Variety of Spring Reading Books To Be Found on Library Shelves

When browsing around in the library in quest of a readable book one is surprised to find such a quantity of good entertaining books on the shelves. If you are looking for a good story here is a list from which you might make a choice.

Plotting is of course apt to be the most entertaining type. A few books are: Washington Square by Henry James, The Madcap Queen by Paul Rival, another popular story, The Paris Club by Maria W. Miller, King's Favorite by Philip Gibbs, and Larche Nuts by Egan Lee Masters.

Biography and autobiography are also popular and interestingly written and here are some that will fulfill all qualifications. The Book of Youth an autobiography by Hermann Sudermann, 'Autobiography of Socrates and Dramatic Reminiscences of England and America' by Cyril Maude, the distinguished actor, Emerson, The Frustrated Yankee by Boris Michaud, Verdun by Marshall Pétain, Kipling and H. Soldiers by Patrick Braybrook.

Taking the Curtain Off, The Last Letter and other Artistic Jokes by Doris Arthur Jones, Whistler, The Friend by Elizabeth Robin Pennell, The American Leviathan, The Republic in the Machine Age by Charles and William Beard, The Masters by Joseph Wood Krutch, Maurice Combes by Henri Mondin, Richardson, Moving Foxes by Henry Ford in collaboration with Samuel Crowell, Five Civilized Kingdoms by Albert Ellsworth, Gilbert and Sullivan, The Republic in the Machine Age by Charles and William Beard.

The fourth and fifth degree teams from the M. S. C. Student Grange were entertained by the Barry County Granges at the Welcome Grange hall near Hastings, May 28 and 29. While there they gave the fourth degree work to 17 Grangers and the fifth degree to 11. The teams were made up of 18 students from 16 different Michigan counties.

During the spring vacation Clarence Huxley, Carl Strong and Duane Byrd, forestry students, worked at the Graham Experimental station in Grand Rapids on a project of exceptional cases of spruce trees.

There are certain instructors and professors who feel it their duty to watch over their students' minds. They refuse to discuss, especially a bit of freedom. This matter is most interesting, especially in the case of a person who should feel that he is to attend a large portion of his scheduled classes, there are times when he must be aware of his mind because that is what he will need in an exam.

Of course, this applies to laboratory and practical classes more than to recitations. So long as a man keeps up his work, he is not hurting himself, and he is not hurting the instructor, who is there to guide and not to guard. Then, too, if a man wishes to do a bit of outside work on the subject instead of in class, he will get as much out of it as if he were to remain cooped up in the classroom all spring.

Naturally there can be a limit to which this theory should be followed. One instructor never says a word about absences, merely relying on a man's judgment. If the latter feels that he can do better out of the class he is free to do so. And the fact is, the more freedom there is, the more the student should be given. Every student should be presented every month with an examination under circumstances which would show with some and here are some new additions to the stacks: New Poems and Seeds of Time by John Drinkwater, Tomorrow and Tomorrow, a fascinating play by Philip Barry, and The Wanderer of Liverpool by John Masfield.

Added to this list are: The World's Aeroplanes and Airships by G. Gilbert Jackson, Jaws in Saltwater by Troubridge Hall, and Cadillac Music by William Gorham Rice.

Although Purdue University is one of the leading institutions of its kind in the country, there are certain phases of life about the university which seem both odd and antiquated. When a person gets to college he is old enough to realize that what he makes of himself there is up to him and do or say what he will, an instructor is not going to punish a man unless he sees fit to do so from the right angle.

'Round About the Campanile

SIGNS OF SPRING

A portly gentleman and an equally portly lady driving around the campus in a large and shiny car, eating strawberry ice cream cones. Couples holding hands in the library. Couples hold hands in the Union. Couples holding hand in cars. Couples holding hand.

The attendance department working overtime to keep track of cuts. Roster laid down—great slaughter among troupees.

