PAGING SERGT. FOLEY

The Army football team has three sets of uniforms, not including dress uniforms for evening parade. Two sets of uniforms are used in practice, but not at the same time. The uniforms for the games are kept under lock and key until Saturday rolls around. The practice uniforms and equipment are seven pounds heavier than the uniforms and accessories used by the cadets in their regular games.

That to make the players feel lighter and faster in the big tests, just as ball players swing two bats or more while waiting for the chap ahead of them to hit a triple or line out to the catcher. One bat feels light and easy to handle after swinging two or three as a warm-up.

The Army players also have three pairs of football shoes, fashioned for special purposes—one pair for a dry, hard field, one for a medium-heavy field and one pair for muddy ground. The light shoes for the hard dry field are so flexible that the toe can be bent back to the heel. Probably Army picked up much of the equipment from long association with Notre Dame. Kinzie Rockne was a master in this department of the game. And in all other departments, for that matter.

EASTERN TEAM COMES OUT ON TOP AFTER HECTIC BATTLE IN SPARTAN STADIUM SATURDAY

Michigan State Threatens Syracuse Goal Line on Several Occasions But Tallies on Touchdown Only Once; Monnett Makes Thrilling Field Goal.

By CLARENCE VAN LOPIK

In a game which included practically everything except the demise of an official, Michigan State's fighting Spartans went down to their second grid defeat of the season Saturday afternoon as a classy Syracuse eleven slashed to a 15 to 10 victory. Coach Jimmy Crowley's men played brilliant ball but were forced to accept the bitter reverse before a vast throng of homescoming alumni who watched in a driving cold rain. The outcome of the game was in doubt until the final whistle and there was not a dull moment for those in the stands all afternoon for the game was replete with thrills. Both the Orange men and the Spartans held the lead at two different times. State was the first to score when Monnett made a pretty field goal from the Syracuse 26-yard line. The boot which was made all the more difficult by the weather conditions, was an accurate one and the ball bounced on the cross bar and went over to give the Spartans a 3 to 0 lead in the first quarter.

Pass Ties Touchdown Coach Vic Hanson's men came back in the second period, however, and scored on a long pass from Fishel to Stoneberg. Orange and who palmed across for the first touchdown of the game. The try for the extra point failed and Syracuse held a 6 to 3 lead.

Jerry Jones scored some long passes for the Spartans and made possible their first touchdown. Monnett took the ball and slid through the line on his favorite off tackle play to state's first touchdown. The Orange men were on the long end of a 10 to 7 count as Monnett made good the point after goal.

Syracuse came back in the second half to regain the lead. The Orange team proved the way for their second touchdown of the game when Frank Jones' 27 forward pass, to was a power of defense and it was Crane who made a 43 yard run before he was finally tackled from behind. The Syracuse back stepped out of bounds as he made the long run but Frank Vick, former Michigan star who was acting as field judge, failed to note the fact and would not concede the error. The officials at Grand Rapids, who were playing the game, brought the points value and Vick's inefficiency into a moment he had started the invading tactics.

MONNETT LOSES HONOR

Bob Monnett, State's gridiron ace, has lost the distinction of being the nation's leading scorer. Louis Bush of Massachusetts State college has now assumed the lead in the national race for individual football scoring honors.

The 145 pound Massachusetts sophomore scored 12 points against Amherst on Saturday to boost his total of six games to 96. Holding second place is Michigan State's star who now has 84 points for the same number of games.

TRACKMEN VIE FOR HONORS IN CLASS EVENTS

Seventh Annual Interclass Meet to be Held Next Week.

FOUR NIGHTS
As In Past Seasons, Meet Will be Run on Handicap Basis.

Coach Ralph H. Young today announced that the Seventh Annual Interclass Fall Track Meet will be held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights of next week. About three events will be run of each night and in this way Coach Young hopes to make it possible for every man to enter as many events as he wishes. The meet this year as in preceding years, will be run on a handicap basis, the handicaps being regulated by performance so far this season of the fall track season.

