Will Durant Speaks To Huge Audience on Death of Civilization

Famous Lecturer Points Out Dangers of Decay in Our Civilization and Proposes Remedies Before Largest Crowd of Year for Student Lecture Course.

BY DON OHARA

The chief agent in modern industrial production is brains, not muscle," explained Will Durant last night in pointing out the dangers of decay in our civilization to the largest crowd of the year for the Student Lecture Course.

He maintained that our civilization was tending to wipe out the intelligent upper part of society and to increase the class which depended for its living on muscle rather than brain. Over a period of years this would break down the industrial system by providing it with useless arms and legs instead of the brain power which is so essential to its success.

The noted philosopher and writer began his discussion of the danger-spots in our society by commenting on the recent book, "The Decline of the West" by Spengler. The book's chief theme according to Durant, was the idea that it was written in so belated a style that the reader became convinced that the author must be right because of his tremendous knowledge of the subject. The principal evidences of decay in our civilization, he asserted, are the sterilization of the intelligent part of our society, the failure of our system of mass-production, a political organization which emphasizes subservience to the machine as a prerequisite to advancement rather than ability or integrity, our moral and cultural degeneration, and, lastly a national pessimism and feeling of futility which was reflected in our constantly growing suicide rate.

Durant said further that the decline of every civilization in history has been marked by the same sort of maldistribution of wealth which was taking place in the United States today. He attributed this to the ignorance of the masses and the workings of the economic system that to the greed of the wealthy minority who were only acting in accordance with human nature.

The capitalistic system is moldable by our own characters, he continued. "Every radical in this system has the same feelings and desires as the capitalist who blinds his eyes to the concentration of wealth in his own hands."

The chief trouble with this concentration of wealth, he declared, was that by concentrating wealth, the capitalist was cutting off his own market because the vast army of underpaid workers were not able to buy back an amount of goods proportional to the amount which they produced. This makes it necessary for the United States to seek other markets in order to find an outlet for the goods which she produces. This in turn leads to war. The only market left is the Far East, and Japan and England had already been announced, and each month they will be issued by R. V. Coleman of the radio department in the regular monthly radio program. A great number of these discussions will be of the open forum type, using four members of the squad at a time. The discussion will include both affirmative and negative arguments and will consist of questions and answers in extempore style by those taking part.

The first of these discussions was held last Monday when members of Professor Mencheff's men's debate squad discussed the following proposition: Resolved, that a lake-to-ocean waterway should be constructed through the St. Lawrence river. Those men taking part in this discussion were Robert Refior, Donald Hittle, Donald O'Hara, all of East Lansing, and Earl Smith of Perry. The discussion was introduced by O. J. Drake of the speech department.

Next Monday, January 14, Miss Ruth Johnson of Detroit, Miss Ruth Martin of Battle Creek, Miss Hazel Sikkema and Miss Marion Dondero of Detroit, all members of Mr. Drake's women's varsity debate squad, will conduct a discussion over the air on the following question: Should the government control or own basic industries under a system of collectivism?

These programs will continue for many weeks into the future, and it is hoped that the members of the student body, of the faculty, and friends of the college will avail themselves of the opportunity of listening to these discussions by frequenting the institution. Many favorable opinions have been received, and it is hoped that these programs will have any suggestions concerning a proposition you would like to have discussed, please report it either to the department of speech or to Mr. Coleman of WKAR.

Contests and Displays Will Provide Entertainment for Many Visitors.

College departmental exhibits will again occupy a prominent place in the 1935 Farmers' Week. Displays will be housed in various buildings on campus and will carry out a general theme of the "profit bushel" or its equivalent unit.

The agricultural engineering department display will be held in the old armory. In cooperation with the landscape department a model house, perfectly landscaped and constructed in miniature will illustrate a housing feature. An electric lighting display also will be shown so spectators can test for themselves the value of correct lighting. There (Continued on page 2)

THESPIANS GIVE PLAYS ON WKAR

Prof. C. H. Nickle Directs Productions Presented Regularly Over College Station.

For the past few weeks a group of aspiring dramatic students have been ardently at work on the practice and rehearsal of plays to be broadcast from WKAR on the top floor of the home economics building. Prof. C. H. Nickle of the speech department is in charge of the direction of these plays. Last year he directed eight of these in the same program. The plays are from 15 to 30 minutes in length. Those to be presented this month are to be 30 minutes.

A play entitled "When Kathleen Married" was broadcast Wednesday at 3:15 p. m. by the following people: John Yale, as Daniel Schroyer, Peg Huppert, as Aunt Schroyer, Marian Dondero as Aunt Grace, Dolores Sandham as Kathleen Schroyer. Due to the fact that a character to play the part of Sam Milligan could not be obtained, Professor Nickle interpreted the part.