Speaking of women playing tennis have you ever seen anything like it this spring? All drug stores report a complete sell-out of Hinds Honey and Almond Cream for peeling noses—and girls at tea dances move with creaking limbs and stiffened joints, the result of racketeering on the courts. Any of the hail-fellows will meet who make a practice of jovially snapping their feminine friends on the back when they meet them are liable to stop a swift punch in the nose if they aren't careful, too because that old devil sun is getting in his work, and sunburn and sore shoulders are abroad in the land. It's sort of a "why go to Miami to get a tan?" idea.

SCANDAL SHEET

Motto: "Bigger and better keyholes."

This is the tale of the farthest intruder with two suits. Hang on our words, audience, they'll be good and strong. He wore the suits, one was silver-striped and one was gray—alternately having one cleaned while he was attired in the other. A few days ago he went with his wife to the cleaners to get the cleaned suit—the silver-striped one. He left his wife in the car and went in to get it. His wife waited in about half an hour he appeared with a sheepish look but no suit.

"What's the matter?" asked his wife. "Did they have to cut a few new buttonholes?"

He shook his head sadly. "We searched that shop from top to bottom," he said, "and we couldn't find that silver-striped suit anywhere."

"I know why," said his wife, choking with laughter. "You have it on."

And if you want a nice flunk in his class, mention suit within two blocks of him sometime.

NOW IS THE TIME

One week of school has come and gone. Due to the balmy weather, not many of us gave much thought to scholastic endeavors. It was far nicer to give way to Spring and let the books remain "un-cracked."

More weeks are coming. Not too many, either. There will be other balmy days. There will be torrid days, too, when one can't force oneself to work. All this, and more, is in store for us.

Therefore, in justice to ourselves, we should begin to study now, rather than the end of the term. It may be easy to procrastinate now, but it will be so much easier when the temperature is 20 degrees higher. Remember, it is much better to keep up than catch up!

The greatest difficulty is to convince a newcomer, fresh from college that he must change his thought action from learning to doing. Harvey Elvstone says, "We wonder if it's all a matter of making the change."

A POPULAR UNION—WILL WE HAVE IT?

Elsewhere in this issue may be found an announcement of officers who will serve for the ensuing year as the guiding hands of the Union.

The Union has been with us for many years. It has had a rather peculiar existence; sedentary, if you will. Although it offers every convenience and facility for service that could be asked of an institution of its kind, our Union has never been popular among the student body as a whole. Whereas, it should be the center of student life and activities, it now merely lives in the hope that something or someone will be uncovered to inject the proper tonic to place it substantially on its feet as a true student club.

That the Union has never known the popularity it justly deserves is the fault of no one individual or group of individuals. It is the indifferent attitude assumed by the students that is to blame. But until the student body has been awakened to that fact, the Union will continue to suffer.

A new administration brings active duties this term. They will be hampered by lack of experience, insufficient funds and other equally restraining ties. These in themselves will be excuse enough for them to slip through the coming year without accomplishing anything constructive. This may be done, we say, without serious damage to their reputations, as executives of the Union.

However, if they are able to succeed where others have failed, what a boon of contentment to themselves, what a tribute to their reputations, and what a service to Michigan State college!

Will the incoming administration reach their goal of a student-popular Union? It will be interesting to see.

SUNDAY AT PEOPLES CHURCH

- 10:30—"Come to Church Sunday" Many student groups will be present in a body. Inauguration of officers for the Religious Council. Dr. McClure preaches "What is Worth Dying For?"

flat. One wonders if fathers get at the office, and focus attention all midnight on envelopes or instead of on the financial or legal pages of the evening paper. Theplan has great possibilities. But there is one question: rather bothers us. When a course of human events, such as exhaustion of the budget, or to the entertainment of friends, it became necessary to father for a supplement, or "because of unforeseen circumstances this month"—what would do this?

As you will write a dissertation, may look quite as well as a dissertation. But no owl would maintain its composure, well but for the fact that it viewed the future of the often as a judge do.

