Did You Know?

The catch in the story about William Sydenstricker's first cousin Pearl Sydenstricker Buck is that although everyone knows that Frank Buck is, most people fail to recognize that the lady is the Pearl S. Buck who wrote "The Good Earth". Her husband is incidentally not the lion-taming Buck. Mr. Patton has been telling the story for two months now and so far no one has connected the name Pearl Buck with any well-known figure, although everyone says, "Oh yes, the 'bring him back alive' man," when Frank Buck is mentioned.

Amateurs' Shack

Michigan State college has a spot for the amateur short wave operator. Under the auspices of the Radio club a "shack" housing a short wave transmitter has for several years been available for licensed amateur radio operators. Just now the club is looking for new members to fill vacancies caused by graduation last June.

Crasher

Who is the middle-aged man in the derby, rimless spectacles and black overcoat who crashes the college bus every morning at 7:30 on the corner of Washington and Michigan? His technique is simple but effective, while the driver is busy loading students bound for their eight o'clocks, he sneaks in through the back door, and quietly takes a seat.

Take-off for Birds

Bird-banding is handled on this campus on a large scale. The station, which is located behind Wells Hall, has banded 16,000 birds of 23 different species since its establishment in 1924. The zoology department maintains the station in cooperation with the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture in the study of bird migration.

New Dance Master

The tea dances have a new master of ceremonies. He is John Richmond, better known as "Bump". His feature number will be a "muscle dance". Other duties include announcing all dance sets, presenting several vocal numbers, and judging all contest events.

Long Range Guns

The reverberations from the Sino-Japanese conflict are heard a long way from the scenes of battle. Jehu F. Wong, who attended Michigan State last year, did not return this fall because of the need for relief workers among the war victims. In a letter to Prof. Ward Giltner, dean of the Veterinary Science Division, Wong explained that his failure to return was because of "the call to do my part to relieve in some measure the sufferings of the refugees resulting from the war."

Feeling Better

Col. Selwyn D. Smith of the Michigan State R. O. T. C., who has been hospitalized at Hot Springs, Ark., since July because of a sinus infection, is much improved, according to word received here.

NEWS ITEMS

East Lansing residents who have news items such as personal, social events, or club matters, which would not otherwise reach the State News may mail them into the News office at any time from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, or Fridays. Dial 5-9113, Ext. 20.

Show to be Aired
Homecoming Eve

Paul Dumont to Act as Master of Ceremonies on Program.

Members of the faculty committee on arrangements for the Pontiac Varsity show met with Thomas L. Stix, co-producer of the broadcast, yesterday to begin plans for the nation-wide program, which will be sent out from the campus over the NBC blue network Friday night, November 12, homecoming eve.

A student committee, composed of Staley Haugh, Robert Ritter, James G. Hays, and Ole Gelzer was appointed to help in staging the Michigan State version of the popular Friday night show, broadcast weekly from leading colleges throughout the country.

The faculty committee, chosen by Pres. Robert S. Shaw at the time the program was approved by the administrative group, includes: Robert J. Coleman, director of WKAR, chairman; John A. Hannah, secretary of the college; Glen O. Stewart, alumni secretary; E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture; H. B. Dirks, dean of engineering; L. L. Richards, director of the music department; Donald Hayworth, head of the speech department; and Ralph Norman, publicity director of the college.

The broadcast affords the college a chance to quicken the interest of alumni and to inform millions of listeners of Michigan State's contributions in the educational and cultural fields.

A portion of the program will be set aside for a tribute to the college, and may include a brief outline of the school's development and a summary of the achievements of some outstanding graduates.

The talent for the program will be drawn from the student body and from such campus organizations as the band, glee clubs, dramatic societies, and the orchestra. Paul Dumont, who will be here in person to act as master of ceremonies for the broadcast, is well known to the college.

Ego of Humans
Is Condemned

Dr. Julius Fischback Gives
Chalk-talk to Y. M. C. A.

"The Ungodly Strut" was the title for a character study of the egotist given by Dr. Julius Fischback, pastor of the First Baptist church, Lansing, Tuesday evening at a Y. M. C. A. meeting in the students' parlor of the Peoples church.

Accompanying his words, Dr. Fischback sketched in colored chalk the uncompromising swag of a selfish, egotistical man. He related the tale of such a man who believed his own superiority in the financial world, but who when faced with the stock market crash of 1929, committed suicide.

Dr. Fischback also characterized in a chalk satire the appearance of a college student during his four years of campus life.

Concluding, he portrayed the figure of a man in a silhouette of humility against the background of a moonlit evening. "With all this," he waved his hand in the direction of this scene of nature, "what fool of a mortal could doubt the existence of a God?"

Mortar Board Meets

A luncheon meeting was held by Mortar Board, Tuesday, October 19, in the Union porch. Guests at the luncheon were Dean Elisabeth Conrad and Miss Elizabeth Daniels, advisers.

Gale Breaks
Electric Line

North East Lansing is Darkened Two Hours
Tuesday Night.

A section of the northern part of East Lansing was in complete darkness for nearly two hours last night after primary electric lines had been broken by tree limbs blown down during a heavy wind. The streets affected were those lying north of Grand River avenue and between Sunset Lane and Oak Hill.

According to the superintendent of lines, there were two breaks in the primary wires, one at West Grand River and Evergreen, and the other at Oak Hill and Sunset Lane. Three crews of linemen, seven men per crew, worked from 6:30 to 8:30, removing fallen limbs and mending the wires.

Five minutes after the emergency call of "no lights" was received the linemen began to work. Prompt and efficient work under the spotlights from the service trucks accounted for the record time taken for repairs.

A few house connections outside the main area were broken by limbs, but the majority of calls came from the north end in the districts of the primary breaks. No trouble was reported in Lansing.

Senior Group
Will Tap Five

Excalibur Will Hold Induction Rites at Dance.

Five senior men will be tapped Saturday night by Excalibur, senior men's honorary, at that society's annual fall term dance, in the Union ballroom. This is the second induction ceremony held for the class of 1938, eight other men having been initiated at the Water Carnival last spring.