These radio plays are judged almost entirely by sound and voice, not by facial expressions. The two remaining plays, "Radio Magic" and "Six Months," to be presented January 16 and 23 respectively, together with the play "When Kathleen Married" presented Wednesday, January 9, are all radio plays from the University of Oklahoma. They have been especially planned and adapted for radio broadcasting.

DEBATERS WILL SPEAK ON WKAR

Speech Dept. to Present Series of Discussions Over Radio Station.

A series of very unusual and interesting programs to be broadcast over the local college station WKAR has been arranged by the speech department to be given every Monday afternoon from 3:30 to 4 o'clock. This series of programs will consist of discussions of interesting and timely subjects by members of the varsity debate teams. In some instances the squads will discuss a current proposition in regular debate style using two members on each team with constructive and rebuttal arguments. Some of these subjects have already been announced, and each month they will be issued by R. V. Coleman of the radio department in the regular monthly radio program. A great number of these discussions will be of the open forum type, using four members of the squad at a time. REPORT SHOWS COURSE PLANS

Registration for Veterinarians Will Take Place on Monday, January 21.

Plans for the 12th annual post-graduate short course in veterinary science have been announced by Dean Ward Giltner, head of the college veterinary department. Registration will take place Monday, January 21, at the surgery and clinic building where all discussion meetings will be held. Monday night the M. S. C. chapter of the A. V. M. A. will sponsor a get-together in the Little theater of the home economics building. Dancing, bridge and other entertainment will occupy the evening. Class meetings will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Friday the visitors will be extended the facilities of all college laboratories and the assistance of the faculty for special instruction.

The faculty will consist of 34 men, a little more than half of whom are members of the regular college faculty. Prominent outside speakers coming for the event are Dr. R. S. McKellar, president of the A. V. M. A., New York; Dr. D. M. Campbell, editor of "Veterinary Medicine," Chicago, and Dr. F. K. Hansen, assistant state veterinarian, Marquette. The course is under the direction of Dr. Giltner.

Frank D. Fitzgerald Addresses Members of Michigan Press Association.

much of his speech is lost through his nose, he managed to deliver his views clearly. "As for the conviction in his remarks, we hesitate to take a stand. He deals considerably in facetiousness and what he cannot attack soundly he ridicules with an abundance of repartee that is slightly reminiscent of another prominent man who has lost prestige through his desire to poke fun at others, Norman Thomas."

We finally reached Durant in the small anteroom at the rear of the church, but by then he appeared to be annoyed by interviewers. It may or may not have been due to the absence of witnesses. We asked him why he attacked the arts when he himself had run the gauntlet of criticism to popularize philosophy. He hedged with the statement that his easily read books on philosophy, to which he has devoted a great deal of his energy, were not intended to be taken too seriously.

He was then asked if the arts were not more vitally interesting to the people as a whole, assuming that they did not merit the "pathology" label he had attached to some radical examples, since they had been taken away from the bonds of classicism, which he had also condemned. It was suggested that the arts, and especially literature, had lost their aboriginal nature rather than their power. "But the master was already stepping into his cab and, ignoring literature, replied only "Well, would you call a Rembrandt about?" The interview was evidently very much at a close.

S. W. L. HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Women's League Considering Plans for Annual Formal Dance.

Spartan Women's league board held its first meeting Wednesday in the Union lounge, to discuss plans for the term. The board wishes to extend a tardy New Year's greeting and welcome to the members, believing that it may do so now since the time sequence after late Christmas cards makes this week about right for such messages.

In keeping with the social trend of winter term plans for the annual formal dance were the major consideration. Irene Malcolm, 35, was chosen as general chairman for the affair, and the committee chairman and members will be announced next week. The tentative date is Saturday, March 2, and the place is last year, will be the Masonic temple ballroom in Lansing. Irene Malcolm was also named as acting secretary for the term, in place of Betty Musser, who is attending Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit.

The first general meeting of the league will be held Saturday, January 26, and will be in the form of a tea and style show. Marie Valley is in charge of arrangements.

The group leaders of the league are asked to prepare activity reports for the members of their respective groups of last term. These reports are to be given to any board member during the next two weeks, or to Jean Van Broeklin who is in charge of the files.

PULLING TEAMS TO ENTER HERE

Two Contests Will be Held During Farmers' Week This Month.

Six outstanding horse-pulling teams will compete in the weight pulling contest to be held Wednesday and Thursday nights, January 30 and 31, in conjunction with the annual Farmers' Week at Michigan State college this year.

