Sargent Announces National Hellenic Policies Affecting Financial, Social, Moral, and Scholastic Endeavors of All Chapter houses.

Local adoption of the National Interfraternity Council program for 1935-36, one of the most comprehensive plans ever offered by that body, was announced today by James Sargent, '36 president of the Michigan State Interfraternity ouncil. The program actively concerns all financial, social, moral and scholastic aspects of the college fraternity. Commenting on the move, Sargent stated that the IFC

TAKING A FRATERNITY?

Sunday night the season on pledges is open again.

And as usual there are going to be a goodly number of "victims," for fraternity methods are hard-boiled, though ethical, and freshmen are always open to salesmanship.

When one of the brothers saunters over with a little pin for your lapel, just remember one thing: Pledging is a serious thing. When you take that little button you are under obligation to that chapter. If you change your mind later you'll find it a bit awkward to state your case, and unconsciously you'll feel a slight loss of self-respect.

And even though you don't break your pledgeship, though you decide to stick it through, try to realize that you're picking your associates for the next few years. All your close associations will be with the men who gave you that button. Think it over.

Think this over, too: You're going to pay in more mone; is a fraternity man, and it's got to be paid. The rest of the brothers aren't going to support a parasite.

NOW ARE YOU SURE THAT YOUR MIND IS MADE Can you say honestly now that your choice is the best one? Are you sure that no other house is going to appeal to you more later and make you wish that you hadn't signed up so quickly? If you can answer these questions affirmatively, then go ahead and make the best of it.

If you can do that, we're for you. In a fraternity you'll find plenty of company, plenty of help and sympathy, plenty of joy, and plenty of grief. And you'll find that the grief will mean more to you than the joy.

When you join a fraternity you've got to conform, whether you like it or not. Try to decide where you're improving yourself by agreeing; and try to discard anything that won' be helpful later. You'll find criticism all around. Brother A doesn't like the way you dress-and perhaps he can give you some good pointers. Take them to heart. Brother B objects to your social bearing. You might not like that; you thought you learned etiquette in high school or in your early college years. But don't object-it's for your own good Brother C thinks your philosophy of life is terrible-and maybe it is.

You'll learn a lot about tolerance, and human nature, when you've spent your time in a fraternity. Your esteemed brothers might date your girl, take your best blankets to a football game, use your clothes when they repair their cars but you'll learn to take it and grin. You'll learn how to humot the people you really can't like; you'll cultivate an interest in other people that will rebound to your own benefit. After all, you're going to have to get along with all types of humanity when you start bucking the world-

Ten years from pow, we'll wager, you won't think much of that chapter you joined back in '35. The fellows are different, even the old guard has changed. Perhaps you might re call some rare old times with the boys, but not so many. But you are sure to recall a few grievances, although any hard feeling probably did you good.

And now a final tip: Don't take your chosen house too seriously. Remember that your fraternity connection is a mat ter of convenience only, an attachment that is good for little more than four years. Don't restrict yourself to your brothers; try to meet outsiders as often as possible. And try to see the faults of your house as well as its qualities. That, incidentally, applies more to sororities than to fraternities. You are now prepared for the hunting season.

Coming back to the fraternity "hunting season"-we still think the M. S. C. policies very sane. At many other schools it is permissible to sign up pledges directly they arrive, and we have heard of several cases where actives have left town to board incoming trains, thus picking up new men before they know what it's "all about."

If Blue Key intends to perform active service for the frosh it might be well to start soon, before they form permanent attitudes on college life.

Action of the Interfraternity Council in adopting the plans of their superiors is commendable. All that remains now is to enforce all their proposals.