The five initiates will bring the total membership to thirteen, one more than has been the custom heretofore. It is planned to make this membership traditional, as it is among senior honor societies on other campuses.

Frankie Prindle's band will play for the dance. The tickets, available at the Union desk and from members, cost one dollar, and accommodate a couple.

William Ingleson, Wolverine editor, is in charge of the dance. The tapping ceremony will be conducted by Harvey Harrington, president of the group.

Patrons for the event are Prof. and Mrs. A. A. Applegate and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Geil. Dean and Mrs. F. T. Mitchell will attend as guests.

WCTU Hears
Native of India

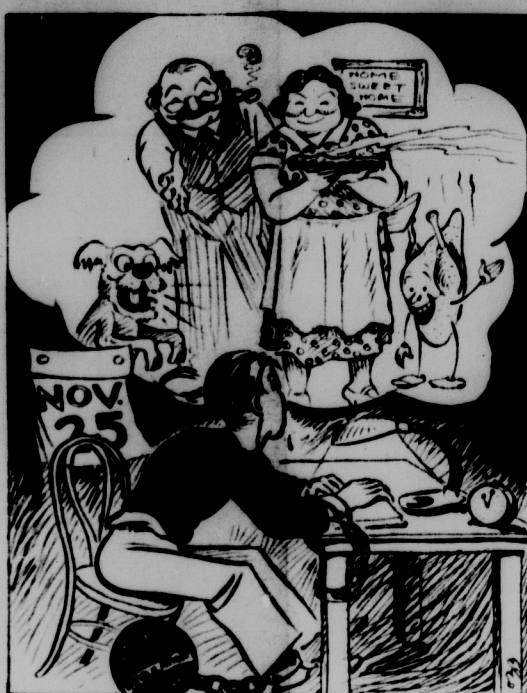

Shoran Singha, Indian Y. M. C. A. student secretary of London, England, addressed the first regular meeting of the East Lansing W. C. T. U. Tuesday afternoon. He spoke concerning the liquor and opium traffic in his native land.

The W. C. T. U. elected Mrs. E. L. Grover, Mrs. Charles Atkins, and the president, Mrs. L. B. Hill, as its official delegates to the state convention at Saginaw, October 20, 21, and 22.

Plans for the year were discussed. The officers, who acted as hostesses for the meeting, served tea after the business meeting.

The Radio club will meet Friday evening, October 23, at 8 o'clock, in room 111, Olds hall. All licensed amateur radio operators and persons interested in amateur radio are urged to attend.

In the Gloom

Dr. Naismith Reveals Reason
For Originating Basketball

Dr. James Naismith gave his own story of the origination of the game of basketball to an interested group of physical education majors Tuesday afternoon in the physics building.

Dr. Naismith studied to be a minister and was ordained into the Presbyterian ministry. As soon as he had accomplished this he felt that he could do more for the church by building character and he also felt that he could reach more people through athletics than he could through the church.

He turned to teaching physical education, and it was in this work that he came upon a group of 18 young men with whom he had difficulty during the winter months trying to keep them busy.

So working on the theory that there's nothing new under the sun, he decided to try and invent a game which would keep the men interested and which could also be played inside. At first he tried to revise football but tacking and falling on a hard maple floor were not to his liking; he then tried soccer and lacrosse but still to no avail.

Then in a moment of deep meditation he thought of a game where men bounced the ball and tried to throw it through a hoop. So, borrowing a couple of peach baskets from the janitor, he nailed them up at opposite ends of the gymnasium, threw the ball up in the air and let the boys go to it. The game developed rapidly, and

Local Couple Weds
At B-Square Club

In a ceremony solemnized at 1 p. m. Sunday at the B-Square club on the Red Cedar river, Margaret Chamberlain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Chamberlain of Lansing, was married to Thomas Schepers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Schepers of East Lansing.

Attendants were Miss Barbara Smith and Dr. C. A. Griffin of East Lansing. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The Rev. Franklin Young of the First Presbyterian church performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Schepers have gone to Lake Missaukee at Lake City for a week's honeymoon. At the end of that time they will be at home on Seymour avenue, Lansing.

Mr. Schepers has been a member of the B-Square club for 15 years. The cabin of the club was decorated with flowers and fall leaves for the service.

The Women's faculty bridge club will meet Wednesday, October 27, at 1 p. m. at Hunt's cafeteria. Reservations for this must be made by Tuesday evening. These may be made with Mrs. Kenneth Heaton, phone 2-3150; Mrs. W. H. Barton, phone 2-2580; or Mrs. M. C. Rather, phone 2-2706.

Club Hears
Description
Of Congress

A. J. Transue Addresses
State College Club.

The first impressions of a new congressman received upon his first visit to the nation's capitol were humorously described by the Hon. Andrew J. Transue in a talk before the Michigan State college club Wednesday noon.

Transue, whose home is in Flint, is a representative from the sixth congressional district. The first thing a new congressman desires upon taking office, Transue said, is to secure his appointment on a good committee. This is done by contacting members of the House ways and means committee, a powerful organization which chooses members of other committees. Since he was appointed to the committee on banking and currency, Congressman Transue told of some of the many bills that have come before this committee, among them the Wagner housing bill.

DESCRIBES PRESIDENT

The speaker also described the party held by some of the Democratic members of Congress at Jefferson Island. Little advance information about the party was available, and those attending expected it would be mainly a discussion of controversial issues before Congress. However, they were surprised to find the President in his shirt-sleeves and with open collar relaxing under a tree, and discussing everything but politics.

The daily routine of a Congressman is a busy one, the speaker declared. First, there is a large volume of mail to be examined, then committee meetings are held at 10 o'clock. When important issues are before the House, each session consumes practically a whole afternoon. As subject matters are not regarded as controversial receive little publicity, the average person does not realize the amount of work which comes before a congressman, Transue explained.