For the first time in such contests at the college a new dynamometer will be used. The lightweight contest will be first, taking place on Wednesday, with three prominent teams entered. The same number of teams will compete in the heavyweight division Thursday evening. All the entrants have been winners in one or more county or local shows, no professional teams will be entered.

An additional note of interest in this year's contest lies in the fact that none of the exhibiting teams has ever appeared in a previous Farmers' Week and no two teams of the group have competed against each other.

There will be no cash awards in the contests, but ribbons will be awarded for first, second and third places in each division, with suitable trophies also to be given to the champions in each group.

Entries in the lightweight contests have not been definitely announced as yet, but one team will be entered from each of the following counties: Ionia, Clinton and Hillsdale.

The three entries in the heavyweight division, with the possibility of a fourth team from Shawansee or Kent county, are: Phillip Doherty, Brown City, Lapeer county, Mr. Brown's team is a big team of Belgians weighing 3,800 pounds. They were easy winners in two previous county contests. Frank Schultzeiss of St. Louis, Mich., is the second entrant with a team of geldings weighing 3,800. This team has also competed in two county contests. The third team is owned by Fowler Bros. of Reading, Mich. Only one horse of this team has competed in a contest during the past season.

ANNOUNCE DATE FOR FIRST PLAY

Theta Alpha Phi to Present "Enter Madame" Thursday, January 17.

According to the latest announcement of Prof. E. S. King, Theta Alpha Phi, dramatic society, will present next Thursday evening a comedy in three acts, "Enter Madame," written by Gilda Varese and Dolly Byrne.

This play was first produced at the Garrick theater in New York during August of 1929 and shortly after the premiere it played to packed houses for some time.

It is a story that pokes back a hundred years among the dusty laurels of Italian opera, makes such leaps as a journey from Rome to Chicago involves and sketches in shadowy outline the tragic figure of one for whom the brilliant premiere came too late.

The cast of "Enter Madame" and the time and place of the performance will be announced next week. This will be the first production presented by Theta Alpha Phi this term. Last term Richard Sheridan's "School for Scandal" was given, while last year the thespians showed such plays as "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Shakespeare, Karl Capek's "Makropoulos Secret" and Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler."

PROFESSOR TO ADDRESS A. C. S.

Professor W. L. Badger of the chemical engineering division at the University of Michigan will talk before the local section of the American Chemical Society in the room at Kozio Chemical laboratory on Tuesday, January 15, at 7 o'clock.

Here's All About Paul's Troubles at Washington

Specht, Maestro of Band for Engineers' Ball, Almost Missed Playing at One Inaugural Dance.

By BILL KIRKPATRICK

When Paul Specht and his 14 musician parade into the Lansing Masonic temple on the evening of January 18 to play for the Engineers' ball, they will undoubtedly experience much less difficulty in entering than they did on March 4, 1933, when they attempted to get into the Washington, D. C., auditorium to entertain for President Roosevelt's inaugural ball.

The whole trouble then was that a certain Judge Walter M. Meyer had hired Specht for the big affair, while at the same time a certain Mrs. John Allen Dougherty was nursing a tremendous grudge, for this reason and that, and didn't want Specht to show his face around the hall that night. And Mrs. Dougherty being not unlike the rest of her sex, it looked for a while as if she might have her own way.

Up until 11:30 Saturday evening she did have the upper hand, and Specht's orchestra, dressed in its best bib and tucker, continued to wait in the Mayflower hotel while the inaugural ball went merrily on at the Washington auditorium. Judge Walter Meyer had one of Chicago's best-known bondsmen ready to bail Specht out of any jam he might get into. Earlier in the day one of Specht's representatives had given Mrs. Dougherty a letter from the White House asking her to telephone concerning the "Specht affair," but after swooning and being revived by three solicitous assistants, Mrs. Dougherty had promptly forgotten the request.

PLAN CONTESTS FOR AGRARIANS

Animal Husbandry Department Will Entertain During Farmers' Week.

Numerous activities have been planned by the animal husbandry department of Michigan State college to take place at the annual Farmers' Week at East Lansing from January 29 to February 2.

On Tuesday morning, January 29, the department will sponsor an open contest for all farmers in the identification of unsoundness in horses. The purpose of the contest, which will be conducted in Demonstration hall, is to assist in purchasing horses and to more clearly understand and identify blemishes and diseases in horses. Dr. J. E. Hutton of the surgery and clinic department will be in charge, and at the close of the contest he will name and explain the treatment for the various deficiencies. Ribbons will be given to the five highest contestants.

