Too Popular

for their meeting State, to furnish the the impression made by the Hawaiians, State rooters have turned against their own team, bellowing forth in jeers, rather than cheers.

There are no objections against a friend ly spirit toward a visiting team. In fact, one is necessary if a college is to build a noteworthy athletic reputation. Objections. however, are plentiful from the standpoint of both the home and foreign team chapel on the Minnesota campus, when the crowd makes a joke of itself and takes frequent occasion to hiss at the performances turned in by its colorbearers.

Such incidents dominated last Tuesday's night's game. Although failing to cut short the victory march of the State team, the boos directed at the Spartans did result in the players leaving the game in embarrassment. It was the first time any State team had won and, for its accomplishment, received only a continual razzing from a good portion of the assembled fans

Chief victim of the novel experience suffered by the State team was Howard Kraft, a senior guard of three years varsity standing. The fans twice boord lustily at Kraft, when in his attempts to halt an Hawaiian scoring play, he committed fouls, which play the same part in basketball as errors do in baseball. Kraft paid for his violation of the rules by permitting the ROBERT REFIOR Hawalians two additional scoring opportunities. It was too great a fine also to receive a 30-second outburst of jeers simultaneously from what was supposedly a State crowd.

bring colorful and entertaining teams to East Lansing. But they are not desirous of booking events with such teams that will result in the home spectators "jumping" their team in favor of the invader. Any duplication of Tuesday night's action on the part of the spectators may hurt Statae insits climb in collegiate athletics .- G.J.M.

The Feminine Side

Forerunner of the formal season to be gin this weekend, was the discussion of the no-corsage rule in the Student council meeting Tuesday evening. The rule, first promittee, has been hanging fire since last year. After several revisions and compromises, it was recently tabled by the original committee, nor did the Student council come to a decision.

Suggested first as a means of reducing party costs, which are estimated to have been $40,000 for last season, the rule has met with little opposition except from the Interfraternity council. This is rather surprising in view of the fact that it is men rather than women who buy corsages Members of A. W. S. council last spring heartily approved the measure, and the Student council reacted favorably to it then although making no final decision.

Among men students there appear to be two widely separated opinions—one in fav or of abolishing corsages completely, the other in favor of no legislation on the matter. Many of those in favor of the rule hesitate to express themselves for fear someone will think them penurious

But what few of them fail to consider at all is the feminine side of the question Few if any are the girls who would really enjoy a corsage if they knew their escorts had gone without meals to pay for it. Not infrequently the lines of a formal gown are speiled by the too-elaborate floral pieces which men-students think it their duty to send, especially for the more costly parties Women spend a lot of money, time, and thought planning their formal attire and it is rather disconcerting to have the entire effect spoiled by a corsage so huge that it smothers the dress.

Every woman likes to receive flowers But there is just as much thrill in a simple corsage or a flower for her hair as in a shower of orchids-for each shows a like amount of thoughtfulness-and that is the principal reason women like them. And strange as it may seem, most coeds prefer

Whether or not the corsage rule is pass ed, men students should learn that it isn't necessary to mortgage the farm in order "to keep up with the Joneses".
