'Round About the Campanile

By O. L. B.

OPEN LETTER TO MR. SEELEY

Dear Mr. Seeley:

I just want to mention a few things to you Mr. Seeley and I hope that you'll take them in the fraternal spirit in which they are sent. Understand now I haven't any quarrel with the way you handled the weather during the past few months—of course that drought of yours was carrying a joke a little too far. I thought, but I'm not kidding. If you want a drought have a drought, say I but blame yourself when you pay 50c for your strawberries. What I'm kicking about understand is the way you've been handling the weather this past week. Now look here Mr. Seeley. Here it is the last end of April and you are giving us snow. Snow and rain and sleet and hail. I don't mind telling you Mr. Seeley that I'm getting pretty sick of it. Now, no sensible person who gets to a little rain and cold weather now and then in the spring expects that and all are ready to put up with it. But this idea of yours of snow in April is ridiculous. It's silly, that's what it is.

Now Mr. Seeley I want you to get this down. And you better have a pencil and paper ready. Are you all set? Then here here goes. I do not want any more of your contorted snow.

Very sincerely,

Africa. A few of the trials were unsuccessful, but in general the results were favorable.

The main benefit from the wax treatment is the prevention of desiccation. Growth after planting is more prompt and less trees die. In many cases wax has helped to revive transplanted trees which were dormant long after growth should have started. In one orchard it is estimated that a saving of 1000 was made by reviving dormant trees.

Hot paraffin wax is also used to prevent mold on roses and other shrubs in storage. It reduces the injuries from summer sun scald and to some extent repels borer attacks. The wax coating does not appear to interfere with respiration or to have any other injurious effects. The treatment is comparatively inexpensive.

Feeling that the size of the trees was a limiting factor, Nelson attempted to spray wax on larger trees. At first this was unsuccessful, but with the help of Dr. E. J. Miller, a wax emulsion was developed. This can be sprayed on trees to form a perfect coating. Although this phase is still largely experimental, indications of the first results are very good. Several newly planted trees on the campus have received their wax bath, and they show a marked advance in bud growth over other trees under the same conditions.

The juniors at Princeton are the only ones that may play marbles, while the sport of spinning tops is reserved for the seniors.

Church Heads Meet at Church for Discussion

The Student Work Committee of the Peoples church had its meeting for the spring term Monday noon at the Hunt Food Shop. Secretaries George R. Baker of the Baptist Board of Education and R. H. Leach of the Council of Church Boards of Education came from New York for the meeting. Three out of the four state representatives were present, namely, Rev. A. D. Werden of Eaton Rapids, representing the Baptists; Rev. R. T. Caldwell of Lansing, representing the Congregationalists; and Rev. G. M. Frye of Lansing, representing the Methodists. The local members are Mrs. R. P. Hubbard, Miss Ruth Y. Johnston, Dr. H. R. Hunt, Prof. J. D. Mencher, Messrs. H. D. Hood, Man and F. H. Clark, with Dr. McCune as ex-officio chairman of the committee.

Rev. Norman W. Kunkel, director of religious work for men students and Miss Neva Lovewell, director for women students, were present, and submitted plans for the coming year.

Capt. C. R. Chase to Transfer to Kansas School

Captain C. R. Chase, who has been a cavalry officer and instructor in the local military department for the past five years, has received his orders of transfer to the cavalry school at Fort Riley, Kansas, where he will be in an advanced class for instruction. Captain Chase will probably leave here about the first of July. The officer who is to take his place has not yet been designated by the war department.

subject of much contemporary discussion. The recent revolt has been the center of much daily news for some time.

Dr. Fisher's lecture closes a series that has seen many famous lecturers appear before the students. Men like Lorado Taft, Maurice Hindus, Count Felix Luckner, Tom Skeyhill, and Sam Ruth Wilkins, and a woman, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen have all come to the campus with vivid pictures and complete charge of the lecture.

WE AREN'T SO BADLY OFF

Sometimes we believe that any old school would be better than this institution. We tire of the same routine every week, seeing the same campus landmarks each day. Many of the professors and instructors become exceedingly boring. All these factors lead us to think that Michigan State is probably the most undesirable place to spend one's college career.

But when we stop to analyze our situation, the whole thing assumes a much brighter aspect. Considering first the campus itself, we realize that it is a spot of beauty. Few institutions can point to their surroundings as ranking among the most beautiful with a more justifiable pride than we. Indeed, we have the perfect background.