At noon of the same day the annual meeting of the Association of Michigan Horse Breeders will be held at Peoples church. The main speaker at this event will be John Thompson, new commissioner of agriculture under Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald. Mr. Thompson, who has been known as one of the outstanding horsemen of the state will talk on "The Horse Industry in Relation to New Agriculture."

Other speakers will include Prof. R. B. Cooley of Lafayette, Indiana, head of stallion enrollment work in that state and in close touch with the Chicago horse market, who will speak on "Horse Supplies as They Affect the Future Market," and John Strange of Grand Lodge, who conducted a campaign for 4-H club appropriations in the legislature during the past year. Mr. Strange will give his observations of the Michigan 4-H exhibit at the Chicago show and the activities of boys there.

The meeting this year will be the 25th annual anniversary of the association. Eight former presidents will be guests of honor and will be given honorary life memberships in the organization. Other guests will include leading boys in county 4-H club work. The two high boys in state club work, Harvey Chamberlain of Shiawassee county and Virgil Goodrich of Calhoun county, will be guests of the association for the entire Farmers' Week. The latter two boys were honored last fall by having all expenses paid to the International Livestock show by the organization.

As a part of the activities for the week, the animal husbandry department will exhibit draft horses. A yearling Belgian stallion and a two-year-old Percheron stallion, recently added to the herd, along with Corven, Pevyche and their offspring will constitute the major part of the exhibit, as well as the parade Thursday night.

Twenty-four grade draft colls which are being fed liberal rations, will also be placed on exhibition along with a table of feeding results available for study.

Tracked and dammed with faint praise, it is a plan of good recommendation and has been successfully used at other universities. An indicated reason for the resolution's failure last quarter was that the faculty would have no time in which to rearrange class schedules and make sure that all material would be presented before the quarter closed.

Today the winter quarter is three days old, leaving ample time for any necessary reshuffling of teaching schedules. Action should be taken to approve the resolution early in the present quarter so that the faculty may make its plans accordingly.

TEACUP TALK

It's just too sweet to watch the antics of those cute little neophytes this week. At one time it was customary to call informal initiation "Hell week," but times have changed—at least we have noticed many evidences of it. Now the lads beat low and pitilessly like intoxicated sheep and the actives apologize with much scraping and howling and send the precocious children off to bed at curfew time so that they might finish their own studying. And the pledges talk the price of cigars until the older men get inferiority complexes and say they are very sorry and would you boys like to knock off work and listen to Jan Garber or maybe heat up some coffee. Of course there are some good boys left who will say with rare culture, "Hell, I couldn't even feel that," but it's getting to the point where you only marvel at these fine young bloods, then pack them off to bed for fear they are becoming aberrated from the fiendish torture of eight hours of slumber each night. Ah, me, ah, us; next year we'll have a quilting bee and the last man to finish his piece and embroider his name on it will get five swats with a feather duster.

LAST LAMENT

Seriously speaking, though, Hell week has all the earmarks of an indispensable college function if properly conducted. An obnoxious intellectual from Oxford assured us recently that neophytes who undergo the "absurdities" of their informal initiation were hypocritical conformists, stupid invert-berates who suffered abuse merely for the sake of proving that they could "take it." But we disagree. After the preliminary warmups, a pledge is too tired to think of appearances, he persists because he has some inherent method to him or he shirks because he lacks that quality. If he conforms it is only because he can assume the responsibility of cooperation with his group. So on the whole we would hesitate to call Hell week a farce, rather it is a procedure that shows the neophyte's future brothers just what he is, and what is, in a very important, a procedure that forcibly impresses his weaknesses on the pledge himself, for correcting, of course, for we assume that this knowledge will not discourage a good man because he'll have too much of that plebeian quality that makes great men Guts.

BEHEMOTH

The not-so-recent all college wrestling tournament brought out the usual run of good material in grappling. And while we're on it, we thought it might be opportune to deny the popular belief that all good wrestlers have to be dumb. For instance, although we know little about Murdoch, the 118 winner, we do know something about one of the Gensons (we'll never be able to tell 'em apart). The slender and cynical lad, who is also a good boxer, has an average in electrical engineering that always climbs high above the B level. Frank Teske, 125 pounder, is the son of a professor at Virginia Polytechnic institute and isn't too thick himself. Hoping Bill Stephenson, 135 pounder, was one of the top men in forestry before he neglected his studies, but still falls back on family rep—his grandpappy was a crad from Oxford and one of the more recent ancestors was an Oxford prof and crony of Joseph Addison and Jonathan Swift (yes, he has a book on it). Perry Conant, who won at 145 with the psychic coaching of Stu Roberts, Phi Tau burgo-master, is one of the better artists in the art department—a typical sissy, but with good taste as indicated by his dating choices. Walter Jacobs, who was debarred from the 145 pound class fray because he won a major letter last year, took the coveted Alpha Zeta cup for a fresh year average of around 2.5. Dave Stonecliffe, 155, also an engineer, was one of two juniors inducted this year by Tau Beta Pi on the basis of scholarship, etc. Opportunity students, eh?