"Test it!"

the watchword of an industry

The Bell System—whose plant cost more than $4,000,000,000 and is still growing—offers wide opportunity to the man of engineering bent. Here he has ample scope for testing new ideas, not only in telephone apparatus development but also in manufacture, construction, installation, maintenance and operation.

No matter what his particular branch of engineering—electrical, mechanical, civil, industrial, chemical—his training stands in good stead. For "telephone engineering" calls for the broad engineering point of view as well as specialization.

Basic technical knowledge, an appreciation of economic factors and the ability to cooperate are some of the things that count in System engineering. For men of this stamp the opportunity is there!

Size of American Schools Given By Swartmore Dean

We all have had our arguments as to the relative size of various colleges and universities. Never also lately sure of the point, we have stubbornly stood by what we believed to be true. Here is an opportunity to settle the question for some time to come.

Reprinted below is a list of the leading institutions of learning with their enrollment figures for full time students and also for totals of full part time and summer school students. Figures are taken from a recent issue of School and Society magazine.

Track Team Rapidly Rounding Into Condition

SPARTAN THINCLADS DRILLING OUTDOORS NOW TO PREPARE FOR FIRST DUAL MEET OF SEASON

State Athletes Entertain Detroit City College Squad Here One Week From Saturday. Green and White Has Strength in Distances and Field Events.

MICHIGAN STATE'S TRACK SQUAD is rounding into condition for the spring season, working out nightly at the stadium to prepare for the first outdoor dual meet, Saturday, April 18, with Detroit City college. Equipment has been issued to more than 60 varsity and freshman aspirants.

Leading the Green and White contingent is Clark Chamberlain, national cross-country champion and central intercollegiate record holder in the two-mile run, who is running faster now than at any other time in his career.

He will be helped in the distances by Earl Steinfeld, two-miler, Don Price, miler, Walter Wissner, sophomore half miler, and Clifton Cobb, a new mile and half mile prospect who has shown up well in the preliminary workouts. It will be these five men upon whom the majority of State's points in the distances will depend since Lorenz Fullerton, the Spartan captain, is still absent from school. Fullerton was a miler who was developed by Coach Mort Mason in two years from a mediocre performer into a star.

The hurdles will be a strong link in the chain of victories State expects to pile up during the season with Bob Russell and Ken Yarnes, two-letter men, and Cliff Lambert, Ted Bath, and Rex Steinfeld, sophomores, competing for the Green and White. The first four men are expected to give State the best shuttle hurdle relay team ever developed in the history of track at State. They showed up well during the winter season at the Illinois relay.

The pole vault will be taken care of by Bob Olson, Jimmy Ahlskog, Moulthrop, and Monte Holcomb, four performers who are capable of leaps of over 12 feet. Olson reached 12 feet 6 at the Illinois relay. It will not be at all unexpected if State slams this event in both the dual meets with Detroit City and the University of Detroit.

Norman Smith, varsity record holder in the high jump at 5 feet 10 1/2 inches, will be leaving the bag again, competing along with Kenrick, hekel, another sophomore.

The board jump will be defended by Eddie Gibbs, two-let captain.

11 TRYOUT FOR TENNIS SQUAD

Wealth of Sophomore Talent May Strengthen 1931 Net Aggregation

Eleven men answered Coach C. D. Ball's call for candidates for the varsity tennis team, which opens its schedule on April 25 against Kalamazoo college on State's courts. Three veterans from last year's team returned to form a nucleus for this year's net team. The three varsity men are Capt. H. C. Olson, W. P. Mott and Doc Finney. G. F. Evans, another member of last year's squad, also turned out for practice.

Coach Ball this season has a great wealth of good sophomore racket men and expects to mold a formidable team this year. The second year men who returned for practice are R. C. D. Bell, B. M. Weintraub, R. H. Johnston, H. B. Brown, R. C. Hammerschmidt, H. H. Spindler and M. A. Geer.

