

ROTC Installation Ceremony Honoring New Corps Sponsors To Be Held in Armory Tonight

The Officers' club will hold its annual installation ceremony for the corps sponsors in Demonstration hall Friday evening, November 15, at 8:30. They will honor Cadet Colonel Margaret Bryant and her lieutenants, Grace Smith of the infantry, Kay Woodlock of the artillery, Lucille Rovick of the cavalry, and Dorothy Delay of the band. The girls, escorted by senior cadet officers, will be presented to Col. Selwyn D. Smith, commandant of the State R. O. T. C. The deans of all divisions, their wives, officers and their wives and parents of the corps sponsors are invited to the ceremony. The State band will play. Following the ceremony, the orchestra will play for an informal dance. Patrons are Col. and Mrs. C. T. Marsh and Capt. and Mrs. C. H. Chis. Only junior and senior advanced military students and band members will be admitted.

LOCAL CELLIST DRAWS PRAISE

Alexander Schuster Commended Highly for Performance in Kalamazoo

Alexander Schuster, head of the cello division of the music department of Michigan State college appeared as guest soloist on the second in a series of concerts presented by the Kalamazoo Symphony orchestra in Kalamazoo last Sunday afternoon. His performance drew much favorable comment from the large audience present at the concert.

According to Foster Lewis, music commentator of the Kalamazoo Gazette, Schuster's presentation of the A Minor Concerto of Saint-Saens was nothing less than a spectacular exhibition of technical skill and dexterity which for all its impressiveness did not detract in the least from that emotional appeal which the public has learned to regard as synonymous with Schuster's artistry. The colorful flash and brilliance definitely in evidence throughout the course of the solo also drew much praise, particularly as none of the higher qualities of beauty and feeling toward which the true musician always strives, were sacrificed.

That Schuster has a widespread reputation as a musician is evident by other remarks made by the critic. The mere fact that Schuster was scheduled to appear as soloist was enough to guarantee musical entertainment above the average, according to Foster. Further, he made the statement that the work of the local violin-cellist easily fills the interim when he is playing music of the sonorous, plaintive, soul-stirring type.

The Kalamazoo orchestra also was lauded for its part in the presentation of Schuster's solo being commended for its competency and effectiveness.

Another Detroit visit planned by MSC band.

The choice band again leaves the campus Sunday morning en route to Detroit. This is the second of their three Detroit trips where they are playing for the Detroit Lion's home games. The Lions vs. Green Bay Packers game this Sunday is considered one of the best on the Lions' schedule. The talent plus the recollection of the excellent reception they received at the first game, will more than likely make this trip another enjoyable one for members of the band.

Compilation of essays, letters, and names written by a university student, who was killed at the end of his freshman year. Most of his writings deal with youth's conceptions of religion, immortality, and moral codes. After the discussion, B. Barnstein, a teacher in the School for the Blind, will play a violin solo.

S. C. U. begins at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday with a half hour of games, at 6 o'clock a cost-supper is served and at 6:30 the discussion group meets.

Art Department MILITARY MAN Opens Display of Linoleum Blocks TO ADDRESS IRC

Work by Twenty Students One of Finest Such Exhibits Ever Made Here.

There is one fine place to go on this campus if you wish to be convinced that stories and experiences may be told as well in pictures as in words. It seems to be the opinion of both those who are experienced in judging such displays and those less informed, that the present display of prints from linoleum blocks, hanging in the art department, Room 410, is one of the finest exhibits ever to be shown on this campus.

Experiences and impressions of 20 college pupils are carried out in the finest detail in black and white. The subject matter runs from world to skyscrapers. Many of the topics are chosen from summer experiences. There are two very interesting cuts representing outdoor camps. The cut of the orchids is very fine and unusually clear. There is also a very good print of a view of a stone quarry. The comparative sizes of the stones in each pile are interpreted by the varying size of the lines, and the building is shown in the background. Groszque shadows are represented in another picture. Machines, automobiles, football tracks, and a Milwaukee street, religion, and a diaphane are printed as the artist sees them and may be recognized at a glance.

The clearness of the wood-texture shows in the prints, and the fine lines are amazingly accurate. Anyone and the cutting of the design of the linoleum block has been very well done in all cases. From the viewpoint of one who has, at present, only a general interest in them.

COLLEGE BULLETIN

The Campus G. H. club will meet Friday night in room 400 Ag Hall at 8:00.