Many of us take particular joy in deprecating the age and condition of the buildings. A survey of other campuses will assure the most skeptical that here too we aren't badly off. The percentage of undesirable structures at Michigan State is unusually low, comparing with other institutions of the same size. We are cramped, it is true, in many places but the situation is not distressing.

The personality and character of many of the faculty does not meet with our approval. Many hours are spent by students in raking their professors over the coals, painting them as devils with forked tails. In more practical moods, each of these students has admitted that the worst of "forked tails" is not so bad, and many are numbered among their best friends.

Summing up and taking everything into consideration, we are firmly convinced that our situation is not undesirable, but, on the contrary, one of the very best.

TEA DANCE

The girl who thinks she looks like Greta Garbo. The tall woman and the short man dancing together, and their fixed smiles. The girl who thinks she looks like Clara Bow. The xylophone player who warbles between dances. The girls up on the balcony who have to be coaxed down. Those men who cut back after you take three steps. The girl who thinks she looks like Ruth Chatterton. The couple that never get out of one corner. The couple that goes around and around the floor as fast as possible. The looks of silent fury that follow them. The girl that sumpers. The girl that chews gum stare up at the ceiling as they dance. The men who sing choruses into their partners' ears. The men that think all the women want to dance with him. The man that's afraid to ask any woman to dance with him. The girl who presses her nose in her partner's sweater or coat as the case may be and hangs on blindly. The couples that never get unwrapped until five minutes after the music stops.

COLLEGE MARRIAGES MORE SUCCESSFUL

ship is carried over a period of three or four years at a time when boys and girls are keen in observation and tremendously critical. It is most important in choosing a life partner.

A co-educational campus does give special opportunities for wisdom in first choices. Throughout their courtship the college boy and girl are more dependent on each other. They are thrown on their own resources, usually, there is little temptation to spend on outside entertainment. Their whole education tends to set their minds along ways of understanding and mutual appreciation. The investigator finds.

Miss Halle believes that three or four years of college is valuable training for home making. Working with other in academic and social interests of the colleges gives a girl an understanding, and the constant contacts with others make her adaptable to different personalities, and endows her with a sympathetic attitude toward life.

Home Economics Club Will Start Extensive Drive

A membership drive will be made by the Home Economics club today and tomorrow, April 28 and 29 according to announcement made by Evelyn Harvy, president, today. Tables will be stationed in the lobby of the home economics building where students of that department may sign up and pay their membership dues of 75 cents per year.

The national home economics convention will be held in Detroit in June. Only members of home economics clubs will be able to attend. All home economics students are urged to join the club because a large delegation is expected to attend convention from Michigan State.

The membership committee consists of Joan Carruthers, Adela Becker, Dorothy Withers, Mary Mixter and Letta Bates.

Two Co-eds and Faculty Advisor Go to W. A. A. Meet

Michigan State college was represented at the convention by Norma Barr, president of the local W. A. A. organization, Annie Laurie Becker, former president, and Miss Dorothy Jane Parker, faculty advisor. Annie Laurie Becker spoke on the "Summing Up of Athletics Awards" at the open meeting Saturday morning.

A national convention of A. C. A. C. W. is held the first year of every three years and a sectional convention the second year of every three. Although there will be no convention next year, a national convention will take place at Texas the following year.

One scientist says this spring fever business is entirely mental; that there is no physiological basis for it. They may be no physiological basis for it, but we'll bet a lot of profs think differently as they see the little nodding germ steal from student to student in daily classes this time of the year.

The annual senior play, "Demander Walk," will be given at the Forest of Arden on Tuesday, June 16. The play is under the auspices of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic society, and is being directed by Prof. E. S. King.

Saturday, June 20, will be Alumni Day. At this time alumni of State college will gather at the Union for registration and reunion. The day will be spent in recreation and business and will be capped by the college reception and alumni dance at the Union.

ORIGINAL MUSIC FOR OPERA

Lasheny Sisters, a peppy singing duo who have appeared many times over Detroit radio stations and at campus functions, to present some of their remarkable duets between acts of the production. It is planned to have them feature "Singing" also written by McKellop, and a waltz popular on this campus for some time.

Mr. Pollock's songs are:

"In the Garden of Eden," an unusually beautiful waltz which will be sung by Warren Rogers and Mary Ellen Davis, the two leads, supported by the chorus. The excellence of this song is such that production directors are said to be thinking of having it published. It was said today that an attempt would be made to have it played at campus affairs so that the student body might become familiar with it before the date of the opera.

