'Roasters' Planned To Further Union of Teachers, Students

Student Group Announces Program for Informal Divisional Banquets at Which Constructive Criticism May be Made for Discussion.

In an effort to eliminate faculty-student tension by a program of mutual constructive criticism by the two bodies, and to promote better feeling in general, an undergraduate group headed by Lee Henrikson, 37, announces plans for a series of banquets or "roasters" for the college's divisions at which attending members of both factions will be given the opportunity to voice their frank opinions of one another. The series will be inaugurated February 14 with an engineering roaster, continuing with an applied science banquet on February 20, and concluding with the liberal arts entertainment on March 5.

MILITARY BALL PLANS FINISHED

Junior and Senior Members of Officers' Club to Dance February 15.

The annual Military Ball, one of the smartest of winter formal events, will be held Friday, February 15, in the Masonic temple in Lansing. The military men will dance to the tuneful rhythms of Duane Sawyer and his orchestra from Detroit. The rhythmic interpretations of song will be given by Miss Mary Montezette, featured singer with Duane Sawyer. The ball, being the only closed party of the winter season, is one of the most colorful and picturesque. It will be attended by only the junior and senior members of the Officers' Club and their guests.

The patrons for the party will be Colonel and Mrs. Dorsey R. Rodney, and Lt.-Col. and Mrs. C. T. Marsh. The guest list will include President and Mrs. R. S. Shaw, Dean and Mrs. R. C. Huston, the army officers stationed in Lansing, the officers on duty here at the school, and the five honor corps sponsors: Miss Mary Van Halteren, corps sponsor; Miss Lorraine Salot, cavalry sponsor; Miss Louise Collins, coast artillery sponsor; Miss Mary Butler, infantry sponsor; and Miss Barbara Stone, band sponsor.

The members of Pershing Rifles who performed the Queen Ann's drill during the sessions of Farmers' Week, will again put on this drill during the intermission of the ball. This exhibition was very favorably received when it was put on last week and it is a pleasing scene to watch.

Farmers Leave Campus Following Huge Ag Week

Mammoth Crowd of 30,000 Breaks All Records for Attendance at Annual Rural Gathering.

The general back-to-the-farm movement last Friday night rang down the curtain on the largest and most successful Farmers' Week ever held at Michigan State. A record-breaking crowd of 30,000 came to take advantage of the largest event of its kind in the world. Featured by the big evening sessions held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the Demonstration Hall, which were attended by approximately 10,000 spectators, the various divisional programs all played to capacity houses.

SYMPHONY WILL OFFER CONCERT HERE THURSDAY

Michael Press to Conduct College Orchestra in Gymnasium February 7.

SCHUSTER IS SOLOIST

Fifty Piece Organization Will Present Second Number on Season's Series.

The second concert in this season's series by the Michigan State college symphony orchestra will be presented on Thursday, February 7, at 7:30 o'clock, in the college gymnasium, when Alexander Schuster will be the soloist. Michael Press is conductor of the orchestra.

NEWMAN CLUB TO HOLD MIXER

Catholic Group Plans Radio Party for Thursday in Union.

The first in a series of evening meetings which will feature an entire social program will be held by the Newman club, Catholic student organization, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in the Union. The club officers have secured the use of the faculty dining room on the third floor, which assures plenty of space and a good floor for dancing.

SOCIETIES FETE J-HOP VISITORS

Fraternities Entertain Many Out-of-Town Guests at Dinners and J-Hop.

Conceded with their dinner parties Friday evening, several fraternities entertained out of town guests for the outstanding social event of the year, the J-Hop.

At the Delta Sigma Phi house, Miss Alice Robinson, Grand Rapids, Miss Jean Maxwell, Detroit, and Miss Virginia Rooks, Detroit, were escorted by Mr. Joel Breshneman, Mr. Walter Leitheiser, and Mr. Stanley Leitheiser, respectively. The patrons at their dinner were Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Clark.

Miss Mary Thorpe of Traverse City and Miss Lora Benore were guests of Charles Kelley and Walter Murray. Sigma Alpha Epsilon's other guests included the Misses Elizabeth McFarlane, of Detroit, Beatrice Waterston, Grand Rapids, and Marguerite Collins, Detroit. Dean and Mrs. R. C. Huston presided at the dinner.