GUEST ARTIST

Ogden Nash, this week's bargain, is the poet laureate of Tin Pan Alley. The confectionist of poetry usually writes in unmetric couplets, with the ending of the second line distorted to provide rhyme. Take it away, Ogden—

As guest artist this week of the Spartan Spoofer, I'll start out by saying hello everybody and what can I do you fer?

Naturally, you all should realize by now that as Ogden Nash, I am the poet you have always, in a literary way, considered to be your secret pass.

At any rate, I am glad to come back to a university.

Although it is hard for me to get into the swing since I don't believe, with the pros, that sweet

HELL WEEK

Seek Female Musicians To Play For Co-ed Prom

Girls Want Own Band For Own Party; Orchestra is Now Complete Except For Trap Drummer.

Girls Want Own Band For Own Party; Orchestra is Now Complete Except For Trap Drummer.

By DOROTHY LANGDON

Wanted! A co-ed who can play the drums, crash the cymbals, and oggle the dancers. Also several co-eds who can read sheet music, trombones, clarinets, and what have you, in a jazz orchestra.

The occasion is the Co-ed Prom Thursday night, January 24, in the gym annex. Not content with leaving the men out of the party, the co-eds are trying to assemble a co-ed jazz band to play for dancing. The idea is to have one grand prom without even a glimpse of a man. Relaxation for the fair ones before the J-Hop and other heavy dates! But the biggest difficulty is to find a co-ed drummer. Playing the drums in a jazz orchestra will no doubt be the next intrusion of women on the male prerogative, but the question is how to find a drummer. Some noble woman who has braved the scolding of jealous men to learn to play the drums. If such there be, come forward, we pray you. That is, the committee in charge of the Co-ed Prom prays you. The orchestra must be assembled by next Wednesday so that practice may be held. Virginia Taggart is in charge of orchestra arrangements for the prom, and anyone who is willing to offer her musical talents to help the dancers die for the alma mater should call Miss Taggart.

Another new feature of the plan for the prom, now being completed by Virginia Kamps and her committee of freshman counselors, calls for a fleet of cars to rock up Lansing girls who desire to be taken to the prom. Some of the party is to be held a week from Thursday, all girls who wish to be transported to it, and also girls who are the ones of all events.

Because, personally, although I have great respect for the tree of knowledge, I am convinced that to overestimate its value is the height of folly.

Of course I realize that there are many attached diversions.

Although they can't compare with such stuff as deep sea fishing for students.

And though I would much rather go over to George White's place and see some nifties performing in the circus.

I can get almost as much enjoyment, and much more cheaply, by going to a polo game and watching the antics of that prissy animal, the horse.

And then too I enjoy seeing the romantic element as exemplified by co-eds and their boys.

Many of whom, I mean the neophytes, turn out to be the smiling and dimpled little girls, the Chi Eaus.

All in all, however, I can see that the general appeal is to intellectuality.

And that the fact that students are smarter when they get their diplomas than when they made their freshman bonus is just proof of cause and effectuality.

Now, having expressed myself in full as to my opinion of your school, I will consider the discourse concluded.

And will pause only to say that I enjoyed this literary visit as much as you did.

Thank YOU, Mr. Nash, and now if you will help us revise the editors, who have gone into a coma. We will send the copy over to the press and then go home.

BUT NOT LEAST

From THE source, we understand that the J-Hoppers turned down Earl Burnitt as a musical choice for the premier of formal because they had something better in the office. We have the name of the orchestra favored, but it can't be divulged because the University of Michigan is likewise in favor of the lad for their own Hop and the booking is not quite definite. But we're hoping, so stick around.

The postoffice is to be moved from the campus. The lease, which expires October 15 of this year, will not be renewed and it will be necessary for Uncle Sam to seek new quarters. This comes as good news to everyone.

At the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic association held in New York, M. A. C. was voted into membership. This organization is made up of representatives of 100 of the largest institutions in the country, and for a college to be voted into membership speaks well for its athletic standing among other institutions.

The University of Wisconsin has more than 79,000 alumni, with 30,000 living in the state at the present time.