State's tennis coach this year must fill the vacancies left by Capt. Paul Kane, last year's star, Goodwin and Hutchison. Kane was one of the cleverest net men seen here in a long year, and his absence will be felt keenly during the coming campaign.

Dancing Honorary To Hold Regular Weekly Meetings

Orchestra, national dancing honor and under the supervision of Ann Kaehle, district instructor, will hold a meeting every week starting next week in the dancing studio. Advanced students will meet every Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, and the beginning class which met weekly last Tuesday evening at 6:45 will meet every Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The date of the Co-ed Prom has been hastened from April 17 to April 24, due to the Senior Party being held on the former date. Parties will not be given on dates of other large affairs.

All co-eds wishing to sell tickets for the Sphinx party which will be held Saturday, April 18, in the Union ballroom will meet with Anne Louise Becker, chairman of the ticket committee in the Woman's Lounge at 5 o'clock, Monday.

sandwich a few practice leaps in with his duties at the pitcher's box and in center field. Last year he got over 22 feet.

Cliff Lambert seems to be the cream of the javelin tossers at present, as well as a good sprint prospect. Lambert also broad jumps well over 21 feet.

Base Pflug in the shotput and discus, Mornett in the shot and Sean Oswald and Louie Handier in the discus should pick up a few points for State in these events.

SPARTAN SPORT SHOTS BY HARRY COATES

Not So Bad (CONSIDERING the handicap under which they were playing) members of the State baseball team performed very acceptably on the spring training trip. The Spartan starters had had only one outdoor workout before they embarked on their southern tour, and there is a lot of difference between hitting in an indoor cage and hitting out in the blue.

The even break with three homers and an equal number of double plays was very acceptable. The experience of the new players cropped out at frequent intervals in the southern games and was responsible for some of the defeats, but the difficulty will probably be remedied and a fairly successful home season is in prospect.

Hitting Just Fair

The diamond team averaged .236 in hitting on the spring trip. Although this is weak stick work, it must be remembered that the players made a big jump from the indoor cage to the open air playing. And then, too, the teams they were meeting had all had two or three weeks of good outdoor practice before the Spartans played them.

Warbler, Barnard, veteran catcher, was the leading stalker and hit a 33 clip. He will be remembered as a timely hitter on last year's crack team, and he shows promise of coming through as a man who can hit in the pinches again this year.

Pitching Questionable

Failure of Charles Griffin, south paw ace of last year's hurling staff, to come through in the south, is causing Coach Kobs plenty of worry. Charles has been bothered with a very sore arm, but his post side flinches may round into condition soon.

Captain Ed Gibbs proved that he may be retained from last year's staff this season if necessary. Although his regular position is center field, he had good success chucking in the south and won two games, although Griffin came to his rescue on one occasion.

James Keith, left arm right hander, lost touch with the south, but may come through in his home territory.

Jerry McCallin, a fast baseman by night and an equally effective relief pitcher by day, is showing promise as a pitcher against the Dixie team. His forte is a smoke ball, but he is rapidly developing a curve and a change of pace, so that he may throw on the mound frequently this season.

Bob Pemberton, a sophomore left hander, is also counted upon to win some games. He beat Naves in the Spartans' last game of the spring trip and a little more confidence and experience is expected to develop him into a satisfactory moundman.

Unknown Miler

Another "unknown" has been uncovered and loomed as a good track prospect for this season. He is Cliff Cobb, a junior, who first showed his wares in the inter-fraternity meet by running a good half mile and since then has been training as a possible varsity miler.

Cobb seems to have the stuff to make good athletic of his early workouts are any indication. He has never had much experience in competition, even in high school. When a student in East Lansing high school, he and two or three schoolmates used to run about three miles every afternoon during the spring, just for the fun of it, and it may be that these workouts developed him.

Some Real Wrestlers

Coach Fendley Collins has given Michigan State the best wrestling team in history, and it is probable that Spartan matmen will continue to win laurels under his leadership to win laurels under his capable tutelage. It has been a long while since a credible grappling team has been turned out here, but the squad this year is certainly a credit.