WARREN EATON TO LECTURE TUESDAY

National Birdman to Speak on Hawks and Owls.

Warren F. Eaton is to give an illustrated lecture on "Hawks and Owls and Their Protection" next Tuesday, February 12, at 8 o'clock in the chemistry lecture room. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Zoology club of the zoology department and will be open to the public without charge. The lecture will be illustrated with both motion pictures and slides.

Phi Lambda Tau Gives Banquet For Initiates

Formal initiation and banquet was given last night by Phi Lambda Tau, local honorary engineering fraternity, as eight new members were taken into the organization. C. L. Allen, professor of civil engineering, acted as toastmaster. Robert Warren, president of Phi Lambda Tau, gave the welcoming speech, with Leonard Gezbn delivering the response. The main address was given by Prof. E. L. Austin of the education department.

The men taken into the honorary at this initiation were: Ward Brundage, Harold Cooper, Kenneth DeLone, Leonard Gason, William Pitt, Donald Ruedje, and Floyd Vermette.

Featured Violoncellist Has Really Been Around

Alexander Schuster Has Appeared in Most Countries of Europe Since Birth in Russia in 1888.

By VICTOR BIELINSKI
From Russia to America is a long way, but that is the birthplace of Alexander Schuster, violoncellist instructor of the music department of Michigan State college, who will be the soloist Thursday evening when the Michigan State college orchestra presents another concert under the direction of Michael Press.

Born in Odessa in 1888, Mr. Schuster came to East Lansing in 1929 directly from Europe where he was brought up in an atmosphere of music. His father, Leo Schuster, was the concert master of the Odessa symphony orchestra and entered his son in the Odessa Conservatory where the young Schuster studied violoncello under the guidance of Wladlaw Zelenka, a member of the famous Bohemian String quartet.

After graduating from this conservatory, Schuster went to Berlin where he continued his studies with Professor Hugo Becker at the Hochschule, where he won the Joseph Joachim prize, the highest mark of distinction that that particular institution confers upon a student.

After his graduation in 1914, Schuster began making tours through the various countries of Europe and received many favorable comments from music critics. He appeared in the following countries: Germany, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, Poland, Hungary, and Austria. Especially well received were his chamber music performances with Eugene D'Albert, Carl Flesch, Franz Vecsey, and Bronslaw Huberman, the latter appearing a short time ago on the compact as a violin soloist.

In the meantime he was violoncellist from 1919 to 1924 with the Philharmonic orchestra of Christiania, Norway. From 1924 to 1928, he was concert master of the Schlesischen orchestra of Breslau, where he also was a member of a string quartet. Since September, 1928, Schuster has devoted his entire time to the concert stage as soloist and with different chamber music groups, having his headquarters in Berlin.

Since coming to America, Mr. Schuster has appeared with various orchestras and other music groups, both as soloist and as member of the orchestra or ensemble. His first appearance with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra stamped Mr. Schuster as one of the best of contemporary cellists. His latest appearances have been in Grand Rapids several weeks ago, when he appeared with other members of Michigan State college music department faculty, and in Kalamazoo last Sunday, where he occupied the first chair in the Kalamazoo Symphony orchestra, which he has held since 1931.

NAME RANDALL CADET COLONEL FOR ROTC UNITS

Detroit Artilleryman to Have Charge of Entire Corps in Spring Parades.

LEADS MILITARY BALL

Edward Kemp and Robert Humphrey Appointed Lieutenant-Colonels Monday.

Appointments for the higher commissions in the college ROTC were announced Monday by Col. Dorsey R. Rodney, commandant. The appointments complete the list of commissions held by senior military students, the earlier appointments having been made last October. The new appointments were at that time made captains and their new positions are the result of high standing in the military department.

PLANS SET FOR VARSITY PARTY

Annual Social Highlight Will be Held in Masonic Temple Friday.

In line with the custom of engaging the best in dance bands for their annual party, the Varsity club members will present the music of Ben Pollack and his orchestra, who rose to fame overnight in Chicago, Friday night in the ballroom of the Masonic temple in Lansing. Tickets for the affair are now on sale and the number will be limited to 250 couples. Attractive decorations and programs have been planned by the committees in charge.

HORT EXHIBITS ATTRACT MANY

Show Again Draws Large Crowd as Apple Section Features Big Display.