Dr. Naismith impressed upon the students the great opportunity that they have before them to influence and help the young people with whom they will be brought into contact in their work. He also told them of the marvelous chance that awaits them in the field of physical education.

Eddie Powell, 1935 Olympia basketball referee, also added a few remarks on the part that basketball played in the last Olympics.

Club Features
Puppet Show

Junior Musicals Presents
Schumann's Life.

The life and music of Robert Schumann was the theme of the Junior Matinee Musicals Tuesday afternoon, attended by 60 members and guests, in the Peoples church.

Nine marionettes, made by Mrs. L. J. Herrick, to represent characters from the life of Schumann, were presented in a scene from his life which featured the afternoon's program. The puppeteers for the scene were Mrs. W. C. Buchanan, Mrs. H. J. Prall, Mrs. Maurice Baker, Miss Jane Herrick and Jack Terris. Mrs. Forrest Musselman played the piano for the sketch.

Constance Hatty presided in the absence of Patty Geiger, president. Alice Jane Bodine was leader for the day, and introduced Miriam Alexanian who read a sketch called "Musical Flashies", and Margaret E. Miller whose paper was entitled "Music and Puppetry."

Lenore Huddleson's piano solo, "Funeral March of a Marionette" was followed by a talk on the life of Schumann by Jane Herrick. "Little Romance" by Schumann was Doris Miller's piano solo, followed by Jack Terris' piano selection, "Knight Rupert", by the same composer.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Bodine, and Constance Hatty.

The next meeting will be October 26 in the woman's parlor of the church. All children wishing to enroll as members are asked to be present.

Takes Six Years
For Credits
To Arrive

Manuel R. Arteaga's word is good. This was proved today by the lines under the New York Times' head of Six Years Ago Today. They read: "Six years ago the University of Havana closed its doors. That was at the beginning of Cuba's latest insurrection. Today classes were resumed for the first time."

And in today's mail, Dr. Ward Giltner, head of the veterinary division in which Arteaga is enrolled, received a transcript of credits he earned while in school at the University of Havana. They were just as Arteaga had sworn when he was admitted here.

A former member of Cuba's army, Lieutenant Arteaga, to give him his official title, was allowed to enter Michigan State college two years ago on his own word since it was not possible to get a copy of his credits from the revolution-closed university.

Questionnaire Seeks Staff
Opinion on Party Duties.

Under the direction of Gertrude Brummelhoff, liberal arts editor, and Phyllis Davidson, home economics senior, the Spartan Women's league is preparing questionnaires to be sent to the faculty members to determine the causes of dissatisfaction between the students and faculty.

From the replies S. W. L. hopes to correct these difficulties with the aid of the student body. At the meeting this evening a committee will be appointed to complete the arrangements for distributing the questionnaire and classifying the replies.

The questionnaire is concerned mostly with the attitude of the faculty members towards patron duty. Such inquiries as, "Do you enjoy chaperoning at college dances?" and "Which do you prefer to chaperone, sorority, fraternity, dormitory, or all-college affairs?" are made with an eye to discovering the favored functions.

The faculty is asked to list the topics of conversation students use at dances that might be considered harkened, and to state whether they believe the students are browbeaten when they look after the patron's welfare.

Do you prefer to have a reception committee meet you or would you rather meet the students more informally?" is another question asked of the unwary faculty member who receives one of these questionnaires.

All married instructors and many of those who are unmarried will receive one of the blanks within a week or ten days and are requested to return it to the S. W. L. as soon as possible. They need not be signed.

Economics Instructor
Gives Jackson Speech

H. Wyngarden of the economics department was the speaker yesterday at the convocation of the Jackson Junior college in Jackson. His subject was "Fluctuations in Business Activities and Fluctuations in the Stock Market." Mr. Wyngarden included in his discussion the factors concerning the recent stock market crash.

Speaker Says President
Can Hold Democrats
Together.

Drew Pearson, author of "Washington Merry Go Round", and second speaker of the student lecture series, gave a newspaperman's slant on today's Washington as he spoke to two audiences last night in the Peoples church.

Stating that he believed President Roosevelt would not run for a third term, Pearson outlined the three great problems facing the president today, and gave close-up, humanized descriptions of many of Washington's celebrities.

Roosevelt's three major problems are, according to Pearson: first, to keep the democratic party together; second, to maintain economic equilibrium; and third, to steer the country through perilous international difficulties.

ROOSEVELT REGAINS FAVOR
The speaker stated that if Roosevelt would be successful in the future, he must keep together his political backers, a homogeneous mixture of democrats, republicans and all political faiths.

He also expressed the belief that Roosevelt was rapidly recovering from the ill-effects of his defeated supreme court bill, and would be able to hold his party together in spite of the efforts of vice president Garner.

In commenting upon the college professor "brain trust", the newsman said that it was still working hard for the president even though removed temporarily from the limelight of public attention. He said that the first brain trust failed largely because the college men, bathed in their unaccustomed

State Senior
Dies Tuesday

William Gentner, Buffalo,
Succumbs Following
Appendectomy

William E. Gentner, Buffalo senior, succumbed to complications arising from an appendectomy early Tuesday morning in Buffalo.

Gentner was a major in physical education, and served as referee in many of the intramural athletic events at the college. He also served as an instructor in swimming, assisting Coach Russell Daubert.

He was a member of the Hermitian fraternity and coached all of that society's interfraternity athletic teams. Several members of the fraternity are driving to Buffalo tomorrow afternoon to attend the funeral Saturday. Those planning to attend are Rudy Savio, Ted Mackrell, Tom Boyce, Robert Lehart and Howard Lehman.

It was not until last Wednesday that Gentner went home for hospitalization, though he had complained of appendicitis for several days.

Kinek Elected Head of Hamilton House

Organization of Hamilton house, 218 Albert street, was completed with an election of officers Tuesday night. Michael Kinek was named president; John Kowalski, vice-president; Martin LaRosa, secretary; and Walter Dickinson, treasurer. A smoker was held following the business session. There are 36 members of the new organization.