"Handsome Papa," a hot number written for a chorus of petite, flirtatious, models led by Margaret Lane, Lansing, who appears as a member of the mad, and a chorus of our burly policemen.

"Puttin' the D in Devil," is a particularly peppy and catchy tune written for a chorus of little red devils.

"You've Can Depend on Us," is a comical number written to burlesque the traditional dignity of the average policeman and will be sung by the cops chorus.

Most extraordinary is written for Robert Miller Dallas, Tex, vocal student with the Institute, who plays the part of Henri d'Armont, an imported French detective.

Farwell's composition "The Ghost Dance," is of more sombre and word nature, fitting the character of the play a mystery. It will accompany the dance of a troupe of saint choirs. Members of this chorus are to be picked from the personnel of Orchestre, concert dancing club.

"We Are Certain to Succeed," a tune of bravado nature written for Carleton Spencer, who plays the part of a bustling young newspaper man, and a chorus of butlers.

"My Star Divine," is a waltz written for Mary Ellen Davis and Warren Rogers.

"My Posi Heart," is a catchy, peppy tune composed by McKellop and fitting the comedy role that its singer, Florine Redfield, has been cast to fill.

Management of the Opera is said to be enthusiastic over the high type of musical numbers that they have been able to work into the production, and consider that a Union musical comedy that has been solely campus written and produced is a feather in the cap of the college itself.

SPRINTS

Some time ago Sprints put on a dance to pay for the new song book which it is going to issue. Now we find that Sprints is going to run a commission to pay for the new song book which it is going to issue. The student society evidently wants to make sure that it can pay for the new song book which it is going to issue.

to 12. The Glee Singers are an outstanding campus band and have met with great success in their previous appearances at local parties. They played a large number of the formal during the past term, his repeat performances in other towns and on other Michigan campuses is ample proof of his popularity. The band is a well balanced organization of versatile musicians. Their popularity is largely based on the fact that they know what college students want in a dance band and work up their selections accordingly. They specialize in hot sweet jazz-tune.

CHARLEY GRIFFIN IN RARE FORM AS KOBBSMEN BLANK C. S. T. C., 6-0, IN FAST GAME HERE SATURDAY

Star Southpaw Lets Teachers Down With Two Hits; Fawcett Gets Home Run; Barnard Leads State Batting Attack; Spartans Have Big Seventh Inning Again.

By HARRIS COATES, Sports Editor
SPLENDID PITCHING, FAST, ERRORLESS FIELDING AND TIMELY HITTING were responsible for Michigan State's fourth consecutive baseball victory of the season, and the third on the home schedule here Saturday afternoon. Central State Teachers' college was the victim of the spirited Spartan attack and was blanked, 6 to 0. Lack of control on the part of Wally Blood, M. Pleasant mound ace contributed to the State triumph.

Charley Griffin, reliable southpaw, appeared on the mound for State for the first time this season. There has been some talk of his being bothered with a lame throwing arm, but Charley dispelled all fears of this difficulty by letting the Teachers down with only two hits, despite the unfavorable playing weather. Only once did Central State drive one of Griffin's offerings past the infield. Only two men reached first base and they advanced no farther.

"Jabber" Barnard, veteran catcher, was the batting star of the day. In four trips to the plate, he connected for two singles and a sacrifice, scoring two runs. Capt. Bud Gibbs and Johnny Madonna each got two safeties in four times at bat and Gibbs had a three-base smash in his collection. Chuck Fawcett, sophomore outfielder, drove out a home run into the river in right field.

Captain Gibbs, appearing at third base for the second time, gave a splendid exhibition of fielding. He handled the three hits that came his way flawlessly and he likely to appear in the infield regularly. He has replaced Wendell Krusel, Bluefield senior who ran into a batting slump in the last two games and is rapidly becoming accustomed to his new assignment. His agility and fine throwing arm makes him a decided asset in the infield and his hitting is an important factor in the Spartan offense.

Spartans' Biggest Thrills in Sport

Roger Grove, Versatile Athlete, Recalls Exciting Incidents in His Athletic Career at State

By CLARENCE VAN LOPK
WHAT was your biggest thrill in college athletics? That was the question I asked Roger Grove, versatile Spartan athlete, the other day when I changed to meet him in the Union. Without a minute's hesitation, the good fellow replied: "Well, in my mind there was little or no difference between college athletics and the pros, with which he succeeded my question so I asked him to explain. "When I became editor of the 'Blonde Gazette' I am going to print his explanation."