The horticultural department closed again last week when they staged one of the best exhibits of Farmers' Week. Two large rooms on the second floor of the Hort building were used, and the show was planned and carried out by students of the department. The display was a combination of apples, bees, nuts, and the practical use in growing and raising superior varieties of each.

The apple section was king. It was placed in the main room and covered two large tables. The fruit was arranged according to color and types and the bright colors added an artistic touch to the entire affair. Sections of trees were shown, that illustrated the ill effects of poor pruning, neglect and the attack of various plant diseases. In connection with this, bulletins showing means of correcting those things that cost the fruit grower his profit each year were passed out.

In the back of the room was the section on bees. A live colony of bees under glass was shown and the different types of honey, beeswax, and the other products of bees were placed on a table for public inspection. The plants and trees from which the bees get their pollen for their honey were given, enclosed in large cases.

School Children Present Program of Folk Dances

St. Clair County Students Provide Entertainment of Farmers' Week Visitors on Campus.

St. Clair county children from the Keller school, ranging in age from 9 to 15 years, who indulged in folk dancing during the school recess period as exercise, provided Farmers' Week at Michigan State college with a session of highly entertaining and extremely educational presentation of native folk dance steps in costume.

These children, who were accompanied here by E. J. McCarty, county agent, and Miss Elvera Morrison, county school commissioner, were taught these foreign dances by Miss Lucy Foley, their teacher, in regular school work. In turn, Miss Foley was supervised by Miss Mabel Miles, extension specialist of the Michigan State college music department. All of the children are of foreign parentage which apparently accounts for the unusual amount of enthusiasm and exactness in the programs given at the home economics building, the Union, and at the Peoples church.

Other schools around the vicinity of the Keller school are now taking up this interesting activity after seeing the success of this group. Boys leave their sports readily for the barn dance, quadrille, and the foreign folk maneuvers. Their sincerity is shown by the fact that they pay for their own meals while here. Fraternities have cooperated in securing sleeping accommodations for them. Transportation expense is borne by the farmers of the school neighborhood.

The dances were:
1. The Hatter Danish
2. Tancuj Czechoslovakian
3. Oxdansen Swedish
4. Uncle Steve's Quadrille Early American Barn Dance
5. Irish Jig Irish
6. Tarentella Italian

Music Department Receives National Rating by N.A.S.M.

Michigan State Becomes Member of National Association of Schools and Music; Reporter Traces History of Department.

Michigan State college climbs up another step in its ladder to national prominence with the announcement that the music department of the college was admitted to membership in the National Association of Schools of Music. This decision was reached at the annual convention held in Milwaukee December 26-28, which Prof. Lewis Richards, head of the music department of Michigan State college, attended.

J-HOP EXTRA IS SOLD SATURDAY

Michigan State News Issues Special Paper Following Junior Prom.

The State News presented an entirely new idea in the printing and distribution of a tabloid size J-Hop extra Saturday morning following the prom at the Masonic temple Friday evening.

Although such a paper is published at a few other institutions, this is the first time that the edition has ever been attempted at Michigan State and the novelty proved very popular with the dance-goers attending the party.

It was originally planned to distribute the paper around 2 o'clock but due to some trouble in the engraving, the edition did not go on sale until 2:45, the dance ending at 3.

Production of the paper was speeded up to a high degree in order to make the edition possible since several pictures taken at 10:30 Friday evening at the beginning of the Hop, were included in the sheet. The paper was distributed at the door at a cost of 10 cents per issue, contrary to promises by some staff members, no papers will be presented gratis, but additional copies may still be purchased at the original price of one cent.

Pictures appearing in the paper all of which were taken at the beginning of the Hop, included all committee chairmen and their partners on the front page, along with shots of Fred Ziegel, junior president, and the prom queen, Betty Lantz, who led the Hop. Katherine Campbell, junior vice president, and her escort, Charles Palmer, were also included on the first page.

On the remaining three pages of the sheet were the pictures of Tom Otley, senior president, and Betty Madan, Evelyn Pickett, junior secretary, and Richard Pendell, Robert Armstrong, student council president, and Winifred Lee.

WARREN EATON TO LECTURE TUESDAY

National Birdman to Speak on Hawks and Owls.