More Publicity Needed

Like many an innovation, the plan this year to limit candidates for the R. O. T. C. sponsors to junior and senior women is not fool proof. Though it meets with general campus approval, it has aroused considerable antipathy because of poor organization.

Members of the advanced military classes, who have the right to nominate coeds for these positions, evidently were not informed concerning the new rule change. This has resulted in a number of misunderstandings and embarrassing situations, besides causing a second delay in the announcement of the winners.

In one instance, a sponsor was automatically elected when her competitor was eliminated as a result of the ruling. One candidate for the cadet colonelcy had to withdraw, and another was erroneously eliminated in the first voting because her summer school credits hadn't been sent to the registrar. Hence the voting had to be repeated.

If the advanced military men prefer to limit the nominations in future years, the rules concerning such limitations should be publicized and all candidates confirmed before and not after the official nominations. This would eliminate a lot of hurt feelings, accusations of "dirty politics," and the high degree of nervous tension among candidates and backers which has resulted from this year's situation.

Plenty of Seats

Apparently the new system of distributing football tickets is perfectly satisfactory for home games. Used this week for the second time—the initial time for a home game, the system is providing all students with a fair chance for good seats for the Marquette game, with considerably less time and trouble expended than under the old mailing plan.

Much of the difficulty which arose at the time of the Michigan game was due to the limited number of good seats available to Michigan State rooters. This limitation is the result of a permanent reservation of a large block of the center seats on the east side of the Michigan stadium for bond holders of that edifice. State had to take what tickets it could get, and the number wasn't sufficient to supply both students and regular purchasers with the choicest kind of seats.

Treasurer C. O. Wilkins reports that purchases for outsiders by students are considerably lower for this game than for the Ann Arbor classic—the seniors averaging not more than one additional ticket per person, and the juniors less than half of that.

With the greater number of good seats available and the decreased demand for tickets, indications are that students should have little to complain about. The treasurer's office has set aside a block for each class. All of them are advantageous. The usual preference for seniors has been followed as in former years, but even the freshmen will have no difficulty in seeing the game.

"Each generation has its own kind of literary measles." So says Dr. J. D. Ferguson, professor of English at Cleveland college.

Clearing the Air

The Spartan Women's League is to be commended for its current project of sending a questionnaire to faculty members to determine their attitudes toward chaperoning college parties. It is time to clear the fog that has always hung around the issue of party patrons.

A major difficulty is to discover what the patrons expect. They do not all expect the same reception. Younger couples enjoy dancing and resent the diffident attitude of students who approach them wearing bored expressions and insist on sitting out a dance. Older couples do not dance and enjoy talking with the students at the parties. At fraternity and sorority dances the chaperons often play bridge and seem to be satisfied with this form of entertainment. The questionnaire should furnish just the information that has always been needed for the reception patrons.

But even without the results of the questionnaire there are some pointers on patrons that many students can learn. These chaperons are guests at the college parties. They are giving their time and service simply as a matter of courtesy. Often they might be taking a more active part in some social affair of their own. The college students should reply in kind, and receive the chaperons graciously, and as guests, rather than as policemen or necessary evils. Most of these faculty people do not expect students to sit out an entire dance with them. They are often bored with a long sitting themselves. It does not take long to stop to speak a few words to these people who play an important role at every college party.—B. J. S.

Today's

GUEST EDITORIAL

Jest 300 Words

By FRED PATTON

Head of Voice Department

Thanks! I would just love to write heaps and stacks of editorials about almost anything. Have I missed my calling after all?

How about a "Guest Editorial About Guest Editorials?" And hoping all the time that I have guessed about right in my conclusions!

Another! "Is Punning an Art or a Capital Offense?" One word leading to another. "Are Artists People?" If so, why not? A musical artist myself (or hadn't it occurred to you previously?) perhaps I should present ponderous perorations on "The Relation of Music to Life."

A quarter of a century ago—long before you were born, my little cabbages, we high-pressure-up-and-coming piano salesmen used to allege that music was the fourth necessity of life. First, food; second, shelter; third, clothing; fourth, music, i. e., pianos. I think I could still prove the point to your satisfaction (and mine) but I would have to use more than the niggardly three hundred words allotted to me.

Whoa! Using the "egotorial I" instead of the "editorial we."

Well, WE think that college students need a lot of guest editorials about "The Facts of Life." Such as, why in modern daze—stet—(used to be an advertising man, too!) is it impossible to find one single student out of two hundred in a college chorus who can recite the twenty-third psalm? Even when two bits (five cokes) is posted as an reward? Or am I a fungus of fogeyism?

And one for the other side. If the majority of a class fails an examination, who is to blame—the professor or that bold, bad old warrior, General Human Stupidity?

When you hear the signal, it will be Three Hundred Words—with the subject still in doubt.

I guess life's like that—while Time Marches On!

(Count 'em?)

So They Say

"I should have been very unhappy if I had been educated in America. I understand that you in your system can't cut lectures. . . . When I was in school, I attended on the average of two lectures a week." A self-expose by Aldous Huxley, English author.

"The problems of today can be solved and will be solved through an intelligent and trained leadership," said acting Pres. Herman E. Wells of Indiana university to freshmen.

Corps Sponsors . . .

To fight, men must have inspiration—not a bad idea, and full of applied psychology. But more attention has been paid to the election of the girls this year than in many gone by—and more rancor has probably been instilled into the hearts of the losers.

The M. S. C. Onion . . .

Not so many years ago the Onion had a reputation as an Onion. It was not a successful enterprise in any sense of the word. You have only to walk around the various lounges to see that such a condition no longer exists.

Such prosperity in the Onion runs strangely parallel to Bunny Proulx's ascension to the throne room. So it is not without conviction that we compliment him on his success.

Parfum . . .

Bus staff nabob Bob Refior received a little note the other day which was well laden down with Odeur de l'Amour. That's right, as far as our unpracticed nostrils are concerned.

But strangely, the sender didn't sign his name. And it was a he, all right. The Hesperians are suspected, for a reason they know, but which wouldn't bear publication.