Suggests Recess Before Exams

When six department heads, interviewed on the question of a pre-examination recess from class for Arts college students, were unanimously in favor of the proposal, the opposition to the plan revealed in the vote of the Arts faculty is difficult to explain.

In a random survey of Arts professors, not once dissenting opinion was registered. Yet, when the faculty put the proposal to a vote, it won by the slim margin of a single vote and action was deferred. A strong resistance had been built up between the sampling of opinion and the actual vote. Why was the opposition brought up, and by whom?

It is important that the issue of a study recess shall not be side-

so the inquiring reporter was satisfied

A reporter for a metropolitan daily asked a number of persons on the street, "What is the biggest buy for a nickel?" Two-thirds promptly replied, "A telephone call."

Americans throughout the country evidently agree with this judgment of value received from the telephone. For each day they hold more than 57,000,000 conversations over Bell System wires.

Year after year Bell System planning extends the telephone's reach—increasing its speed—making it more convenient, more valuable to everybody.

With the victims of Hell week breathing their last gasps, and everyone else gasping in sympathy, this Friday and Saturday promise to be the quietest week-end of the term.

We stand behind before we find what the two behind be for"—all done very solemnly. The Theta Kappa Nus also furnish the correct time. The Hermians give their Greek name and suggest that if the person calling is "s girl she had better hang up. Some of the pledges go to the extreme, directed in their ways by their brothers of inflicting their voices on the co-ed dormitories.

JOHNSTON WILL TALK BEFORE 'Y'

English Department Head to Discuss "What Can We Learn From Other Religions?"

One of the most enlightening and worth-while projects undertaken by the Spartan "Y" Forum in the past year will be inaugurated on Sunday, January 13, by Prof. W. W. Johnston, head of the English department, when he opens a series of talks on the general subject of "What Can We Learn From Other Religions?"

The various religions of the world will be discussed on consecutive Sundays throughout January and February by representatives of these religions, with the view in mind of interpreting to State students the fundamental principles and beliefs of the different creeds. Men have been selected who are considered to be the best fitted to convey the ideas of their religions to the students.

Dr. Johnston's talk will be titled "Theosophy," after a subject of which he is considered to be an expert. He will be followed on January 20 by Tarini P. Sinha, an Indian graduate student now attending the University of Michigan. Sinha's talk will be "Gandhi's Religion." His information on this topic will be first hand, since he traveled with Gandhi himself while in India. The Hebrew religion will be explained on January 27 by Rabbi David I. Cedarbaum, youthful Resident Rabbi of Lansing. Rabbi Cedarbaum, who only recently received his Ph. D. degree from Columbia, is expected to be exceptionally adept at interpreting to students the facts of the religion which he will represent.

Shih Quanshi, of U. of M. student and a native of Asia, will appear on February 3 with a talk on "Mohammedanism"; and Father Charles T. Winters of Lansing will explain Roman Catholicism. The following Sunday, Father Winters is widely known around the campus because of his direction of the Newman club, a Catholic student organization.

A Chinese student now at the University of Michigan, Hsuing Pak, will appear February 7, with a lecture on "Confucianism"; and Rollo May, M. S. C. director of men students, will conclude the entire series on February 24 with a summary of the preceding talks, to be titled "The Common Elements in All Religions."

Each one of these thoroughly interesting lectures will be held on Sundays, from noon until one o'clock, in the student parlors, immediately following church. Appropriate music will accompany each talk, and ample opportunity will be given those attending to ask any questions they desire to. The Spartan "Y" Forum is an organization of State men, open to anyone who desires to attend the Sunday noon meetings. The coming series of religion talks is typical of the type of programs sponsored by the Forum. All men are invited to attend the gatherings.

The girls of Green Splash are seriously considering starting a national swimming honorary. Letters have been written to other schools for information regarding their interest in such an organization, and they hope to get started on it right away. Spartan Basketeers Score Easy Win Over Normal Cagers 31-17

Van Alstyne's Crew Rumps Over Ypsilanti Team and Shows Brilliant Floor Attack at Demonstration Hall Tuesday Night.

By BOB BURHANS

Supposedly a team that would meet State on even terms, the Michigan State Normal cage aggregation was sadly outclassed last Tuesday evening on the home floor when the Spartans unceremoniously attacked and showed uncanny accuracy at the foul line to down the Hurons, 35 to 14. The defeat was as bad as the score indicates, which means that the Van Alstyne hardwood squad is hovering in the neighborhood of perfection.