Warren F. Eaton is to give an illustrated lecture on "Hawks and Owls and Their Protection" next Tuesday, February 12, at 8 o'clock in the chemistry lecture room. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Zoology club of the zoology department and will be open to the public without charge. The lecture will be illustrated with both motion pictures and slides.

Mr. Eaton is a representative of the National Association of Audubon Societies and is in charge of that organization's current campaign for the protection of hawks and owls. He comes here after speaking before the Michigan Audubon society in Grand Rapids on Monday night on the same subject, which is a very vital one to Michigan and its program of conservation.

J-Hop Now a Pleasant Memory With Varsity Party and S. W. L. Formal Coming This Week-end

Other Big Parties Ahead With Military Ball, Mortar Board, Senior Ball, Sophomore Prom, and Pan-hellenic Ball Scheduled; Many Society Parties Also to Be Held.

After the ball is over, meaning the 1935 J-Hop, and Anson's comparable rhythm is no longer charming Spartan proms, there are not so many broken hearts as aching feet on the campus. Michigan State social lights are reminding the superb dance music and gorgeous gowns of the biggest and longest parties of the year with their feet immersed in something warm water baths.

The feet will be back to normal by next week-end for the Varsity party Friday, and the Spartan Women's league and other formal Saturday. With the J-Hop past, the party season at Michigan State is not over, but just begun. Most of the big dances will be held in the next few week-ends. The Military ball February 15 will follow the week-end of the Varsity and S. W. L. parties. March 8 the Sophomore Prom, March 15 the Pan-Hellenic ball. Each eclipsed by the proximity of the J-Hop, but not forgotten. The week-end, were the Sigma Nu and Lambda Chi Alpha formal dances at the Hotel Olden. The Delta Sigma Phi radio party all on Saturday night. Most of the fraternities and sororities had guests who had come from town for the Hop.

MUSICIANS GIVE MANY CONCERTS

Department Sponsors Programs for Rural Visitors Every Day This Week.

The music department of the college was especially busy last week as it presented programs every day of Farmers' Week for the rural visitors gathered on the campus. Beginning on Monday with a playing at the luncheon in the Union building, the department arranged for a number of vocal and instrumental numbers on Tuesday besides a band concert in the gymnasium. The St. Clair county dancers also appeared on Tuesday.

Wednesday both the orchestra and the band furnished musical entertainment for the farmers, while individual numbers were presented by Stanley Butler, pianist, and Jeanette Eichinger, violinist. Miss Eichinger was accompanied by Marjorie Hoyt.

Community singing was led on Wednesday and Thursday nights by Fred Patton in Demonstration hall, where the band presented two concerts. The men's glee club, a string quartet, and Marguerite Steensma, vocalist, were also heard yesterday.

The complete program of the week follows:

BRIDGE

Before we begin this first column on the greatest indoor sports—contract bridge, let us introduce ourselves. This column will be a regular feature of the State News from now on, and will present interesting anecdotes and stories about the famous and infamous of the bridge world, along with a bit of advice on how to play difficult hands. We hope that from these discussions you will gain some suggestions and knowledge that will improve your playing. If we can answer any questions for you, please do not hesitate to write the Bridge Editor, Collegiate Digest, Madison, Wis. We're always ready to help.

Our favorite bridge anecdote concerns itself with a quondam partner of ours, whom we shall call X, and Sam Naiman, alternate on the Frankie Reuben team-off-four that won the Vanderbilt cup in 1933. X and ourselves had done quite well in the early days of our partnership. We were considerably ahead at rubber bridge, and we won our first two duplicates, particularly brilliant plays, but because we were disgustingly accurate. Our mistakes were rare almost to uniqueness.

But after we won the two duplicates X made a great decision. Our game, to quote him, wasn't nearly "cute" enough. Our accuracy was all right against mediocre teams, but we needed something more if we were to reach the expert class. And so, this columnist's protests were overridden and our game was inoculated with psychics. In our next duplicate we lost over 11,000 points at field of twelve in our next duplicate and we lost 11,000 points at rubber bridge to a team we'd taken several times before. The partnership broke up abruptly.

Not long ago we kibitzed a rubber game in which X and Mr. Naiman were partners. X opened a hand on a yarrowough, and Mr. Naiman, holding a strong hand, forced the bidding up to game. They were doubled and took a tremendous set, the exact figures escape us at the moment. X waxed angrily. "I thought you were a champ. A champ ought to be able to handle a psychic, don't you think?" "Oh, that's all right," Mr. Naiman sighed wearily. "Don't let it worry you. I used to psyche, too, before I learned the game."