Roger Grove in the last three years has more than once saved a Spartan team from almost certain defeat. On the basketball court as well as on the gridiron he has excelled himself as an athlete and a leader.

The former Sturgis athlete started his varsity and non-varsity career at Kalamazoo college in 1927. State's football coach, Coach Harry Kipke, had already started Grove on the road to punting and gridiron fame. "You was a highly important part of the machine that trampled the Kalamazoo team with the crack in score of 101 to 0 in the season's opener."

Grove's punting ability was greatly in evidence at the Michigan game in 1928. Time and again the Wolverines started to storm the Spartan goal line only to be sent back by perfect punting from Grove's outstretched toe. The Maize and Blue failed to cross State's goal line once during the game and the principal reason was Roger Grove's punting ability. The coaching that Harry Kipke had given Grove the year before came back as a boomerang in the Michigan game of 1928 when Kipke had become the Wolverine coach. The Maize and Blue managed to get a deadlock when the successfully booted a field goal to win by a 17 to 0 score.

SLIM SPARTAN SETS RECORD IN TWO MILE RUN AT DRAKE RELAYS IN IOWA SATURDAY

Crack State Distance Runner Kills Off Large Field of Experienced Competitors in Setting New Meet Record of 9:23.1; Finishes Far Ahead of Other Rivals.

CLARK CHAMBERLAIN CAME BACK FROM IOWA Sunday with one more title having won an already heavy championship belt. This one, the Drake Relay two-mile crown, is by far the most important of those he has won this year. In taking this event at Des Moines Saturday afternoon, he outran 14 of the best two-mile runners of the West and middle west, coasting through his last quarter mile to lead the pack by 150 yards, and set a new Drake record of 9:23.1, clipping three and one-half seconds from the record of last year by Martin of Purdue.

Starting in the 11th lane of a track made soggy by rain, Chamberlain was in last place for the first half mile, content to let Swartz of West Virginia State set the pace. Then, finding that the leaders were falling behind, the time schedule set for him by his coach, Mort Mason, who accompanied him to Des Moines, he eased an into fourth place behind Harold Manning, 1936 American two-mile champion from Wichita college. Manning soon showed signs of weakening, so in the third lap the Spartan captain stepped out and took the lead. After that he never headed, or even moderated, his pace.

Chamberlain ran his time, which is almost to the second. Had he been pushed he might easily have broken 9:20, or possibly cracked the American college record of 9:17. Instead he came to the half mile in 2:25, took the mile in 4:36, exactly on schedule, started at the sixth lap to kill off whatever stragglers might be left, passing the mile and a half mark in 6:52, and then finding himself 150 yards in the lead with 30 seconds to finish the final lap and still shade the record by a hundred yards in 26 seconds to come under the old mark with a safe margin.

CASTEEL DEVELOPS HURDLES TALE

Assistant Track Mentor Coaches State Five New Timbers Toppers.

It has been a long time since Casteel assistant coach has given Michigan State a good year. The past several years were spent in the lumbering business, but for the opportunity to coach again, he will be left with a team. Then Casteel began to concentrate on hurdles and said that he has five new timbers of whom he has taken in any most of Michigan's room in action at Columbus at the annual Ohio Relays. Coach Young has selected three of the relay crew, the possibility of a fourth, and number of the open events, unfortunately, a good number of them which won its first Penn Relays only to be later for a premature on hand at Ohio to be in one final effort. Mason may send a sprint team to the meet, but it is not yet decided and a four mile relay and an intercollegiate meet at the University of Pennsylvania, which was held in the middle of the month, but the Tex Stodie, although he is in the finals in the hurdle race at Penn, will not match the best of speedster Simmons of Ypsil and the event just out of the Co-captain Bob Olson, who in the mile vault, which was the Yale at 14 feet.

Chamberlain may not be given another opportunity to crack the two-mile record until the I. C. A. A. Championships at Philadelphia, May 29 and 30. In the mile vault, which was the Yale at 14 feet, the national champion, Joseph McCloskey of Fordham, who has been running the east rugged since the start of the 1935 indoor season. The back-baited Fordham captained is even up with Chamberlain's present since the Spartan captain took his number in the national championship run last fall. After which, the national and Mr. Casteel entered in ahead of Clark during the winter at the Senior National A. A. U. meet in New York. With Chamberlain's improvement since then, the I. C. A. A. run should be a battle of the giants.