Arnold Van Fassen, Holland senior of the rangy build and lengthy reach, personally accounted for 11 points to take the evening's scoring honors. Ronald Garlock is apparently a permanent fixture at the right forward berth where he tightened his grip on the position by amassing 8 points. Herrick collected 5 while Dirks and Rokamp led the invaders with 4 apiece. Both coaches sent in substitutions freely. Van Alstyne to exercise his second stringers, the Ypsilanti mentor in search for a point-producing combination.

The theory that the Hurons would play State even-steven was more than correct in the first three minutes of play. Dirks grabbed the sphere on the tip-off and took it down the floor where he was fouled by Van Fassen who had stepped over to head him off. He made both free tosses but Van Fassen retaliated with the opening Spartan salvo by dropping a clever pivot shot through the meshes to knot the count. Haidt came through with a pitch from outside the foul circle and Bernard scored on an out-of-bounds play to end the Ypsi scoring for the half. From then on it was all State. Garlock dropped two fouls through the net while Herrick and Van Fassen loomed in one apiece to be the score for the last time.

Reck dumped in a flying pivot shot, Garlock plunked one from far out near the side lines, and Van Fassen tapped in a pretty rebound to make it 12-6. Garlock scored from the foul circle on a set shot and Herrick cashed in on a jump shot to ring down the curtain on the first half.

The Green and White quintet started in right where they left off. Van Fassen connected with one of his classic pivot shots and the basket sprang on. Rouse, Van Fassen and Garlock, all added markers to the Spartan total before Dirks countered with a side shot to make it 18 for Normal. The State basketeers had run up to 22 points while holding the opposition flat-footed with many a point. However, before the reserves took charge of things, Van laked a pass and was in the clear for his final thrust of the night, a handy set shot. Herrick found the hoop from the confines of center-floor, and then the first stringers retired with a comfortable lead to permit the reserves to deliver the final spoils.

White picked off a jump shot, Frizzo scored by charity, and Rokamp came through for the visitors with two pivot tosses in the waning minutes of play. Joe Smith, after some clowning that went over big with the small attendance, sunk a long shot, his first basket of the season. Rolen parried the meshes with a jump shot, ending the State flurry. Wozniak, in desperation, made a long, haphazard sling that went through the hoop in miracle fashion, so ending a game that was destined to be nip and tuck all the way.

FENCERS HAVE LARGE TURNOUT

Freshman and Varsity Teams Work Out for Season Opener.

The Michigan State varsity fencing team began its pre-season workouts this term with one of the largest turnouts in the history of the sport on this campus. The official practice will start on January 19, when the varsity engages the varsity team from the Lawrence Institute of Technology of Detroit. The meet will be held in the Gymnasium annex. On the following Saturday the varsity will meet Ohio State at Detroit. The remaining part of the schedule will be completed in a few weeks and will then be published.

George P. Laehr has been appointed to the position of varsity manager this year, and is assisting in the coaching of freshmen. William Kershaw, former varsity man of '31, is also assisting in the coaching of both varsity and freshman candidates.

The following men are competing for varsity positions: Earl M. Stokes, P. Bombenec, M. Coates, S. Clark, L. Swift, and T. Snyder. Coach Harry Lutz (1933 varsity captain), R. Bossey, and D. Terwilliger, sub-coaches R. Lindquist, W. Westlicher, G. Gallo, and R. Edie.

Only eighteen men have turned out for freshman practice, and anyone interested in the sport is requested to report to the varsity manager in the gym as soon as possible. The practice hours for freshmen have been changed to Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 5:30 and Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 6.

HERE'S HOW SPEECH DID AT WASHINGTON

(Continued from page 1) First Lady Intervenes. Finally, the First Lady of the land, deciding the time for action had come, dispatched Marvin Meserve, one of the presidential secretaries, to see to it that Specht and his band get their place in the spotlight. Accordingly, at 11:30, Specht's musicians marched into the Washington auditorium with big red official badges set on their foreheads on a bandstand reserved for the entrance, and there they made music for the archdiocese of the nation. Ted Huson told the world about it. "The speech matter was not the only thing, although it was the sharpest one, in the side of Mrs. Daugherty, who was in direct charge of arrangements for the inaugural ball," study Vallee was nursing a peeve because he and his Yankees were kept down in the basement until 1:30 a. m. Sunday. Rudy, who is a naval commander or something on the staff of the governor of Maine, was so sure that he had to use the public address system that he had installed in the ballroom.

Have More Trouble. Other features of Mrs. Daugherty's exciting party were the loss of a $250 trumpet owned by Liebert Lombardo, and Guy's shift from his happy rendition of "Happy Days Are Here Again" to "Too Many Tears."