You'll find that we prefer Sims to Culbertson, Official, Windsor, Heath, and the countless other systems and would-be systems we've encountered in our bridge-playing career, and particularly to the newest variety of "one-over-one" which a number of our acquaintances are playing, and which, we insist, takes bridge back to the guessing game played by our British cousins until recently. And this despite the tremendous success of the Four Aces in recent tournaments.

You'll find us adopting a slightly superior air toward that school of bridge players who refuse to make use of such aids to accurate slam bidding as the Sims three bid and the Culbertson four no trump-five no trump conventions, and Culbertson's newest four no trump convention. We feel that bidding like this:

N S
1 S 3 S
7 S

is nothing short of disgraceful, and we confess to an inner glow every time a contract reached in this manner is set one trick.

So much (and perhaps too much) for the introduction. There isn't much room left for the first hand, but here it is:

This hand was played recently at an eight-table duplicate, and only two of the eight teams bid seven no-trump, which is, theoretically as well as practically, the correct bid. The other bid seven spades, which, of course, goes down one.

Only the toughest break in the world can set seven spades; but where a slam depends on either of two suits breaking, the spot is in neither of the suits, but in no-trump.

Faculty Folk Club To Meet in Union Friday
The monthly meeting of the Faculty Folk club will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the club rooms at the Union building. The speaker for the afternoon will be Mrs. Alfred Wilson, who is a member of the State Board of Agriculture. She will talk about her recent trip to the Oriental country. This will be an illustrated lecture, of interesting scenes and happenings that she encountered there. Mrs.

'Y' GROUP SPEAKS AT EATON RAPIDS

Deputation Team Takes Charge of Sunday Services at Baptist Church.

A deputation team of four M. S. C. students visited the First Baptist church at Eaton Rapids last week-end. The group took charge of both services Sunday and in addition led the young people's league on Sunday evening and sponsored a party on Saturday night for the young people of Eaton Rapids.

Those who composed the team were Richard Haas, Clare Pocklington, Hope Carr, and Betty Kohler. The extension service committee of the Michigan State Y. M. C. A. sponsors the deputation work.

At the Sunday morning service Haas spoke on "The Good We Find in Other Religions," and the subject of Pocklington's talk was "The Good We Find in Other People." Miss Carr gave the prayer and the scripture was read by Miss Kohler. Haas was in charge of the evening service and Pocklington gave the prayer. The discussion in the young people's meeting was led by Miss Carr. Miss Kohler was in charge of the party given on Saturday night.

On Wednesday afternoon, the college debating team held an intercollegiate debate with Marquette university on the question of government control of the munitions industry. Michigan State had the negative side of the discussion and was represented by Harlan Clark and Elmer Perrin. This debate in the Little Theatre attracted a full house of the Farmers' Week visitors.

The evening sessions are always the high point in the entertainment of the week. Wednesday's performance was featured by an address by Governor Fitzgerald.

E. L. Austin will be general chairman for the afternoon. Mrs. B. J. Killham is in charge of the refreshments; Mrs. C. H. Ryder, hospitality; and Mrs. C. H. Masoney, decorations.

and a concert by the College Military band under the direction of Leonard Falcone. It included also a livestock parade led by Arabian horses, a sheep-dog demonstration by Luke Passer, and a log sawing contest. A demonstration of plays that brought touchdowns for Michigan State's winning football team last fall was put on by members of the team and Coach Charles A. Bachman, and the annual horse pulling contest closed the show for the night. Thursday night's show included another concert by the college military band and a livestock parade similar to the one staged on Wednesday night. J. Alfred Hannah, newly appointed college secretary, gave the address of the evening. Community singing was led by Fred Patton, director of the college glee club. The scheduled program failed to work out as advertised, due to the fact that the dogs were unable to distinguish the scent. The cavalry students staged a demonstration of wrestling on horseback.

...light an Old Gold

When trapped by a Mushy Mamma... don't give way to dark despair. Count ten and light a sunny-smooth Old Gold. Its fragrant fumes will enchant the matron's senses... while you slip spryly from her arms. Darn clever... these O.Gs!