Events to be run off are the 100, 200 and 440 yard dashes, the two mile run, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus and javelin. The event will be open only to men who have been out for fall track practice and the two mile run will be limited to the varsity only. Medals will be given to the first four places in each event, and the class with the highest total score will be declared the winner. Last year's meet was won by the freshmen who amassed a total of 67 points. The sophomores scored with 29 points, seniors third with 27 points and juniors last with an 8 point total.

In a moment he had started the invading tactics.

State Line Slated
State's line put up a great battle all afternoon and covered themselves with glory even in defeat. Jake Foss was injured in the first tackle of the game as he attempted to smear Frank when he returned the opening kick off for the Orange. Despite a partial leg injury he remained in the game and again and again mugged up the Syracuse attack. He was relieved late in the first half but returned as he gave a good account of himself in the second period and received a big ovation as Kneet again replaced him late in the game. Art Huss also played a great game as he took position while M. Red Vickers' inert played his usual flawless game at the right flank.

The Spartans unleashed a versatile attack in the waning moments of the game in a desperate effort to score. It seemed as if the Spartans were not to be denied as they started down from their 30 yard line. Fisher and brilliant running by Monnett brought the ball to the Syracuse 27 yard line before the final gun gave the Orange a hard earned victory.

SPARTAN THIN CLADS DEFEAT MICHIGAN TEAM

Clark Chamberlain Races to New Record for Course.

NOTRE DAME IS NEXT
Pongrace and Hurd Place Third and Fourth for State Harriers.

Spartan harriers splashed through mud and rain Saturday morning to avenge last year's defeat by Michigan. Clark Chamberlain led the pack over the three and one-half mile course to establish a new record of 17:35.7. Howell of Michigan finished second, trailing the Spartan captain by 336 yards.

Coach Brown's team clinched the honors when Pongrace and Hurd copied third and fourth places. Walt Wessner and Bob O'Connor jaunted in with a seventh and ninth to set State a low score of 24 to topple Michigan's 31. State's point men are better this year and they show it. With third and fourth places in the race and Chamberlain out in front, the university squad couldn't help running up a high score.

There was a cold, drizzling rain that hampered the runners as they trailed off down the course, cutting the chances of a better record for Chamberlain and of lower figures for all participants. The green squad clearly showed their superiority however, and the Maize and Blue had to content themselves with the large end of the score.

The win was no great surprise to Coach Brown. He figures that his squad is stronger this year and that Michigan is but weaker than last year. This week will find Notre Dame's long distance men in the Spartan camp.

The winners: First, Chamberlain, St.; second, Howell, M.; third, Pongrace, S.; fourth, Hurd, S.; fifth, Wolfe, M.; sixth, Hill, M.; seventh, Wessner, S.; eighth, Fitzgerald, M.; ninth, O'Connor, S.; tenth, Bedenk, M.

Publish Book on Mud-Eating

"Geophagy" Is Title of New and Outstanding Volume.

Chicago, Ill. The mud-pot that children often make could be eaten with enjoyment by many adults in various parts of the world according to facts revealed in "Geophagy," a book published recently by Dr. Bernhard Lauffer, curator of anthropology at the Field Museum of Natural History.

Dr. Lauffer has made extensive research in geophagy, which is the practice of eating clay, loam and other types of soil and has published the results of his studies throughout many countries in both ancient and modern times. His investigations began with records of earth eating in China.

Traces of the custom have been found in Indo-China, Malaya, Polynesia, Melanesia, Australia, India, Burma, Siam, Central Asia, Siberia, Persia, Arabia, Africa, Europe, North America, Mexico, Central America and South America.

As a rule not every kind of earth is eaten, according to Dr. Lauffer, but only those kinds which recommend themselves through certain qualities of color, odor, flavor, softness and plasticity.

Geophagy occurs among the most civilized nations as well as among primitive tribes. It bears no relation to cannibalism, race creed or culture. It is a habit that exists among individuals and not among any particular tribal or social group.

The women of Spain, says Dr. Lauffer, once believed the eating of earth was an aid to a delicate complexion and the ladies of the Spanish aristocracy in the 17th Century had such a passion for geophagy that the ecclesiastic and secular authorities took steps to combat the evil.