This is but a sample of the troubles which friend Paul has encountered while playing inaugural balls at Washington. At another time, during the pre-inaugural dance and reception at the Mayflower, Huey Long Louisiana Kingfish, displaced Leader Paul Specht and directed the band through several numbers.

Huey Long "Croons." Long was not content with going through the reader's gyrations and burst into song at the chorus of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." The Big Blow from Louisiana failed to accurately recall the words of the number, and his husky baritone was halted at intervals while a kindly bandsman prompted him. After the singing, Long then attempted to play his favorite, "Ole Man River," on the saxophone, but was a flat failure, according to his enraptured audience.

With no one barred from the Masonic temple on January 18 except obnoxious Kingfishes, Specht and the rest of the boys are looking forward to a most enjoyable evening with State's engineers.

Eclectics Take First in Interfrat Bowling Meet

Ties Spill 2282 Pins to Win Tournament With Delta Sigs Second, A-Theons Third, and S. A. E.'s Fourth.

Smashing down the throat of the S. A. E.'s in the final game of this year's Interfraternity Bowling tournament, the Eclectics blasted 2282 pins to win three straight games from the S. A. E.'s, who totaled 1933 pins, and clinch the championship of the tourney, on Thursday night.

The places of the four finalists in this meet was decided upon a total point basis, total points being considered for the three game score of each team in these semi-final contests. 2282 pins gave the Ties clear title to first place. The Delta Sigs placed second, due to their close margin victory over the Aes Theons last week, 2249 to 2235. The A-Theons placed third and the S. A. E.'s fourth with a total game score of 1933.

The Eclectic victory was due mainly to a well balanced and consistent playing team, who amassed their points without turning in any spectacular individual performances. Baird rolled the high three game score of 488 while Tonkey scored highest in a single game with 126 pins. However, all five of the Tie bowlers rolled over 400, the lowest amassing 423 pins.

The S. A. E.'s, who have shown plenty of power in their previous starts, were playing last night without the services of one of their mainstays, Grambaugh, and this undoubtedly accounted for their low score. Monson led the losers with a high three game score of 439 and Weber rolled the high game score in the second match with 163.

SEASON OPENS IN WRESTLING

Wolverines Provide Opposition; Reavely and Jacobs Look Good.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock the Spartan "rollers" open the current season with University of Michigan's "pull and grunt" boys. The meet will be held in State's gym.

The teams seem evenly matched on paper, as both have only two lettermen on their squads. Capt. "Back" Reavely and Walter Jacobs, State's two lettermen, are expected to give the Maize and Blue liggers the most trouble, but Coach Collins is also depending on Stephenson and Conant to come through in their bouts. Both of these men were on the team last year, but failed to win letters.

Michigan's two best bets will be Captain Herriot, at 145 pounds, and Ruben, their other veteran, a 126 pounder. The Wolverines have, however, two sophomores, Biskell and Wright, who made impressive records in freshman wrestling. Wright is a heavyweight, and tips the scale at 235 pounds, while Biskell wrestles in the 165 pound class.

The men who will be on the team when the Spartan clash with the Wolverines in the opener weigh in as follows: Genzel, 148; Teske, 126; Stephenson, 135; Conant, 145; Jacobs, 165; Orr, 165; Broome, 175; and Reavely, heavyweight.

Following is the proposed schedule for the 1935 season: Saturday, Jan. 12, University of Michigan here. Saturday, Jan. 19, Detroit Institute of Technology at Detroit. The DOPE FIEND

By HARRY WISMER

Michigan State's varsity basketball team continued their winning ways last Tuesday evening, defeating the Michigan State Normal college of Ypsilanti by the overwhelming score of 35 to 14. After the first five minutes of play the outcome was never in doubt, as the men in Green and White literally ran wild, scoring from all angles and holding their dazed opponents to a few lonely baskets. Ypsilanti did not measure up in expectations, as they displayed some ragged basketball before the final whistle.

Arnold Van Fassen again was the scoring star of the evening, spilling the meshes for 11 points and playing the foul line in fine fashion. Ron Garlock, the sophomore sensation from Lansing Central, ran Van a close second, accounting for 8 baskets during the course of the fray. Garlock playing at a forward position is going great guns and is proving to be a valuable cog in Van Alstyne's machine.

The Spartan quintet swings southeast on a jaunt into Cleveland.

Did you ever notice...in a roomful of people...the difference between one cigarette and another...and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette... the kind of tobaccos they are made of... the way the tobaccos are blended... the quality of the cigarette paper.

IT takes good things to make good things. Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right. But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos... tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe. When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that's different from other cigarettes.