But that a man should use such a heavy and exotic scent is a little out of order. Even for a Hesperian. But it certainly is an interesting subject to muse on.

People and Stuff . . .

Talk about my Paul Bunyan shirt! Jack Gauntlett, Bill Meier, and Dave Noble are sporting plain turkey red fire engine shirts that put mine to shame. . . . Can't you just see Vic Spaniolio pushing a banana cart down 42nd street in about five years? Frosh Jack Sinclair worked as editor and just about everything else on the Delta Reporter, published in Gladstone, Mich. Charlotte Schmidt and Freddie (Groucho) Arnold are knocking it off pretty steady. Frosh Doris Rogers, Chelsea's donation to M. S. C., seems to have plenty on the ball. Herbie Hunt has gone with the same girl for two years and hasn't kissed her yet—Oh You Kid, Herbie!

Ego . . .

Phil Denton, Alpena Romeo, is in the habit of calling up girls and saying, "This is Phil Denton, the greatest lover of all time."

It must be tough to go without dates, isn't it, Phil?

Such Popularity . . .

Betty VanKeuren and Jean Sprinkle, Lansingites of 41, don't stand around much at the tea dances.

Then there is the frosh who asked a sophomore to go steady with him "until his money ran out."

Serologic tests for venereal disease were recommended for new students at universities by Dr. R. A. Vanderleir of the Public Health Service. Discovery of the diseases would not be a basis of refusing admission to a student.

PROLOGUE

Well, we've hit every edition of the paper, but it looks as though from now on we are settled—temporarily.

"ANOTHER LANGUAGE"

We attended a rehearsal Tuesday night again. The play is progressing slowly and surely. However, we never saw a more complicated system of blocking—what with boxing matches, card games, dancing, and god-knows-what. If Dr. Thompson doesn't go berserk before the play is over, then 'twill be an "Act of God."

The thing we find most amusing about this play is its "familiarity," as Mr. Buell calls it. Rose Franken, its author, knows her families, and naturally the women in them. She must have lifted her characters bodily from life. We particularly like the typically feminine cracks passed around by the sisters-in-law. They have all the venom that makes "The Women" the play it is. All together, there is a naturalness to Franken's characters seldom found in the characters of the current trend in realism, proletarianism, and "poetry."

To our mind—even though we should be partial—this looks as though it's going to be the best play yet given on our campus.

"FIRST LADY"

Well, we donned our best suit last Friday night, brushed our teeth, slicked our hair, and went down to West Junior high to rub elbows with Lansing's "clashes." We went to "First Lady." We went—pre-warned—not expecting too much, and we were not disappointed. On the whole, we think it was one of the Guild's best. Nevertheless—and here's the criticism after every Guild play—the tempo was entirely too slow and draggy for this fast-paced satire on Washington life. However, Mrs. Brucker did admirably. She fought all the time she was on stage to pick the play up—and she succeeded. But, oh, how we missed her when she was gone! And we'd like to say here that Mary Ford Conway is a better actress than a directress. Perhaps she was a little too blunt in her "meowrrr" lines, but we'll the radio. Sally Langdon jerks when she recites. Watch her.

Seigrist ought to know better than to present just half of his band at tea dances when the "twelve of them sound twice as good. Coincidence or not, an alarm clock sounded in the Gladder the other night just when the actor decided that it was "time for France to wake up."

Remember—when you were a little-punk department. Remember when you could earn neighborhood—notoriety by being the first to go bare-foot in the late spring? And how you used to slide in the mud and let it squish up between your toes? And when you used to bang around with tin can clomped to your shoes? (My family disapproved.) When you played spin-the-milk-bottle? When your mother made you wear leggings and usually one under-foot strap was broken and floppy. Breakfast time? Fancy that. Good morning!

"A DOLL'S HOUSE"

We did the very thing! We warned you not to do—waited too long to get tickets! The show is completely sold out for the week. However, we're going to take the chance that some may not be called for at the box-office Saturday night—it's a long chance, but not to be overlooked.

From all reports Ruth Gordon, Dennis King, Paul Lucas, and Sam Jaffe have a hit on their hands. We maintain that it can and should play two weeks in Detroit.

IN NEW YORK

Maxwell Anderson's first prose play in several years opened two weeks ago. It's "The Star Wagon" and stars Burgess Meredith and Lillian Gish. It's all about that very thing—the time machine. Critics have divided in their criticisms—but the general consensus is that "it can be classed with Anderson's 'High Tor' and 'Wings of Victory,' which is damnation with praise. In our mind Anderson's greatest quality is his sharp character analysis—his poise, the trite and overdone plots.

EPILOGUE

We are still laughing at the criticism Stage magazine made of that stupendous, enthralling,

Greeks Will Dance To Fry's Melodies In Armory Friday

Faculty Folk Club Holds Tea for Graduate Dames.

Prindle to Play Excalibur Party

Special Program Planned for Tea Dance Today.

Wintry winds may blow, but they can't halt the parade of parties scheduled for this week-end. Tomorrow night over in Demonstration hall Nate Fry will melode for the interfraternity dance. Decorations for the party, which is to be informal, will consist of a banner or crest representing each fraternity. A concession stand selling cider and doughnuts will be set up inside the hall as a special convenience for party-goers who are unwilling to leave the weather.

Over in the Union ballroom tomorrow night, the Pi Kaps will dance to Frankie Prindle's music at their fall term semi-formal. The members are taking over the forenoon for their radio party. Seven dances are planned for Sunday night after the game. Frankie Prindle will be in the Union ballroom once again to play for the Excalibur party. The Kappa Kappa Gammas are having their fall term semi-formal at their house. The members of Farm House will be dancing in the Little Theater. Sigma Nus are holding their house.

Also on Saturday night the Phi

Telegram From Coach's Wife Cheers '11'

Michigan State's football scoring machinery has been out-of-gear a lot of the time this year. The Spartans, in three of their games at least, have run the ball from here to Bali and Back but have only 40 points to show for their effort. They out-gained Missouri by a wide margin last Saturday but had to be satisfied with a 2-0 victory.