The Student Club will hold a dance in the gym annex Friday night at 8:30. Bill Porter's orchestra will play.

The Lutheran Students meeting has been postponed until next Friday, Nov. 22. Rev. Shearer and his Lutheran League will be guests.

C. G. A. TO DISCUSS WORLD RELIGIONS

Program for Term's Meetings is Outlined.

"Living Religions" has been the general topic of the Campus Girls Assembly discussion series this term, including thus far studies of the primitive religions, Buddhism, Confucianism, and Taoism. These are the dominant religions of India, China, and Japan.

Rabbi David I. Cedarbaum, who is a reformed Jew, spoke to the assembly last Sunday on Judaism and stressed the points of universal moral law, worldliness, social emphasis, and the negation of religious imperialism. One of the main points which he brought out was that Judaism does not stress the importance of after-life reward rather than that they attempt to better the earth while they are here.

This Sunday Miss Sater will read the discussion on the question "Is There a God?" and "What Type of God Will Satisfy Our Needs?" She will also review the material covered in the previous meetings.

November 24, Miss Behice Sadik, a Turkish girl who is a student at the University of Michigan, will speak on "Women and Their Customs in Turkey." She is a native of Istanbul, Turkey, and speaks English fluently. The religions to be taken up in the future meetings are Mohammedanism and Christianity.

Tau Sigma Society Plans Social Meet

The next meeting of the honor society, Tau Sigma, will be held Tuesday evening, November 19, at 7:15 o'clock. Jane Branson, vice-president of the society, has charge of the arrangements. After assembling in front of the library, the members will go to the W. A. A. cabin for a social meeting. Those heading committees for the evening are as follows: Willard Klunzinger, transportation; Victor Doel, program; Matilda Adair, refreshments.

Mallman and Scafseth to Speak Before Tri-State Conference.

W. H. Mallman and H. J. Scafseth, professors of bacteriology at Michigan State college, left early Thursday morning for Indianapolis, Ind., to attend the Seventeenth Conference of Bacteriologists, Pathologists and allied workers of Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio.

The conference, held in the Lilly Research laboratories at Indianapolis, opened this morning with a planned trip for the members through the Lilly Biologic plant, the Indiana Department of Health laboratories, and the University of Indiana Medical school. At 12:30 a luncheon was held in the Lilly laboratories followed by an afternoon program in which Mr. Mallman, president of the organization this year, addressed the meeting on "The Comparison of Standard Methods and Brilliant Green Bile Broth as a Confirmation Test for B. Coli." Mr. Scafseth gave a talk on "Further Studies on Vaccine Therapy in Chronic Infectious Diseases," and other prominent bacteriologists were also scheduled to speak before the assembly.

At 5:00 p. m. a business meeting was held and a dinner at 6:30 at the Columbia Club concluded the affair.

Statequette By COLLEGIANA

This week the question of consolidation and thoughtfulness to party chapters comes up. Lately, several students have been noticeable negligent in this respect. They are, in other words, the unpolished grade of the crop.

Recently, at one of the big college dances, some of the patrons commented on the difference between the friendly atmosphere of smaller parties where they had been and this one. Here they were left for the most part of the evening to amuse themselves while the students were likewise amusing themselves elsewhere. At certain other parties the students had gone up in groups to speak to the patrons between dances and broken the evening for them that way. From the standpoint of the patron, it isn't so bad to sit through a dance without special entertainment, but to sit through the whole evening, that's just too boring. After all, these patrons have other things they would rather do than sit against a wall all evening, watching students amuse themselves across the room. Each and every student who attends an affair where patrons are

Engineer Honorary Inducts Three Men

Phi Lambda Tau, engineering honorary, initiated three seniors into its group Monday evening, November 11. Those initiated were H. W. Berend, J. R. Hewitt, and R. S. Johnson.

A banquet was later given in honor of the new members at the Hunt Food Shop. Prof. C. L. Allen was toastmaster. J. R. Hewitt responded to the welcome which was given by H. H. Cooper. The main speaker of the evening was Dean Giltner. The banquet was closed with a few comments by Dean Dicks.

present should make it his or her duty to speak with the patrons during the course of the evening. Show them you do care that they are present. Why not start now to treat yourselves to a large dose of thoughtfulness and courtesy—remember, good manners are always the deep-down backbone of the impression which you give.