The Spartans won the Michigan A. A. U. championship and two men made their presence felt in the National Collegiate meet.

VETERANS HELP COACHES WITH GRID PRACTICE

Last Year's Letter Men Assist in Spring Football Work-Out.

CARBERRY ON HAND

Coach Jimmy Crowley Begins to Mold Team That Will Meet Cadets.

Coach Jimmy Crowley's veteran Spartan letter men have acted as teachers for the freshman football candidates who will be eligible for varsity competition next fall in spring practice.

Captain Milt Cappy Gross is setting the pace in leadership and instruction for the 70 or so aspiring gridlers. But Handy was helping him teach the fresh candidates, the rudiments of Coach Crowley's style of line play Thursday afternoon, as were some of the other linemen from last season.

A few backfields were lined up and ran through signals to familiarize the new players with the Notre Dame shift popularized here by Coach Crowley.

Assistant Coach Glenn Carberry was on hand to direct the setting up exercises and list all of the candidates streaming within a few minutes. Not content with this, he drove the line candidates through some lengthy workouts.

The purpose of the spring football drills is primarily to condition the candidates, but they also serve to familiarize the new players with the varsity style of play and to smooth up the performance of some of the sophomores and other members of the 1933 squad. Coach Crowley is fully aware of the strenuous campaign which he has mapped out for the Spartans eleven next fall, and is making every effort to present a well-rounded team early in the season.

There are several big holes in the 1933 lineup which must be plugged. Cecil Fogg, an old reliable who was a great defensive end, is missing. Captain Don Ridler, a tackle, and Claude Street, center guard, and other linemen who have completed their college grid careers and must be replaced. Graduation of those Grove, veteran punter and quarter back, leaves another position open that will be hard to fill.

Paul M. M. Cox, of the Civil Engineering department, gave an interesting talk before the Lansing Engineers club Tuesday evening in the Union building, April 9, on a colorgram which he constructed himself. Such a device is used for producing a harmony of color in conjunction with lighting effects in theater.

This colorgram will be used in the L. E. Illumination course.

ROCKNE ONCE SIGNED BY STATE

It is not generally known that the late Knute R. Rockne once signed a contract to coach football at Michigan State. About 10 years ago Spartan athletic officials negotiated with him to come to East Lansing and Rockne put his name on the dotted line. The contract was in the files in Director Ralph H. Young's office.

Rockne after signing asked that the contract be disregarded because unexpected conditions came up. Spartan officials, after studying the situation, permitted him to withdraw because it was evident that a coach could not be forced into a position they saved Rockne some embarrassment by never revealing the status of affairs. It was a guarded secret and Rockne always remembered the courtesy they had shown him.

FRESHMEN START BASEBALL DRILL PORPOISE TO GIVE WATER PAGEANT

Over Forty Men Report for First Practice of Season Last Night. Pool Spectacle to Be Presented This Month in State's Natatorium.

Coach Lyman L. Primoging sent his freshman baseball men through their first workout of the season last night. Over forty first-year men reported for the initial diamond session. Coach Primoging sent his men through some limbering exercises and uncovered some promising baseball material in the first workout.

The fresh open the season on May 9 against the first year men of Central State Teachers' college. Pleasant on the Spartan diamond. The M. Pleasant school usually puts out a strong first-year aggregation and are far from being a set-up.

Coach Primoging does not expect to cut the squad for several days and reports there is still plenty of time for aspiring diamond stars to report for practice. Workouts are held four nights a week, the next being on Wednesday night.

Panhellenic Council Discusses Plans For Spring Party

A special meeting of Panhellenic council was held on Thursday after the spring term party was discussed. The party will be held in the main ballroom of the Old hotel. A vet. date and orchestra are undecided.

Eden Larson, president, urged all the representatives to discuss their roles in this various societies. At the next meeting several plans for rushing such as deferred and first week rushing will be discussed.

All societies were reminded that their spring term dues of $5 are due and should be brought to the next meeting.