The boys, after the game, were blue over the fact that they had wasted so much effort again. But a telegram from Mrs. Bachman, wife of Coach Charley Bachman, put a grin on everyone's face. It read:

"Come home. All is forgiven. Two to nothing is good enough for me."

Kappa Taus, Delphics, and Ecletics will be giving their fall term parties at their respective houses. The Alpha Epsilon Pi fall term dance will be held in the foresters' cabin.

The executive board of Faculty Folk club gave a tea for the Graduate Dames club last Sunday. Church activities this week included a meeting of the Women's club Monday, a W. C. T. U. meeting Tuesday, and a missionary luncheon Wednesday.

A special program is planned for the tea dance today.

The Poetry club will meet Thursday evening, October 21, at 7:30 in room 3 of the Union annex.

Home Ec Teachers To Judge at Fair

Recent State Graduate Speaks at Mason.

Miss Winifred Gettemy and Miss Dorothy L. Benson, of the home economics department, will act as judges at the Community Fair in Belding, Michigan, on Friday, October 22. This fair, emphasizing needlework, is under the direction of Cara Jean Sanford, a recent home economics graduate of M. S. C., who now has charge of the home economics group in the school at Belding.

Miss Benson, in addressing the College club at Mason Monday, told them that a feeling for so-called "modern" furnishings can be adapted to our more traditional settings. "Simplicity and functionalism in everything—Keynotes in achieving a restful atmosphere—may be gained by fabrics, color, and the putting of all unnecessary articles out of sight," explained the speaker.

Women Hear Club Leader

Mrs. M. R. Keyworth Talks on Child Character Education.

Mrs. M. R. Keyworth of Detroit, president of the Michigan Federation of Women's clubs, spoke to the East Lansing Woman's club on "Unity and Diversity, the Motto of Federation" Monday afternoon at the Peoples church.

Preceding the lecture, Miss Louise Freyhofer and Mrs. Helen Roberts Sholl played the following piano duets: Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring; Bach; Pastoral; Scarlatti; Waltz; Chopin.

Mrs. O. M. Granum was program chairman for the day. Serving on the hostess committee were Mrs. W. Brooks, Mrs. J. J. Myers, Mrs. Clark Chamberlain, Mrs. Thomas Gunson, Mrs. Eben Mumford, Mrs. E. H. Ryder, Mrs. J. L. Snyder, Mrs. Warren Babcock, and Miss Maude Gichrist.

Mrs. Keyworth devoted a large part of her talk to the discussion of character education pointing out that character and health are the two great factors in a successful life. She stressed the importance of the cooperation of churches, schools, and all the people of the community in the effective building of character.

The speaker pointed out how the diversified interests of the community are unified through clubs and the opportunity for pursuing these interests thereby made available to thousands of people.

Faculty Folk To Welcome Newcomers

Mrs. V. R. Gardner Heads Committee for Annual Reception.

Following the usual custom, the first meeting of the Faculty Folk club will be a reception for the newcomers Friday, October 22, at 3 o'clock in the Union ballroom. Mrs. V. R. Gardner is general chairman in charge of arrangements. Six hundred invitations were sent out to women of the faculty.

The newcomers will be welcomed by Mrs. Selwyn D. Smith, president of Faculty Folk club; Mrs. R. S. Shaw; Mrs. C. M. Cade; Mrs. V. G. Grove; Mrs. C. H. Spurway; Mrs. C. D. Ball; Mrs. W. D. Borton; Mrs. R. U. Hibbard; Mrs. M. C. Gay, president of newcomers; Mrs. H. B. Taylor, president of dames; Mrs. E. L. Bellachey, president of brides.

Mrs. R. V. Gunn is in charge of the musical program which will consist of vocal selections by Mrs. J. W. Stack, and violin selections by Miss Frances Ayres.

The following committees have been appointed:

Decorations: Mrs. H. M. Wills, chairman, Mrs. C. P. Halligan, Mrs. L. D. Burhans, Mrs. W. O. Hedrick, and Mrs. Ray Nelson. This committee is said to have worked out something very novel in the way of decoration.

Refreshments: Mrs. R. S. Shaw, chairman, Mrs. R. L. Bateman, Mrs. W. F. Morofsky, Mrs. H. B. Taylor, Mrs. C. W. Barr, Mrs. H. W. Wyngarden, and Mrs. J. M. DeHann.

Hospitality: Mrs. E. C. Schiedenhelm, chairman, Mrs. M. E. Zeetters, Mrs. H. H. Musselman, Mrs. C. S. Logsdon, Mrs. M. M. Cory, Mrs. E. L. Grover, and Mrs. E. J. Miller.

Hostesses who will welcome the newcomers are Mrs. E. A. Bessey, Mrs. E. L. Anthony, Mrs. H. B. Dirks, Mrs. Ward Giltner, Mrs. R. C. Huston, Mrs. L. C. Emmons, Mrs. F. T. Mitchell, Mrs. R. J. Baldwin, and Mrs. R. H. Young. Mrs. F. W. Fabian, Mrs. Karl MacDonald, Dean Elisabeth Conrad, and Mrs. C. O. Wilkins will preside at the tea table.

Davis to Discuss Debate Question

Plans for Tryouts Also to be Explained.

Prof. J. C. Davis will discuss the intercollegiate debate question for the benefit of those wishing to try out for debate Thursday evening, October 21, at 7 p. m. in room 130, Morrill hall.

The question is: Resolved that the National Labor Relations board should be empowered to enforce arbitration of all industrial disputes.

In addition to the discussion by Professor Davis, all the debaters wishing to try out will be placed on teams and told the side of the question they are to present.

Anyone wishing to try out for intercollegiate debate should be present.

Instructors To Hold Meet

Former State Students Will Discuss Teaching Problems at Meet.

Michigan public school teachers who graduated from Michigan State last June will have opportunity to discuss teaching problems in the college's first education clinic to be held on the campus Saturday, October 30.

