been highly important cogs in this year's tank aggregation and their absence will be much noticed next fall.

Schaubel and Snyder were two of the most preparing tankmen developed at state in recent years.

Coach Dabbert will have a lot of good talent from this year's squad to build up next year. Among the men returning are Boucher, Cole, Cook, Hauger, Higley, Tate and Vaughn. Some high class freshman talent has also put in its appearance this year.

Summary of meet: Michigan State vs. Chicago Y. M. C. A. 293-184. Michigan State vs. Indiana University 25-15. Michigan State vs. University of Maryland 20-10. Michigan State vs. Western Maryland college 18-8. Michigan State vs. Knox college 15-5. Michigan State vs. University of Florida 12-4. Michigan State vs. University of Michigan 10-5. Oregon State vs. Michigan State 5-0.

SENIORS PLAN ALUMNI GROUP (Continued from page 1) contacts of his entire life—those former diving college days. Every member of the class of 1931 expects it to be himself, because a member of the M. S. C. association.

Martha Farley, A. W. S. president stated that:

Class spirit and class interest should be kept alive always. Let's elect some permanent class officers and affiliate with the alumni association as all other classes have.

Opinion is that a full quota will be reached, Gerald Breen said.

I'm eager to see the class of 1931 set up a permanent class organization and affiliate itself with the alumni association. I believe that 100 per cent membership in the association by our class is the best means of insuring us an active and functioning permanent class organization.

History of the alumni association reveals that the organization was founded in 1896 and that the membership extends to practically every foreign country. Each year the graduating class elects permanent officers. This year plans are being devised to select a committee of seven seniors who will nominate three men and three women from which the officers will probably be chosen by the entire class.

Seniors are being offered a special two year membership for $3.00 which will include subscription to the official publication of the association, The Michigan State College Record. Samples of membership cards have been distributed and the blanks will be available at the office of J. Schepers, college treasurer, and at the alumni office.

Members of the senior committee that met yesterday are: Gerald Breen, Ray Schaubel, Stanley Oswalt, Jean Cadwallader, Martha Farley, Glenn Larke, Bernice Sexton, Douglas Carruthers, Margaret Goodenow and Madeline Dulso.

ILLINOIS MEET ENDS SEASON OF INDOOR TRACK

Six Picked Trackmen to Defend State Colors in Stiff Contest.

RECORDS MAY TUMBLE

MICHIGAN STATE'S track team will wind up the most successful indoor season in recent years Saturday night at Champaign, Ill., when six picked Spartans compete under the Green and White colors at the annual University of Illinois relays.

The men are Clark Chamberlain, Bob Olson, Bob Russell, Kenneth Yarger, Ted Bath, and Clifford Liberty.

Chamberlain set a new conference and gymnasium record of 9:42 last Saturday in the two mile run at the Conference Intercollegiate meet in South Bend. He has been entered in a special 1500 meter race. He will run against such men as Ray Swartz, State Intercollegiate mile champion from Western State, Normal, and Joseph of Butler, national collegiate champion at the mile distance. This is a strong possibility that with a field such as this, the 1500 meter mark may be due for a tumble.

Olson, who sealed the bar at 12 feet six inches last week, should make this height with little trouble Saturday, and perhaps raise his ankle an inch or two. The competition at Illinois is such that a vault of near 14 feet is necessary in order to place.

States quartet of hurdlers, Russell, Yarger, Bath and Liberty, has been entered in the shuttle hurdle relay, each man running a leg of 80 yards. This is the first year a Spartan team of this type has competed at Champaign.

All-College Boxing Tournament Is Minus Vim of Previous Years

The opening rounds of the All-College boxing tournament which were run off Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons lacked the color of elimination bouts of former years. In only two divisions were there enough entries for elimination contests, the 115 and 145 pound classes.

These two weights brought out some surprising pugilists who demonstrated considerable fighting ability but were far from being sensations in the squared circle. The championship bouts, which were scheduled for Thursday, have been set for next Monday night at 7:30 in the Spartan gym in order to allow the fighters ample time to rest in the proverbial pug.

In the 115 pound class Bill will fight Bert. The battles, although devoid of hefty wallops, are expected to put on a fast battle with plenty of action.

The 125 pound division will first meet Butler and Schooner battling for the championship. Not much is known about the respective merits of the two men as neither one had the chance of engaging in elimination bouts.

In the 135 pound class Zisman will meet Butler. Butler came to the finals without fighting one as both his scheduled preliminaries took walk-out powders. Zisman won a decision over Butch on Monday night in his first fight. All three rounds of the fight were packed with action. Zisman rushed out of his corner at the first going, which incidentally was Jim Crowley's whistle and stating throwing gloves at the slightly bewildered Butch.

Butch recovered himself in a hurry however, and showed plenty of ability to take it on the floor. Zisman was the aggressor the entire route but failed to show away Butch who lost on points. Baker forfeited to Zisman on Tuesday afternoon.

Without a doubt the classiest fighting of the preliminaries was staged in the 145 pound division. The men who will decide the championship of that weight Monday night are Bortman and Burchett.

Bortman earned a decision over B. Martin Tuesday night in a bout that proved to be a crowd pleaser. The winner entered the ring with a 12 pound weight disadvantage as the result of being entered in a class one notch higher than he should be. The little freshman boxer was awarded the victory after putting up a battle against odds for four rounds. On the following night Bortman fought Sam Elowitz, winning a technical KO when the bout was stopped in the third round. Elowitz showed lots of gameness but was no match for his smaller opponent who landed with monotonous regularity.

Burchett advanced to the finals after winning a technical knockout over Bannen Tuesday afternoon. The first round was fairly even but Burchett started connecting with Bannen in the second and Bannen changed. Referee Don Bremer halted the fight with Bannen in a bad way. On Wednesday night Burchett won a decision over McCully. McCully was unable to keep Burchett's left away from his proboscis. The loser resorted to rough house work in the final stages of the match but was unable to connect effectively with Burchett, a far more clever ring general. Burchett's fight with Bortman should be well worth watching.

In the 158 pound class Sammy De Santis will tangle mitts with Elmer Davis. Both men have advanced to the championship fight without the trouble of eliminations.

Bob Murrett and Post will mix it

Edward Krueger proved to be a popular choice for Liberal Association with 81 votes to his credit. Krueger Constantine will oppose him in the second round. Louis Adams, eliminated in 36 votes.