More than 100 beginning teachers have been invited to participate in the clinic, according to Prof. Guy H. Hill, of the department of education, who is in charge of program and arrangements.

Teachers were asked to submit lists of their major teaching problems. Professor Hill said, and replies already received indicate that discipline, participation in community activities, and the need of more teaching materials cause new teachers most worry. These problems, and possibly others, will be discussed by department of education and other Michigan State college faculty members, and by supervising teachers of Lansing and East Lansing schools.

Sponsored by the education department, the clinic will be the first of its kind to be held at the college. Saturday morning sessions, to be held in Morrill hall, will begin at 9 o'clock. Following a short organization meeting, group conferences, organized according to teachers interests, will be held. These discussion groups will continue until noon.

publicity, and neglected their duties. PRESIDENT PIPES FOR PEACE. Dwelling upon war, Roosevelt's greatest problem, the speaker praised his recent efforts to lead the world in a crusade against aggressive conflicts. Roosevelt, he continued, plans a nine-power conference in Brussels next week for the purpose of planning a naval blockade of Japan.

Such a blockade need not be near Japan, but could center about Singapore, a British possession, and the Panama canal. Such action, the speaker contended, would cut Japan's oil supply and quickly force her out of war.

Continuing with Roosevelt's third problem, Pearson said that a revised NRA and AAA were being planned. For this purpose Roosevelt has called a special session of congress to meet November 15.

Men's League Plans Tryouts

Tests Are Planned to Find New Radio Talent

Staley Haugh, former director of the Spartan radio theatre and director of dramatics for the independents last spring term, urges anyone interested in dramatics or any other phase of radio broadcasting, to be in room 7 of the Union Annex, Tuesday evening, October 26, at 7:30 o'clock.

"We not only want people who can act or play instruments," claims Haugh, "but we also want people who can write short radio sketches and continuity."

He says, an entirely different system is being worked out for the independent programs this year. The program will be in three divisions: dramatics, music, and writing. Each division will be under a director, who will have charge of that particular staff. All will be directly under Haugh.

"It is hoped that such an organization will afford a smoothing running and more unified show," smiles Haugh—possibly remembering some of the troubles he had last year. "We also plan to use two casts—one to work one week, the other the next. This will not only offer greater variety, but also will give a greater number of students an opportunity to broadcast."

The first Saturday matinee, by which name the program will be known, will be given early in November.

General supervision of the program will be directed by Henry Souvaine, New York radio producer and director, and his staff. All undergraduates who succeed in "making" the cast of the Varsity Show will be putting themselves in the hands of the most competent radio producers and directors in the country.

SECURE LOCAL TALENT

Before the broadcast the show committee will cooperate with the producers in securing talent and directing distribution of tickets.

Mr. Stix is vice president of the Souvaine corporation which has participated in the production of, or is producing such radio successes as the Sunday Night General Motors concert, the General Electric program, Buck Rogers, Eno Crime Clues, the Eveready program, and the Voice of America, featuring Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale.

Free tickets for the broadcast will be distributed through one of the campus organizations.

Club Plans Spanish Dinner for November Meet.

La Cofradia, local Spanish honorary, held its second meeting of the term Tuesday evening, October 19, at 7:15 in the Union annex. After a short business discussion the meeting was turned over to the social chairman. A Spanish game was played and prizes were given, following which Stanley Howell of the language department entertained the group with a description of college life in Spain. Warren Strong played several selections on his banjo. Refreshments were served.

Plans for future meetings of the club this fall include a Spanish banquet to be given at the home of Mrs. A. L. Leathers, adviser of the society, sometime in November.

Student club will hold a musical party at the Peoples church Friday, October 22. Martha Marshall, chairman, requests that everyone bring a musical instrument if possible. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited.

Strong Marquette Eleven To Face Spartans

Yearling '11' Faces Central Here Tonight

SPORT INTERLUDES..

A Tribute to "Bill"

by George Maskin

State Fresh Out to Score First Victory of 1937 Campaign.

At 7:30 tonight the Michigan State freshman gridders will tackle the Central State Teachers college freshman team at Pottsville field in Lansing.

Coach John Kobs has one of the strongest freshman aggregations that he has ever turned out at Michigan State. Last week in their game with the varsity reserves they were barely beaten, 14-7, and it was a pass in the last minutes of the game that beat them then.

Central State is also boasting a powerful freshman team this year. At the present writing they have yet to lose a game this year. They have a set of fast and powerful backfield men and a big, rangy line.

Although the fresh looked good in their game with the reserves, they also exhibited some glaring weaknesses on defense, particularly against passes. With this thing in mind, Coach Kobs has spent much time in perfecting the fresh aerial defense.

State Fresh Out to Score First Victory of 1937 Campaign.

The death of Bill Gentner came as a distinct blow to Michigan State athletics, despite the fact the varsity teams here won't suffer in the record books through the untimely loss of the popular and always-smiling Hermian.

Gentner never made a name for himself in any particular sport. As a sophomore he sought a place on the State football team, but was forced to give up the game before the season was half over when he received a spinal injury.

That injury prevented Bill from going out for any other team. But his athletic blood refused to allow Bill to derive his entertainment from anything but sports.

His varsity career cut short, Gentner turned to fraternal and independent athletics, where he is certain to be missed no little. He had a hand in the development of the Independent Men's league which annually is becoming more popular.

Bill was the big athletic man at the Hermian house. He coached the teams there, and it was the desire to see his 1937 football team in action for the first time which probably hastened his death.

Three hours before the Hermians were to play A. E. Pi ten days ago, hospital authorities told Bill he was suffering with appendicitis. They suggested the best place for Bill was bed, but Bill was thinking of the game that night.

He was on the sidelines at the opening whistle directing the play of his team while pain in his right side virtually was driving him frantic. That was the spirit of Bill Gentner.

POOR GRIDIRON MAY BRING INJURIES TO PLAYERS IN INTRAMURAL BATTLES

Fraternal and independent football interest has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years under the directorship of Assistant Athletic Director L. L. Frimodig.

The two leagues gave the way for students, who lack the ability to make the State varsity, to engage in the national fall pastime with a championship as their goal.

It does appear to us, however, after close examination, the athletic department is playing unfair with the men who make up these teams. The players on numerous occasions are forced to battle on a field which is unfit for the Spartan varsity.

While the field used for interfraternity and independent games is covered for the most part by water at certain times, the grid-

Frat Eleven To Protest Defeat

The fraternity boys who are always doing the unexpected, came up with two unusual games Tuesday night.

The Delta Sigma and Hespies tangled in what proved to be the most interesting game of the evening and the result is still in doubt. The referee finally decided that the Hespies won by two first downs to one for the Delta Sigs after both teams had scored a touchdown.

The Delta Sigs, however, have different ideas and are going to protest the game, claiming that it was a tie because the Hespies only made one first down instead of the two credited them by the referee after a long argument and a change of decision.

The Hespies scored first on a long pass from Gordon Dahlberg to Cliff Greiser. In the third quarter the Delta Sigs unexpectedly evened things up when Don Francisco intercepted a Hespie pass and ran 46 yards for a touchdown.

The Phi Deltis proved that they really have power and will give the SAE's a fight for the right to enter the playoffs by running over the Phi Chis to the tune of 42 to 0. Scoring almost at will, they put over seven touchdowns. Hal Richardson scored three on runs, one of which was 76 yards long and featured some fine blocking. George Patterson shared the spotlight with Richardson, scoring three touchdowns on runs.

The seventh marker was made on a pass from Richardson to George Schultz. With two more games to play the Phi Deltis have averaged a point a minute in their games to date, and next Thursday when the boys from Cowley avenue meet the Sig Alpha anything is likely to happen.

The Beta Kappas moved up the standings in block four by defeating the AE Pi's 6 to 0, on George "Dodo" Hill's 30-yard run. The game was close otherwise with the AE Pi's having a little bit better of the going.

The defeat of the AE Pi's gives the Lambda Chi undisputed possession of first place and puts the Beta Kaps and AE Pi's in a tie for second and the Hermians who still have a mathematical chance in third place.

Thursday's schedule calls for a game between the SAE's and the Delphics, and the Ties and Sigma Nus. A third game, between the Hermians and Lambda Chi will be postponed until a later date because of the death of Bill Gentner of the Hermians.

Driscoll to Start Experienced Line, And Youthful Backs

Game to See Two Powerful Defensive Teams in Action: Bachman Undecided About Lineup Against Toppers; Gortat Injured, Out for Several Weeks.

Although its record to date is inferior to that of a year ago at this time, the Marquette university football team which battles Michigan State here Saturday can't be considered a setup in any sense of the word.

The Hilltoppers will invade East Lansing tomorrow, shooting for their third straight victory over the Spartans, and although on paper State is favored to win, Marquette can't be overlooked.

Coached by Paddy Driscoll, the Toppers will send a veteran line against State. The backfield doesn't

Trojans Meet Elsie Friday

East Lansing High Eleven Faces Tough Foe With Crippled Lineup

A light signal drill this afternoon is to taper off a week of hard work for East Lansing's Trojans as they prepare for the invasion of Elsie tomorrow. Stung under two straight defeats, they are determined to break back into the win column at the expense of their opponents.

Elsie is no setup, however. They have a big, veteran team, and have not been defeated in two years. The East Lansing game is the highlight of their season and they have been pointing for it since the beginning of the year. A hard game is in prospect, and while the Trojans should win they will have to play top football to turn the trick.

The local team will enter the game with a crippled lineup. Roy Mead, star halfback, has been sick all week and it is doubtful if he will play while Max Phillips, another star performer, was forced to quit football for the balance of the season because of a shoulder separation. Coach Shaver plans to shift Anderson, regular fullback, to Mead's position, with Dick Griswald taking up Anderson's duties.

The loss of these two was compensated somewhat by the return of Weston Gardner, end, and George Shieve, guard, who have been laid up with injuries. Shieve's twisted knee seems to have mended and he is expected to take his regular place in the lineup. Gardner's condition is a little less certain, but he will play if an x-ray of his broken finger shows that it is thoroughly healed.

Coach Shaver has given the offense and defense plenty of attention this week. Fearing more injuries, he held no scrimmage, substituting in its place dummy and signal drills.

The team will line up as follows: Young and Marshall, ends; Gaines and Pearce, tackles; Robertson and Koshl, guards; Morris, center. In the backfield, MacKichan, quarterback; Anderson at the tailback, with either MacCarthy or Weaver at right half, and Griswald, fullback.

Center Of Topper Line

ROY SCHOEMANN - CENTER -

Big Roy Schoemann is expected to play a lot of center here Saturday for Marquette when the Hilltoppers battle Michigan State in Macklin Field. Marquette boasts a veteran front wall.

Poem Worth While To Pass Along

By Harry Speelman State Football Star

Here is something which I found in the Varsity locker-room and thought I'd pass it along to you.

"If"

If you can grow a beard when all about you

Men are losing theirs by cutting hair in two.

If you can sit and let your best girl scowl you

And tell you that you'll shave or fling no woo.

If you can go and sit in all your classes

And copy notes and never turn a hair.

If you can wait until we score a touchdown

Before your homely mugs once more you bare.

If you can do this, noble sons of Sparta.

And prove to others you have just what it takes:

We'll know darn well that M. S. C.

Will win the next five straight!

Incidentally, there are two boys on our football squad who I think should be mentioned at this time.

They are boys whose names you seldom see in the headlines, yet there are no other members of the team who take their football more seriously than these two.

They are always producing at their best, never miss a practice, possess fighting spirit, but are handicapped by their light weights.

If the rest of us had the determination, spirit, fight, and desire that these boys have, there would be no stopping us inside the five-yard line.

Their names?—Dale Berry and Floyd Eby. My hat is off to these guys.
